The Thorsby Lyceum and Enternment Bureau presents the first mber of the Lyceum Course on turday night, Ocober 22. The proam will be rendered by The Fine ts Quartet.

A musical comedy sketch dealing th the life and songs of Old Ireid is one of the pleasing features the program of the Fine Arts artet. The sketch is replete with sh wit and pathos and is given in sh costumes. Good music abounds. A special arrangement of the best Spanish music is given in appropiate costumes and, in addition, vad solos, duets, trios, quartets and adings are rendered with artistry d revere. Every member of the mpanp is a soloist and the proram becomes a recital of individual tists and a novelty program comned.

BAPTIST LADIES

The Baptist ladies will have their cial on Thursday, October 20, at e home of Mrs. Joe Littleton. Evrybody is invited to come.

Thorsby Institute has recently eached an actual attendance of 100 n the student body, and there are till others planning to enter in the ear future. This together with the ttendance at the county high school, hen added to the 72 from Chilton ounty now in Thorsby Institute, akes a very different showing from onditions about fifteen years ago hen it was stated by one of our ounty Officers who was in a posiion to know, "You can rake Chilton ounty with a fine tooth comb and ou will not find half a dozen studnts prepared for High School."

With the progress now being made t is not improbable that another ecade will see Twenty Consolidated Schools and half a dozen more high schools within the bounds of Chilton County.

ADVENTIST TABERNACLE IS ABOUT COMPLETED

Work on the Seventh-day Adventist Tabernacle, is progressing nicely and if the weather holds good it is hoped to be able to hold the first service in the new building Sunday night. Elder M. L. Wilson, the local pastor of the Adventist church with all the conference office force has been on the job this week. It has been said, "that every Adventist you meet is a preacher," due to their having such a through knowledge of the Bible; whether this be true we leave for others to say, but they have surely poven themselves a very industrious enterprising people since coming to Clanton. White collars and silk shirts are conspicuous because of their absence around the tabernacle. Building in the wide-awake growing city of Clanton, is making such stides that carpenters are at a premium and cannot be had.

The Tabernacle will be a very neat commodious building with seating capacity to accommodate a large congregation. Mr. Wilson, says he hopes to have the building ready for dedication by the first Saturday or Sunday in Novembe.

The new residence of Mr. H. S. Shaw on North Eighth Street is rapidly nearing completion. This will be among the finest homes in the city.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

SELF RELIANCE GOES BANKRUPT

THIN BLOOD SAPS ENERGY GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN REBUILDS THE BLOOD

Wrestling with a weakened condition of the blood is a desperate struggle. Thin, watery blood deprives the body of energy and causes a played-out feeling not unlike utter erhaustion. A man with a weak blood has not the full use of his powers. He lacks decision, and vacillates until he loses self-confidence.

Some men, and women too, go faltering along for months, scarcely realizing that they need Gude's Pepto-Mangan, the blood-builder. But when they have taken it for a while, what a difference there is in the feelings! The old-time vigor and the red-blooded hue of good health return. The new rich blood gets to work, building, fortifying, lifting the spirit up to its normal standard. Physicians have prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for years a s a blood-builder. Druggists sell it for the liquid and tablet form. Look for the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.—Advertisement.

Did you see the eclipse of the moon last Sunday night? The shadow covered over half the face of the moon and lasted from about dark until about eight o'clock.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since . . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too.

FIDDLER'S CONTEST

Dear Friend:—

What are you to be doing this coming Friday night? Now, I am almost sure that you have heard that we are to have an old fashioned Fiddlers' Convention, and that we are inviting everybody to come, and all the fiddlers we can get in touch with to be more than sure about coming with their fiddles—or if their fiddle happens to be a banjo, or other instrument in an orchestra, why bring it along. But the main works will be fiddlin', and that is what we are urging more than anything else. For we want to show the young folks around here what real old time music is—and that it is hard to beat.

Now as to prizes—We have a cash prize, box of shoes, shirt, tie, pound of chewing tobacco, a pure bred pig, a hat, a hair cut nd a shave, and few others—to be given fiddlers, banjoists, and orchestras. We want the fiddlers to be there at the school building Friday night early (about seven-thirty) and agree to the rules and judges of the contest. It is your Convention, and we want to establish it on such a basis that it will live and may be called into session again whenever expedient. We are going to need you here. Come along. The contest opens at eight o'clock, at the Verbena Consolidated School Auditorium.

Prices of admission to the audience, 25 and 35 cents. Given for the benefit of the school.

Yours for Fiddlin,'

W. E. G. SUTTON.

CLANTON WINS ONE

The Clanton Foot Ball Team won their first game of this season on the local ground last Friday afternoon when they walked away with Prattville to the tune of 20 to 0. The Clanton boys have been losing games this year up to this time, but they have strengthened their weak spots and we expect them to turn the tide in their favor from now on. The Clanton Brass Band furnished music at the game Friday, and Dr. Gragg says he thinks it was the music that carried our boys to victory.

Dr. C. A. Carey, state veterinarian, threatens to dip the Mobile County Board of Revenue in law if the board does not revoke its order cancelling cattle tick dipping. It is a terrible thing to encounter the wrath of the cattle dipping force of the State of Alabama. We have seen that tried. More than one county board of revenue in Alabama has had that threat hurled at them.

Making Allowance

A son had arrived in a home of a West Philadelphia couple and the proud father rushed out to borrow a pair of scales, but none were available except some belonging to a rags, bones and bottles man. So he borrowed those and was aghast when he discovered the heir weiged only four pounds.

"But you mustn't worry," said the junkman consolingly, squinting at the dial. "Them's my buying scales. Your boy weighs 'bout eight 'n' a half—mebbe eight 'n' three quarters pounds." — The American Legion Weekly.

$10,000,000 AID FOR VETERANS

Red Cross Provides Friendly Service of Many Kinds to Army of Disabled.

BULK OF WORK BY CHAPTERS

2,397 of These Are Helping Ex-Service Men Obtain Benefits U. S. Provides.

One field of Red Cross service alone, that of assisting disabled veterans of the World War, entails expenditures $4,000,000 greater than the aggregate receipts of the Annual Roll Call of 1920, the American Red Cross announces in a statement urging a widespread increase in membership at the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24. At the present time National Headquarters and the nation-wide chain of Chapters of the Red Cross is spending approximately $10,000,000 annually for the relief of disabled ex-service men and their families, while the aggregate receipts from last year's Roll Call were approximately $6,000,000.

It is in the 2,289 of the 3,600 Red Cross Chapters which still are helping solve the veteran's problem of adjusting himself to a normal civilian status that the greater part of the cost of this service is borne. Of the total sum spent for veterans' relief last year, National Headquarters expended a total of more than $2,600,000, while the remaining disbursement of approximately $7,000,000 represents the contribution of Chapters in this country-wide effort to assist the Government in providing the aid sorely needed by these men and their families.

An Ever Expanding Problem

That the problem of the disabled service man is ever-expanding and probably will not reach the peak before 1925, is the assertion of well-informed Government officials and that 2,397 Red Cross Chapters regard it as their most important work is evidence that the expansion is in nowise confined to a particular section but is, on the contrary, nation-wide. At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1921, there were 26,300 disabled service men in the 1,692 United States Public Health Service, Contract and Government Hospitals and Soldiers Homes, and that number is increasing at a rate of 1,000 a month.

Thousands of these men receiving medical treatment, compensation and vocational training from the Government today, started their efforts to obtain them through the Red Cross Chapter. The Chapter, acting as the disabled man's agent in claims against the Government, informs the man as to the procedure necessary to gain for him that which is provided him by Federal statute. His applications for compensation, medical treatment and training are properly filed with the aid of the Red Cross Chapter.

Many Forms of Assistance

If there is delay before the man's claim is acted upon, the Red Cross Chapter lends the man money to meet the imperative needs of himself and his dependents.

Most vital to the man's gaining full benefit from the Government's care is keeping his mind free from worry about his home. Keeping the veteran's family from hardship of every kind and informing him of its welfare is another province of the Chapter. Free from fear on this score, the man's recovery and advancement usually is rapid.

Every month during the last year, the American Red Cross has given service of one kind or another to an average of 129,215 former service men and their families. An indication of the extent of the faith reposed in the Red Cross Chapter is to be found in the fact that there were 356,544 requests for friendly aid in the solution of personal problems.

448 Workers in Hospitals

While the man prior to entering Government care deals largely with the Chapter, afterward he comes into contact with the service provided by National Headquarters. There are 448 Red Cross workers in the United States Public Health Service and contract hospitals and other institutions in which these men are being cared for, whose duty is to provide for his recreation, help him with his compensation claims, keep him in touch with his family; in short, meeting his every need outside of that provided by the Government. While these are a few of the responsibilities of the National Organization, they are by no means all. Among other Red Cross accomplishments for the year are:

It handled 70,732 allotment and allowance claims.

It delivered through its Chapter organization 63,655 allotment checks to veterans who had moved from the addresses furnished to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

It provided a special fund of $10,000 for medical assistance to men under vocational training.

It made 32,495 loans totaling $450,000 to men taking vocational training, of which 85 per cent has been repaid.

OUR BIRTHDAY

Today is the birthday anniversary of the editor of The Union-Banner, being the 29th milestone in our journey of life. If anybody thinks the occasion merits a box of cigars, don't hesitate to let you conscience be your guide and send them around. Any of the Drug Stores in town can tell you our favorite brand.

CHASING BILLY BOLL WEEVIL

We wish to direct the attention of our readers to the article printed at another place in this paper, coming from Prof. Wm. J. Mims, Professor of Mathematics in the Ensley High School. The subject of Prof. Mims' article is one that is very dear to the hearts of Southern farmers, to wit: "Boll Weevils and how to control Them." Prof. Mims says he has prepared a pamphlet dealing fully with syrup or molasses and arsenate as a boll weevil remedy. He is offering his phamphlet free to any who may ask for it.

We would like to remind our readers that Prof. Mims is a Chilton county man, born and reared on the farm in one of the best homes in our county. He has made a wonderful success as a teacher; his reputation reaches from one side of our state to the other. We are glad to see him come out and declare war on Bill Boll Weevil.

ABANDONING A COMMUNITY

It is not often that we witness an occasion where a whole community is abandoned at one swoop. But such an instance is about to happen in the case of Salem on Coosa River. The church at that place is going to be dissolved, on account of the back waters that will surround the place when Mitchell Dam is flung across the Coosa River at Duncan's Riffles some three miles below the Church. The property of the church has been sold to the Power Company and the money is to be divided among the members. Each member will be given a letter of dismission which he or she may carry with them whereever they may go to settle down again.

Yes, the people themselves will all leave the community and seek new abodes. They are forced to leave. The entire community is situated on the flat around the mouth of Cargyle Creek. The farms of the people who live there will be covered by the back waters, and they must move.

Salem is one of the oldest communities in Chilton county, and there are many people scattered all over the county who look back there to get a glance of their young childhood days. The annual all-day singing which has been held there the Fourth Sunday in May for twenty five years has been regarded much as a home-coming day for those who have at one time or another in the past lived in that community. It may be that the last of these events has been held at Salem already.

By courtesy of Capt. W. P. Lay, Judge Reynolds, Wiley Littlejohn and the editor of The Banner visited the construction project at Mitchell Dam on Wednesday. After a delightful lunch in the mess hall where some two or three hundred workmen were eating at the same time, we were shown over the works by Mr. Branch. Great progress is being made. It is almost inconceivable that so much work could have been done there in three months time.

STATE HIGHWAY BILL PASSED

The twenty-five mililon dollar road bond bill was adopted in both houses of the State Legislature Tuesday. The vote in the House was 71 to 23, and the vote in the Senate was 24 to 7.

ALABAMA RETAIL FOOD DEALERS TO CONVENE

The Clanton Motor Car Co., local dealers for Fordson Tractors and implements built especially for the Fordson Tractor, have advised us that they will hold a big Fordson Tractor and Implement demonstration at Clanton on Wednesday and Thursday, October 26th and 27th, assisted by representatives of the Ford Motor Company, manufacturers of the Fordson Tractor, David T. Bussey of Atlanta, authorized Fordson Implement distributor, Oliver Chilled Plow Works, Roderick Lean Mfg. Co., and Stover Mfg. and Eng. Co., and other implement manufacturers, all of whom manufacture the equipment designed especially for use with the Fordson Tractor.

Plows of different types, harrows, culti-packers, ditchers, grist mills, and feed grinding mills, and other belt driven equipment will be shown, giving hundreds of farmers from this and surrounding counties a concrete example of the manifold uses of the Fordson Tractor in the economic operation of the farm. The demonstration will be very complete, and every piece of equipment will be fully explained by factory experts.

As a means of reducing labor costs and to show the new possibilities of farming in this section by the use of Fordson Tractors and improved farm machinery which automatically reduce labor costs the demonstration will certainly prove to be the most impressive from an agricultural point of view that has been witnessed in this section.

In addition to the farm machinery display several manufacturers will send soil and other experts to lecture on Fordson Farming and its economic advantages. An interesting and educational lecture will be give on correct seed bed preparation. This lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon slides and moving picture films. These slides and films will show specially prepared test tubes, filled with different grades of soils, clearly illustrating the difference in a correctly prepared seed bed and one which is incorrectly prepared. In the moving picture films you actually see the corn sprout, take root and grow from the time the seed is planted under the soil in both types of seed beds. You can see the moisture rise and reach the seed more quickly in the correctly prepared seed bed, and as soon as the moisture reaches the seed things begin to happen. The seed planted in the correctly prepared seed bed germinates and growth starts eight days in advance of the seed planted in the incorrectly prepared seed bed. You see the roots begin to sprout downward, followed later by the top sprout pushing upward and through the soil.

The slides and films give a visible lesson in the proper preparation of the soil for all crops and the lecture which accompanies them is said to be the most striking on advanced agriculture ever heard in the South. They are really wonderful and every farmer should avail himself of this opportunity to see them as they must be seen to be appreciated. The weather permitting, the slides and pictures will be shown in the open, and the famous Magnavox Telemegaphone will be used insuring each one present of hearing every word that is spoken. Popular musical selections will also be rendered thru the use of this wonderful instrument. This feature will prove of unusual interest as it will afford the majority of those present the opportunity of hearing the Magnavox Telemegaphone for the first time.

There can be no doubt that such demonstrations have high merit in making the value of power farming more generally known throughout this section and in placing mechanical aid on many farms where owners are worrying with labor problems and crop conditions. Another value is that by the use of improved machinery the average acreage can be maintained in cultivation and idle farms again made productive. Such power farming demonstrations held on the scale as organized by the Fordson people have a great benefit by reason of the valuable instructions it gives to farmers and the impetus it creates through the adoption of power farming on a more extensive scale in sections of the state where it is badly needed. Surely demonstrations of this kind are milestones in agricultural progress.

An unusually large attendance is expected, and a cordial invitation is extended to every one by the Clanton Motor Car Company who will cheerfully furnish any additional information.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN CLOSED LAST SUNDAY

WEIGLE-CURRY REVIVAL WAS BEST IN THE HISTORY OF CLANTON.

Some twelve hundred people gathered last Sunday night to attend the closing services of the great Evangelistic Campaign held under the big tent. The last Sunday services were great in every respect. Not withstanding the All Day Singing at the High School the tent was well filled with people in the morning service who were courteous enough to stand by the visiting evangelists and give their hearty support even to the end of the effort for the great religious awakening of Clanton and vicinity. The sermon in the morning was a stirring appeal to the membership of the churches, and the christian people of the city to live the true christian life, and be loyal in their attendance to the various churches to which they belong. Taking Paul as an example he clearly demonstrated how far to many professing christians were laboriously climbing stairways instead of living the victorious christian life by means of the elevator. "Victorious Life," said he, "can be lived when Christ liveth in us as He certainly did the Apostle Paul."

The great Mass Meeting for men drew 600 or 700 of them in the afternoon, who listened with rapt attention to the speaker on the subject "When a Man's a Man and when a man is a Mutt" "Weakness," said he, "is the damation of man," and this he graphically pictured in his presentation of the consequences of lust and sin, both on the present and future generations. While only a few responded to the invitation there was strong evidence that his message instilled in the hearts of many present a burning passion and desire for a life of real Manhood and moral strength and victory, as hundreds of hands were lifted for prayer. The night audience surpassed all previous ones. The weather was ideal. The silvery moon, queen of all the planets, turned the night into day sending forth her marvelous rays of light and causing the multitudes of the starry host to sink almost into temporary insignificance as they twinkled and sparkled in the canopy of heaven. The subject for the night service was The visit of Christ to the home of Zacheus, from which he drew some telling illustrations of every day home life with the modern aplication of his text. "Never again," said the evangelist, "did Christ pass through Jericho and for many in Clanton this night it may be the last time." Many hands were lifted for prayer, and some responded to the invitation by making the surrender to Christ as they gave the evangelist their hands.

It may be said that in practically every respect the campaign was a great and distinct success. The largest crowds in all the history of Clanton attended the services regularly. The largest chorus that ever sang together under the capable leadership of Mr. C. P. Curry the musical director was one of the attractive features. The greatest amount of money raised for any religious gathering in the history of Chilton County reached a total of some $1260.00 for expenses of the meeting and the remuneration of the evangelists. Such a sum prior to the meeting would have been considered impossible, but was raised with very little difficulty. The spirit of co-operation of all the churches, and the faithful services of the ushers, singers, musicians, and committees was all that could be expected. While the number of professions were not so numerous considering the proportions of the meeting, yet great good has been accomplished in bringing the people together as christians and citizens, in elevating the the moral standards of the community, and church life and loyalty, destroying to a great extent the worldliness that has existed in the churches of the community. The nature of the work done by the preaching of the evangelist will, we believe, be of lasting influence for a long time to come. Concerning the meeting there has not been heard a single word of criticism, but the strongest praise for Weigle and Curry and the general management of the campaign. As its director the writer tenders to all his hearty thanks for the faithful co-operation and loyal support. Having caught the vision, we believe this is but the forerunner of similar meetings to be held in the years to come, which with the splendid buildings and modern facilities, will help to place Clanton in the forefront of any city of its size or even larger in the State. True religion above all things is essential for any community as a desirable place in which to live, and we believe the recent evangelistic campaign has accomplished much in this respect for the good of Clanton and vicinity.

P. G. CARTER,
Director of Campaign.

U. S. PRODUCTION

According to Census reports the production of the United States for the year 1920 reached the staggering total of $63,000,000,000. An average of 9,103,200 wage earners were employed last year in the 289,768 manufacturing establishments of the country, whose capitalization totaled $44,678,911,000. It was in 1890 that McKinley wrote his protective tariff law. At that time our population was 63,000,000. Today it is about 110,000,000. The policy carried out by McKinley then is the policy to which the Republican party cleaves now and under it the production of the United States has grown until it totals $1,000 per capita for every man, woman and child in the United States during the days the McKinley bill was being framed.

There are free traders who still talk of surrendering this vast market to the exploitation of foreign products. Our domestic exports in 1920 totaled $8,000,000,000 leaving a total of $55,000,000,000 worth to be disposed of in the home market. The aftermath of war had so handicapped European competition as to act as a proxy for a protective tariff, and yet we imported in excess of $5,000,000,000 worth of goods that year. Under a continued policy of free trade and the restoration of normal conditions in Europe, this enormous market would be a prey to European and Asiatic competitton, and our producers could not find a domestic market for their goods, let alone a foreign market. Who wants to stand for that sort of thing?

TO ENCOURAGE HOUSING

Senator William M. Calder of New York is the author of two amendments to the revenue bill that he has presented with a view to stimulating the construction of houses. One of them would exempt from taxation all profits realized from the sale of dwellings between January 1, 1922, and January 1, 1927, provided the money is used in the construction of other dwellings within one year after the sale. The other amendment would exempt from taxation money received as interset up to $2,000 on funds loaned for the construction or purchase of dwellings. Senator Calder has long been interested in the subject of housing needs, and has conducted hearings in New York City and elsewhere in an effort to find a means of relief.

How Better than Pills?

The question has been asked: In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easitr and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

PRESIDENT WARREN G. HARDING
President Harding Will Be Birmingham's Honor Guest at the Great Semi-Centennial Celebration October 24th-29th

PRES. HARDING TO BE CITY'S GUEST

Imposing Ceremonies, Including Laying Of Masonic Temple Cornerstone to Mark Occasion.

BIRMINGHAM.—The people of Birmingham and Alabama will have their first opportunity to entertain President Harding on the occasion of his visit to Birmingham Wednesday, October 26th, during the Semi-centennial celebration. The President will spend practically 24 hours in the city and will be accompanied by Mrs. Harding and a large number of other prominent people and government officials.

While the program outlined for the visit of the President is always subject to change as the President may desire at any time, the plan outlined by the executive committee of the Semi-centennial committee is reasonably certain to be carried out with the possbility of only minor changes in time and place to meet conditions which may not be forseen. The President has assured Senator Underwood, at whose invitation he is making the trip to Birmingham and Alabama, that he will spend the full day and night here, and will take part in as many affairs arranged by the committee as he may be able to find time for.

However, part of the program, including the main features of the day are not subject to change, and have been agreed to in the main. The President and his party will arrive at the Terminal Station at Birmingham at an early hour in the morning and will be welcomed by the executive committee and certain prominent citizens and officials. The 67 young women chosen as queens from their respective counties will also be introduced to the president immediately upon his arrival and they will ride in the parade close to the chief executive.

Gen. R. E. Steiner, head of the national guard of the state, and a brigadier general in the United States Army who saw service overseas during the war, will act as grand marshall. General Steiner will be assisted by a number of military officers in handling the parade which will form immediately upon the arrival of the Presidential party. A guard of 100 ex-service men in uniform will be composed of members of the American Legion posts of the state, delegations coming to Birmingham from the majority of the 75 posts in Alabama. As a special honor guard for the president, there will be a squad of ex-service men who were wounded in action in France and who were decorated for bravery.

A battalion or more of national guard units will march in the parade and practically all the civic, patriotic and semi-military organizations will participate. Most of those engaged in war organizations of all kinds will be in line as well as the students training corps. There will be eight or ten bands, including some of the best musical organizations in the state. The parade will be reviewed by the President and his party from the balcony of the Southern Club and later he will go to Capital Park, where he will make the principal address of the day.

Plans are made for thousands of people to hear the President. Other features of his visit will be a luncheon and a dinner, the former at the Tutwiler Hotel, the latter at the Country Club. Following the dinner Wednesday night, there will be a ball at the Country Cub, honoring the President and his party, and all the young women representing the 67 counties of the state.

The most important engagements arranged for the afternoon include the laying of the corner stone of the new $1,000,000 Masonic Temple and the dedication of Underwood Park.

BEAUTIFUL PAGEANT PORTRAYS GROWTH

WONDERFUL ATTRACTIONS

Exposition, Auto Show, Fashion Show And Many Other Alluring Entertainments To Regale Thousands Of Visitors.

Birmingham.—This city is ready for what is expected to be the biggest week in her history, Oct. 24-29, when she celebrates her fiftieth birthday and entertains prominent guests from all parts of the country, including the President and Mrs. Harding.

The largest city in America of her age, Birmingham was founded in 1871 and during the half century has grown to be one of the largest cities of the country, and ranks third in the South. Present government estimates place the population at 200,000 with the environs pushing the total to more than 300,000.

The celebration of this important event will be the greatest occasion in the history of Birmingham, and will compare with the big celebrations staged by the other larger cities of the country. In addition to the visit of the President and Mrs. Harding and other distinguished vistors, features of the week will be the historical pageant in which 500 voices will be in the chorus and 1500 persons will take part, the big exposition with automobile and fashion shows and industrial exhibits.

The pageant will be a great historical presentation of the first fifty years of Birmingham's growth. A prelude will deal with the early colonial history of the state up to and including the Civil War period and the various episodes will portray the history of the city from the time the first house was built until the present day when it has become the greatest industrial center of the South.

The exposition will be housed in a structure 200x50 feet, located on West 20th Street, between Park and Eighth Avenues. A seating capacity of several thousand will be available in the structure, and a big stage will be used for the fashion show. The fashion displays which will be given twice daily in the exposition, are expected to prove big drawing cards with the women as all the latest fashions in women's wearing apparels will be exhibited by professional models selected from stage beauties of New York.

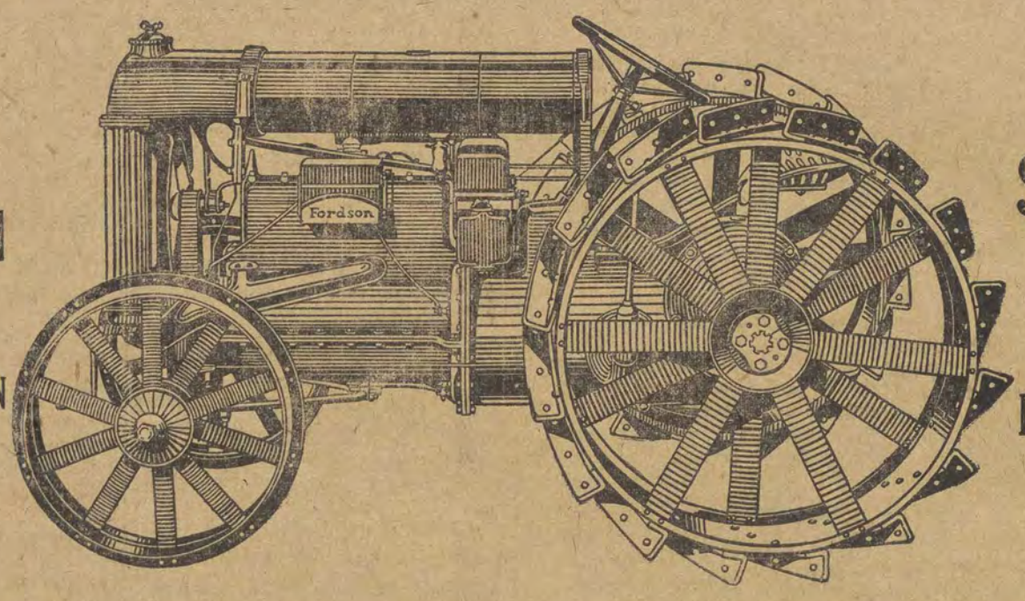
The automobile show, which will be another attraction at the exposition will be by far the largest exhibition of automobiles ever shown in Alabama. Many of the factories have sent special models for the show and all have placed their leading designs just from the factory. The showing of automobiles and accessories will be the most complete ever seen in Alabama and it will compare favorably with many of the big shows throughout the country. Trucks will also occupy a prominent place among the exhibits.

One of the most novel and interesting features of the exposition will be the manufacturers' exhibits. During the past decade or more, Birmingham has passed from the raw material stage to a center for the manufacture of every kind of steel product and machinery. Many finished products of Birmingham are now sold, not only in every part of the United States, but throughout the world, and the showing of these will prove highly interesting to people of Birmingham and Alabama as well as the visitors from other states.

Some of these manufacturers exhibits will be marvels of ingenuity, being models of the plants where the products are made. Few people in Birmingham even realize the transformation which the district has undergone in recent years, during which the city has changed from a place where pig iron and steel rails were manufactured into a center for the manufacture of finished products of countless varieties.

Grand stands are being constructed in Avondale Park, where the pageant will be held to accommodate several thousand people at each performance, which will be held at least three nights during the week. The park is ideally adapted for such a presentation, due to the natural scenery and the amphitheatre. The park is convenient to two car lines as well as for automobile traffic. Adequate arrangements for parking have been made, this feature being in charge of one of the best traffic men in the country, and the city will have a large force of its most experienced traffic officers on duty.

Music will be a big feature of the pageant and in addition to the chorus of 500 voices, there will be several massed bands and orchestras, which will meet all demands for music at the presentations. Special groups of dancers have been organized and trained by a professional. The pageant was written by Wallace Rice, one of the leading pageant writers of the country who has written the pageants for a number of the largest ever presented in the country. Donald Robertson, the noted actor, is in charge of the presentation and he will take the only speaking part, that of the prophet. All scenery for the pageant is in charge of an experienced man and the properties have been secured from Chicago.



Charley Cooper of Mulberry was among the visitors to Clanton last Saturday.

MR. GULLEDGE ALARMED AT LAW BREAKERS

Would Have Them Reported to Officers, and Require Officers to Discharge their Duties.

The Editor of The Union-Banner has received a communication from Mr. F. A. Gulledge of Verbena, in which he expresses a tone of disgust at the continuous violations of the law by drivers of automobiles, and suggests that such violations be reported to the Sheriff. Following is his letter:

Editor Union-Banner:— I almost daily see accounts of collisions and killings by automobiles, usually resulting from incapable, careless or drunken drivers. I often see in open violation and defiance of law—by parents who send them—little children ten and twelve years old driving automobiles.

This is done all over Chilton county, even right in sight of the Sheriff and other officials who are sworn to see that the laws are "faithfully executed." It seems that those who see it almost daily and who serve on the grand jury would remember it. The lawabiding citizens should see that this wholesale violation is stopped. I for one will report at once to the Sheriff in future, each violation where children drive cars. I do this for my own and the public's protection. Then those having the execution of the law can execute it or violate their duties and oaths of office.

F. A. GULLEDGE.

Mr. Gulledge ought to have brought his knowledge of these violations before the grand jury last week. We feel sure if he had, he could have gotten the proper action.

PERSONALS

Rev. P. G. Carter of Clanton and Rev. D. D. Head of Marbury made a trip to Mitchell Dam Monday with a view of establishing a gospel mission there for the benefit of the great number of people who are employed on the big construction job.

Miss Jewell Bratton of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton on last Saturday. Miss Bratton is an applicant for the position of postmster at Jemison, and many of her friends are at work to land the job for her.

The Substance of It

The rookie on Post No. 1 saw the general approaching with his staff. He had the idea all right, although he was a bit weak as to formula. Bracing himself sternly, he yelled:

"Turn out the whole push! Here comes the main squeezle!" — The American Legion Weekly.

The Evangelists Weigle and Curry left Clanton at four o'clock on Monday morning, going to Montgomery where they took a special train for eastern points. Mr. Curry went to Spartanburg, South Carolina and Mr. Weigle went to Richmond Virginia.Mr. C. B. Cox carried them to Montgomery in his car.

Rev. W. S. Cox of Fairview was a visitor at The Banner office last Saturday. He requested us to publish a notice of the meeting at Macedonia Baptist Church near Lock 12, to be on the Saturday before the first Sunday in November. All members of that church are asked to take notice of this meeting and attend the same, for the transaction of important business.

Tom Ogletree, a printer, of Prattville, was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday. He is now at work on the Prattville Progress. When Tom called around to see the editor of The Banner we revived old memories of the past when he and the editor, with Clyde Davis, Bob Marcus and Ousley Johnson used to set type for Frank Crichton.

Zack Lowery asks us to state to his friends that he and W. J. Morris have completed the new residence of B. J. Sessions on Fifth Avenue near the Grammar School. They are engaged now in erecting another new house for Howard Foshee in the same section of the city.

Lum Wilson of Fairview was a visitor to Clanton Monday. He says he is ready to begin sowing his fall oats, already having his land prepared. Oats sown now will stand a good chance to make a good crop next spring. Many of our farmers would do well to follow Mr. Wilson's example.

Mr. F. W. Johnson of Billingsley was a visitor at The Banner office Monday.

Dr. Strock of Verbena was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

Mr. Smith while here had The Banner prepare for him some advertising of a big cut-price sale which he is starting at his store tomorrow (Friday.) The advertisement will be found at another place in this paper. The prices he is making look like real bargains to us. Visit Mr. Smith during this sale and he will treat you right.

At a meeting of the building committee of the Central Alabama Hospital Tuesday afternoon Charley Cox was elected Chairman of the committee. Mr. Cox will give his time to this job and pretty soon we shall see a handsome new hospital building going up.

We want our farmer friends to read the article in this issue in regard to the Tractor Demonstration and farm pictures that will be here on the 26th and 27th under direction of the Clanton Motor Car Co. The Tractor show will be held on the 27th at Judge Reynolds' farm, and the pictures will be shown at nights of the 26th and 27th at the Ford plant in Clanton. These pictures are a rare treat for the farmers and we hope every one in reach of Clanton will come to see them. A full explanation of the different events is given in another place in this paper.

The brick, lumber and a lot of the other material has been bought for the Central Alabama Hospital. This stuff will begin to arrive upon the scene in a few days, and the building will be started forthwith and immeadiately.

Dr. T. J. Marcus has been a bit sick this week. He was confined to his room Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. The doctor says he had a mild attack of the Flu. A few other mild cases have been reported in the last week.

Charley Cox is building a sales stable across the street from Joe Maddox's Warehouse. He says he doesn't know whether he will rent it to some one else or run it himself; but in either case he says it will be a place where one can find a horse or a mule trade any time. Work will begin on the building this week, and it will be rushed to completion.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Now, who is it that says Chilton High never wins, since the game here last Friday with the Autauga County High School, when the score was 20 to 2 in favor of Chilton.

We are planning to have another game with Marbury Friday, Oct. 21, on Marbury grounds. We are hoping to win this game and we will appreciate your presence to help back our boys up.

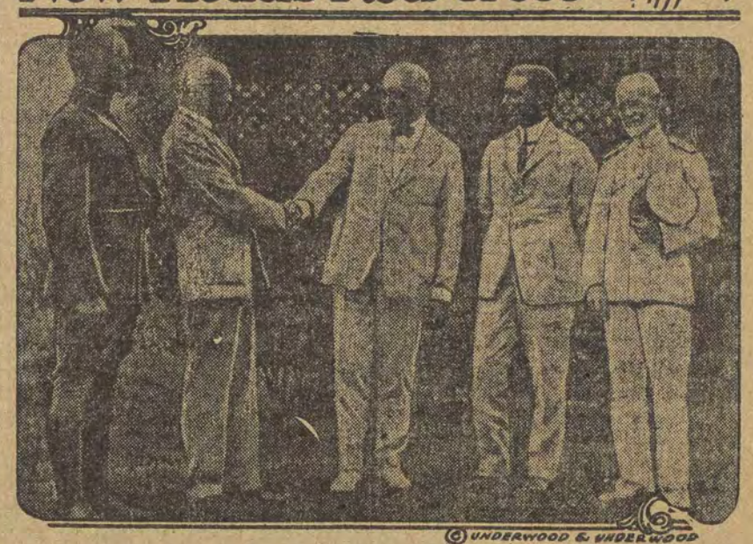
We're glad to have the honor of having with us the Queen of Chilton County as a member of our faculty, Miss Roberta Curry.

How to Break The Solid South

Mr. Henry W. Anderson, Repuublican candidate for Governor of Virginia, is making a praiseworthy effort to bring to Virginia the advantages of the two-party system in politics. The Solid South has suffered greatly from the evils that follow a long and uninterrupted tenure of power by one party. In a public address, Mr. Anderson drew a vivid picture of the damage Virginia has suffered by reason of its one-sided Democratic control:

"For over thirty years the state and local governments of Virginia have been controlled by the Democratic party. This has been the period of the greatest economic activity in the history of mankind, and of unparalleled development in the United States. What do we see in Virginia? The test of the freedom and political life of people in a republic is found in the extent to which its citizens value and exercise their citizenship. In 1888, with a population of 1,600,000, Virginia cast over 300,000 votes in the presidental election. In 1916, with a population of 2,300,000, it cast 151,000 votes; in 1917 it cast only 89,000 votes for Governor, while in 1920, with women voting and a possible qualified vote of about 900,000, its total vate was only 231,000. In the same year, North Carolina, with substantially the same population, cast 538,000 votes.

The economic conditions tell the same story. With natural wealth and resources far in excess of those of its neighboring states, Virginia lags behind them in the march of economic progress. In 1920, North Carolina alone paid to the Federal Government in taxes more than twice what was paid by Virginia—a true measure of industrial prosperity. Our rivers, capable of development of hundreds of thousands of horse power of electric current, which is the essential basis of industrial development, are running almost undisturbed to the sea. The northeastern part of the state presents the largest open territory east of the Mississippi River without any railroad. Our farm lands of a richness and variety unsurpassed by any state, with abundance of heat and moisture, with unlimited productive capacity, are being abandoned to weeds and pines; and are generally for sale at prices far below those of other states. The great harbor of Hampton Roads, one of the greatest natural assets of the world, has been neglected save for the activities of the federal government. These are only a few of the many evidences of want of economic activity and progress.



In public schools, Virginia stands forty-third in the list of forty-eight states. In highways it stands about the bottom. In every branch of intellectual and industrial life it is far down the list."

The chief reason for the "solidity" of the South is the fear of "Negro domination." Mr. Anderson makes a sensible answer to that argument. He points out the office holding must be based upon fitness, and this automatically rules most Negroes out of consideration. He advises the Negroes to accept that fact, and advises the Republican party to accept it. Once they do so, the numerous body of white men in Virginia who prefer the national policies of the Republican Party can vote the Republican ticket without fear of injuring white supremacy or fear of losing caste.

If the Republican politicans of the North would stop admitting Negro delegations, numerically out of all proportion to the Negro vote, to the Republican National Convention, and would stop juggling Federal offices in the South in exchange for favors from the Negro politicans, they would be astonished to find how large and influential a body of white voters in the South would join the Republican Party. The history of North Carolina is good evidence of this tendency.

It is unlikely that Mr. Anderson will be elected Governor of Virginia, but he is performing a genuine public service in making the campaign, by demonstrating the possibilities of a high-grade opposition party and by frankly expounding the truth about the way to get it.—World's Work.

PLEDGED TO REPEAL TAX

Washington, Oct. 18.—"In connection with discussion of the repeal of the excess profits tax it is pertinent to observe that in the campaign of 1920 both parties advocated the repeal of that tax," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr.

"The Republican Platform declared that, 'Sound policy demands the early accomplishment of that real reduction of the tax burden which may be achieved by substituting simple for complex tax laws and procedure; prompt and certain determination of the tax liability for delay and uncertainty; tax laws which do not, for tax laws which do, excessively mulct the consumer or needlessly repress enterprises and thrift.'

"The Democratic platform advocated tax reform and a searching revision of the revenue acts to fit peace conditions, 'so that the wealth of the nation may not be withdrawn from productive enterprise and diverted to wasteful or non-productive expenditure.'

"These expressions have always been construed to apply to the excess profits tax."

"If there had been any doubt as to the meaning of the two political platforms on that subject, this doubt would have been removed by the interpretation placed thereon by the two leading candidates. In his first 'front porch' talk at Marion, on July 31, Mr. Harding said of the excess profits tax: 'Its operations have been disappointing, its costs multiplied and pryamided, and righteous changes and modifications ought to be sought at an early date.'

"In an address issued to the press on September 11, 1920, he said: 'We must readjust our internal taxation, especially the excess profits tax, to remove the burdens it imposes upon the will to create and produce whether that will is the will of the big corporation, the small corporation, or of the individual.'

"In his address to Congress at the opening of the special session he said: 'We are committed to the repeal of the excess profits tax and the abolition of inequities and unjustifiable exasperations in the present system.'

"In an article written by him for the New York Times and published in the issue of May 23, 1920, long before he had been nominated by the Democratic party, Mr. Cox said: 'The excess profits tax, which was justified during the war, is not needed now.' In his speech of acceptance Mr. Cox declared: 'I believe that a better form of taxation than the so-called excess profits tax may be found.'

"If any man of prominence in either political party took any exception whatever to the platform pledges or the utterance of presidential candidates on this subject, such qualification of the party pledges is not known to the American people."

Nothing Overlooked

A salesman sold a bill of goods to a merchant in a small town. They were returned as not satisfactory. The wholesale house undertook to collect anyway and drew a sight draft on the bank at the customer's town. The bank returned the draft unpaid. Then the house wrote to the village postmaster and asked if the merchant was good for the amount of the bill. The letter was returned O. K.'d at the bottom. Next the postmaster was asked to put the bill in the hands of a local lawyer for collection. The answer received by the wholesaler ran as follows:

"The undersigned is the merchant on whom you tried to plam off your worthless junk. The undersigned is also president of the bank that returned your draft. The undersigned is the postmaster to whom you wrote and also the lawyer whom you tried to get to collect your bill. And if the undersigned were not also the pastor of the local church, the undersingned would tell you to go straight to the devil."—The American Legion Weekly.

Kitchin's Nemesis In A Peanut

Washington, Oct. 18.—Commenting on the organization of a peanut grower's exchange in Representative Kitchen's home, the Republican Publicity Association, through its Presiednt, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., says:

"In Scotland Neck, North Carolina, the home of Congressman Kitchin, who is the leader of the free traders in the House of Representatives, they have formed a peanut grower's exchange for the purpose of negotiating a $5,000,000 loan from the War Finance Corporation to help handle the present crop of peanuts in North Carolina and Virginia.

"Think of the irony of it."

"Kitchin's party favors free trade and yet the United States imported for the 1920-21 season almost 48,000,000 pounds of peanuts, of which 42,600,000 pounds were shelled. During the preceding year the United States imported the equivalent of 192,000,000 pounds of unshelled nuts. Most of the importations came from the Orient where the cheapest kind of labor is employed in the production of the nuts and in the shelling. In addition, this country imported huge quantities of peanut oil which represents not only the nuts but the labor employed in extracting the oil.

"Possibly, if he were asked the direct question as to this one commodity, Mr. Kitchin would say that he favors a high import duty on peanuts, 'for revenue only,' but that answer would be insincere. A man who is for protection only on the commodities produced in his own district and under the subterfuge of revenue, is no protectionist at all. If every Congressman were for free trade on all commodities except those of his own district, there would be no protective tariff on any commodity. Unless a man is for protection as a matter of economic principle, and is willing that his far-off fellow citizen shall be protected in the same degree as his immediate neighbors, he is not a protectionist. There can be no protective tariff unless a majority of Congress want a general protective tariff law enacted, and Mr. Kitchin never wants a general protective tariff law, however much he may stand for protection of his home industries.

"But in another respect, this action of his fellow townsmen must be a bitter pill for Mr. Kitchin. It was his party that permitted the War Finance Corporation to die—refused to revive it. The Republican party revived the Corporation and his fellow townsmen are now appealing to that institution for help.

"In two important particulars, North Carolina and Virginia pay their compliments to the superior wisdom of Republicans. They assert their need of a protective tariff to protect them from the cheap importations of the Orient, and they appeal for the assistance of a War finance Corporation to tide them over an emergency—an aid made possible by the Republican party after failure of the Democrats.

"It would seem as though the substantial people of North Carolina and Virginia would soon begin to vote their opinions at the polls as well as express them when they get together in business meetings."

THE UNION-BANNER

JUDGE REYNOLDS REPLIES TO CONGRESSMAN JEFFERS

Fourth District Representative is Challenged to Come to Chilton County and Measure Swords in the Political Arena.

Editor Union-Banner,

On October 20th, there appeared on the front page of the Chilton County News an article headed with box car letters, "Congressman Jeffers replies to Probate Judge Reynolds."

After I had read a few lines I thought that the heading must be in the wrong place, and that Congressman Jeffer's letter was in some other place, and that I was reading a letter from some Democratic Constable from this county, for it had all the ear marks of a Chilton County Democrat; however, the article was not signed, and we will "suppose" that Congressman Jeffers wrote it.

The article starts out to answer an article which I had written in the Age-Herald, answering one that Mr. Jeffers had in the same paper in regard to the Clanton Postoffice. I wonder why Mr. Jeffers did not answer my article in the Age-Herald. All those who read his letter in the Chilton County News may judge for themselves. I think it very appropriate that he answered in the Chilton County News and not in the Age-Herald.

In my article to the Age-Herald I explained that in 1918 Prof. J. L. Wilson made the highest grade and under President Wilson's rules he was entitled to appointment, but we all know that he was not appointed. Mr. Jeffers says in reply to this, "I do not know what happened in Chilton County then; any one who is interested and cares to do so may accept the word of Lewis Reynolds as to that incident." Mr. Jeffers might not have been in Chilton County at that time, but he has the Democratic Party to inform him whether or not I correctly explained that situation.

I do not think any one should be surprised at the Democrats playing politics in anything, much less appointing Postmasters, for they sometimes get politics in the public schools and churches, and even get the preachers to announce their political meetings but perhaps, some of the teachers will not have time to teach our Republican children very much politics for it takes nealy all their time to play foot ball and to attend to the Democratic newspaper.

Mr. Jeffers says I was trying to make it appear that this was a local fight. Let's see whether or not he is making it local. We have an ex-soldier at another Postoffice that stands in the same position as Mr. Parrish, but this man is a Republican and I wish someone would tell me something that Congressman Jeffers has done to aid this man to be appointed Postmaster, and yet Mr. Jeffers is raving about what he has done for the ex-soldiers. The people of this county have heard this kind of tommy-rot for years and have ceased to be moved by Democratic hot air.

Mr. Jeffers says, "as for Chilton county having been Republican for so long, let me say that I do not think Chilton county has been Republican for so long but has only been suffering with a bad case of lewis-reynoldsitis and I hope and believe ere long the people of that good county will rid themselves of that political canker."

The above statement is an insult to the intelligent Republicans of this county for the Republican men and women of this county are as patriotic and as well posted on public matters as the Democrats are in any county in Alabama, and I am sure tht many of them could stand side by side with Mr. Jeffers on many public questions.

I have been in public life for over thirty years and I have always said what I had to say publicly. I have not had the opportunity of an education like many others but whenever I have made public speeches I have always invited my opponents to take half of my time, and I always felt like some hot air was going to be exploded when a man seeking a public office would not give his opponent part of his time. I have never said, as did Mr. Jeffers and Senator Heflin last fall that I did not have time to let my opponent speak, and I will say now that the Republicans of this county will welcome Mr. Jeffers at any time they have a public meeting and will be glad to divide time with him and let the people decide for themselves. If I should be called on by my party to represent them in a public speech, it will be a pleasure to me for Mr. Jeffers to have as much time as I have, thereby letting the people hear both sides so that they can get the truth.

I canvassed some of the State last fall and at every place I spoke I invited my opponent to divide time with me and in many instances they did, and if Mr. Jeffers will come down here sometime when we have a campaign on and meet the Republicans of this county and let them go to his political school, he will know them better and he will have some of the new worn off and I think he ought to come and teach the Republicans better than to follow one man wihout investigating for themselves, if he feels like they are so ignorant.

I want to say to the boys that went to the front that we all love them and appreciate what they did and we are willing to help them all we can, but I am opposed to appointing Democrats to office when they do not stand equal with the Republicans, and especially to a place that a Republican is entitled to, and if I were a Democrat in Chilton county I would certainly be ashamed to ask the Republicans to appoint me to any office. I'd like for someone to explain the difference in a Democrat asking the Republicans to appoint him to office, and running for office on a Republican ticket and asking the Republicans to vote for him.

Boys, I want every one who lives in Chilton County to understand where I stand on this question and am not going to give you a lot of hot air. I think you are entitled to help and consideration from our Government and to all that it is able to give you, but when the Republicans are in office I think Republicans are entitle to the political appointments.

I want to say to the ex-soldier boy that if you get any help for a long time that it will come from the Republican Party and all you can expect from the Democratic party is promises and political rot to prejudcie your minds so as to get your vote.

I am sorry that the Democrats have burst our government by graft and extravagance, such as the world has never seen, so as to make it unable to help the soldier boys, but we could not expect anything better after a Democratic administration for they always leave everything bankrupt, even our County after a Democratic administration was found to be over its debt limit. You may always expect the Democrats to get up something that will cost money so as to give them an excuse to raise taxes. Yes, boys, they were in power when we were plunged into war, but the Republican party will have to do, as it always does, get the Government back on its feet again, so that it can help the boys.

Mr. Jeffers says that I want to be the Republican candidate for Governor the next time. I have never said that I have wanted to be, but should I want to run, I hardly think Mr. Jeffers would be advised with.

At the request of my party last fall, I was candidate for U. S. Senator and received 77,377 votes, notwithstanding Mr. Jeffers' opposition. I believe this was the most that any Republican had ever received in Alabama, and I wonder if Mr. Jeffers would say that all that voted for me were just following one man and were so ignorant that they did not know what they were doing.

I feel like when Mr. Jeffers gets this Republican Government straightened out and opens the eyes of the Republicans that he will be some tamer and will lick salt out of the hands of Republicans.

FIRE DESTROYED HEADLEY HOME

We learn that the home of Mr. T. J. Headley near Randolph was destroyed by fire last Monday, and all the household goods and personal effects of the family were consumed by the flames. This probably leaves Mr. Headley in needy circumstances.

Hauson Headley, son of the man whose home was burned, is a student in the County High School here. His mother writes Prof. Alverson that he will have to stop school unless the public will donate to him funds sufficient to provide him clothes and pay his board. Mr. Alverson states that the students of the school have made up a nice contribution for the young man already. We feel sure that the people of Clanton and Chilton County will contribute to this worthy cause and enable this boy to continue his work in school. If anybody wishes to give him anything, please send it to Prof. Alverson, who will see that the money goes to help provide for him.

Thorsby, Ala., Oct. 24, 1921.
Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your paper to say in reply to a report that I will have a by bidder at my sale on Tuesday, November 1st 1921. There is no truth in the report. I do not hope to get the full value for my place nor the things, but all will be done in the open. JEEFERS WILL SEND FARMERS BULLETINS

Wants People to Feel Free to Write Him About Matters.

The Union-Banner has received a communication from Major Lamar Jeffers, Representative of this District in the Congress of the United States in which he says he desires to place in the hands of the farmers various government agricultural bulletins dealing with subjects which may be of interest. We quote his letter in full below:

My dear Mr. Wyatt:

Under separate cover I am sending you a copy of the annual Agricultural Yearbook, and enclosed you will find a copy of the list of agricultural bulletins.

The Government publications are the result of expert knowledge and exhaustive experiments and are very valuable and helpful. I hope you will call them to the attention of your farmer fsiends and urge them to write in to me for these pubications. They can order the Government bulletins by number from the list enclosed. I will be glad to send such a list to any one interested.

If you will take a little interest in your country friends along this line and urge them to write for these publications, I am sure that they will appreciate it. Tell them all to feel free to write me if I can serve them in this way, or in any other way.

With good wishes, I am,
Yours very sincerely,
LAMAR JEFFERS.

We have the list of these government bulletins which Mr. Jeffers refers to in his letter, and we find that these publications, several hundred in number, cover a wide range of subjects in which farmers are interested. In order to secure them a farmer should first write Mr. Jeffers and ask him to send a list of the government bulletins. When you receive the list you can check those which you wish to reeive and send it back to Mr. Jeffers, who will then mail you the copies of bulletins which you checked on the list.

Anyone writing Mr. Jeffers should address him at Room 172, House office Building, Washington, D. C.

Farmers who have peas to sell should get in touch with Tom Rockett. He will buy any kind, any quantity, anywhere. All he wants is peas, and if you have any to sell he wants to get a chance at them. If you cant find Tom, Dewey will do just as well, for he wants the peas just as bad as his daddy.

FIDDLERS CONTEST WAS GREAT STUFF

Friday night fiddlin' was put on at the school auditorium in Verbena, and everybody enjoyed it. 'Everybody' means an overflowing house and all available standing room occupied. It has been said that it was the largest crowd ever assembled in the auditorium.

The attraction was worthy of the attendance, for the enjoyment manifested by the applause that greeted every number presented, and the fiddlers themselves were happy, too. For with "Arkansas Traveler," "Sailor's Hornpipe," Run, Nigger, Run," "Turkey in the Straw," and some of the good ones of later days with just a touch by one of the young ones of some sentimental ballads, and the "Hesitating Blues," the players nor folks could help but enjoy it.

The judges of the contest were Messrs W. H. Lamb, Ulysses S. Thomas, and F. A. Gulledge, and their awards met with general approval. Mr. J. C. Pattillo introduced the fiddlers and called out the numbers.

The following were awarded prizes in the order named: "Watermilon" Johnson, of Haynes, First Prize; $7:50 cash; John Burkhalter, Haynes, Second Prize, a pig; Mr. Emmett Smith, Thorsby, Third Prize (for banjo) pair shoes; B. W. Hopper, Mountain Creek, Fourth Prize, a hat; Smith, Price and Crawford, (orchestra) Fifth prize, $2.50 cash; Earl Crawford (biggest cut up) one shirt; Ammerrine Vance, Coopers, one tie; Bertram King, Billingsley, pair socks; J. R. Rutland, shave and hair cut; Price and Ruthland, one pound chewing tobacco;

Thanks are given by the Parent-Teachers' Association to the merchants for their donating prizes; to the county papers for liberal space in the papers; to the fiddlers for their presence and music, and to the public for a splendid attendance. Over one hundred dollars was realized.

OUR HOSPITAL IS GOING UP; WILL BE FINISHED JAN. 1ST

Building of Gray Pressed Brick, Will be Another Accomplishment of Which Clanton May Feel Justly Proud.

If you think you are fixing to get sick, we urge you to take plenty of castor oil, and grease up good with axle grease so you may put off your illness a few days. In a short time the Central Alabama Hospital will be completed and then you will have some place to go to get well.

The work on the building has begun, and every energy is directed toward a speedy sompletion. Charley Cox and Ed Plier are making things hum and there will not be a step lost from now until the job is done. The excavations for foundations have been made, the concrete is being poured into the foundations and next week the brick will begin to be laid. Mr. Cox is engaged this week in hauling brick, sand and gravel to the lot.

The building committee has decided to use gray pressed brick for the outside walls, the same as the new Baptist Church is built of. The hospital will face on Fifth Avenue and will occupy the big space between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, just this side of the Clanton Grammar School.

CHURCH LOT SOLD

The old Clanton Baptist church property across the street in front of the Court House, was sold at public auction last Saturday. Mr. W. C. Robinson was the highest bidder, taking all the lot together with the old church building for the sum of three thousand and thirty five dollars. Bidding on this property was lively, as many persons desired to get a location there. But W. C. had the longest pole and therefore he knocked the persimmon. Mr. Robinson states that he has not completed his plans for the future of the property. It is hoped that he may see fit to build nice brick business houses on the lots, as their location in the center of town makes them very attractive.

SERVICES IN NEW TABERNACLE ON SUNDAY NIGHT

The Tabernacle on Second avenue and Fifth Street, south, is near completion and will be ready for the first general meeting Sunday night, October 30th. Elder M. L. Wilson, has chosen for his subject, "Why I am a Seventh-Day Adventist, and why that Denomination Exists." A very cordial welcome is extended those who have contributed toward the erection of the building, and to all to come and unite in the worship at the Tabernacle.

The Tabernacle is a very neat attractive building—attractive for its plainness yet comfortable and commodious and is to be well heated. In harmony with their faith, the Adventists believe in neatness but not in extravagance in buildings, in dress, or in anything, that would tend to hide the simplicity of the gospel of Jesus Christ. In spirit they try to emulate the great Example, and in practice, the text that says, "Not slothful in business but fervent in spirit; serving the Lord.

NOTICE

There will be a box supper at Bethsalem school house Saturday night, October 30th., for the benefit of raising money to help seat the house. All girls are invited to bring boxes and the boys should come prepared to buy one or more boxes.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER COMPANY
149 William Street, New York

How to make it

Use level measurements for all materials

½ cup shortening
1½ cups sugar
Grated rind of ½ orange
1 egg and 1 yolk
2½ cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt

Cream shortening. Add sugar and grated orange rind. Add beaten egg yolks. Sift together flour, salt and Royal Baking Powder and add alternately with the milk; lastly fold in one beaten egg white. Divide batter into two parts. To one part add the chocolate. Put by tablespoonfuls, alternating dark and light batter, into three greased layer cake pans. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.

FILLING AND ICING

3 tablespoons melted butter
3 cups confectioner's sugar (Powdered sugar may be used but does not make as smooth icing)
Grated rind of ½ orange and pulp of 1 orange
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 egg white
3 squares (3 ozs.) unsweetened chocolate

Put butter, sugar, orange juice and rind into bowl. Cut pulp from orange, removing skin and seeds, and add. Beat all together until smooth. Fold in beaten egg white. Spread this icing on layer used for top of cake. While icing is soft, sprinkle with unsweetened chocolate shaved in fine pieces with sharp knife (use ½ square). To remaining icing add 2½ squares unsweetened chocolate which has been melted. Spread this between layers and on sides of cake.

RED CROSS GIVES ANNUAL BUDGET

$19,361,657 Allotted for Current Program of Relief and Service.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Medical Aid for European Children Will Cost $6,000,000 This Year.

Washington.—Expenditures totalling $19,361,657 for carrying through its program of relief and services in the United States and overseas are outlined in the budget of the American Red Cross for the current fiscal year. This total is more than $5,000,000 lower than the expenditure during the last fiscal year, when the disbursements reached $24,492,741, it is announced at National Headquarters in a statement calling attention to the necessity of continued support of the organization by response to the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, if the vital work of the society is to be effectively carried on.

Outstanding among the items of the domestic budget is the appropriation of $3,669,250 for work in behalf of the disabled ex-service man and his family. This appropriation represents the amount alloted to this work from National Headquarters only and does not take into consideration the millions being spent in chapters for relief of the World War veteran. It is in the chapter that the greater amount is spent in meeting this obligation of the Red Cross, the announcement continues, as manifested by figures of the fiscal year 1920-1921 when the total was approximately $9,000,000, of which $2,692,094 represented the disbursement of National Headquarters while the remainder was the chapters' contribution to this field of Red Cross service.

Vast Work for Disabled

Chief among the sub-divisions of the appropriation for work with veterans is that which concerns itself with assistance to disabled men and women in government hospitals. This item of $1,790,000, an increase of more than $500,000 over the appropriation for the same work in last year's budget, will provide those personal services for the disabled and their families which are indispensable to supplement those provided by the government. The director of the Veterans' Bureau has recently expressed his desire that the Red Cross should continue and extend these "humanizing services." Other items of the appropriation for veterans' relief are proportionately increased. An additional appropriation of $469,600 has been made for Red Cross work in connection with regular Army and Navy hospitals and with the regular Army and Navy.

For disaster relief, the Red Cross has set aside for the current twelve months an appropriation of $543,976, virtually doubling the appropriation for the same purpose for the fiscal year 1920-1921.

More than $2,000,000 is provided for service and assistance to the 3,600 Red Cross chapters by the national organization.

Helping Destitute Children

Other items of the domestic budget include $498,546 for miscellaneous activities, including contributions restricted for special purposes and $768,600 for management. Each of these items represents large reductions over similar appropriations of the previous year.

From a fund of $10,000,000, $5,000,000 of which was contributed through the European Relief Council campaign and $5,000,000 allotted by the Red Cross for child welfare work in Europe, there remains $8,765,108 still available, of which it is estimated that $6,000,000 will be required for this work during the current year. For Red Cross participation in the joint effort to relieve famine conditions in Russia, for final work in the China famine, for Junior Red Cross and other overseas activities including the closing of the old general relief program in Europe $4,978,000 is made available.

In announcing the national budget, the Red Cross makes it clear that the figures do not include chapter expenditures or place any cash estimate on the invaluable service of volunteers in chapters.

CARRYING ON SERVICE FOR DISABLED VETERANS OF THE WORLD WAR THAT IS COSTING $10,000,000 A YEAR, THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IS HELPING FULFILL THIS NATION'S OBLIGATION TO ITS DEFENDERS. HELP THE RED CROSS CONTINUE THIS WORK BY ANSWERING THE ANNUAL ROLL CALL NOVEMBER 11-24, 1921.

Pretty Birthday Party Given

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Barney Roberts entertained a number of the little folks in celebration of little Miss Helen Roberts' fourth birthday. Merry games were played throughout the afternoon on the spacious lawn, and later they were invited into the dinning room where ice cream and cake was served from the prettily apointed table which held the birthday cake covered with the four lighted tapers. The cutting of the cake afforded much merriment. Mary Robinson cutting the button, Rosemary Pickens the ring and Sarah Luckie the dime. About 25 little folks enjoyed this happy affair.

About the time Mr. Fox began to kick the railings down from the steps of the old Baptist Church last Saturday, business began to pick up. The bidders loosened up and by the time Fox was done with the deal Will Robinson had spent himself three thousand and thirty five dollars for a church house and lot, and the Baptists of Clanton were just that same amount nearer having their handsome new church building paid for. When it comes to pulling a property deal it just takes a Fox to keep ahead of the hounds. You could very easily find many auctioneers who are not at all in the class with our own Mr. Fox.

It must be a very great boon to the growing of sugar cane to have it flooded in the Spring with heavy rains and partly covered up by sand. This is what happened to Will DeShazo's cane patch last spring you remember; and now here comes his boy Guy to town last Saturday bringing from that cane patch five stalks of molasses trees each of which measured over seven feet of matured body. These five stalks were nice to look at, and none the less nice to chew.

J. E. Robinson of Coopers reports a dangerous accident that happened to his little boy James, last Saturday. The little fellow was out in the horse lot riding the old famly horse about the yard of the barn. The horse ran into a stable, whereupon the boy's head struck the top of the door, breaking the bridge of his nose. He was knocked backwards off the horse and fell head first upon the ground. Mr Robinson quickly brought the injured lad to Clanton for medical attention.

How Better than Pills?

The question has been asked: In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easitr and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

Walter Teel points out one good thing the Weigle-Curry revival did: It caused Ben Sims' chisel to come back home. The whole story is related as follows: Back in the early summer when the carpenters were at work on the home of Marion Foshee a very fine chisel disappeared from the tool box of Ben Sims. Time went on and not one thing could be learned about where the tool might have gone. By and by came the big revival meeting in Clanton. One night at this meeting Mr. Weigle said to his hearers "if you don't take back those automobile tires and monkey wrenches and screw drivers you stole from your neighbor you are going straight to hell." The next day a package was carried out to Mr. Sims in care of his father in law, Ed Bruce. When Ben got home that night and looked into the package, lo and behold there was the chisel that had departed from the job at Mr. Foshee's. We believe this is about the way Walter tells the story.

County Commissioner J. Wiley Littlejohn is contemplating a plan of going over all the roads in his district that are traversed by rural mail routes. His idea is to do this by accompanying the various carriers, and as he goes over the roads he will take notes of bridges and bad places that ought to be fixed. These notes will later be put in the form of recommendations to the road officials who may have charge of the particular roads where such repairs are needed. We feel sure this effort of Mr. Littlejohn to better the roads in his district will meet the hearty approval of the rural letter carriers, and those other citizens who use the roads.

The railroad from Coopers to Mitchell Dam has been completed, and trains are now running over it. It looks funny to see an L. & N. Freight car perched on top of the bluff at Mitchell Dam as if it were ready to take a plunge over the precipice into the Coosa River.

Mr. J. W. Sorrell of Jemison was in Clanton Tuesday. He brought the Banner a letter which will be found in another place in this issue. Somebody has been accusing Mr. Sorrell of being a Democrat, and he takes a fling at his accusers by re-asserting his loyalty to the Republican party.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Evidence that a good revival had recently been held in Clanton was manifested yesterday by the improvement in the attendance and general interest at the services of this church last Sunday. More than 125 were present at Sunday School. A fine congregation that practically filled the auditorium was present to hear the ineresting and instructive sermon on the New Testament church, and sixteen joined the fellowship of the church by letter and baptism. The night congregation was good, but could have been larger, but was well up to the usual, and listened with fine attention to the sermon by the pastor on the wicked forsaking their way. In the sermon the preacher drew attention to the fact that the wicked did not only include the drunkard, adulterer, fornicator and what are generally classified as gross sinners, but the wicked also included that class of individual who made money by profiteering, excessive interests unjustly foreclosing mortgages, and shortweighting. In a clear and forceful manner he set forth how the person that incurs debts and does not pay them is just as much a robber as the one who enters a store unde the cover of the night and robs the merchant of his goods. No person said he has any right to be on the church rolls who do not pay their just debts. The wicked said he should get right with God because the way of transgressors is hard. Many a person has retired at night rich in this worlds goods, but through fire, cyclone or destruction has awakened in the morning a pauper, because of the ill-gotten gain. If the sinner will forsake his way God will abundantly pardon a truth beautifully pictured in the story of the Prodigal son. The interest in the services was good and we trust some lasting impressions were made towards establishing of right relationships with our fellow man. The number added to the church on last Sunday made a total of some 65 members that have united with this church during the present pastorate of one year and nine months. It will be the joy of the pastor if the number can reach 100 by the first of January which will almost conclude a two-years partorate. With the inducement of the new building, and the fine opportunity for service and the numerous people of the Baptist faith living in the community unidentified with this church this number can easily be reached. With the larger responsibilities resting upon us we need your help and co-operation, and you need the help, encouragement and inspiration of the church which you are able to secure from a full time ministry, and the splendid equipment of the Clanton Baptist Church. Come thou with us and we will do thee good.

The Woman's Missionary Union will meet the first three Monday afternoons in each month at the church at 3:00 p. m., for the purpose of Mission study. These meetings are of a very interesting nature and open to all ladies of the community.

The week night service is held at 7:00 p. m. during the winter at the church and is open to everyone. Your prayers and presence will help make a great evangelistic church.

Preaching services will be held next Sunday as usual, morning at 11:00 a. m. and evening at 7:00 p. m. to which we cordially invite everybody. The pastor of the church is always ready to serve when called upon or needed. If you dont know him he will be pleased to get acquainted with you.

P. G. CARTER, Pastor.

CORNITH

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a very good crowd but not as many as was expected. Service was opened by chairman A. L. Robinson with a song and prayer. Directors for the afternoon were A. L. Robinson, E. F. Taylor, T. L. Robinson, Adelbert Norris, A. M. Jones, Alfred Jones and N. J. Jones. All three songs each. Everybody seemed to enjoy the singing. We didn't have many visitors out Sunday afternoon, but we enjoy all the help that we can get. We give a cordial invitation to every one to come out and be with us in our singings every 2nd and 4th Sundays. We also have Sunday school promptly at ten o'clock every Sunday morning. We ask every one to come that can. Our preaching day is every 2nd Sunday.

Mr. Archie Jones and Mr. Grady Birdett went on a pleasure trip to Deatsville Saturday. We hope they had a fine time.

Mr. A. J. Howard and wife visited their parents Sunday afternoon.

Miss Annie Robinson visited her cousins, Misses Ida Mae and Thelma Blackwell Saturday and Sunday and report a fine time.

Mr. J. A. Jones and wife visited Mrs. Pearlie Hughes Sunday.

We are glad to say our sick folks of the community are doing fine now. We hope they can soon be with us in Sunday school. Hoping to see a large crowd at Sunday school next Sunday and bring up a good Sunday school lesson. With best wishes to the Union-Baner I remain.

OCTOBER PEACH BLOSSOMS

Following the unprecedented occurance of full grown cuckle burs in the early spring of this year, we now have thrust upon us the staggering exhibition of peach blossoms in the middle of October. Lee Vickers was here last Saturday telling of a peach tree on his place that is in full bloom. Robert Bean came along Monday and brought us a branch off one of his peach trees which is in full bloom, also contains some young peaches. It was stated by both Mr. Vickers and Mr. Bean that each of the trees that are in bloom now, bore a full crop of peaches this summer. Well, we are now fully prepared to accept anything that may happen. There is no telling what may come next. Somebody may bring us a nice ripe watermelon for a Christmas present.

FARM PICTURES AT FORDSON TRACTOR AGENCY LAST NIGHT

Farmers who failed to see the farm pictures that were shown at the Ford Agency in Clanton last night should go out behind the barn and kick themselves for missing such a treat. The moving picture apparatus was mounted on a truck in front of the Ford plant and the pictures were thrown on a screen across the street. Quite a large number of spectators witnessed the performance. The pictures showed specially prepared test tubes filled with different grades of soils, clearly illustrating the difference in a corectly prepared seed bed and one which is incorrectly prepared. In the pictures we actuall saw the corn sprout, take root and grow from the time the seed was planted under the soil in both types of seed beds. We saw the moisture quickly rise in the correctly prepared seed bed and as soon as the moisture reached the grain of corn it began to swell and soon the little sprout pushed its way to the surface and began to grow. The corn in the good seed bed was up and growing by the time the grain in the ill prepared bed beban to sprout.

The pictures that were shown gave a visible lesson in proper preparation of soil for all crops. The lecture which accompanied the pictures was the most instructive that it has ever been our pleasure to hear. The work of the Mabnavox Telemegaphone in producing the lecture as great. Eacn person present could hear every word that was spoken, even better than if it had been spoken directly by a human voice.

The pictures of the Fordson and auxiliary machines were highly interesting. Today the concrete demonstration of these machines doing the actual work will take place on the farm of Judge Reynolds one mile north of town. Every farmer in reach of town should come here today to see these demonstrations. It will be worth your while. You will learn something valuable even if you should never become a user of the Fordson.

Indeed we must say again that such events as this one are milestones in the progress of agriculture. Such things are what is making farming more attractive and interesting year by year. The Clanton Motor Car Co. under direction of Mr. R. C. McDavid is doing a geat and valuable service to farmers of Chilton county by bringing such events within their reach.

Don't forget to come to town today and see the demonstrations at Judge Reynolds farm. It will pay you to lay down what you may be doing and come on. The demonstration will carry on till four o'clock this afternoon.

Young America Sends Vast Relief To Needy Abroad

Various relief projects of the Junior American Red Cross in European countries resulted in helping 237,000 destitute children during the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross for that period. The growth of the activities of the Juniors abroad is manifested by a comparison which shows this figure is 200,000 larger than that of the previous fiscal year.

Fair Exchange

"Young man," said the elderly gentleman sternly, "this is a day-old paper you've sold me. Do you know what may happen to you if you cultivate habits of deception?"

"Can dat stuff," retorted the newsboy. "Dis is a ten-year-old nickle you handed me, but I'm a sport and I ain't kickin'."—The American Legion Weekly.

Lewis Easterling of Beat 16 says he has successfully demonstrated that velvet beans can be grown without any rain. He brought a sample of his beans to The Baner office Wednesday. They are as fine as we have ever seen Lewis says he has not had a decent rain at his place since the 15th of last April.

ON ROAD TO BONEYARD

"I have just finished a treatment of your wonderful remedy and can say it has done wonders for me already. For the past five years I have been unable to eat any but the lighest food and that but sparingly, as any food caused me to bloat with gas. I was reduced to a skeleton of ninety pounds, and was on the road to the boneyard. A friend in Birmingham sent me a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I took, and I am sure it will entirely cure me of my trouble, judging from what it brought from me and the way I feel." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Alred Drug Co.

CLOGGED UP BLOOD WITHERS THE BODY

WORKERS SICK AND WEAK FROM EXERTION TAKE GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN

Men and women who toil, either physically or mentally, use up energy. When they over work they use up more enrgy, and sometimes the blood gets in a run-down condition. Without rest the blood cannot get back to normal, so that it becomes clogged with waste matter from over-exertion.

The clogged blood virtually withers the body. The strained looks on pale faces, the thin, bloodless arms, the sunken cheeks and necks, and dead tired feeling are results of stale blood depriving the system of life-giving oxygen.

Workers go to the drug store and get Gude's Pepto-Mangan when they feel weak and run down. They take it in either the liquid or the tablet form. That makes the blood rich and red and drives out the poisons. Life-giving oxygen, carried by the little red cells, renews the strength and builds up the entire system. Look for the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.—Advertisement.

Red Cross Gives $310,000 to Aid 'Clean-Up' Drive

An appropriation of $310,000 for Red Cross work in connection with the "clean-up" campaign instituted by the Government to bring the claims of all disabled service men who are entitled to Federal aid before the proper government bureau for action, has been made by the American Red Cross. The Executive Committee of the American Red Cross in making the appropriation authorized the appropriation of $35,000 of this sum to the American Legion to defray the expense of the Legion representatives assigned to the various districts of the Veterans Bureau.

The remainder of the appropriation was authorized for apportionment among the several Divisions of the Red Cross for carrying on that part of the "clean-up" work that falls directly upon the Red Cross organization.

Red Cross Trains 147 Blind Vets In Useful Work

Training designed to fit them for the battle of life was taken by 147 blinded ex-service men at the Red Cross Institute for the Blind, near Baltimore, Md., during the fiscal year 1920-1921, according to the report of the Institute for that period.

Of this number, 19 have gone on to other institutions, in almost every case to institutions where those having sight are receiving advanced education. The blind ex-service men who have entered such institutions are provided with special text-books in Braille, reading which they were taught at the Red Cross Institute.

Twelve men have passed from the Institute to successfully carry on some occupation or business for which they were fitted by special training. A few have withdrawn from the Institute because of poor physical condition, 14 are receiving further "training on the job" and 87 are still in training.

Red Cross Plans $6,000,000 Effort To Save Children

Medical care and clothing for thousands of children in Central and Eastern Europe are outlined as the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe for the current year, says a statement on the eve of the Annual Roll Call of the organization. These activities, supplemental to the feeding operations of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, are designed to provide the most adequate and balanced relief within the resources of private philanthropy.

Through the establishment of child welfare stations in the centers of population of those countries where adequate medical care is not now obtainable, the American Red Cross plans to provide the medical assistance needed to restore these children to a normally healthy life. The sum of $6,000,000 has been made available for this work.

The mediaeval duke on the scaffold was being kidded gently along by the executioner as the latter stropped his axe blade.

"Any last words, Dook?" inquired the head-taker.

"Mighty decent of you," murmured the duke as he laid his head on the block. "Just give it the once-over please."—The American Legion Weekly.

Safety First

The Purity League member approached a street gamin who was puffing industriously at the quarter-inch remains of what had once been a cigarette.

"Nah, lady," retorted the gamin. "I'm a careful guy. I only tackles those that other people have tried first." — The American Legion

LIFE SAVING CORPS ENROLLMENT 10,000

Growth of Red Cross Life Saving Corps throughout the country continued unabated during the last fiscul year, a summary of the year's achievements by that Red Cross Service shows. There are now 160 Corps with a total membership of more than 10,000 members, of which 1,276 are sufficiently skilled in the work to act as examiners. Among the outstanding achievements of the Red Cross in this field during the last year was the organization at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, of what is perhaps the largest life saving corps in the world.

Yeast Fine— But Is Best With Iron

OAK HILL

Our United Singing Society met at this place Sunday evening and was attended by a large crowd, and the singing was good and enjoyed by all present, this was evidenced by the attention and good order throughout the evening. Long before time for the singing to start we could hear the buzz of motors and the rattle of buggies and the stamp of horses feet, and soon after the bell rang the house was almost filled with singers. Both president and vice-president being absent E. L. Glasscock was chosen as acting president for the evening who sang the opening song, followed by prayer by Prof. Albert E. Glasscock, then the singing began in earnest with E. L. Glasscock as first director and followed by Albert E. Glasscock, Leonard Glasscock, Prof. Willie G Culp, Miss Emma Arledge, and Charles Glasscock, all sung three songs each. Organist for the evening were Misses Esther Atkinson, Ellen Glasscock, Myrtle Dorminey, Elsie Robinson and Emma Arledge. Other directors on the program were Grady Headley, Lucile Mims and J. B. Northcutt, all ran away and did not direct. The closing song was sung by the acting president followed with prayer by Mr. A. P. Oslin, then the society adjourned to meet at Mt. Pleasant next Sunday evening at 2:00 o'clock. Mt. Pleasant is in Beat 12 only a few miles north of Union Grove on the Clanton and Calera road, near Mr. R. T. Robinsons store. Nearly everybody knowsw here it is, so everybody is not only invited but requested to be present and help make it a geat success, and don't forget that the first Sunday in November is our regular singing evening at Jemison and will have Prof. W. M. Devaughn and W. O. Rich with us, these gentlemen have promised to be with us on that day if not providentially hindered. Everybody is invited to come and bring your soog books and hear these men sing and help to make it one of the best song services we have had yet. Democratic Tactics In Senate Flayed by Senator Watson

FILIBUSTER AGAINST EFFORTS OF REPUBLICANS TO ENACT HELPFUL LEGISLATION.

"Senator Watson, of Indiana: But I wish to call the attention of my friends on the Democratic side to this proposition. During the war, from the night the declaration was voted on the 6th of April, 1917, until armistice day, not one single political speech was ever made on the floor of the Senate. On the Republican side, both in the House and Senate, we supported your measures with greater unanimity than you supported them yourselves, because 72 per cent of all our votes were cast in favor of the great war measures, while but 67 per cent of the Democratic votes were cast in their favor. All over this Republic, in hamlet, in village, in town, in city, everywhere, Republicans united behind the proposition to win the war. We gave your party and we gave your President such unanimous support as no minority ever gave to the majority in all the recorded history of the world.

"Monkey Wrench" Tactics

How do you return that kindness and that generosity and that patriotic endeavor? You answer by taunts, you respond by partisan appeals. We are now wrestling with the results of the war, the results entailed upon us by that mighty, that titanic conflict of the world's history. How do you assist us in solving the problems that confront us as the aftermath of that conflict? You criticize and you find fault, you backbite and you throw monkey wrenches in the machinery, and you do everything within your power to impede the progress of the country back to sound conditions and back to normalcy in the United States.

The timt has come for the people to know that your side is playing politics with the situation while we are wrestling with the conditions which your Administration left upon our hands.

"I believe that this is a political government and that our country is governed by and through the agency of political parties. I intend to hold my party together by making any concession I can up to the point of surrendering a principle, and I never intend to so vote as to throw the leadership of this body into the hands of the Democratic party.

We talk about agricultural blocs and manufacturers' blocs and mining blocs. What I want is a Republican bloc in the United States Senate, and when they organize it I shall stay with it, because while the Republican party may be wrong in some instances it is almost universally right and, thank God, it is more nearly right all the time than the Democratic party ever is.

Filibuster in Senate

Senators, I know as well as I know I am living that there is a well-defined movement here to filibuster unostentatiously on this bill and on the railroad funding bill and on the foreign funding bill in order to throw the protective tariff measure over into the next year and just as nearly to the approaching campaign as is possible. I know these political speeches are going to make in the Senate day after day and week after week for that express purpose and with that end in view. I have no sympathy with that. We on this side have the majority and after consulting with our Democratic friends we are entitled to action. The majority must act or government based upon the will of the majority, as is ours, will fail and fall and be destroyed.

"I propose for one to promise our leader, the senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Lodge,) to rally enough people around him to sit here by day, and by night if necessary, in order to enable the majority to legislate upon the proposition as to which we have promised the people of the United States we would legislate.—(From Congressional Record, Tuesday, Oct. 11)

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

An Appeal To White People

Friends of Education for the Colored People in Chilton County.

About four miles east of Clanton on the Clanton and Kingston highway and in the center of a large and successful farming center lies Center Point School for colored boys and girls. At present this school has an enrollment of sixty pupils, ranging in age from six to eighteen years, and in grades from one to fourth. Within a radius of two miles there are one or two schools of the one teacher type. Now, it is the aim of the principal, R. A. Tyson, and the local Trustees, Gus Gordon, Ben Brown, Ed Knights and Antney Holyfields and others, to build a Rural Consolidated school, one that would give the rudiments of an elementary and industrial, especially farming education to the colored boys and girls of this section of Chilton County, even perhaps for this county and adjoining counties.

Such school, as time goes by would justify its existence, and in a practical way the science of agriculture would be demonstrated to all the farmers of this district. The boys and girls would also learn the practical side of "How to Live'—become better farmers and therefore better citizens.

As a nucleus for the funds required, we have already made a deposit of one hundred dollars in the First National Bank of Clanton and we have three fourths of another bale of cotton to sell which will further swell our building funds. On the 7th of Oct. 1921, we launched a campaign for the purpose of raising one thousand dollars; this campaign will end on Dec. 11, 1921.

To the good white people of Chilton and other counties, who may read this appeal. We feel, and we know that you will do as you have always done when ever the colored people attempted to do a worth-while deed. You will come to our support with your good will and your money in whatever amounts that you may feel inclined to give.

To our white friends, to education for colored people in Clanton, we earnestly solicit your attention and financial aid in any amounts. We will especially appreciate the small cash gifts and large moral gifts from our immediate white friends..

Your intelligence does not need to be reminded of the fact that every dollar given for the education of colored youths is a dollar that will yield a large and valuable dividend to both the county and the state, and this will in time revert large and valuable dividends in the form of better security to persons and property.

A thrifty and industrious colored population, such as this purpose, will help create and develop, and will certainly add to the counties personal assets, and become a strong factor in eliminating for ever, illiteracy and ignorance among a large per cent of the colored population of Chilton County. Ignorance is one of the costliest and most unwelcome products in our government. Education is on the other hand one of the cheapest.

We earnestly invite our white friends to come to our aid financially and to write the principal for any information desired. We shall thru this newspaper from time to time acknowledge receipt of any donations which we might receive and keep you informed about our progress.

Respectfully,
R. A. TYSON, Prin.,
Clanton, Route 3.
Gus Gordon, Ben Brown, A. Holyfields, Ed Knight, Trustees.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

. . . I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

HIGH LIGHTS IN THE CAREER OF SENATOR PHILANDER C. KNOX

Washington, Oct. 24.—"Since lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime, it is worth while for the youth of America to pay more than passing attention to the footprints left upon the sands of time by the late Philander C. Knox," declares the Republican Publicity Association in a review of the "high lights" in the career of the distingunshed statesman. The review is as follows:

"Assistant U. S. Attorney for the western district of Pennsplvania 1876. President Pennsylvania Bar Association 1897. Attorney General of the United States McKinley, 1901; reappointed by Roosevelt and served to 1904 when he resigned.

"Appointed to U. S. Senate to fill vacancy caused by death of Matthew Stanley Quay, 1904, and elected for senatorial term 1905-11, resigning in 1909 to become Secretary of State under President Taft. Reelected to Senate March 6, 1916, to succeed Senator George T. Oliver.

"Received 68 votes for Republican presidential nomination in convention of 1908. Refused Attorney-Generalship during McKinley's first term. Twice refused Roosevelt's tender of appointment to the U. S. Supreme Court. Prominently mentioned for appointment as Secretary of State under Harding, but preferred to remain in the Senate.

"Was trusted adviser of four Presidents—Mckinley, Roosevelt, Taft and Harding. Successfully prosecuted the so-called "Northern Securities Case,' pronounced by constitutional authorities to be gravest and most important issue presented to the Supreme Court since the determination of the problems growing out of the Civil War period. This broke up the notorious Hill-Morgan railroad merger. He secured the extradition of Greene and Gaynor, who had fled to Canada with large sums embezzled in connection with government contracts in the harbor of Savannah. Canada refused to extradite them and Knox, acting in direct conflict with an opinion of Sir Edward Clark, leader of the British bar, took an appeal to the privy council in London, which rendered an opinion in favor of the United States and established a precedent in international law. He aquired title to the Panama Canal for the United States and did much to strengthen our relationships with the Latin Americans. He orginated the plan to neutralize the Manchurian railways, which was defeated by the opposition of Russia and Japan. He gave a dignity to 'dollar diplomacy.'

"He was irreconsilably oppised, as an American and a Senator to the Wilson league of nations. Knox will see through it.' wrote Lansing from Paris. In the debate on that matter he proposed what has been referred to as the 'Knox doctrine,' viz., 'If a situation should arise in which any power or combination of powres should, directly or indirectly, menace the freedom and peace of Europe, the United States would regard such situation with grave concern as a menace to its own freedom and peace and would consult with other powers affected with a view to concerted action for the removal of such menace.' This was not acted upon by the Senate. He was one of the authors of the round robin resolution which served notice on the Versailles peace conferees that the league could not hope for the required vote in the Senate and that the treaty should not include it. He was finally the author of the peace resolution, amended somewhat by the House, which officially terminates the war.

"Philander C. Knox will be remembered as one of the foremost statesmen of the age in which he lived."

LETTER FROM JOSHUA SORRELL

Editor Union Banner:

I wish to state to the people of Chilton county that I am a Republican, have always voted the Republican ticket, and so far as I know now I shall always be a Republican. The statement has been made by somebody lately that I am not a Republican. I want to say that whoever made such statements either did it not knowing the truth or else did it knowingly misrepresenting the true facts as to my politics.

I do not see why there should be a question as to my politics now, as I am not a candidate for any office or appointment. But I want the people to know that I am a Republican because it is the truth and I am not ashamed of it.

Yours truly,
JOSHUA SORRELL.

HENRY FORD

We packed our grips and got aboard
To take a trip on Henry Ford.
We were away soon out of sight,
Around the hills upon the pike.

The little Ford was wont to go,
We never thought to run in low;
And on she went just like a Hub
Because as yet we had no mud.

But ah, Alas! came storms of rain
And then of course the trouble came;
Twelve miles fresh and muddy roads
We struck and stuck with Henry Ford.

What shall we do? my wife then cried.
I do not know I half replied,
But it seems to me a bad mistake

But on we went dispite the road,
More oil and gas we gave the Ford;
She spit and blowed just like a goose
While bolts and tin all rattled loose.

And to the stream so large and grand
We crossed the bridge with many a span;
Beyond the bridge without a flaw
We reached the State of Arkansaw.

Great seas of mud was then the scene
Where we pulled all day with teams.
Within the swamps we camped that night,
The 'skeeters' bit with awful fright.

Next day we found the Bankhead way
We hoped at least to last all day;
But too that was just a dream,
The slickest mud again the scene.

Beyond the mud ravines and holes,
Which would provoke just any soul,
For miles we went but very slow
The car as hot from running slow.

From thence we went on asphalt road
With holes just right to break the Ford;
It rattled and bounced, the hateful thing
Until it broke most every spring.

W. J. NORTHCUTT, Pres.

A LITTLE SLOW—BUT SURE

Washington, Oct. 24.—"There is one important circumstance in connection with appointments made by President Harding which the people of the country will not fail to observe," asserts the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "This is the fact that none of his appointments has aroused criticism as to the ability of the men to perform the duties of the offices to which they were appointed. Each member of his cabinet has been eminently successful in his private business. In filling positions of lesser importance but often requiring scarcely less qualificatios, such as chiefs of bureaus and memberships on commissions, he has been equally successful in bringing to public service men who have demonstrated fitness by achievements in private enterprises.

"The same policy has been followed in filling such positions as District Attorney, U. S. Marshall, Register and Receiver of Land Offices, and Postmasterships. In carrying out consistently his determination to put efficiency into public service, Mr. Harding has quite naturally been slow in making some of the appointments which always follow a change of administration. Because of this delay, he has been subjected to some citicism by those who are desirous, and properly so, of seeing the management of public business taken out of the hands of Democrats and put into the hands of Republicans.

"It is safe to assert that not one in ten of the people of the country cares a rap who fills the government positions, just so the occupants of the offices give prompt, efficient and courteous service. Since service is the supreme requirement, and the individual of little relative importance, it is a cause for commendation that President Harding has taken all the time he deems necessery to conduct the shifting process which brings to the surface the men best qualified.

"Quite likely every position subject to presidental appointment could have been filled within a week after Mr. Harding was vested with the power. There were not only applicants enough, but the applicants could undoubtedly qualify so far as party loyalty and service are concerned. Immediate changes could be fully justified by the overwhelming repudiation of the Democratic administration at the polls last November. But wholesale changes in haste would unquestionably have resulted in many mistakes which would have meant public dissatisfaction and injury to the public service.

"The Republicans of the country expected, and have a right to expect that administration of public affairs will be transferred to Republicans. The Democratic administration was notoriously inefficient and wasteful and was made a ready agency for the propagation of socialistic doctrines. Democratic office-holders aided in the effort to commit this government t unAmerican principles and that effort was rebuked at the polls. It is not only proper but desirable that the whole complexion of the government be tranformed so that it will be a nation-wide influence for the strengthening of those policies which the people of the country supported by their votes.

"This end should be accomplished, however, without hasty and ill-considered action. Good service to the nation is the great desideratum, and, this accomplished, the party will be strengthened in the judgement of the people."

THE DELGADO TRADES SCHOOL

The problem of vocational training is being helped along in New Orleans, where the Delgado Central Trades School, the first distinctive unit trades school in the country has opened with a large enrollment made up chiefly of ex-soldiers, sailors, and marines, whose training expenses will be paid by the Federal Board for Vocational Education. Press accounts of the school state that "the returned soldiers will use its surplus capacity and by the time they have all been put into profitable lines of industry the school will be devoting its entire capacity to the boys of New Orleans who wish to become skilled artisans." Thus it will be seen that the school is intended as a permanent affair which will not close with the completion of the program which the Federal Board has in mind.

The chief purpose of this new school is to prepare students for skilled occupations. "In the past," says the report, "the boys who inclined to mechanical lines had no place where they could go for training. As a result, they either became unskilled laborers, or they went elsewhere to learn, and settled elsewhere." One novel and extremely useful phase of this school will be the cafeteria where steam cooking will be taught to those desiring to become chefs, and who will at the same time supply the pupils with meals at the lowest possible price. Who can estimate the amount of waste which would be avoided if we had more well-trained chefs?

Another phase which will work to preserve the balance of supply and demand in the labor market is that by which the trades that are to be taught are to be chosen on the basis of numerical strength of the various local trades as shown by government census reports. These trades include carpentry, cabinet-making, pattern-making, plumbing, painting and tailoring. The school will be supported by a state tax of about $50,000 annually, together with some federal aid, and its foundation has been made possible by the bequest of Isaac Delgado to the city when he died in 1912, by which a trades school could be built if the city provided for its operation. It will be an interesting experiment in vocational and trades education.

We are proud of the confidence doctors, druggists and the public have in 666 Chill and Fever Tonic.

DOINGS AT WASHINGTON

TO THE UNKNOWN DEAD

Washington, Oct. 25—Under a suspension of the rules Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, Chirman of the Military Affairs Committee, has had passed a resolution authorizing the bestowal of the Congressional Medal of Honor upon the unknown, unidentified Italian soldier soon to be buried in Rome with the highest military honors. Already similar resolutions have been adopted bestowing the medal of honor upon unknown French and British soldiers, and Gen. Pershing has carried out the instructions of Congress at the grave in the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, and he recently performed a similar ceremony at Westminster Abbey. The honor accorded the Italian soldier is simply an extension of the courtesy already shown to Great Britain and France.

AIRFLEET 50-50

Secretary of the Navy Denby has issued orders dividing the naval air forces equally between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Heretofore they have been concentrated on the Atlantic seaboard due to the world war, but it will be the policy of the Department in peace times to maintain practically equal forces on each coast. The battleship fleet already has been divided, the oil burners being sent to the Pacific and the coal burners being kept on the Atlantic, both classes of vessels being nearer teir sources of fuel supply. while the international situation in the Pacific is not responsible for the allocation of the air and water forces, nevertheless in case of trouble in the Orient the best ships of the Navy and a substantial part of its air forces would be immediately available for service.

WAGES vs. WORK

"The prospect is," says Secretary of Labor Davis, "that no one who needs and wants to work must go through the winter without means of livelihood. We are unmistakably on the move back to prosperity." Reports from many parts of the country bear testimony to the fact that men who really want to find work have little difficulty in doing so. While there is undoubtedly a large amount of involuntary unemployment, the totals that are presented to the public from time to time are padded with the count of thousands of individuals who have refused offers of employment because they preferred to remain idle rather than accept a wage below a minimum they had set for themselves.

National prosperity is largely dependent upon the state of mind of the workers. Industry cannot go forward while wage-earners refuse to accept employment at a compensation that makes it profitable for the owner of a plant to keep it in operation. The fact that all indications point to a stimulation of production all over the country is proof of the fact that the workers are getting away from the false advice so freely bestowed by their organization leaders, and are willing to accept a wage that the supply and demand of the labor market prescribe.

BONDS UP

One of the items in President Harding's programme for the nation was the restoration of liberty bonds to par. Of course such an accomplishment could not be attained in a day, or in a month, but as soon as the Republicans had cut down government expenses and adopted a more liberal policy in handling credits, there was an upward swing in the market value of the bonds. The less a government spends for running expenses, the better its credit.

GERMAN WOOL GOODS

A dispatch from Berlin records the fact that 38 German woolen mills are bound by an option to an American corporation for their entire output. That means that if a sufficiently high protective rate on wool products is not included in the tariff bill, the American market will be flooded with the entire product of 38 German mills. The result of such a woolen flood would be that 38 American mills would go out of business, and all their employees would be forced to seek work elsewhere. That is one concrete illustration of the need for tariff protection to American industry.

AMERICAN-MADE

Whatever may be the truth regarding British attempts to limit activity of the American merchant marine, the American people are determined that by some means or other an adequate fleet shall be kept in operation under the American flag and subject to call in case of war. Our merchant marine policy is to be made in America.

FILE THIS

In a letter to the Democratic Club of Southern California James M. Cox, defeated cadidate for the presidency writes: "We stand inflexibly as we did when the polls closed last November, for the league of nations, with the United States as a co-operative part of it." This will make an interesting reference when the campaign of 1922 opens to determine the political complexion of the next Congress.

BOOKED UP

The conference on unemployment recommended, among other things, that "private houses, hotels, offices, etc., can contribute to the situation by doing their repairs now." One difficulty with doing them now is that appeals to repair men bring the response that they have all the work they can do for several weeks ahead.

THE MISSISSIPPI SCOLD

The fact that criticism of the Republican administration is practically limited among the Democrats to a man of the caliber of Senator Pat Harrson of Mississippi is proof of the dearth of political material with which the Democratic party is equipped. Were there any substantial ground for complaint against the party in power the conservative and able members of the minority would not hesitate so to inform the country. Their silence completely sets at naught the irresponsible charges voiced by the radical Harrison.

A CORRECTION

A prominent Japanese, not afraid to express his views, suggests that the armaments conference should deny the right of the United States to send its vessels of war through the Panama Canal. The Japs should be reminded that this is not to be a conference on disarmaments, but a conference on the limitation of armaments. Unfortunately many editors in this country have thoughtlessly permitted the idea to spread that the members of the conference will actually agree to cut down their present national defenses. If that were so, the Japanese suggestion that we abandon the Cannal as a means of naval defense would have weight.

THE REFUNDING BILL

The bill giving the Secretary of the Treasury authority to arrange for the refunding of the debts owed by foreign nations to the United States ranks with the internal revenue and tariff bills in financial importance. Interest payments to the amount of $500,000,000 are annually in default and the total of the loans is being increased by that amount each year. It is certain that the coming months are going to see a thorough discussion of our financial relations abroad in connection with the condition of our own Treasury. Already, there is pending in the Senate an amendment to the tax bill reducing certain rates, and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to make up the deficit by collecting the interest due from foreign governments. There is no doubt that a record vote will be taken on the proposition, and there is likely to be some interesting debate thereon.

Secretary Mellon has asked Congress to enact the refunding bill as quickly as possible, in order that he may institute negotiations at the earliest possible moment. The whole problem is an intricate one, involving not only the relations of the United States to each of the debtor countries, but their financial status with each other. Of course debts owed by one foreign nation to another do not affect in any way the obligation of each to the United States, but they might influence the terms upon which payments to this country are to be arranged. For that reason it is desirable to start proceedings at once for a final settlement.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

"We shall look after the people because the people looked after us to the extent of about 7,000,000 majority," declared Senator James E. Watson of Indiana in reply to a political harangue delivered by the irrepressible Pat Harrison of Mississippi. "We are entirely satisfied with the attitude of the people toward the President and the Senate and the House, and we shall be content with what the future may develop. This is a government by and through the agency of political parties, and I believe in party management; I believe in party organization, and I believe in party government. When the people, by 7,000,000 majority, voted a Republican President into power and gave us 24 majority in the Senate and 150 majority in the House, it is our business to consult together, and it is our business to pass legislation in accordance with the wishes of the people and the promises which were made in the last campaign, and that is precisely what we are going to do."

Creating a Market

"I'm writing scenarios for moving picture comedies."

"Any money in it?"

"Not directly, but I'm selling custard pies on the side."—The American Legion Weekly.

LETTER FROM MR. SORRkLL

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 25, 1921.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a few words in your paper to make a reply to some rumors that have been circulated over the county recently, asserting that I am a Democrat and not in sympathy and harmony with the Republican party.

I wish to assert that I am now, and have always been a Rtpublican, and my efforts and influence have always gone out in the interest of the Republican party. I am not running for any office, nor seeking any appointment, and I do not see why there should be any question raised now as to my politics, especially in view of the fact that my loyalty to the Republican party has been constant during the many years I have lived in Chilton county and have been aligned with the Republican party.

Those who make the statement that I am not a Republican are doing so not knowing whereof they speak, and I hope they will kindly desist from their wrongful accusations.

Yours truly,
J. W. SORRELL.

MRS. TEEL DEAD

Friends and relatives of Mrs. Georgia Teel in Clanton were mourned Tuesday morning to learn of her death which occurred in a hospital at Tuscaloosa Monday following an operation. She had been sick for several days, and was brought to Tuscaloosa from her nome in Livingston for treatment. Mrs. Teel was well known in Clanton, having been reared here, and had lived here all her life up to a few years ago. She was the wife of T. B. Teel, a prominent citizen of Clanton, Who died eleven years ago.

Before her marriage to Mr. Teel, Mrs. Teel was Miss Georgia Lowe, the daughter of Willis Lowe. She is survived by brothers and sisters as follows: Homer Lowe of Birmingham, Tom and Henry Lowe of Texas, D. B. Lowe of Clanton, Mrs. Marlar of Billingsley, Mrs. Joe Marlar, Mrs. F. R. Woodyard, Mrs. Ed Bduce and Mrs. Mattie Bruce of Clanton.

The remains were brought to Clanton and buried in the Clanton Cemetery Wednesday. Hundreds of sorrowing friends and relatives attended the funeral and followed the body to its resting place.

Mrs. Teel was one of the most lovely ladies it has ever been our pleasure to know. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved children in this their sad hour of grief.

FREE TOMBSTONES FOR DEAD SOLDIERS

A great number of ex-service men having been returned for burial in Alabama, Senator Heflin took up the question of headstones for those who had not been provided with monuments or head markers. The Senator gave out a statement today regarding the possibility of the Government furnishing headstones in which he said:

"Under Governmental regulation headstones are furnished free of cost and shipped freight prepaid to the railroad station indicated, for the unmarked graves of soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the United States Army during the world war or any other war. Application must be made to the War Department by the next kin to the dead soldier, on blanks furnished through the War Department. These headstones may be obtained by writing to me and I will be glad to take the matter up with the War Department and forward to anyone desiring to secure a Governmental headstone the necessary forms and when these have been properly filled out if they are forwarded to me I will be glad to render this service to those desiring to obtain headstones for any ex-service men." J. THOMAS HEFLIN.

W. A. Johnson and B. F. Chandler were visitors to Clanton Wednesday.

ABOUT RALPH CALLOWAY

Maplesville, Ala., Oct. 28,1921.
Editor Union-Banner:

We saw in the Banner a few weeks ago that you had something to say about Mr. Ralph Calloway hustling around getting up the committee on the day of one meeting at Clanton. Yes, he loaded his car and drove us to Clanton free of charge and did not use his influence as to who should have the endorsement. Mr. Calloway is a Strong Republican, and a good worker at any thing he goes at. If you want any business done just let him know and it will be done right, and when you want it done.

Success to the Union-Banner and all its readers.

COLLINS CHAPEL

Our school is progressing nicely. Miss Schrader, the principal gave her pupils a halloween party on last Monday evening at 7:00 o'clock. A delicious salad course, cake, candies and hot chocolate were served to the following: Ivy Bean, Antoinette Gore, Irene Benson, Claudie Davis, Verna Wright, Lula Rice, Estelle Collins, Ada Roper, Winnie Roper, French Parker, Essie Mae Cox.

Messrs Delbert Collins, Willie Bean, Aldredge Parker, Roy Kendrick, Earl Collins, Askew Davis, Floyd Gore, Miles Benson, Lonnie Cox, Coy Kendrick.

After refreshments were served, many games were played with interest, then the crowd went sernading and were all dressed as "ghost." We can say we all had a wonderful time.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

Lucien Bean of Jemison was in Clanton last Friday.

Many subscribers of The Union-Banner are renewing their subscriptions in order to get the free subscription to The Southern Agriculturist which we are gowing away with each subscription to The Union-Banner. You had better hurry up and come around before they are all gone. There are only a limited number that can be given this exceptional offer.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

BIG STILL CAPTURED

The officers of Chilton County in charge of Sheriff Gore effected the capture of another big whiskey still last Friday in the woods about 3 miles northeast of Jemison. The raid netted the biggest and best arranged copper still that has ever been found in the bounds of Chilton County. About 1,500 gallons of beer was destroyed by the officers.

Arthur Glass, Milton Brown and Jess Matthews, three white men, were engaged in the operation of the still when the officers came upon them. All were arrested and brought to jail in Clanton.

The officers participating in the raid were Sheriff J. L. Gore, Deputies Grant, Curlee and Martin, and Revenue officer Gus Wall.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM AT HIGH SCHOOL

Plans are being made for the celebration of Armistice Day by the students of the High School. A brief program will be rendered, followed by addresses from out of town speakers. At the request of President Harding, at 12:00 o'clock Eastern Time (11:00 o'clock Central Time) the program will be interrupted for a two minute silent prayer followed by an audible prayer, in memory of and respect for the boys who gave their lives for our liberty in the late war.

All ex-service men are espcially invited to be present. A program of the exercises will be published next week.

MULBERRY NEWS

People are busy gathering their crops while it is pretty weather. Rain was badly needed and it came Saturday.

The box supper was a success, even if the rain did come and caused so many to not attend. They carried out the program and it was fine. They made up from the boxes $49.00. It is to help the school out in some way. Miss Nola Reynolds won the prize basket for the prettiest girl.

Our school at Isabella is going on nicely, with Prof. Griffin as principal and Miss Gussie Dennis, Miss Nola Reynolds, and Mrs. Jessie Harmon as assistants.

Mr. R. E. Manning of Atlanta, Mrs. R. E. Tucker and Miss Bertha Manning of Birmingham visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning last week.

Miss Mary Bean who is teaching at Macadonia this winter, visited Misses Reynolds and Dennis Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Valley Stewart of Weogufka visited her sisters, Mrs Julia Hays and Mrs. Viola Chasteen last week.

Mrs. Jessie Harmon is home with the mumps. Hope she can soon take up her school again.

WE WANT SOME AGENTS

There are a thousand people scattered over Chilton County who are waiting and ready to subscribe for The Union-Banner. Would you be willing to go get their subscription if we will pay you for your work in getting them? If you are, all you have to do is to come to our office and get a receipt book and begin to gather them into the fold. We would be glad to pay anybody to get the whole thousand of them. Or if you did not get the whole thousand we would pay you for any number you get. Come on now young hustling fellows in the different communities. Let's make a trade whereby you will be able to make a pocket full of Christmas money between now and the arrival of Santa Claus.

FINE POINTS IN ENGLISH

The man had just informed the Pullman agent that he wanted a Pullman berth.

"Upper or lower?" asked the agent.

"What's the difference?" asked the man.

"A difference of fifty cents in this case," replied the agent. "The lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower you'll have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. In other words, the higher the lower. Most people don't like the upper, altho it is lower on account of it being higher. When you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed and get down when you get up. You can have the lower if you pay higher. The upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. If you are willing to go higher, it will be lower."

But the poor man had fainted!—The Epworth Herald.

THRONGS SEEK LICENSES

The office of Probate Judge Reynolde was literally swamped all day last Monday by last minute seekers after state and county privilege licenses. The majority of the licenses purchesed were for Ford cars. The total receipts by the Probate office for licenses in this one day was over four thousand dollars. Last Saturday Judge Reynolds says he took in over one thousand dollars for licenses, and thought he was doing big business. But when Monday's rush came along, it almost ran all the clerks out of the court house and Judge Reynolds to boot.

NEWS OF SHOULTS

The members of the Sunday schoo at Pleasant Grove Church here rendered an interesting program last Sunday. Many good speeches were made on Temperance and enforcing prohibition, the Sunday School lesson dealing on that subject. If some one had told us fifteen years ago, that the greatest nation in the world would some day make a convailsed effort to throw off the awful curse of strong drink, would actually try to storm in its stronghold the entrenched and invincible foe of all these homes and lives, we would have put the date of that effort some thousand years ahead. Now, after a few years, it is our privilege to witness and share this greatest and yet this bloodless war of prohibition. How can any anti-prohibitionist debate this subject; what can they find to say? It is too good to have the husband and father, a member of the family again to have shoes and books and vacation trips a natural and simple part of life, to have a growing bank account in one of the new banks that are springing up every where, where the saloons used to be.

The prohibition laws are not entirely enforced yet, but as a nation united, we are going to support our constitution and the time will come when liquor will not even be discussed in our houses, there will be no indulgence toward the breaking of the law.

Mrs. J. R. McAfee who has been in Centerville for two weeks under the care of Dr. Nicholson, spent Saturday and Sunday at home, but returned to Centerville Monday. We are glad she is improving.

Mr. Horten Walker was at home last Monday and Tuesday on account of the Teachers Institute.

Mrs. J. O. Mize motored from her home to Maplesville to her sister's, Mrs. Jim McGee last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Thompson motored to Selma one day last week. While there he exchanged his Ford for a Buick.

Mr. Cleve McGee entertaind a number of his friends at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McGee last Saturday night. Mr. Grady McGee and brother, Leonard, furnished excellent music for the occasion,

Mr. Mack Oden is painting his house. This is a great improvement to the looks and last of his house.

Mr. Walker McGee, who was the leader of the singing class at this place is at Maylene, Ala., working. We regret very much to lose him from this community. The singers and Sunday school members will miss him.

MORGAN LEONARD DIED SUDDENLY

Morgan Leonard, age 47 years, died suddenly Sunday night at Mitchell Dam, a victim of heart failure. The body was brought to Clanton Monday and prepared for burial by Uundertaker Mell Martin. It was shipped to his home at Calera and buried Tuesday.

MELL MARTIN CLERK

Mr. J. Mell Martin, the undertaker, has been elected to the position of Clerk of the Town of Clanton, and will take over the duties of the office as soon as the books and accounts of the present Clerk can be audited for transfer. Mr. Ed Plier has given up the position on account of the pressing engagements he has on hand in other lines of work. Mr. Martin assumes the duties of the office of Town Clerk with the hope that he may be able to render to the people of Clanton all the service they have a right to expect from one in his capacity. He is a courteous, affable and diligent young business man, and we predict that he will be able to satisfy everybody as our Clerk.

Among other changes that have been made by the Town Council in the administration forces of the city is the placing of the city waterworks operations in the hands of Mr. Leonard Williams. He will have charge of the city pumps, installing water meters, etc. Mr. Williams is another good man who will do credit to the town in this position.

The poliece force of the city has been somewhat reorganized too. Mr. C. L. Branch has been made chief of police for the daytime, and Mr. Burton has been placed in charge of the night job. We can expect the peace of the city to be correctly observed under the direction of these men.

S. S. CONVENTION AT JEMISON

A large number of persons attended the district Sunday School Convention at Jemison, Sunday at which time dinner was served on the ground and several interesting talks were made. The district convention was held under the auspices of the Chilton county Sunday School association. The meeting was pronounced one of the largest and most interesting ever held in the district.

Every Sunday school in the district was represented at the meeting, according to Dr. E. G. Hyman of the executive committee of the association. The Baptist church at Jemison, entertained the district convention guests and members. The meeting was presided over by W. J. Northcutt, president of District No. 1. He was assisted by Miss Addie Horsley secretary.

Among the speakers were the following: Rev. P. G. Carter of Clanton, Prof. J. L. Johnson, president of the Chilton County Sunday School association; Miss Della Williams of Verbena and Miss Ethel Beane, field secretary of the Alabama Sunday School association.

EMMETT AND PEDRO.

Emmett O'Neal, the snolly-goster that the people of Alabama once made the mistake of electing Governor severely criticises thejury that cleared Rev. Stephenson for killing father Coyle.

Without going into the merit of the case, what do you think about a mental monstrosity that can tell more about the case than twelve men who sat patiently through a whole week and listened to all the evidence?

O'Neal possibly never heard a word of the testimony, yet that giant mind of his was able to take it all in and render a decision better than the twelve men who heard it all and then asked for Divine guidance in rendering their decision!

Emmett seemed worked up over the fact that they only took one ballot on the case. If O'Neals daughter had been tied up to a thing like Pedro Gussman and he did not resent it he should have been tarred and feathered by a mob of burrheads. But according to the line of bull the astute gentleman hands out, we are led believe that had he unconsciously acquired a son in law like the gentleman from Porto Rico, he would have taken him to his bosom, garlic and all.

Men of the stripe of Emmett O'Neal ought to be muzzled and not turned loose among decent people.

The Judge who tried that case ought to give him sixty days in jail for contempt, and why he don't is more than we can tell. It must be because it is ex-Governor Emmett O'Neal.—Collinsville Courier.

OUR THORSBY PAGE

This week our readers will notice the name of Mr. S. E. Norton appearing as Manager of the Thorsby page of The Union-Banner. We are pleased to have Mr. Norton take charge of the business of our paper in our thriving little sister city.

For more than a year past Thorsby has been regularly represented in our columns, the business having been managed for us there by Mr. C. R. Foss and Miss Naemi Turnquist. We feel that they have done remarkably well, and we are grateful to the people of Thorsby as a whole for the splendid patronage they have given us, both in the way of advertising and subscriptions, as well as the printing patronage from the business people up there.

Under the management of Mr. Norton we have every assurance that our interests will be taken care of thoroughly, and the community of Thorsby can be assured of adequate representation through the medium of The Union-Banner as a newspaper for Thorsby as well as for Clanton and every other section of Chilton County.

We might add that the work was given up by Mr. Foss and Miss Turnquist on account of the pressing engagement of other business upon their time. Their successor, Mr. S. E. Norton, is an experienced newspaper writer, and he will give us every week the news of all the various activities of the community and the city of Thorsby. Mr. Norton will handle any business that comes within the line of The Union-Banner such as subscriptions, advertising, also job printing, etc.

ADVENTIST TABERNACLE

Elder S. G. Haughey, the president of the Alabama conference of Seventh-day Adventists will speak in the new Tabernacle on Second Avenue Sunday night. Elder Haughey and family arrived in the city Tuesday evening from Minneapolis Minn., where Mr. Haughey was in attendance at a World Council of representative men of the Adventist work. Elder Haughey was elected to the presidency of the Alabama Conference at the recent conference and Camp-meeting held in this city.

The attendance at the Tabernacle Sunday night was very encouraging although the night was unfavorable. Those present spoke many words of appreciation of the subject presented. To many of the Clanton people the Seventh-day Adventist faith is a new doctrine but all who attended the meetings held in the tent following the camp meeting, agree that they are a consistent conscientious people holding to the fundamentals of the protestant religion.

A very cordial welcome is extended to all to attend the Tabernacle meetings. Services are held Saturday at 11 a. m. and Sunday at 7:00 p. m. o'cock, and Wednesday evenings at 7:00 p. m.

Dr. Will S. Wilson of Montevallo spent last Sunday with friends in Clanton.

Ructions Coming

A Southerner and a Northerner were discussing the remoteness of certain backwoods districts in their respective sections.

"Why," said the Northerner, "there are towns in the Berkshires that don't know to this day how the battle of Manila Bay came out."

"That's nothing," countered the Southerner, "there are hill regions down my way where they don't know the Revolution is over."

"Hm," mused the Northerner. "Then there'll surely be something doing when they get word that the Civil War is on."—The American Legion Weekly.

LEAGUE IN OBLIVION, SAYS MARSHALL

"I have seen enough to admit the league of nations has gone glimmering into oblivion," says former Vice-President Marshall. He terms the league a "schoolboy's dream of an hour" but nevertheless a "great ideal." Instead of being a schoolboy's dream of an hour it was a school professor's dream of several yearss, and, we presume, it is still being dreamed by the same professor. Of course the league was a great ideal. World peace has always been a great ideal, and always will be, but it must be approached by practical means, one of which was not the league of nations. The essence of the league force—peace was to be forced upon the world. From the moment the theory of peace by force was permitted to dominate the contrivers of the league, their plan was doomed to failure.

Mr. Harding's armaments conference will proceed on a principle the direct antithesis of that which dominated the league commission of the Paris peace conference. Representatives of nations seeking to remove the cause of wars so that armaments may be limited will group themselves about a conference table, and seek to arrive at mututal understandings regarding all international controversies. They may succeed and they may not, but at any rate, the world will have the benefit of the exchange of views, and can lose nothing. If the conference fails, its members will return to their homes, and their governments will be no worse off than they were before the meetings were called. But if, as is confidently anticipated, mutual concessions bring mutual agreements, the world will have benefit immeasurably by a lessening of bloody wars and by reductions in the burdens of maintaining huge armaments.

In the league of nations every member was compelled to surrender sovereignty to a super-state to be coerced by that super-power into compliance with the rules laid down in the league covenant. In the armaments conference all that is lacking. There is no abdication of sovereignty, and there are no threats directed at those who may violate any agreements entered into. That is the spirit of the meeting, and that is the spirit which, it is confidently believed, will insure its success.

STRIKE LEADERS REPUDIATED

One of the features of the railroad strike developments was the unreliability of so-called strike ballots. Previous to the strike order of the rail chiefs the men were said to have voted about 10 to 1 in favor of a general strike, but when the showdown came it was found that the sentiment for a strike was far from one-sided. The fact merely proved, what has been frequently stated before, that the only purpose of a strike ballot is to put the authority for calling a strike into the hands of four or five men who are at the head of the brotherhoods. When the leaders use their power arbitrarily they are quickly repudiated by their men.

U. S. GROSS DEBT

The gross debt of the United States on September 30, less the balance on hand, was about $23,166,000,000. That figure is $486,000,000 less than the debt on the same date in 1920, and $2,312,000,000 less than the peak of the war debt, reached on August 31, 1919. The figures show hat we are steadily returning to a sound financial basis, a process that is being materially hastened by the drastic economies of the present administration.

How an EXPECTANT MOTHER Prepared for Baby's Coming

DO YOU know that thousands of women never really suffer at child-birth? Perhaps you have thought with many others that this should always be the case. But how?

Let Mrs. Mattie Paul, of Ocilla, Ga., tell you. She is one of thousands who has demonstrated this fact:

"As I am a young mother of one baby, I am writing for free booklet to 'expectant mothers.' I used only two bottles of Mother's Friend before I was confined and had a quick and easy time through labor. I can recommend Mother's Friend to all expectant mothers. I will never go through pregnancy without it."

You, too, can have this booklet for expectant mothers by sending coupon below.

It goes into the features of maternity and gives, in a plain, interesting manner, information about what the mother needs in clothing before baby is born; what clothing will be necessary for the baby; an interesting table as to the probable date of delivery; simple but necessary and helpful rules of hygiene to follow, and much other worth-while information. This little booklet also tells about Mother's Friend and the wonderful good it is doing for expectant mothers.

Don't let false modesty keep you from performing this duty to yourself—your family—and your baby.

Send for your copy NOW.

How Not to Take a Cold.

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, become over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

Says People Should Use Mouth Wash

Recent investigations showed conclusively that the mouths of a large percentage of the people in this country are veritable breeding places for dangerous germs. They showed also that brushing the teeth with ordinary tooth paste or powder did not clean between the teeth and did not effectively sterilize the mouth.

The only effective precaution against these germs which cause teeth decay and infect the passage to the lungs and stomach, according to a prominent health expert, is the regular use of an anticeptic mouthwash such as Steroline.

Dentists and physicans everywhere advise the use of this famous disease preventive. They recommend brushing the teeth regularly with Steroline, gargling it frequently and spraying the nose and throat with it. The mouth is the main inlet to the body and enough care cannot be given in keeping it in a healthy condition. Take no risk. Get a bottle of Steroline from your druggist and use it regularly.—Upchurch Drug Co.

Hon F. Lloyd Tate of Wetumpka was here this week attending Circuit Court, Mr. Tate was for many years solicitor of this Court, and has many friends here who were glad to see him this week.

Carter Urges Christian People of Clanton to Stand Firm in Faith

It was a very pleasant sight last Sunday morning to enter the Baptist Church of Clanton and witness a church full of people met together for the sole purpose of worshiping God. In the audience were Baptists of course, but there were also present large numbers of the Methodists and some Presbyterians besides other visitors who do not regularly attend anyone of the churches. The choir was well filled with representatives of all the denominations, the music was spirited and enjoyable, the spirit of fellowship was strongly felt, and the sermon judging by the numerous statements afterwards made measured up the occassion.

Looking back over the past history of the church it was a pleasant contrast with the condition of things as they existed about two years ago. Frequently on entering the building a cold chill would pass over you as a big array of empty benches greeted you, when only a small handful of people would be present, and a cold icy atmosphere was evident. Only the faithful few ever felt like going back again to that place, and they, out of a sense of duty and loyalty of their cause, rather than the desire and affection for it. As in everything else there is a reason for all this. Then the various churches were antagonistic to each other. It was as if they said to each other "You shant play in my yard." The results was that even though it might be the only service in town the church would be half empty and the poor preacher left to do the best he could with the inspiration he received from the great array of empty benches that met his gaze. It was enough to make the angel Gabriel shed tears. But all this has changed. A live pastor has since come upon the field who while every inch a Baptist in keeping the doctrines and traditions of the church he serves, is at the same time a friend to all christain bretheren and sisters who love their Lord in sincerity and truth regardless of denomination or creed. His doors are thrown wide open to all comers, to whom he extends a cordial welcome. He is ever ready with a willing hand and energetic spirit to cooperate with every church and every institution that stands for the uplift and the betterment of the community. As a proof of his good faith and sincerity in the matter he took the initial steps and engineered from start to finish a great Union Evangelistic Meeting which was the greatest religious awakening, and the strongest religious effort in the history of Clanton. The result is not hard to guess. Through the splendid christain spirit with which all churches and christains entered in to the meeting, denominational enmity was broken down, and a good spirit is among the churches. Under these circumstances it was no small wonder when, owing to the absence of the Methodist Pastor from the city his flock and many others besides, helped to fill up the Baptist church last Sunday morning. We venture the suggestion that if more of his own flock had been present, though there was a good representation, the building would have been overflowing. In addition to this there is perhaps another reason why fine congregations so frequently attend the Baptist Church, and that is because of the good sermons they frequently hear. Notwithstanding the numerous activities of the pastor the Rev. P. G. Carter usually prepares his sermons well, and endeavours to give his waiting audiences something to think about, and to encourage and inspire them to higher and nobler living and lofty thinking. His sermons are evidently the product of many hours of study and faithful, thoughtful and prayerful efforts permeated with an intense earnestness as they are gracefully yet forcibly delivered to his hearers. We therefore take pleasure in giving a synopsis of the sermon so much appreciated last Sunday morning.

TEXT—was selected from Luke 9:62 "And Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back is fit for the kingdom."

By way of introduction a vivid picaure was drawn of the demands of Christ upon those who would be His disciples. Walking along the shore of Galilee He found certain fishermen mending their nets, and said to them "Follow me." On another occassion Mathew was found sitting at receipt of custom, a rich tax gatherer there, to whom Christ said, "Follow me" and he left his all and followed him. To another the same command was given who first desired permission to go and bury his father, but to whom Christ replied "Let the dead bury their dead, but go ye and preach the Kingdom of God." "This" said the preacher, "was not said out of disrespect for the dead, but only to emphasise the more important fact that the living was more important than the dead, and since Christ is life, it was neccessary for him to go and preach the gospel that they might have life and have it more abundantly. For these sacrifices he held out no glittering crowns, or great rewards, but rather pictured to them a life of trial, persecution and sometimes death. In his demands Christ sought to produce absolute devotion not so much to a cause as to a person even the divine Son of God. It was not the outward action but the inward disposition that he earnestly desired, and a resolute concentration on the service rendered to him. This can only be obtained by Christ because of his surrender to us of himself. He demands and has the right to demand the full man in us." Therefore, service in the Kingdom is no mere play thing.

"Plowing is hard work, so is it in kingdom of God and of Christ. The temptations that confront us, the criticisms we contend with, the habits we fight, the influence we weild the human tendencies we have to overcome, and the influences of others in one shape and another makes the Christian life no easy matter except only in the strength and power of Jesus Christ. Just as Christian living is no mere plaything neither is Christian service. Elijah found this out when Jazebel threatened his life. Paul experienced this, beaten with forty stripes save one, thrice shipwrecked, cast into prison oft and according to tradition finally executed. Peter found this out when often in prison, and Stephen when stoned to death. Yet the fact that christain service is hard makes it worth that much more to render and to accomplish. Many turn back from Sunday School teaching, Young Peoples work and other Christain activities because the work is hard. Such are quitters and not fit for the kingdom. Rather should we stand by it, for the harder the task, the more glourious the crown.

Religious Vows.

"During the recent revivals many made vows to God that they would give up their dancing and card playing and other forms of worldiness. All honor to those who made these vows. When you made those vows you put your hand to the plow, but if you look back you become a quitter and Christ has no desire for such in his kinpdom. It takes courage, but play the man. Be a christain out and out and not a humbug.

Our Financial Vows.

"Many of us have assumed certain financial vows in the kingdom such as the 75 million sampaign. When we made those vows we put our hands to the plough. Some are not meeting their vows, and have said they never intend to. So having put their hand to the plough and looking back, are not fit for the kingdom. The backslider is included in this category, who having once eaten of the bounties of his father's house turns back into life of sin. While they are in that state they are unfit for the kingdom.

How to Accomplish This

"By looking forward and not backward. You cannot plow looking backward. You cannot live the christain life looking backward. Many love to live in the past, and are intimidated by the deeds of the past. Better is it to think in the terms of the present and the possibilities of the future. 'Forgetting the things that are behind and reaching forth to the things that are before, I press toward the mark of the high calling of God which is in Christ Jesus.' 'Looking unto Jesus the autor and finisher of our faith.' Christ's example at the cross should stimulate us. Having put his hand to the plough he looked not back. Peter said "Far be it from thee Lord." Pilate said he had the power to release him and in the garden of Gethsemane he cried "Father if it be possible let this cup pass from me," then as if reflecting the awful consequences should he turn back he cried "Nevestheless, not my will but thine be done." If then the Son of God drank the cup to the bitterest dregs how much more willing should we be to persevere to the end. Before the genuine christain people of Clanton there is a great task. (1) To be true to your profession. (2) To be true to your church. (3) To win the people to Christ. (4) To keep your vows. (5) To enlarge and magnify your church. (6) To live and die for Christ. Look not back. Lot's wife was turned into a pillar of salt for looking back. Such said Christ are not fit for the kingdom. Rather look ahead, plow the harder, and by and by win the crown. If you are a christain, line up with the church and do your duty. If not get right with God and go to work in His vineyard."

With this kind of preaching, kind of leadership, and the hearty co-operation of the people we are sure there is a great future before the christain people of Clanton. The regular services were announced for next Sunday. Sunday School at 10 a. m., Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:00 p. m., to which everyone was cordially invited, and we are sure they will spend an enjoyable and profitable time.

FEEBLE BLOOD WORKS HAVOC

GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN MAKES RED BLOOD; LIQUID AND TABLET FORM

When blood becomes thin and weak it is due to a falling off in the number of red blood cells. It is easily recognized by pallid skin or a blemished complexion, loss of appetite or unnatural irritability and a sensation of weakness. It is not dangerous at first. In fact, many people scarcely notice it and go on for days, thinking they will be better the next day.

The great danger is in the possibility of becoming seriously ill from disease, which can work havoc in a body that lacks the endurance and resistance in rich, red blood.

Taken in time and steadily, a few bottles of Gude's Pepto-Mangan are a great help. It improves the quality of the blood by adding red blood cells. They check the weakness, improve the appetite, and clear the complexion.

You can get Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form at your druggist's. Get the genuine with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Anna Junkerman has sold her home, adjoining Thorsby Institute Campus, to Mr. C. W. Karlson, of Chicago, who has arrived with his family and taken possession. Mrs. Junkerman and her son, Howard, have moved to their new bungalow just east of the hotel building.

Mr. L. C. Robinson has sold twenty acres of land to his brother R. V. Robinson, of Birmingham, and is building on it a neat bungalow to cost about $1000. It is expected that the family will take posession when completed, although Mr. Robinson is employed on the new dam at Duncan's Riffle.

Mr. John L. Winslow has sold his house and part of his farm to Mr. W. T. Hughes of Coke, Ala., who is expected to take posession in the near future. Mr. Winslow and family left Thorsby last week for Carthage, Indiana, where Mr. Winslow has recently acquired posession of the old family homestead. Mr. Winslow has been a resident of Thorsby for upwards to ten years and has proved to be the type of man that the community can ill afford to lose.

Mr. Davis Cleckley is building a substantial sir room bungalow on the corner of Summit Avenue and the newly surveyed highway east of the railroad, which he intends to occupp when completed.

The Congregational church is closed for repairs and decoration of the interior, which will make a much more attractive and comfortable audience room. In the meantime all meetings of the church are being held at Bates Hall.

M. J. O. Littleton has rented his cottage to Mr. D. L. Ward, of Birmingham, who has moved in with his family.

A mass meeting was held at the Baptist church Tuesday night on a call issued by C. R. Foss, W. J. Billingsley and J. W. Littleton, to consider securing a new site and building for Thorsby Public School. The attendance was large, Prof. J. L. Harris, Principal of our public school, presided and after considerable discussion a committee on arrangements and securing funds was provided for by the appointment of C. E. Lucas, C. S. Peterson, Wm. J. Billingsley and T. W. Robinson, with the understanding that one more member from each the Council, The Chamber of Commerce and the Parent Teachers Association shall be added to the committeee.

Mr. ad Mrs. J. H. Goddard entertained at a dinner, on Sunday, for the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Goddard. The guests besides the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Marlar of Clanton, Miss Etta Foshee of Liberty Hill, and Miss Oline Mims of Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCain have a 10 pound daughter, born last Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Davenport are rejoicing over the arrival of a young son, whom they have named Edwin Sterling Davenport.

Mrs. G. F. Harper reports a large and growing attendance at the Baptist Sunday School, and an increasing interest in the B. Y. P. U.

THORSBY INSTITUTE

The Thorsby Institute closed its first term of six weeks with 100 students in attendance. This is a greater number than were actually present at once during any previous term of the school. Examinations manifested the good work being done by many of the students. Five passed with an average above 90, they were Pearl Carlson, Mary Ella Gerald, Lois Hughes, Esther Johnson and Bernice Williams. While the following averaged above 85: Allie Bagwell, Dora Bracklin, Louise Brown, Myrtle Arthur, Margaret Butler, Tressie Barrett, Palma Dahl, Plato Deason, Gladys Flummer, Iola Gerald, Charles Glasscock, Birdie Hall, Mable Howard, Annie Hughes, Myrtle Jones, Earl Leary, Frances Lowery, Jessie Mims, Olene Mims, Nels Nelson, Thirwell Nolen, Russell Peterson, Lois Prim, Lorena Prim, Jennie Robinson, Ruth Sharpe, Glover Smith, and Mae Ward (32,) several of these missed the First Honor Roll only by a fraction of a unit. The work of Martha Martin in the Commercial department was also considered worthy of honorable mention.

Forty-eight members of the student body were neither tardy nor absent during the term of six weeks.

A SURPRISE WEDDING

A wedding which occurred last week unannounced and too late for the current issue of The Union-Ban ner will be of interest to many of our readers.

On last Wednesday at four o'clock at the home of the bride, Mr. Samuel J. Goddard aged 67, and Mrs. Georgiana Wood aged 62, were married by Rev. James W. Davenport, pastor of Thorsby Congregational church, in the presence of a number of friends, including faculty and student body of Thorsby Institute. Those partaking of the wedding supper were, besides the bride and groom Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Davenport, with their two sons, William and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard and daughter, Ella and son, Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, Miss Etta Foshee and Miss Oline Mims.

Mrs. M. Peterson Hostess at Birthday Party.

Mrs. Martin Peterson delightfully entertained a number of her friends at a birthday party on Friday, Oct. 28th.

Those included on the invitation list were as follows: Mrs. Bill Hays, Mrs. Carl Thompson, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs Anna Villadsen, Mrs. Sorensen, Mrs. C. Peterson and little son, Jack, Mrs. Ed Conway and infant daughter, Frances.

Delicious refreshments and a social afternoon was enjoyed by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Marlar of Clanton spent Sunday with their old friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Miss Neami Turnquist returned from Birmingham Sunday night, where she spent the week as the guest of Mrs. James E. Biggs. While in the city she witnessed the County Queens Floral parade and she says that of all the queens no one made a better appearance than Miss Roberta Curry as "Miss Chilton" and we ought to feel proud of our representative in the big event.

The many friends of Edward Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Howard, will be interested to learn of some of his doings and whereabouts. He is an Electrician on the United States Ship Prometheus, though at a writing of October 16th was in Philadelphia Navy Yard. Their job was to strip the old Battleships Maine and Missouria of furniture and machinery, said he had a couple of sovenirs from these two old ships. A short time ago he was called up for examination for a second class Electrician and passed with high hnors, making a grade of 3-1-10 on a scale of 4, this means a raise of $12 a month. But what he considers his biggest day since he has been in the navy was when he was taken off "The Dynamo Room Watches," and made "A Shop Man." He takes care of the shop and works on motors that come in for repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Howard had as their guests last week Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey of Saugatuck, Michigan, who were on their way to their winter home in Wauchula, Fla., making the trip in a Ford. They chose this route so as to visit Mr. and Mrs. Howard who were neighbors in Chicago about fifteen years ago. Mr. Kinsey is 83 years of age and his wife not many years younger.

Mrs. E. W. Butler and Miss Anna Hughes attended the Christian Endeavor Convention in Montgomery Saturday and Sunday.

The Monthly Social of the Congregational Ladies' Aid Society will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Johnson at 2:30 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 3rd. All ladies of Thorsby cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Peterson went to Cullman Monday for a visit with friends there.

Rev. J. M. Graham made a business trip to Hackelburg early this week.

Don't think just because J. Mell Martin is an Undertaker that he caters only to dead propositions. He is a live wire and a hustling fellow. Only a few months ago he came to our city and since that time he has firmly established himself in our business and commercial activities. Now he has been elected Clerk of our Town, and we say that a better man for that job could not have been found. SPECIAL OFFER TO NEW OR OLD SUBSCRIBERS

For a limited time we will give a year's subscription to the Southern Agriculturist without charge to any subscriber, new or old, who asks for it when paying a year's subscription to The Union-Banner. The popularity of the Southern Agriculturist is shown by its circulation, which now exceeds 375,000.

In His Own Time.

An old Scotchman, David Gordon, was seriously ill, with scant hope for recovery. He had been wheeled into making a will by relatives, and these were now gathered about his bedside watching him laboriously sign it. He got as far as D-A-V-I—then fell back exhausted.

"D, Uncle David,D," exhorted a nephew. "Dee!" ejaculated the old Scot feebly, but with indignation. "I'll dee when I'm ready, ye avaricious wretch!"—The American Legion Weekly.

QUARRELED SINCE HIS WEDDING DAY

"My stomach and liver trouble made a regular grouch of me. I was sore at everyone, including my wife, and we quarreled every day since the wedding. She is a dear little girl and I know it was my fault. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy was recommended for my stomach trouble, and since taking it I have felt like a new man. My wife and I now get along beautifully." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflamation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Alred Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

The Only Resource

The class in chemistry was wrestling with a tough problem.

"Suppose," supp sed the professor, "you were called upon to attend a patient who had swallowed a heavy dose oxalic acid—what would you administer?"

There was silence for a few moments and then a voice spoke up:

"The scarament."—The American Legion Weekly.

THE DIXIE DUO HERE

"SOUTHLAND'S SUNSHINE GIRLS HIGH SCHOOL, FRIDAY, NOV. 18

If you love the songs of the Southland; if you like to hear the old stories of Dixie land; if you care for clever impersonations, and vocal and instrumental numbers as offered by two dainty Southern misses, better be on hand on "Dixie Dou Night." At the High School Auditorium, Friday, Nov. 18th, at 7:30 p. m.

The Dixie Duo has become one of America's most popular entertainment companies during the last two seasons. Wherever they have been they have met with universal success and the demands for their time are more than they can fill.

Their program is one of infinite charm. It consists of songs and stories of the old Southland given by real southern girls charmingly costumed. The negro stories and songs are featured; also some of the best classical music of Ante-Bellum days.

Anne Barr is a gifted musician who has won herself an enviable reputation as soloist and accompanist. Her voice is of an agreeable timbre, sweet and sympathetic. Miss Devereaux Jarrett is an exceptionally good story teller. While specializing in negro dialect she uses many stories from other sources. With Miss Barr she will be heard in vocal duets.

FINE POTATOES AND CANE

We are seeing some mighty fine samples of potatoes and sugar cane this fall, in spite of the dry weather conditions. The largest potato we have seen was brought in by Tommie Easterling of Walnut Creek. It weighed six and a half pounds. Guy Deshazo of Mulberry made a nice bid for the prize on sugar can with five stalks each measuring seven feet in length. But the longest stalk of cane we have seen was nine feet, brought in last Saturday by Mr. Brewer Glenn of Route 6.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for the many acts of kindness shown us during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Georgia Teel.—Joseph W. Teel, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. B. Teel, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Oliver

UNCLE DOCK'S BOX SUPPER

The box supper for Uncle Dock Wells at Jackson's Chapel next Saturday night promises to be a very fruitful occasion. There will no doubt be hundreds of his friends present to help enjoy the occasion as well as to contribute to the proceeds.

But those who will be present Saturday night are not the only ones who are interested in dropping a little lump of cheer into the hat for Uncle Dock. The following letter shows how some of his friends are feeling about it:

To the Treasurer of Jackson's Chapel: Referring to the enclosed clipping in regard to box supper, I beg to enclose herewith $1.00 which please include in the proceeds derived for Uncle Dock. I sincerely wish your box supper tremendous success. E. G. Cladwell, Pletcher, Ala.

We hope the occasion next Saturday night will be the most pleasant one in the life of Uncle Dock, and that the proceeds will be enough to help him materially.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERGE BANQUET

The Chamber of Commerce will hold its next banquet on Friday night when the ladies of the Eastern Star will serve an Oyster Supper with other good things to eat. It is anticipated that a good speaker from Selma will be present to address the body, and we are hoping that the vice-president of the Alabama Power Company will also attend and become interested in a suitable industry for our community. For this reason, a large attendance of the members is respectfully requested. The banquet will begin about 7:30 p.m. and will be held at the Masonic Home. All members of the Chamber are welcome free of charge, and any other men wishing to attend can do so by purchasing tickets for the same at $1, which entitles them to the banquet and other functions of the evening.

P. G. CARTER, Secretary.

NO DOG TAX

Once again Alabama has no dog tax law, and "Old Trailer" and the various other members of our canine population may go free wherever they choose, unhampered by a tax tag swung around the neck.

A bill was passed in the recent session of the Alabama legislature, abolishing the dog tax law that has been partialy enforced for the past few years. Governor Kilby affixed his signature to the bill which act officially destroyed the dog tax law.

REFUGE BEAT 4

Dear Editor:

Please give me space in you paper to say a few words in regard to our community.

Health is very good at present.

We are sorry to say that the death angel visited the home of Mr. Andrew Mims and family and called his dear wife home to rest. She leaves a husband and three children and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

She was 28 years old and belonged to the Baptist church of Refuge where she made her callig sure with Gad about two years ago.

The little son of Mr. T. W. Miner is sick with pneumonia but is improving nicely now.

Hoping to see all out again pretty soon.

Mr. E. L. Manning of Mt. Creek was a visitor to Clanton last Thursday.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

TRADES DAY NEXT SATURDAY

The attention of everyone is called to TRADES DAY to be observed next Saturday under the auspices of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce, which is providing the free advertising for its members as a part of their membership priviledges to the Chamber. Every merchant who so desires can enter into this occassion, and we suggest that everyone who is looking for bargains will trade with these merchants on Saturday, November 12th. Note the SPECIAL PRICES AND PREMIUMS and do your trading then.

DO NOT MISS THIS FINE OPPORTUNITY and support especially the merchants who are co-operating in the building up of Clanton and community.

ODIS PRICE ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

A jury in the Circuit Court of Chilton County last Friday declared that Odis Price is not guilty of the charge of murder in the second degree, for the alleged shooting to death of Sam Dawson a few months ago. Price was indicted by the last grand jury of this County.

CAMPBELL PLEADS GUILTY

Andrew Campbell plead guilty in the Circuit Court of Chilton County last Thursday to a charge of attempt to make liquor. The court assessed a fine of $50.

The Jones Hardware Company has gotten in a carload of furniture this week. This is the first car of furniture that has been shipped to Clanton in something over two years.

BOX SUPPER—WHERE?

We are in receipt of the following item in regard to a box supper. It does not state where it is to be:

"The Parent-Teacher's Association met Friday evening, Nov. 4, and planned for a box supper, which will take place in the school building, Nov. 18, 1921, at 7:30 o'clock. Everybody is invited. Girls bring boxes and boys bringing the money."

Appended to the a bove notice is the following item of local news: "Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Block of Birmingham, were the guests of Mrs. G. L. Dawson Sunday."

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

THE OLDEST BANK In Chilton County

CAPITAL AND SURPLUS OVER SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS

STEPPING ON IT

The old-fashioned fellow occasionally passed away by blowing out the gas. These days some of the young fellows accomplish the same result by stepping on it. Most people "auto" get that.

We have no desire to knock the automobile business, yet once in a while we see some fellow riding around in a car "stepping on the gasoline" who would have been better off if he had kept his funds on deposit at the bank, awaiting some profitable investment. It reminds us of the old fellow who sold his cook-stove in order to take his family to the circus.

SHOULTS

The teachers, Miss Little and Miss Thomas, and the pupils of the Literary school here gave a box supper, which was a great success. The boxes were sold, and brought $31.00, which will go for the improvement of the school.

A good attendance at Sunday School last Sunday. The people of this community are very proud of the interest that is shown for the up building of this community. The people will meet next Sunday afternoon and organize a B. Y. P. U. Everybody invited to be present at 2:30 o'clock and help to organize and start a B. Y. P. U. meeting. It is greatly needed here.

Mr. J. C. Veasy of Macedonia, who has been painting and repairing Mr. Mack Owden's house, was a visitor to our Sunday school and prayer meeting Sunday.

Mr. Clanton Garrett led prayer meeting Sunday, and made a very interesting talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Lum Williams of Mulberry visited Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Shoults last Sunday.

The teachers of Lawley school, Miss Ethel Collins, Miss Ophelia Lawley, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell of Lawley, attended the box supper here Saturday night. Several from Maplesville and Stanton attended the box supper.

Mr. Emmet Lawrence sometime ago moved to Lawley. We regret to have him leave here. Hope some one will put up again soon.

Mrs. J. R. McAfee returned home from Centerville last Thursday. The many friends of Mrs. McAfee will regret to learn that she isn't much better.

Everybody remember preaching next Saturday and Sunday here.

Mrs. A. E. Ellis visited her mother Mrs. Geo. Hamrick at Stanton last week.

A special session of the Chilton County Singing Convention is called to meet at the Court House, at Clanton, on the third Sunday in November, (20th.)

COMING IN HEELED

The British government has placed contracts for three new battle cruisers. The other day the keel of a super-submarine of mysterious design was laid. Thus does Great Britian prepare herself for the armaments conference.

A SPENDTHDIFT DEBTOR

The French army budget for next year calls for 40,000 airplanes. They would be organized into 286 regiments, each regiment having 12 squadrons. The cost of the equipment and personnel is not disclosed, but it is safe to say it would make something of an impression on the 3 3-4 billion debt owed by France to this country if it were used for that purpose.

NO REDRESS

The Supreme Court has ruled in substance that railroads are not liable for damage caused while operated by the Railroad Administration. It is a sound ruling, of course, but unfortunately the poor public has no redress in court or anywhere else for the 26 months of McAdoodling.

SMOOT PLAN COMING

In support of the Smoot plan of taxation, Senator Edge, of New Jersey, said recently: "I am convinced that the policy of the sales tax is more logical than any other form of taxation. It is a tax on expenditures and not upon production or thrift. In the final analysis it would be a more acceptable tax because it is voluntary. No one has to pay it unless they want to by purchasing. The excise taxes on tobacco and liquor were comparatively never so objectionable, because they were voluntary taxes paid only by voluntary purchasers. A general sales tax will treat everybody alike." The Smoot plan is growing mightily in favor and the day does not seem far away when it will be adopted in its essential particulars.

STILL UNSOLVED

After several months of controversy between the railroad managers and the railroad unions, and several weeks of distraction of the public mind over the threat of a strike, the transportation problem seems to be practically where it was when the controversy began. Some considerable cuts have been made in freight rates, but shippers contend that the transportation charges are still so high as to hamper trade. The railroads, although making a somewhat greater net income, are still far from making the average net income which the transportation law contemplates, and are able to show a net income only by postponing needed maintenance of way and maintenace of aquipment. The labor cost of operating the railroads is still excessive as compared with the total cost of operating if pre-war standards be used as a basis of comparison.

Not only is this financial and economic problem still unsolved but the country is still confronted by the danger of attempted settlement of wage controversy by report to the destructive force of a strike. To all appearances we have merely postponed final settlement of a number of important questions which must be settled before the country can get back to normal.

Judge S. M. Adams of Thorsby was in Clanton Wednesday. He reported that the committee of ministers acting for the Chilton County Baptist Associaion, composed of Rev. W. S. Cox, Rev. Buford Lawrence and Rev. Castleberry, together with himself, went up to Macedonia church last Saturday and reorganized that church in the Baptist faith and principles. Judge Adams read the Abstract of Faith of the Weogufka Baptist Association and made comment upon it. The declarations were unanimously endorsed and adopted by the church congregation.

25 YEARS AGO

As Printed in "The Banner" of NOV. 6, 1896.

On Monday last a large number of citizens from all parts of the County came into town to attend the sale of the old court house building. Soon after one o'clock Judge Honeycutt mounted the rostrum and explained the conditions of the sale. Then ex-Sheriff Moore acting as auctioneer, asked for bids. For the convenience of buyers the building was sold in two lots, the first lot being the main building and the second the back part containing the grand jury room, etc. The first bid for the main building was $50 and from that point it advanced up to $115, at which price it was sold to Dr. J. S. Johnson, Jr. Bidding on the grand jury room part commenced with an offer of $25 and jumped to $50 and up to $90, and again Dr. Johnson was the purchaser. The buildings are to be removed and everything cleared away. We understand Dr. Johnson will remove the old court house to the lot opposite his residence at the rear of Sampey's Store, and the grand jury room will be removed to the lot next to the Baptist church.

WHAT THIRTY BILLIONS WILL DO.

Washington, Nov. 8.—"If limitation of armaments can check war or reduce the danger of war, or reduce the expenses of military preparedness, it will be well worth while, even if it does not accomplish all that might be hoped for it," declares the Republican Publicity Assiciation, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "Aside rrom their own national honor and safety, there is scarcely anything the people of this nation want more than they want relief from tax burdens and the destructiveness of war.

"Counting the cost in money only, the European war cost the United States more than $30,000,000,000,000—a hundred times as much as the cost of building the Panama Canal, considered in its time one of the greatest undertakings the United States might assume.

"What would that thirty billion dollars do?

"Thirty billion dollars would buy all the railroads of the United States, free from debt, and leave ten billion dollars for betterments.

"Thirty billion dollars would build 600,000 miles of the best highway, at a cost of $50,000 per mile—highway enough to lay fifty national highways across the country East and West, and fifty similar highways across the country North and South.

"Thirty billion dollars would build and equip a college in each of the states and in Hawaii and the Philippines at a cost of $200,000,000 each and leave twenty billions with which to erect and equip one hundred thousand high schools at $200,000 each.

"Thirty billion dollars would accomplish anything that could be devised by the most ardent advocate of public improvements, so far as money could attain the end.

"When the American people contemplate what might be done with the amount of money we have just spent on war, they will stop at nothing short of yielding of national honor and safety in the effort to secure the assurance of permanent peace.

"The League of Nations was proposed as an assurance of peace, but, believing that it was a supreme sacrifice of national independence on the one hand, and a source of war on the other, the voters of America rejected it by an overwhelming vote at the polls. They turned over to the opponents of the League of Nations the power to speak for this nation in an effort to uromote world peace and world disarmament, and with that power goes a measure of responsibility. The United States and its spokesmen cannot alone secure world peace or limitation of armament. Neither can this nation be held responsible for failure of the present conference, unless the course pursued by our representatives shall be such as to prevent agreement without just cause.

"Counting the cost of war, in suffering and loss of life as well as in money, and feeling the burden of taxation incident to military preparedness, the American people are willing that their representatives shall go to the utmost extent consistent with honor and safety in the effort to make the conference a complete success."

ARMISTICE DAY DECLARED HOLIDAY IN ALABAMA

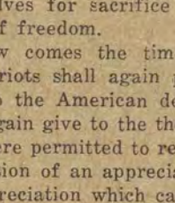
PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY GOVERNOR KILBY TO CITIZENS OF ALABAMA.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 5.—"In heartfelt remembrance of those who gave their lives and in grateful recognition of those who defended America and all democratic nations of the world." Gov. Kilby, in a statement issued Saturday, has declared Nov. 11, 1921, a general holiday in Alabama. In the same statement the chief executive calls upon all citizens of Alabama to participate in the fourth celebration of the signing of the armistice.

The full text of the governor's statement, which is a tribute to the glorious dead of the state and the nation in the World War and an appreciation of the trials, sacrifices and hardships endured by those who yet live, and the patriotism by which they were inspired, follows:

"As Nov. 11 approaches there comes into the minds of all loyal Americans an indelible impression of the same date three years ago when the enemy of a great majority of the nations of the world hoisted the white flag of surrender, placed his arms and ammunition at the feet of his conqueror and admitted for the first time after four years of battle that might must bow to right.

"No true American can ever forget the events of the world conflict, the days when American men were battling against heavy odds in a land far away from native soil, the days when Americans gave their lives in defense of loved ones at home and in defense of the principles upon which their country and their all had been builded for the future, the days when every report from the battle front, be it truth or rumor, brought sadness to many homes, brought joy to others and brought a feeling of gratitude to a kind Providence for His protection of a great mayority of American soldiers and sailors.



"No true American can recall the thrill which came with the reports from the battle of St. Mihiel without saying again a word of thanksgiving. No American can recall the exploits of other Americans in the Argonne and at countless battle fronts without paying tribute to those who presented themselves for sacrifice on the altar of freedom.

"Now comes the time when all patriots shall again pay tribute to the American dead and shall again give to the thousands who were permitted to return an expression of an appreciation,—an appreciation which cannot be said in word. and which must come from the annual demonstration in celebration of the end of the war.

"In heartfelt remembrance of those who gave their lives and in greatful recognition of those who defended America and all democratic nations of the world, I, as Governor of Alabama, call upon all citizens of Alabama to participate in the fourth celebration of the signing of the armistice, and, as provided by the law of Alabama, do declare Nov. 11, 1921, a general holiday in Alabama."

CORN TO BE BURNED FOR FUEL IN WEST IF PRICE OF COAL DOESN'T COME DOWN

Washington, Nov. 5.—Large quantities of corn will be used for fuel on the farms and in small towns this Winter unless the price of corn goes up and coal comes down, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace predicted on Saturday.

Ear corn at 20 cents a bushel is equal in fuel value to a fair grade of Western soft coal which now sells at $10 a ton, Wallace said. He pointed out also that the farmer, by burning his own corn, would save the cost of hauling the corn to market and bringing coal back. The dryer corn is, the higher its fuel value, he said.

Wallace's statement was issued after careful investigation and experiment by Department of Agriculture experts.

"In districts where corn is very cheap now, the coal is usually of a rather poor grade and is selling at high prices," Secretary Wallace said: "Under such conditions it will pay both farmers and people in the country towns to use corn instead of coal.

"In times past, when corn was very cheap, it has burned as fuel in the United States, but mostly on farms. In Argentina both corn and small grain are sometimes burned as fuel, not alone on the farms, but in power plants. Undoubtedly large quantities of corn will be burned on Western farms this Winter unless the price should materially advance. The farmers will find corn cheaper fuel than coal, and, in addition, will save the cost of hauling the corn to town and hauling the coal back. People in the country towns in the sections of cheap corn probably will find it will pay them to buy corn for their furnaces and heating stoves unless coal should decrease considerably in price or corn should advance."

Wallace quoted a sale of relative values, placing 10-cent corn on a par with $5 coal. Corn at 32 cents, he said, equals coal at $16 a ton.

To Gain Weight Quick—

TAKE YEAST THE BEST WAY WITH IRON—IN DAINTY TABLET FORM, AS IN "IRONIZED YEAST."

Thousands now realize that there is only one thoroughly efficient way to take yeast for health—in concentrated tablet form combined with organic iron—as found in Ironized Yeast. Many find that when yeast is taken this way, results are often oftained in half the usual time! This is because Ironized Yeast is rich in two substances which are absolutely essential to health—vitamines and iron. By increasing the nourishing power of your food, and by feeding your blood with the iron needed to make it rich, red and powerful, Ironized Yeast helps you to put on solid flesh where it is needed, to increase your strength and energy, to build up your shattered nerves, and to clear your skin of humiliating pimples, blackheads, etc. Try it for a few days and watch the results.

Ironized Yeast is pleasant to take, will not upset the stomach, and is more economical than common yeast. Each package contains 60 individually wrapped tablets (10 to 15 days' treatment) and costs only $1.00. Special directions for children. Sold at all druggists. Don't accept substitutes. Totally Indifferent

The rush hour crowd was gathered waiting for cars. A middle-aged, red-faced woman dug her elbows into convenient ribs, regardless of owners.

"Say," she bellowed at a stout gentleman, after a particularly vicious jab. "Does it make any difference which of these cars I take to get to Greenwood Cemetery?"

"Not to me, ma'am," he replied, slipping through an opening in the crowd.

TAXES TO BE ISSUE IN 1922 CAMPAIGN

DEMOCRATIC PARTY LEADERS ARE LAYING PLANS FOR FIGHT NEXT YEAR.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Democratic party leaders plan to begin the 1922 congressional campaign the minute the new Republican tax law goes into effect.

With Cordell Hull, a tax expert, at the party's helm, the Democrats intend to make taxes the chief issue.

Unless the disarmament conference interposes some greater question, politicans of both parites agree that taxes cannot help being the central battle ground.

Hull, who has just taken the party wheel as chairman of the National Committee, is preparing to study the G. O. P. taxation program. The Democratic publicity committee, meanwhile will attempt to prepare the public mind for the taxation fight by sending out shortly references to Hull's high standing when he was in Congress as a member of House ways and means committee on tax questions. This preliminary publicity will be by way of emphasizing the fact that Hull knows what he is talking about when he discusses taxation and that he discusses it as an economic rather than a political question.

Hull said that before long he will have an announcement to make regarding his plans and purposes.

In the Senate, where the tax bill is being wrestled with to its final disposition, the Democrats are more closely united in opposition than they have been on any question in years. With one accord they have denounced the bill on the ground that it lifts the burden from wealth and puts it upon the wage earners.

Senator Underwood, Democratic leader in the Senate, sounded his party's campaign keynote on the measure. He said:

"I think it is about as bad a bill as ever was presented to the American Congress. I think the difficulties which rest with the Republicans, not only in this bill, but in the tariff bill which now slumbers in the finance committee, are that they do not want to be candid with the American people. On the surface, they want to say that they are reducing taxation, but behind closed doors they want to increase the taxation."

Slight Favor Requested

An Eastern college graduate applied for work in a Michigan lumber camp and was assigned to one end of a cross saw, the other end being in charge of an old and experienced lumberman. At the end of an hour the veteran stopped sawing and regarded his weary partner with pitying eyes.

"Sonny," he said, "I don't mind your riding on this saw, but if it's just the same to you, I wish you'd quit scraping your feet on the ground."—The American Legion Weekly.

WEAK BLOOD IS A REAL BARRIER

GROWING CHILDREN OFTEN NEED GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN

Some children grow too quickly—it saps their strength. They lapse into careless, desultory habits, or develop a shrinking attitude. Their faces look pinched.

The blood becomes overtaxed by too rapid growth; and poisons from the system take the place of strength-giving red corpuscles in the blood. Red corpuscles are those little red particles that swim in blood and give it its color. Gradually that child loses interest in its play.

Poor blood needs the building that the iron in Gude's Pepto-Mangan gives to weakened blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan enriches the blood by increasing the number of red corpuscles, and restores the blood by driving out poisons. When the revived blood gets to work, the appetite becomes what a growing child's should be. Your druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid or tablet form. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on every package.—Advertisement.

ANNA CASE TO SING AT NONTEVALLO

Montevallo music lovers are exhuberant over the coming of Anna Case, soprano, with the Metropolitan Opera Company, who will give a concert at Alabama Technical Institute and College for Women, the evening of November 17th. She will come to Montevallo just before filling an engagament in Selma.

Since so small a community seldom gets a chance to bring a noted singer like Miss Case to its midst, residents of Montevallo and students at the college are writing their friends to make their proposed visits at the time of her concert here. The music department at the college has been instrumental in securing the appearance of this noted singer, who has graciously consented to give Montevallo an open date on her tour of the South.

Since 1909 Anna Case has been a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. Among the roles in the Opera Company Miss Case has sung are: Sophia in Der Rosenkavalier, Olympia in Tales of Hoffman, Micaela in Carmen. She has been most cordially received in all places where she has appeared both in the United States and in Canada.

JOHNNIE JOHNSON KILLED

A sad accident occurred to Johnnie Johnson, a native of Sweden, 45 years of age, who up to the time of his death was engaged in painting the new Baptist Church. The car he was driving on the main road between Sylacauga and Rockford turned over near the Weogufka Road and so severely injured him as to result in his death at 1:00 p.m. on Sunday afternoon last.

It seems as though Mr. Johnson has been living in this country alone for several years past. At the time of his death he was boarding at the residence of Mr. J. Mell Martin, who has known Mr. Johnson for some ten or twelve years. A few weeks ago he seemed to have presentiment that he would be killed in an accident, and instructed his friend, Mr. Martin, to go and fetch him wherever the accident might occur and bury him in the cemetery at Wetumpka. He also gave full instructions how the grave was to be prepared, the kind of tombstone to erect with the inscription bearing his name, and the words "Here lies a Man." Some few weeks ago he met with an accident while working on the building which seems to have set him thinking about the possible manner of his death.

Mr. Johnson has been a member of the Baptist church and attended the preaching services of the church two Sunday nights ago in Clanton. He was also a splendid tradesman and had plenty of work waiting for him in various parts of the country.

He was buried at Rockford on last Monday.

Ambiguity

"But what," asked the coroner, "is the mystery about the dead man's identity. Cards, and letters were found in the pockets, were they not?"

"That's what makes it so confusing," replied the clever detective. "The initials were the same as those upon the umbrella he carried."—The American Legion Weekly.

BATES HALL

The following program of The Helen Keller Literary Society was given at the regular meeting last Saturday night under the direction of Miss Emily Tyler, a member of Thorsby Institute Faculty.

(1) Song, Anvil, Society. (2) Essay, Ginseppe Verdi, Lois Prim. (3) Victrola Selections, from Verdi's Opera's. (4) Recitation, to a Fringed Gentain, Tressie Barrett. (5) Dialogue, A Slight Misunderstanding, Mae Ward and Arnold Littleton. (6) Duets, Home to our Mountains, Pauline Gray and Gresham Lowery; I have sighed to rest me, Agnes Gerald, Glover Smith. (7) Thorsby Substitute, A school farce, or "How Not To Do It," Teacher Edith Robinson, Students, Delma Music, Iola Gerald, Gresham Lowery, Andie Burkett, Wilbur Peterson. (8) Song, "Battle Hymn of The Republic."

Each member of the cast did very creditable work and the hall was filled to capacity.

On Thursday night, Nov. 10th, the second number of the entertainment course will be given by The Lillian Johnson Company, consisting of Lillian Johnston, Lyric Soprano, Reader, Pianist. Florence Armstrong Mezzo Soprano, Pianist. Both Miss Johnston and Miss Armstrong are entertainers of rare ability, The varied program offerings, which in addition to distinctive song numbers include clever impersonations and instrumental selections, are sure to please the entire audience.

On Friday morning beginning at 10:30 an appropriate program in commemoration of Armistice Day will be given, to which the public is invited. At 10:45 (which is 11:45 Washington Time,) the school and church bells of Thorsby will toll for fifteen minutes and at 11 o'clock, which will be noon at Washington, in company with the whole nation, business will cease and prayers be offered.

On Tuesday at 1:30 p. m., the Executive Committee of Thorsby Institute held their regular monthly meeting.

In the roll of students who passed examinations with an average above 85, published last week, the name of Richard Butler was inadvertantly omitted.

A notable feature of student activities at Thorsby Institute is the daily Bible study under the direction of Miss Elizabeth J. Robinson, who during her College days received special training in Bible study from one of her Professers peculiarly gifted in that line. Miss Robinson has a faculty of making this work so interesting and attractive that upwards of thirty embrace the opportunity to secure her instructions and become familiar with this best of all books.

A new Band has recently been organized in Thorsby. Instruments have been ordered and are expected to arrive in time for the first meeting for practice next Saturday night. Mr. J. O. Johnson is Musical Director, Arthur Villadsen President, Walter Parnell, Vice-President; Jennie C. Robinson, Secretary-Treasurer. Other members are Nels Nelson, Martin Nelson, Earl Leary, Relius Franklin, Horace Franklin, Clyde Mead, Henry Robinson, Kimball Franklin, Marcell Wilder, Gresham Lowery, Chas. S. Howard, Ernest Eiland, S. C. Wood, Earl Mead, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ozley, Agnes Leary, Edith Robinson, Esther Johnson, Naemi Turnquist, Sylvester Robinson and Lee Pate.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. O. Johnson.

Mr. Earnest Eiland met with a serious accident near Thorsby Sunday evening while driving his automobile on the road to Clanton. Owing to a defective steering gear the car turned turtle, catching him beneath it in a way to hold him until released by a party passing in another car. He was considerably bruised but was about town next day. Mr. C. R. Foss and A. F. Reagan coming from Clanton in a car picked him up and brought him home. The car was hauled in to a Garage on a truck.

CONGREGATIONAL ACTIVITIES

At the regional Conference of the leaders of Congregational work in the southeast, held in Atlanta, Nov. 4th and 5th, there were in attendance from Alabama the following: Rev. Elmer W. Butler, Rev. Charles T. Rodgers, Rev. James M. Graham and Miss Helen C. Jenkins. The seven states comprising the Southeast district were represented. There was formed The Congregational Board of the Southeast, with several departments. Among the departments is the Congregational Publication Board of the Southeast. At this meeting there was another action that Alabama people are interested in and that is that what has been The Alabama Religious and Educational Institute was changed to the Southeast Community Development Commission. This is an organization that is doing community development, and has now under cultivation eight communities in Alabama. The new name of the organization does not mean that there has been any change in the Board of Directors, nor in the Superintendent. The only chages are to be found in the name and the scope.

The new decorations of the interior of the Thorsby Congregational church will probably be completed in time to re-open the house for worship next Sunday morning, when Rev. E. W. Butler is expected to supply the pulpit in the absence of the pastor.

The removal of Mr. John L. Winslow from Thorsby vacated the office of Superintendent of the Congregational Sunday school which has now been filled by the election of Mr. Orvill Mastin, one of the younger members of the church and for several years a regular attendant when not living too far away. It is the policy of this church to put responsibilities on some of the young folks and so develop new material for this and other communities where leadership is needed.

The Decoration of the church has been in charge of Mr. C. A. Peterson assisted by Mr. W. H. Wilson and Mr. R. A. Turner, all Thorsby workmen, and they have done a very creditable piece of work.

Rev. J. M. Graham left Wednesday to attend (by invitation) the Methodist protestant State Conference which meets this week at Notasulga; from there he will go direct to Antioch (Congregational near Andalusia) church to attend the State Conference of Congregational churches the latter part of the week.

Rev. J. W. Davenport and Rev. J. F. Owen are motoring to Antioch about 100 miles southeast of Montgomery, to attend the State Congregational Conference. Rev. Owen represents The Congregational Sunday School Extension Board for Alabama and has been in the field about a year making his headquarters at Thorsby. Last Sunday night he gave a very interesting series of Lantern slide views of Alabama scenes which he has made during his trips to all parts of the State.

Rev. C. T. Rogers of Hackelberg made a brief visit to Thorsby on Tuesday.

Rev. E. W. Butler and Miss Helen C. Jenkins returned Monday from a very important Congregational Conference in Atlanta.

Mother Love

Hardly had the canoe smashed against the hidden reef when the little boy who had been the craft's navigator was seen to emerge from the wreckage and swim manfully toward the shore. A cheer of joy burst from all save one of the big crowd gathered. The exception, a grim-faced woman, waited silently and when the boy landed she grabbed him by the hair, shook him and yelled in his ear:

"You little scamp! What do you mean by learning how to swim after I've told you never to venture into the water?"

COURAGE OF HARDING IN HIS B'HAM SPEECH

HE WAS BOLD ENOUGH TO TAKE STAND FOR THE RIGHT, WHEN OTHERS HAVE DODGED IT.

Washington, Nov. 8.—"The Harding address gives something to the demagogue to shriek about, but it also gives something to the patriot to ponder, and there is no question of southern patriotism," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr.

"One of the opposition's chief criticisms of Warren G. Harding, when he was campaigning for the Presidency, was that he would be ruled by the Senate oligarchy. Another was that he lacked courage. The first has been repeatedly disproved by President Harding, and how profoundly false the second was has been proved by his remarkable address in Birmingham on the race question. No President in the history of the Republic has had the temerity to handle this great domestic question with the courage and manliness exhibited by Mr. Harding on that occasion.

"His demand for political and economic equality for the negro was received in silence by the whites, according to reports, and one writer said at the close of the address members of the President's party were frankly apprehensive as to how his remarks on the race question might be received throughout the South.' Naturally such bold 'reatment of the subject would be received in silence. For decades American statesmen when visiting the South have either gracefully side-stepped the race question, or have attempted to carry favor by damning the negro with faint praise. Roosevelt was perhaps the only man, certainly since the Civil War, who had the hardihood to plead for a square deal for the black man. When T. R. invited Booker T. Washington to his table at the White House there was a gasp of indignation from the 'lily-whites' of Dixie and the lynchers and black-baiters were thrown into hysteric rage, but this sentiment was succeeded by a second sober thought and Roosevelt was the idol of the South long before he passed to his reward. It is much more likely that the people of the South, after they have had time to read and digest Harding's address will agree with the terse statement of Alabama's Governor, Thomas E. Kilby, viz:- 'In my opinion Mr. Harding gave a clear and conservative statement of the race question, and I heartily approve it.'

"The Pat Harrisons and the Tawm Heflins will have elements in their constituencies to harangue respecting the speech, but those whose vision is not focussed on a backwoods voting precinct, and are able to consider the subject in its national aspect will eventually bear witness to the sanity of the President's conclusions. The crux of his address is to be found in these statements:

"Politically and economically there need be no occasion for great and permanent differentiation, for limitations of the individual's opportunity, provided that on both sides there shall be recognition of the absolute divergence in things social and racial. Men of both races may well stand uncompromisingly against every suggestion of social equality—to have it accepted on both sides that this is not a question of social equality, but a question of recognizing a fundamental, eternal and inescapable difference—Especially would I appeal to the self-respect of the colored race. I would inculcate in it the wish to improve itself as a distinct race, with a heredity, a set of traditions, an array of aspirations all its own.'

"This suggests to the negro his right and his duty to develop his racial talents and to co-operate with the white for the public weal. It robs the term 'social equality' of any invidious distinction. And it suggests to the white that democracy includes the former, while Providence precludes the latter. Harding spoke as one inspired because he dealt with verities. Gamaliel but emulated the Galilean."

ALABAMA'S DOG LAW IS NOW THING OF THE PAST

Governor Kilby Signs Bill Repealing Former Tax Act.

Montgomery.—Alabama's dog law, long considered a dead statute, became officially dead when Gov. Kilby signed a bill repealing the law enacted at the reguar session of 1919. The bill was passed at the special session last week.

The law imposed a license tax of $1 and $2 on dogs. It provided no machinery for enforcement, however, and after the first year became inoperative in many counties, although efforts to enforce it were continued in others. The first year the law brought a quarter of a million dollars into the state treasury.

The signing of the bill repealing the law of 1919 leaves the state without any license upon dogs. All county officials and license inspectors will be officially notified of the approval of the act repealing the dog law.

Gov. Kilby also signed a bill appropriating $35,000 for paying the expenses of indigent persons to Montgomery for Pasteur treatment.

CLANTON'S BIGGEST S. S WAS LAST SUNDAY

The largest attendance in Sunday School in all the history of Clanton was reached last Sunday with 161 present. This taxed the old building to its utmost capacity. A large congregation also gathered for the preaching service which with the Sunday night congregation engaged in the farewell services of the old building it being the last Sunday when the Baptists would meet again in the old frame structure which has been their earthly spiritual home for more than forty years. Perhaps it was with a tinge of regret that some realized they were soon to give it up since many associations of the past have endeared the place to them. Remembering however the splendid new building with its fine equipment and possibilities for a much greater and more efficient work, it was with rejoicing on the part of many that they were able to say farewell to the old meeting place that is now the property of Mr. W. C. Robinson. We are pleased to announce that the first Sunday School and preaching services in the new building to be held will be observed next Sunday in the lower part of the building. The congregation will meet here until about the first or second Sunday in December, by which time it is expected that the new pews will be installed in the new auditorium and the opening services will be held. The lower part of the building will be made comfortable and nicey heated. We invite everyone to join us next Sunday in this the first Sunday in the new buiding, at the morning hour service, beginning at 11 a.m. and evening at 7:00, p.m.

BAD LUCK AND THE DEVIL PURSUED HIM

"I don't think anyone has had more bad luck and sickness than I have. In 1905 I had two ribs, an arm and collar bone broken in a railroad accident. Then I had pneumonia. After recovering I crossed a pasture when a bull chased me, tossed me over the fence and broke my right leg. In 1910 I had typhoid fever; since then severe stomach and liver trouble, which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago I got a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which proved the first ray of light in thirteen year." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver andi ntestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Alred Drug Company.

MORE ABOUT DEATH OF JOHNNIE JOHNSON

Last week the Sylacauga Advance published a story of the death of Johnnie Johnson, the Swede, who had been engaged in painting at the Baptist Church. The story of the Sylacauga paper contains some information that throws more light upon the tragedy than anything we were able to obtain from here. The following is their narrative of the accident:

"A Swede, who is known as John Johnson, was found dead on the roadside near Stewartville, about 11 miles south of Sylacauga Sunday morning. His car, a Ford, was standing upright in the road with the wind shield broken and his body was lying several feet away from the ca ron the side of the road.

"It is claimed by parties who saw the body that the top of his head was practically torn off with the scalp lying back on his shoulders, and the front of the body showed signs of scalds or acid burns, and that a quart of whiskey was sitting on the front seat of the car.

"It is thought by some that he had become intoxicated and turned the car over on himself, and that some passer-by had lifted the car from him and finding that he was dead had become frightened and left the body lying on the roadside fearing that suspicion might be thrown on them.

"He was well known at Rockford as a painter, and his body was carried there for burial."

THE DIXIE DUO HERE

"SOUTHLAND'S SUNSHINE GIRLS HIGH SCHOOL, FRIDAY, NOV. 18

If you love the songs of the Southland; if you like to hear the old stories of Dixie land; if you care for clever impersonations, and vocal and instrumental numbers as offered by two dainty Southern misses, better be on hand on "Dixie Dou Night." At the High School Auditorium, Friday, Nov. 18th, at 7:30 p. m.

The Dixie Duo has become one of America's most popular entertainment companies during the last two seasons. Wherever they have been they have met with universal success and the demands for their time are more than they can fill.

Their program is one of infinite charm. It consists of songs and stories of the old Southland given by real southern girls charmingly costumed. The negro stories and songs are featured; also some of the best classical music of Ante-Bellum days.

Anne Barr is a gifted musician who has won herself an enviable reputation as soloist and accompanist. Her voice is of an agreeable timbre, sweet and sympathetic. Miss Devereaux Jarrett is an exceptionally good story teller. While specializing in negro dialect she uses many stories from other sources. With Miss Barr she will be heard in vocal duets.

Admission will be 25 and 35 cents.

PREACHING DAYS CHANGED AT THORSBY AND NEW SALEM

Meetings at New Salem will be the First Sunday and Saturday before. The Thorsby services will be the Fourth Sunday and Sunday night. These changes are in effect beginning now.

All persons interested are urged to take notice of these changes and make their arrangements accordingly.

KIN VINSON KILLED

News was received in Clanton on Tuesday night of the death of Kin Vinson at a mining town above Birmingham. His brother, A. P. Vinson, left at once for the place where the report of the killing came from. Up to the time of printing the paper we have been unable to gather any definite details other than the report that Mr. Vinson was killed in some way.

The Birmingham Age-Herald Wednesday morning carried the following brief account of the killing of Mr. Vinson:

"Following the shooting of K. W. Vinson of Labuco Tuesday, John Huffman called a deputy sheriff and surrendered himself, according to a report from Coroner J. D. Russum who made a preliminary investigation f the shooting. Coroner Russum stated that Mr. Vinson had been shot in the mouth with a shot gun. Few particulars of thet ragedy could be obtained last nigt. Further investigation will be made today."

Mr. Vinson was well known in Clanton and Chilton County, being a brother of County Commissioner A. P. Vinson, and Jerome Vinson and Newt Vinson. The news of his death was learned here with sorrow among his friends.

NO SINGING AT COOPERS

Through a mistake, an all day singing has been announced for Chestnut Creek, Coopers, Nov. 20th.

There would have been a singing that day had the old time singers agreed to give half time to the new work. But they would not, so there will be no singing.

We hope no one will be badly disappointed. C. D. HUGHES, Secy.

Bids will be opened in December for the reconditioning of the giant liner Leviathan for passenger service. A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

VOTERS WILL HAVE CHANCE TO REGISTER

Mr. J. W. E. Gulledge, Chairman of the Chilton County Board of Registrars, asks us to state to the people that beginning the third Monday in January, 1922, the Board of Registrars will sit at the county court house for a period of ten days, for the purpose of registering the qualified voters who may be qualified to register under the law.

Mr. Gulledge also states that between the first of January and the first of April, 1922, the Board of Registrars will visit each voting precinct in the county, for the purpose of registering any who may be qualified, and that due notice of these appointments in each precinct will be made by publication prior thereto.

All persons are hereby urged to take notice of these oportunities to register, so that all who may be entitled tor egister may know about it.

MACEDONIA

Owing to a few mistakes in the Union-Banner last week, want to correct them.

The committee which came to this place, were surely surprised to learn when they came there was nothing in advance for them to do. A good example for the situation is that if some one were given orders to go and build a house on a certain day, and when they arrived at the place, there was nothing for them to do—that it had already been built; could he do anything except praise the beauty of the work? Rev. Adams did make a fine lecture, and it was indorsed, but as for organizing a Baptist church, there was one already there.

Another mistake was about Mr. Mims death. The doctor said he had swallowed no bone at all. He went hunting and when he killed the game it lodged and he climbed up a tree after it. He fell out and was said if he had not fallen on his dog it would have killed him instantly, but only broke a blood vessel and he bled to death in side. He vomited blood about two hours before death.

BANQUET OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

ADDRESSES MADE BY CAPTAIN LAY OF GADSDEN AND MORGAN RICHARDS OF SELMA

Anyone seeking evidence of the life and vigor of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce would have found the same in a very high degree at the quarterly banquet held at the Masonic Hall last Friday night. There was a good number of the membership in attendance, and everybody was boiling over with enthusiasm for the work of the organization; and we suspicioned that some who were there were none the less enthusiastic in their anticipations of the good things which the ladies of the Eastern Star had prepared for us to eat. It may be said at the outset that anyone who went there expecting something good to eat, was not in any degree disappointed, neither as to the quality of the refreshments nor the quantity.

Hon. Morgan Richards of Selma and Capt. W. P. Lay of Gadsden were guests of honor at the banquet. Each of these gentlemen made addresses that were laden with good thoughts in connection with the work of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Richards dealt specifically with the work that lies within the scope of such organizations, using his experience of several years as Secretary of the Selma Chamber of Commerce as a basis for his deductions. The address of Capt. Lay was confined to the development projects which he has fostered in this part of the country relative to the production of power for commercial purposes and navigation on the Coosa River.

Rev. P. G. Carter, Secretary and organizer of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce made an interesting speech reviewing the accomplishments that have been made by our organization. Among these he mentioned the establishment of a freight rate bureau and the employment of a traffic agent to audit freight bills and collect overcharges to be refunded to those who pay freight; the activity of the Chamber of Commerce in forwarding the movement to organize and build the Central Alabama Hospital here; the improvement and extension of the service of the Southern Bell Telephone Company in our town, and the co-operation given this work by the Chamber of Commerce.

Brief talks were also made by Mr. C. Fenn Jones, W. W. Fox, G. C. Walker, Dr. Gragg, W. M. Wyatt Rev. Pearson and others.

The ladies of the Eastern Star, who provided the refreshments for the occasion, received a full measure of thanks from everyone in attendance.

Sufficient laboratory supplies for the Physics and Chemistry classes have been purchased recently, and splendid work is being accomplished in this department. About sixty select volumes are expected next week to add to our library. Book cases are being made for library at practically no expense by the students of the Manual Training Department. Tools are being added to this department as fast as funds will permit.

Parents and vistors are cordially invited to visit the high school at any time during the day. We do not want you to wait for special occasions. Come at any time and thus inspire us to do good daily work.

DEATH OF MRS. F. B. TICKNOR

Mary Ellen, wife of Rev. F. B. Ticknor, passed into the rest of paradise on November 11th, after a long illness.

Mary Ellen Ormsby came to teach school in Clanton in 1878. In 1879 she married Mr. Charles W. Stanley, by whom she had four children. Mr. Stanley died in 1892, and in 1893 she married Rev. F. B. Ticknor.

She came to Clanton when it was a small village and was at the time of her leaving us one of the few remaining old settlers. She was greatly beloved by all who came in contact with her.

She is survived by her husband, her three children, Mrs. W. H. Kennedy, Miss Ellen Stanley, and C. W. Stanley.

WATCH OUT FOR "RAISED" MONEY

ONE DOLLAR BILL, RAISED TO TEN, FINDS ITS WAY TO BANK IN CLANTON.

Uncle Pete Callen, President of the Peoples Savings Bank, is warning business men of Clanton to keep a close watch our for raised currency. There was deposited in his bank on Tuesday a one-dollar bill which had been cleverly raised to a ten. The job had been done so completely that the bill got in on deposit as a ten. Later it was discovered by Frank Callen when he was checking up the day's business.

Mr. Callen says it has been reported that two of these raised bills have been presnted at the Verbena Bank.

The counterfeit is one of the cleverest we have ever seen. It would not be detected ordinarily. Mr. Callen prsented it to several business houses here Tuesday for change, all of whom readily planked down two perfectly good fives for it. Then when Mr. Callen showed them that the ten was bogus, they became alarmed at their carelessness. No doubt, many who saw this forged bill went dirctly to their cash registers and looked to see if they had taken in any of the kind.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS

Notwithstanding the inclement weather Sunday night, a nice audience was out at the Tabernacle to hear that very interesting subject, "Why are there so many denominations?" The speaker presented thatwonderful text enunciated by the wise man that "The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

"God leads His people, if they will follow on to know the Lord, to full light of the gospel message. In every age and every period of earth's history, God has led His people to a fuller knowledge of His will. The consciences of men cannot be bound. When the Romish church enfolded around her the robe of selfrighteousness and declared that only through her portals was the way to heaven; and held within her fold the gospel truths, forbidding men to read and study the Divine word, the spirit of God moved upon the hearts of men and they broke the bands that held them. Luther, Calvin, Knox, Wesley, Huss, Jerome, John Wycliffe and many others marched out with an open Bible as their guide. No one of these men of God, penetrated into the whole rouncil of God. "They led out a people," the preacher affirmed, "but as for my part, I can not sufficiently bewail the condition that exists in some churches, who are come to a period in religion and will go no further than the instrument of their reformation," he said.

Continuing further the preacher said "This is the reason there are so many churches. The gospel must be carried to all the world and if a united church would not do it, a divided must."

Subject announced for next Sunday night, "The way that is Right and Can't be Wrong." Services at 7:00 o'clock, p.m.

The Modern Chamber of Commerce

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:—

There may be those present who came to this gathering expecting to listen to some flights of oratory. If so I desire to put them on notice that they are going to be disappointed, for oratory is not one of my gifts and I have selected a subject which in my humble opinion can best be handled by an entire omission of adjectives.

In the manner of the old time minister, I am going to divide my remarks into three parts; Firstly, secondly and lastly.

First: What is a Chamber of Commerce? Second: What is it expected to do? Third: Why should it receive my support?

A great many people believe that a Chamber of Commerce is a Secretary who lives on the contributions of the members, and who is expected to gather together all of the kicks of the community against the railroads, the corporations and the government. An official kicking post as it were. Others believe that it is an instrument for securing factories and that no Chamber of Commerce is a success unless it erects a new smoke stack every month. Still others look upon it in a more favorable light and I have jotted down several opinions which have been expessed by leading thinkers of this country.

Mr. Calvin B. Brown, Chief of the Organization Service Bureau of the Chamber of Commerie of the United States gives this definition:

"A chamber of commerce is an organization through which public-spirited citizens in a community may express themselves collectively on questions of community welfare, and through which they may make their collective desires effective. It is based upon the principal that more can be accomplished by working together for a common purpose than by individual effort."

President Harding in speaking of the Chamber of Commerce made this statement: "I like to think that the thing which boosts the community is certain to make progress for the Nation, and I should like our great republic to head the list of the great commercial nations of the earth."

From these statements it seems that the Chamber of Commerce sould be the directing force, the dynamo of the community. It should be composed of men and women of all denominations and all political faiths, so that its opinions shall represent the composit opinions of the people of the territory in which it operates.

What is is expected to do?

Representing as it does the combined opinion of the entire community, it should do the things which are of most interest to that community.

It should have visions, and build its program for the future. A recent speaker in defining vision stated that it was different from view, in that "view is the thing which greets the eye, while vision is the thing the soul sees."

Many of the things which are on the Chamber of Commerce program for today may be worked out in years to come; especially is this true when the framers of the program have vision.

You will pardon me for a reference to the work of our own organization to illustrate this point.

One day in 1911 or 1912, our Agricultural Committee met with one of its members who lives in the Country. It was a spend the day party and the entire days discussion was along the lines of agricultural developement. The Dairy sections of Wisconsin and Ohio were analyzed and the hope was expressed that we could attain some measure of the prosperity which prevailed in those states. We had pastures better than they; we had seasons more favorably to dairying; we could produce feed more cheaply; we had markets which were then virgin, but we had no knowledge of dairying; our herds and our pastures were infested with cattle ticks and our farmers believed that cotton was the only argicultural product which could be sold for money. Our bankers did not consider live stock a safe collateral and the conditions were just as discouraging as they possibly could be.

But the men on that committee had vision. They said we are not building for today but for the future. We will eradicate the cattle tick; we will educate our farmers ond our bankers to the value of the dairy cow; we will overcome the obstacles which now stand in our way and ten years hence Dallas County will be industry of the South just as it was then leading cotton producing county of the State.

I related the conclusions to a newspaper man and he told me that the proposal was Revolution, but that he was willing to join in their optimism and lend his influence to their campaign.

What was the result? Last Janurary the Associate Editor of the "Country Gentleman" walked into my office and told me that his publishers had decided to write up the eight counties in the United States which had made the greatest agricultural progress during the past decade and that Dallas County, after carefull investigation had been selected for the first article. All through the vision of its leaders.

A chamber of commerce should have a program and the best thought of the community should be used in its preparation.

It should contain items which need attention now; others which need continous effort and others from which no direct results may be expected for years.

It should be an unselfish program not the things which will benefit the directors or the committee alone, but things which will help the community as a whole.

The Officers and Committee will get their reward in the knowledge of a service well performed and will reap their benefits to the extent as other members of tne community.

This program should not inspire too much effort on factory grabbing. Men who build industries usually pay very little attention to natural resources or accessibility of raw materials. Other and more potent reasons impell their choice of location. If accessible raw material were necessary New England would not have developed into such a cotton manufacturing section, nor would Grand Rapids have become the center for the manufacture of fine furniture though two thousand miles from a mahogany tree Even Detroit which manufactures more automobiles than any other city in the world does not produce one bit of material that goes into their makeup, and it has even been hinted that the air which goes to inflate the tires is imported.

The program should provide for the development of men. God provided natural resources but cities are built by men.

Rochester, Minn. is looken on as one of the greatest health centers of the world. Would it have ever been heard of had the Mayo Brothers not lived there? Wouldn't the automobile center have been somewhere else if Henry Ford and R. E. Olds had not livd in Detroit? If such men as Armour and Swift and Marshall Field had lived in the Sahara desert wouldn't they have builded a city there?

Use your natural advantages, but use your men to develope them. The growth of a city is usually an internal rather than an external growth.

Why should the Chamber of Commerce receive my support?

I want to read a short declaration made by a friend of mine in the far west which gives some of the answers to this question: "My city is the place where my home is founded, where my busines.s is located, where my vote is cast, where my children are educated, where my neighbors dwell and where my life is chiefly lived. I have chosen it after due consideration among all the cities of the earth. It is the home spot for me. My city has a right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I must support it. My city wants my citizenship; friendliness, not offishness; cooperation, not dissention; sympathy, not criticism; my inteligent interest, not indifference. My city supplies me with law and order, trade, friends, education, morals, recreation, and the rights of a free born American. I should believe in my city, work for it, and I will."

The city and the Chamber of Commerce are one. The Chamber collects the opinions of the people; it educates them to the community's needs, and it paves the way for the officials of the City, the County, the State and the Nation to carry them out.

If therefore you are a loyal citizen, you owe your support, moral, financial and physical to your Chamber of Commerce. It cannot express your opinion otherwise.

A Kansas City merchant has expressed the idea very forcibly. He said:

"If I am going to be a business man in a community I must accept the obligation, and ones obligations to the community are not simply covered by obeying the law and paying the taxes. If everybody felt that way in the community, it wouldn't grow very fast, consequently I was never conscious of joining the Chamber. I just simply considered that it was part of my necessary duty that would help make me a good citizen."

Hon. James M. Cox, Democrat candidate for President gives the following reasons for supporting the Chamber of Commece: "First, because it gave me an opportunity to take an active part in the affairs of the city. Second, it enabled me to develop friendships by mingling with other business men of the community. Third, this mingling with the other business men broadened my vision and gave me a wider scope of business activities."

Now that we have a Chamber of Commerce; it has a program and we have agreed to give it our enthusiastic support, lets watch for results, not all at once, but day by day, month by month, year by year, just as we watch the mighty oak as it grows steadily on from the little acorn to the monarch of the forest.

"Cities are what we make them,
Wherever the cities may be;
Whether out on the desolate desert,
Or set by the surging sea,
Though they cleave to the breasts of the mountains
Or nestle by rivers broad,
Cities are what we make them
On the land that is given by God."

RED CROSS RESCUED 600,000 FROM DEATH

Spent $1,200,000 for Relief of Famine Sufferers in China Last Year.

To help overcome conditions of acute distress in five famine stricken provinces of Northern China, where millions of persons were affected by an unprecedented shortage of food, the American Red Cross during the last fiscal year spent more than $1,200,000, $1,000,000 of which was contributed directy by National Headquarters and the remainder by various groups interested in the welfare of China.

Through the wide relief operations thus made possible it is estimated that more than 600,000 famine sufferers were saved from starvation.

To the end that similar prompt relief measures by the organization may always be possible the Red Cross is asking continued support by the American people by universal renewal of membership at the Annual Red Cross Roll Call, November 11 to 24.

The method of relief employed by the American Red Cross in its operations in China was particularly effective, for in addition to saving hundreds of thousands of lives it provided China with more than 900 miles of permanent roads that are sorely needed to prevent a recurrence of famine. At one time the Red Cross employed 74,000 Chinese workmen, paying them in food for themselves and dependents, this food being brought in from Manchuria and elsewhere.

PEPTO-MANGAN KEEPS THE BLOOD PURE

GROWING CHILDREN NEED PLENTY OF RED CELLS IN BLOOD

When the young body is growing, children ferquently experience weakness. Girls and boys sometimes play too hard and over-tax their systems. They become pale, weak, and sickly. They lose their appetites, become languid, and are not able to make progress in school work. "Growing too fast" is often true. It is most important to keep the blood of growing girls and boys in a healthy state.

Pepto-Mangan keeps the blood pure. The red cells in the blood are increased. They carry life-giving oxygen to all parts of the body, and wholesome youthfulness blooms again in clear complexions, bright eyes and buoyant spirits. Sold both in liquid and tablet form druggists everywhere. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package. Advertisement.

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

Attendance at Sunday School Sunday was not very large, but we had school just the same.

The Singing Society met at 2:00 in the afternoon. Not very many visitors were present, but there were plenty of local talent present to carry on the singing. The following directed for the p.m: T. G. Wyatt, and Misses Ressie Minor, Roma Hand and Hazel Gore. Mr. J. D. Collins, Jr., also sung a few songs. Everybody enjoyed the splendid directing of these young folks.

The B. Y. P. U. met at 6:30 o'clock and delivered a full program. The weather was somewhat disagreeable consequently not a large crowd was present.

Next Sunday there will be Sunday School at 10 o'clock, and B. Y. P. U. at 6:30 in the evening.

Rev. W. W. Robinson of Providence will preach to us at 11 o'clock on Sunday, December 4. We are glad to have Bro. Robinson come and preach to us, and we want a good crowd out to hear him.

The Fourth Sunday is our regular preaching day, when Rev. E. A. Norris will preach at 11 and 7:30.

THE PROGICAL SON

(Saturday Evening Post)

The old fellow who is the originator of the following sermon must be thought of as wearing a long Prince Albert coat about two sizes too large for him, his trousers folding up round his ankles like an accordion, his eyebrows long, shaggy and white, his beard short and nappy, what little mustache he has in each corner of his mouth being also white.

After taking off his old beaver hat, which was clean of hair in spots, and displaying a perfectly bald head, with the exception of a little white hair round the edges, he adjusted on his nose a pair of old-fashioned gold square-rimmed eyeglasses; and, snapping his eyes once or twice at his congregation over his eyeglasses, and then once or twice under them, he proceeded to deliver the following sermon.

The old darkey could not read, but learned his sermons by hearing some minister deliver them. This is the reason why the old fellow got so mixed up:

Befo' I selexes de tex' tonight, my belubbed brederen, I wants to call yo' detention to de fac' dat de regular choir practice will tek place in dis church on Friday night at half pas' seben.

On Monday night dar will be a meetin' of de deacons. At dis meetin' I wants to have a report from de coal committee. We didn't have no report 'tall from dis committee las' year, an' we can't spec' de railroad company in Goldsboro to keep open coal cars on de sidetrack all dis winter like dey did las'. We will now proceed wid de sermon.

In selexing de tex' tonight, my fellow sufferers, I wants yo' to go 'way back wid me to de time when Chaderack, Comeback and Lettergo walked through de flaring flames of de firey furnace, when de lions was cas' into Daniel's den, and Jonah swallowed de Prince of Whales; and dar we find de stunnin' words dat "A suttin man had two sons."

Now de youngest son were a very contemptionable young man, who were in no wise reposed to do de will of he father; an' he were, darfo,' a projical son, an' de las' state of dat man was wuss dan de fust state.

Now de Scriptures tell us dat de young man got tired a-livin' easy, so he call to he pa and say: "Pa, gimme my share of de substance, an' I will tek it an' go 'way into a fur country, an' yo'll se my face no mo."

Now I reckon de ole man were tired botherin' wid de projical an' he were willing to let him hoe he own row, case we read in de Book dat de young man tek his share of de substum and gone into a fur country; an' dar he spen' he substum in riotous extrabigances, high libin' an' sin, till bymeby he money were all throw' away an' he were reduced to a great needcessity. So great were de needcessity what de young man were deuced to dat he were compel' to hire heself out to a rich man to min' hog.

Now de Scriptures don't says so, but am supposed dat dis were a very mean white man, caze we read in de Book date de young man were fain to full his stomach on de hus's where he fed he hog wid. So when he come to heself he say: "De very servant on my Pa's place got bread to eat an' I ain't had none. I's gwine back to de ole man an' ax him to tek me as a hire man on he plantation." So he tek he pearl rings off he han' an' throw 'em to de hog; an' de hog run at 'em, case Scriptures tell us: "If you cas, yo' pearl befo' swine dey'll turn roun' an' ren' you."

Now when de young man were yet a long way off he were overtook by a great deluge of rain, an' it rained forty years and forty mont's.

So great were de deluge dat de young man were overtook by dat he were compel' to buil' heself a boat to keep from gittin' drownded; an' after he sail' roun' in he boat for a mont,' a mont' and a half or two mont's, he lit on Mount Ararat, wid de olive branch in he mouth.

Jes as soon as de young man lit on de olive branch, wid Mount Ararat in he mouth, he pa see him comin,' an' he run out to meet him; an' he ketch him an' hug him an' throw he han's roun' he neck an' cry: "O Absolum, my son, my son Absolum!" Den e gib him another ring to put on he han,' an a gold stud wid a white shirt in de busom, an, he call to de hired man an' tell him to kill a fat calf an' mek a great feas., An' cordin' to de way he say so it were done.

After de feas' were all ready de ole man he sen' roun' an' invite all he rich neighbor, an' dey all wid one consent begin to mek excuse. One man say he jest taken in a piece of new groun' an' he ain't got time; another say he jset bought a yoke of oxen an' he got to look after he purchase; an' another man say he jest married a nice young wife an'—an'—an'—he wan't hongry.

Well, when de ole man fine out how all he rich neighbor' discount him, he git vex;' an' he call he hired man an' tell him to go out into the highways an' into de byways an' gether all he kin fine, case de bline kin see, an' de lame kin walk, an' de deef kin hear, an my son Absolum what was dead am alive again.

So de hired man he go an' he gether de bline, an' de lame, an' de halt, an' de deef, an' all de po' people in dat lan;' an' he fotch 'em an' he sit 'em down' an' dey mek a great feas.' An' after dey done eat up everything de fragments what dey gether up fill' seben baskets full an' five small fishes over.

I would like to continue de preachments longer to you dis ebenin,' my fellow sufferers; but de fac' is dar's a po' cullud 'oman dyin' down de road dar, an' she can't die till I git dar.

So we will now close de suvvices by singin' de sixteent' hymn on de 'leven' page in de book:

"Come, ye sinners, po' and needy, weak an' wounded, an' so.'"

WE EXTEND OUR SYMPATHY

The Union-Banner extends sympathy to the bereaved family of Mrs. F. B. Ticknor, who departed this life on last Friday morning at daybreak. Mrs. Ticknor was a special friend of The Union-Banner, her husband having been in the past, editor and manager of the paper. The present owners of the paper succeeded Mr. Ticknor in charge, and we have often had from both Mr. Ticknor and his wife, many kind words of hope and encouragement. We feel that in the death of this good lady we have parted with a sincere friend, and our hearts join with those of the immediate family in the feeling of sorrow at her passing. We are glad to possess the full confidence that she had the comforting presence of the guiding spirit of her Master when her soul took passage for the voyage across the dark valley of the shadow of death.

GUESS WHO TOLD IT

Somebody has been talking about Clanton this week down at the Alabama Baptist State Couvention at Troy, as will be seen by the following clipping taken from the staff report of the Convention printed in the Birmingham News Wednesday afternoon.

How many guesses would you want to name the person who has been doing most of this talking down there?

Clanton, which has never welcomed the convention, by the erection of a new church building, has also proclaimed its readiness to act as host to the pastors at the annual meeting.

The Baptists of that city early in December will dedicate a $27,400 building. No city of anywhere near that size in the state has a more complete or beautiful church plant, it is claimed.

Dr. P. G. Carter, a pupil of the Spurgeon School in London, has been pastor of the church less than two years. During that time the members have raised in cash $35,000. Seventy new members have been added. The work of the church has been the outstanding local Baptist activity in the state during the past year.

Letergo Carter. Some of us fellows around Clanton may not vote for you as our preacher next year, but there ain't no telling. Tell 'em about Clanton when you get a chance. And if you get the next State Convention to come here, we will see that it is taken care of in the finest church in Alabama.

CHARLES E. HUGHES

Charles E. Hughes, once Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and who once had the presidency almost within his grasp, is today at the climax of his career. He staads forth recognized, for the present at least, as a great world statesman; for time being the greatest statesman of the world. But Woodrow Wilson once stood even higher in the fame and admiration of the world, and his fall from that exalted position was a great tragedy.

This hour belongs, however, to the American Secretary of State; the future he may leave to take care of itself. It is not President Harding but the Secretary of State Hughes who stands forth with the light of fame breaking upon him. The President not only absented himself from the deliberations of the conference, but for the time being he appears to have obliterated himself from the world-shaking discussion on the banks of the Potomac. Time may prove that the President's decision was a wise one.

The foreign policy of this government is essentially the policy of Secretary Hughes. The President has neither dictated that policy nor interfered with it. The conference now in session is the child of Secretary Hughes' brain. It was called by his initiation and he dictated the conditions and the program. It was by his approval that the agenda, or program of the conference was so extended as to resemble the international gathering at Paris, following the war.

It was Secretary Hughes who startled the world by laying on the table an ably conceived and workable plan by which the naval armament of the world was to be reduced—a plan that could not be rejected. "We were struck by a thunderbolt," said one of the French delegation, "it was hardly less surprising." The great advance towards world peace involved in the adoption of the program is to the credit of the American Secretary of State.

Secretary Hughes has been able, tactful, and so far irresistible. The political, the governmental world is looking on with admiration. Lloyd George, for the first time since the signing of the peace of Versailles, becomes the second figure in world affairs; events have pushed the American Secretary of State—the American Premier—into the position of supremacy.

The Secretary of State knows the tragedy of Woodrow Wilson, who was even more conspicious at Paris. He will seek to avoid re-enacting that tragedy.—Montgomery Advertiser.

NORTHCLIFFE DOFFS CHAPEAU

Apparently the United States has an appreciative observer and a warm friend in Lord Northcliffe, editor of the London Times. He has just completed a tour of the Philippines, and the tremendous progress those islands have made in 20 years they have been under American supervision has filled him with admiration. He "takes off his hat" to the United States for what he has seen. Lord Northcliffe also understands the point of view of Americans regarding the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and his opinion regarding that undertaking has been recently confirmed in conversations with British citizens in China and other parts of the Orient. They all told the London editor that the alliance was out of date and ought to be discontinued. We have heard many declarations from Great Britain of the great desire of the British for closer relations with the United States, but the reluctance of the British to drop their Japanese alliance, certain incidents in connection with ocean trade competition, and other development have indicated little real effort to cultivate greater intimacy with this country. It may well be that Lord Northcliffe, through his first-hand knowledge of facts, will be the rallying point about which develop a better understanding in the British mind of American motives and ambitions.

EGYPTAIN COTTON TUMBLES IN

According to our consul at Alexandria, there was exported from Egypt to United States during the single month of July, 1921, over 2,000,000 pounds of Egyptian long staple cotton, compared with 1,747,000 pounds for July, 1920. It is this export of long staple cotton which irks the soul of Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, where the long staple industry has been fast developing. So upset has Ashurst become on account of it that on the subject of protection he is an ardent champion of the Republican policy, just as the Louisiana Senators are with respect to tariff protection on sugar. If Arizona and neighboring states can supply American needs for this cotton they had ought to be protected and not placed on a competitive level with the fellaheen labor of Egypt.

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Thedford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.— The efficiency of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver.

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr Parsons describes —valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. E 88

OPEN WHITE HOUSE NEW YEARS DAY

The whole country applauds the decision of President and Mrs. Harding to restore the old practice of holding a New Year's reception at the White House. The New Year's reception was an event long established by custom and upheld by every president down to the advent of President Wilson in the executive mansion. During the eight years of President Wilson's incumbency no New Year's reception was held.

Standing for several hours and shaking hands with some 10,000 people who wait in line for an opportunity to meet and greet the Chief Executive, is not an easy task, but Mr. Harding finds it a pleasant one. He likes to meet people, and the large number of callers at the White House since he has been its occupant demonstrates that the people like to meet him.

The announcement that the New Year's reception will be resumed is important, not merely because it will afford oportunity for a large number of people to meet the President, but because it is significant of a change of attitude on the part of the Chief Executive toward the people. President Wilson adopted a policy of exclusiveness and islation. He not only did not meet the public generously but invited few people of prominence to meet him at his office and confer regarding public welfare. His was a one-man administration.

Mr. Harding not only meets large numbers of people for the mere personal pleasure of making an acquaintance, but he also grants special audiences to a great many men of importance in their local communities who can and do advise him regarding the condition of business and the needs of the people in an industrial and social way.

During a period of eight years we had an administration that boasted of democracy but practiced autocracy. We now have in the White House an administration that makes no boast of being close to the people but which is, in fact, constantly and intimately in touch with public opinion.

Direct Action.

The teacher, trying to impress upon thec hildren the importance of drinking plenty of water and keeping as clean the inside of the body as the outside:

Jimmy, how would you keep the inside of your body clean?"

JOE COX SEVERELY BURNED

Last Saturday night Joe Cox was having the tank of his Ford filled with gasoline at one of the filling stations on Main Street. He lighted a match to see if his tank was full, whereupon the very natural thing happened, to-wit: the gasoline caught fire. He threw the filling hose out of the car when it caught fire, and in doing so drenched his body with a deluge of liquid fire. He ran into Johnson's Drug Store, where his clothing was torn from his body, after he had been severely burned about his body and face. The top and upholstering of the car was burned. There is a good moral in this little story of Joe's unfortunate experience. Don't light a match to see if your gasoline tank is full.

Many Human Ills Are Due To Impurities in the Blood

How S. S. S. Clears the Blood of Waste Products.

Your system is continually taking in nutrition and throwing off waste products. This process goes on all during life. But, sometimes the organs do not properly function and these waste products, instead of passing out through the pores of the skin, through the kidneys and through the alimentary canal, are absorbed in the blood. Then the blood becomes poisoned, and cannot properly nourish the system.

Ill health sets in. You may lose your strength and vitality; or you may have rheumatic pains in the muscles and joints; or you may be troubled with bad boils, sores or some other skin eruptions. All because of the poisonous waste products in the blood. Nature now needs help. She has done her best but is failing. A blood purifier should be used at once to assist nature to throw off these waste products.

S. S. S., the standard blood purifier and system builder, is the ideal remedy in these cases. The effect of S. S. S. is to rid the system of the poisons which are causing the trouble. For over 50 years, S. S. S. has proven to be of unusual merit.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. Use it strictly according to directions and write Chief Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 721 S. S. S. Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga., and let him help you regain your health and strength. He is helping people every day. Ask him to send you his illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free. S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores.

The address of Capt. W. P. Lay, before the Clanton Chamber of Commerce, at the banquet last Friday night was greatly enjoyed. He spoke of his long experience in the development of power and navigation projects on the Coosa River, relating therein some things that are very closely akin to the marked progress and development of the commercial life of Clanton and Chilton County. Capt. Lay has a series of magic lantern pictures showing scenes on the Coosa River from Cartersville, Ga., to the Gulf of Mexico. We hope to be able to see his presentation of these at the next banquet of the Chamber of Commerce.

We are hoping for 200 on next Sunday.

Mr. Russwell, one of the contractors who built the Clanton Baptist Church, left Clanton last Thursday evening. He went to Centerville, where we understand he is figuring on another building job. There have never been in Clanton any concerns of their kind who went away from here with any higher degree of praise for their work than that which is universally accorded Mr. Chastang and Mr. Russwell for their splendid handling of the Baptist Church job.

Ellis Ellison of Shaw's Mill was a visitor to Clanton last Thursday. His face wore a big juicy smile that wouldn't come off, and upon inquiry we ascertained the reason therefor: The stork visited Shaw's mill town on Wednesday night and left a couple of youngsters, one of which happened to be at the home of Ellis.

The editor of The Union-Banner has received a very kind and friendly letter from Mr. Nelson Brassell of Montgomery. He takes occasion in his letter to praise Clanton for her recent steps in the direction of progress and development. MUSCLE SHOALS PLANT IS LEASED TO ALA. POWER CO.

Action Induced By Power Needs Of Cotton Mills In Georgia and Carolinas.

Sheffield.—Temporary lease of the federal steam power plant at Sheffield, terminable at will of Secretary Weeks on 30 days' notice, has been granted to the Alabama Power Company.

This action was induced by power need of cotton mills and other industries in Georgia and the Carolinas owing to low water and non-operation of water power plants. Relief has been extended in a limited way by the Alabama Power Company through connection of its power lines with those of Georgia, which, in turn, are connected with those of the Carolinas.

Power generated in steam plants at Gadsden and on the Warrior River is operating cotton mills and utilities in the Carolinas 400 miles from point of generation.

The temporary lease does not conflict with permanent disposal of the Muscle Shoals plant to Henry Ford. Terms of the lease especially provide against that.

Alabama Corn Crop.

Montgomery.—The acre-yield of corn in Alabama for 921, is estimated to be 15 bushels this year, compared with 15.7 last year and 14.5 in 1919. Reports indicate that of the total acreage planted this year above 13 per cent will be cut for silos and rough forage and grazed or hogged off, leaving 87 per cent to be gathered and cribbed. The amount cribbed would equal, therefore, about 63,394,000 bushels, of which 13.7 per cent is reported for sale. There will be, therefore, about 8,715,000 bushels of corn for sale from Alabama farms.

The final vote was 181 against 142.

The city is ready for the service, having recently numbered the houses in the sections to be served and erected sign posts containing numbers of streets and names and numbers of avenues.

ANOTHER RECORD SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Sunday School attendance at the Clanton Baptist Church took another leap forward last Sunday morning when 187 were present and contributed an offering of $8.32. Naturally the interest aroused by moving into the Sunday School department had something to do with this attendance but it is a forerunner of the future possibilities. It is expected that the number will reach 200 next Sunday and place the Sunday School on the banner roll of the churches in the State who have 200 or more present. It is hoped that all the teachers and pupils will work earnestly and faithfully to that end. The congregations were also good, and the services evidently much enjoyed even though they were not held in the beautiful auditorium. Some 200 people were present at the morning worship and two joined by baptism. A splendid spirit prevailed. The inclemency of the weather doubtless kept many away at night, but there was nevertheless a large number present. The lower part of the building was nicely heated and proved to be a very cosy place in which to worship. All the midweek services will be held in this part of the building. Preaching will be held here next Sunday as usual, to which every one is cordially invited.

A great work is going on. A splendid spirit on the whole is present. New members are ferquently being added and there is a strong evidence that the Spirit of God is working in our midst. If a Baptist we welcome you to join our fellowship and do great things for God. Visitors are earnestly invited to come and make themselves at home.

WORD TO THE WISE

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Brewton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin and she was filled with gas. That day I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and went and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising your medicine to everyone." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Anna Case at Montevallo.

The Alabma Technical Institute & College for Women at Montevallo, wishes to announce a change of date for the Anna Case concert which will be given in their auditorium on the evening of Saturday, November 19, instead of Thursday, 17, as was announced in these columns last week. Mrs. Nabors, of the Music Department points out the importance of every one within reach of Montevallo taking advantage of this attraction, as it is seldom such an Artist as Anna Case is to be heard outside of the large cities, and it is particularly a fine opportunity for the people of so small a town as Montevallo and nearby towns to hear a Soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company so notable and so perfect an artist as is Miss Case.

Southern Baptists Wage Vigorous Warfare Against Tuberculosis In This Section

ENTRANCE TO ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

In one of the most extensive fights that has ever been made by any religious body in America for the eradication of disease, Southern Baptists, through their Home Mission Board, have undertaken the task of combating tuberculosis in the 18 states comprising the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention. The first step in this direction was the recent establishment on a tract of 143 acres at El Paso, Texas, of the Southern Baptist Sanatorium, where $500,000 from the 75 Million Campaign has been invested and where $500,000 more will be placed by the end of the Campaign period. The institution is located at an altitude of 4,500 feet on the side of Mt. Franklin and commands an excellent view of the mountains of New Mexico, Western Texas and Old Mexico, whose border is only six miles distant. Dr. H. F. Vermillion is superintendent.

Included in this plant at present are the administration building, the newly completed women's infirmary and men's infirmary, a heating and refrigerating plant and the superintendent's quarters. Provided for in the building plans for the future are a medical and educational building, nurses' home, children's building, dormitories for convalescent patients, an occupational and vocational therapy building, chapel, laundry and minor structures.

150 People Die Daily.

Indicating the need of additional effort looking to the elimination of tuberculosis in the South, reliable figures gathered by the public health agencies of the South and the Nation show that there are 150 deaths daily from tuberculosis in the 18 states comprising the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention, making the annual death toll of the white plague in this section of the country alone 57,782. The death rate from tuberculosis is 14.2% higher in the South than in the Nation as a whole. One reason for the exceedingly high death rate in the South is the great prevalence of the plague among the negroes who are especially susceptible to tuberculosis, the death rate among them being three and one-half times that among the whites. But inasmuch as the negroes will doubtless continue to be intimately associated with the whites in domestic and other work in the future, the whites will never be safe from infection until the negroes, as well as the whites, have been freed from the plague.

It has been estimated that the total economic loss from the ravages of tuberculosis in the South is $175,000,000 a year, and in projecting their warfare against the plague the Baptists hope to greatly reduce this loss, as well as to save the life and promote the health and general efficiency of the whole people.

Would Educate the People.

In addition to providing treatment for persons who have already contracted tuberculosis, the sanatorium is carrying on an educational work that seeks to inform the public at large through the printed page, as to the danger of tuberculosis, how it can be avoided and how, once it is contracted, its progress can be arrested through proper sanitary measures at home. Other phases of the educational program include the training of workers inside the sanatorium and occupational and vocational work for patients. The extension department is widely disseminating literature on how to combat tuberculosis. An endowment fund that is being created for the institution will make possible a much larger circulation of literature and will also enable the institution to take care of indigent patients.

The sanatorium is at present seeking to devise special plans whereby it can serve the negroes of the South in combating tuberculosis. It is felt that the negroes' inability to help themselves in the matter entities them to this considearation and that this assistance should be given, furthermore, as a means of self-protection on the part of the whites.

Other Phases of Baptist Work.

In addition to the Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Southern Baptists have a string of seventeen regular hospitals in operation and seven others under course of construction. This hospital property is valued at approximately $7,000,000 and these institutions last year treated 46,000 patients many of them being charity cases. Southern Baptists also operate 19 orphanages in which approximately 5,000 orphan boys and girls are cared for, educated and trained for Christian citizenship.

SHOULTS NEWS

Rev. J. D. Deason preached his regular monthly sermons here Saturday and Sunday, but we are indeed sorry to say that only a small number attended; guess the bad weather kept some at home. But we know some people are always hunting for an excuse to keep them away from church services, and an excuse is very easily found. Winter is very near we know, but everyone should button on is overcoat and attend church services. It is very discouraging for the pastor to drive so far in the cold and preach to empty benches. The church met in conference on Saturday and elected a new clerk for the church. Miss Myrtle McAfee was elected, and Mr. Howard Oden re-elected as treasurer.

A B.Y.P.U. was successfully organized last Sunday afternoon. The officers elected were Misses Myrtle McAfee, Beatrice Little, Marie Thomas and Mr. Walker McKee. The Union will meet every Sunday afternoon in connection with prayer services.

Mr. and Mrs. Clanton Garrett delightfully entertained at their home last Saturday night, at a peanut parching. Refreshments were sold and quite a nice little sum was realized which will go for the repairing of the Methodist church. At the conclusion of the entertainment singing and prayer was enjoyed by a large attendance. All present reported a lovely time.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gibson of Macedonia, accompanied by their son, were the guests of their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McAfee last Sunday.

Mr. Walker McGee, who has been at Maylene for some time, is at home to the delight of his many friends.

Everybody rejoices to know that Mrs. J. R. McAfee is now improving. Her friends have been grieved because of her illness.

Mr. W. M. Thompson and sons are now running their lumber truck day and night.

Misses Beatrice Little and Marie Thomas were the guests of Miss Myrtle McAfee last Sunday at dinner.

Mr. Bush Shoults who has been for several years in the army, and spent some time in Germany, is at home with his mother at Lawley. He spent a few days with his brother, Sam Shoults of this community.

Mr. Lawyer McGee has moved into the house vacated by Mrs. Jane Merchant.

We regret to say at this time Mrs. Bill Hicks is very low.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ernest motored from Maplesville to this community on business one day last week.

Mr. W. M. Thompson, and sons and Mr. Henry Hicks motored to Selma last week.

BIG STILL CAPTURED NEAR MAPLESVILLE

County Officers Have Been Busy During the Past Week.

Sheriff John L. Gore reports the result of a raid made on a big still located 2 1-2 miles west of Maplesville on Tuesday. The outfit was in operation when the officers came upon the scene, but the man who was running it suceceded in getting away. There was found at the still seven gallons of newly made whiskey, and about 120 gallons of beer, all of which, together with the still. was destroyed.

Sheriff Gore went down to Montgomery Tuesday night and brought back four white men who had been arrested for breaking into a railroad car at Mt. Creek. Their names are William Kimbler, George Thompson, Henry Smith and George Warren, all strangers in this part of the country. They were arrested by police officers in Montgomery, who notified the Sheriff here. They are in the Chilton County jail now.

Last Sunday the Sheriff's officers arrested Alex Muro, an Italian, at Mitchell Dam, charged with selling whiskey. Alex was brought to Clanton and placed in jail. He has since been released on bond.

Upon another trip to Mitchell Dam during the past week the Sheriff's force arrested Cliff Braswell, white man and McKinley Cooper, charged with violating the prohibition laws. Both these men are in the county jail now.

Sheriff Gore says his office has been the busiest place in the county during the past ten days. In this period of time his office and force has served and completed over one hundred civil law suit cases.

A report was being circulated last Sunday that the entire force of Deputies and Sheriff Gore thrown in had been shot and killed in a raid which they were reported to have been conducting somewhere in the county. They even had Jim Grant killed with the bunch. That rumor did not get very far though before first one and then the other of the reported dead began to show up around the court house. When told of the report that had been circulated they replied like Mark Twain as he read an advance account of his own death, that the report was very much exaggerated.

TEAGHERS' EXTENSION WORK

Alabama to Get Road Money—Dallas Coon Hunters Organize—Alabama's Corn Crop—United Mine Workers Sued For $100,000.

Verbena.—As the work progresses at Mitchell Dam on the Coosa River, much interest is shown by visitors in the improved and modern equipment which is being used in the construction of the dam. This week was marked by the installation of the electric-driven locomotives on the job, which operate by a third-rail, instead of having an overhead wire like street cars.

These electric locomotives, which will be used in hauling material entering into the construction of the dam, are not as large as the common dinkey seen around iron furnaces. However, the electric locomotives possess greater pulling power than the little steam driven dinkies. The current for operating the electric locomotives and the other electric equipment on the job is brought in over transmission lines connected with Lock 12, another completed dam belonging to the Alabama Power Company, Mitchell Dam is only about 14 miles below Lock 12 on the Coosa River.

Satisfactory progress is being made on the east and west cableway towers, which will support the large cables, 1,400 feet in length, which will span the Coosa River at this point. The cable-ways will be operated by electric hoists and will be used in conveying material for the dam construction.

Practically all of the water has been pumped out of the 1,600-foot cofferdam, which was closed about two weeks ago, and rapid progress is now being made on foundation excavation for the first section of the dam. A nest of rock drills is kept busy day and night on this portion of the work, drilling holes for blasting out the surface rock.

Material for construction of the dam is hauled over the Mitchel Dam railroad, which is eight miles in length, and which connects with the main line of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad at Coopers. The Power Company operates its own equipment over this short line railroad.

The sewer lines in the camp have been laid, and filter plants, water tanks, etc., are being constructed to provide a modern water system in the camp. The water supply will be pure and wholesome, this being essential to the health of the workmen on the project. It will take approximately two years to complete this project.

Teachers' Extension Work.

Evergreen.—W. R. Bennett, of Evergreen, superintendent of education for Conecuh County, states that more teachers are engaged in extension work in Conecuh County than in any other county in Alabama. By extension work is meant the taking of lessons in teacher training while the teachers are in service. Conecuh County's schools have the biggest attendance this year in their history, he says, adding that health, education and music is being stressed in every school in the county. Superintendent Bennett, while a caller at the office of Dr. John W. Abercrombie, state superintendent of education, said Evergreen's new city school which is being erected at a cost of $50,000, will be ready for occupancy by January 1, 1922.

Montgomery.—When a railroad collects a freight rate in conformity with tariffs on file with the public service commission and approved by the commission, it does no more than comply with the law and any person who believes the rate to be excessive must take the complaint to the public service commission instead of the courts, under a decision of the supreme court in the case of the T. COMMISSIONERS SAY WORK PUBLIC ROADS

ALL HANDS MUST WORK TEN DAYS OF TEN HOURS EACH PER YEAR.

To the Road Apportioners and Overseers of the Public Roads in Chilton County, Alabama:

Each Apportioner is hereby requested to notify each Road Overseer in his district that he must work each hand assigned him on the public road for ten days of ten hours each day during this year as is provided for by section 8 of the Chilton County Road Law.

Every Overseer is urged to immediately summons all hands which have been apportioned to him and which have not worked the required time, to work balance of time on public roads at once.

Each Apportioner is hereby requested to prosecute every overseer who fails or refuses to work his hands 10 days of 10 hours each day, during this year.

Each Overseer is hereby requested to prosecute all road hands who fail or refuse to work 10 days of 10 hours each day during this year.

We insist that the work on the roads be done at once so as to be completed before the winter rains begin as one days work now will do more good than several days work after the winter rains have begun.

PROTECT COTTON BALES

Farmers, Protect Your Cotton from Weather Damage, Don't leave it In the Open; Store it in Warehouse or under Other Suitable Cover.

A series of experiments conducted recently by the Bureau of Markets have shown that a bale of cotton placed out in the open, flat on the ground with no covering, was damaged to the extent of 370 pounds at the end of eight months. Another bale placed on edge, with no further attention, lost 167 pounds. A bale on edge and turned over once a week lost 110 pounds. A bale placed on timbers off the ground and turned once a week lost 49 pounds, and a bale placed on timbers and covered with tarpaulin lost but 14 pounds. A WAREHOUSED BALE OF COTTON DURING THE SAME PERIOD LOST ONLY 1 POUND.

Damage in one season alone from exposure to weather has been estimated at $70,000,000.

Specialist in Cotton Classing.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

BUY YOUR STOCK IN HOSPITAL

People who subscribed for stock in the Central Alabama Hospital are urged to buy and pay for same now. The work on the building is rapidly progressing, and the money is needed to pay the bills that will soon be coming due. If you have not done so, call upon Dr. Gragg and Dr. Marcus and tell them you are ready for your stock. If you will go up and take a look at the nice building that is going up you will be proud that you have an opportunity to own a part of this magnificent structure. And then when the great work that is going to be done by this institution gets into operation, you will be still prouder than ever tnat you are a part of it.

MORE BUILDING NEEDED

Every week brings to us more and more the need of additional business houses in Clanton. These evidences are not visionary either. They are actual demands and applications for stores to rent. There would have been already this fall at least half a dozen more stores opened up here if there had been available business houses that could have been secured. There are a number of vacant lots in the business district of Clanton that would look much better if they had nice buildings on them. And every one of those buildings could be rented before the construction is completed. Then along with a dozen more business buildings we need a like number of residences.

LEVERETT-PARNELL

Mrs. Anna Parnell of Selma announces the engagament and approaching marriage of her daughter, Eunice Lee, to Mr. Aubrey Leverett, of Selma, the wedding to take place Friday, Nov. 25th at the home of the bride.

DON'T DO IT, HENRY

We like Henry Ford and desire to see him do well, be we must tell him that if he has any serious notion of trying 20-day farming in the South he is going to drop some of his surplus millions. He was quoted recently as saying that under present-day conditions American farmers needn't work more than 20 days a year, not counting harvesting time. He says modern machinery is capable of reducing the former's work-days to that minimum. The rest of the time he would be free to frolic and work in factories.

Mr. Ford's 20-day plan might possibly work out in a wheat country like the Middle West, but wheat-growing represents a comparatively small part of the interests of American farmers. In Alabama 20-day farming won't work out. We have seen it tried in a few isolated cases. We have seen farmers who didn't work much more than 20 days in the year, even though they had no tractors and mowing machines. They worked 20 or 30 days and gave the rest of their time to sports of field and stream and to all day singings. Fortunately their number is not large. Successful farmers tell us that agriculture is the one calling in which the workers need a year 420 days long. They hope Mr. Ford will not back his 20-day theory with his money in the cotton belt. They'd hate to see a good man ruined.—Montgomery Advertiser.

CLLLINS CHAPEL SCHOOL

We shall render a Thanksgiving Program at the School buiding on Thursday night, Nov. 24th. The admission will be 15c. The proceeds will go for school purposes. Come help us out and you will not regret it.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

AHEAD OF TIME

This week THE UNION-BANNER comes to its readers one day ahead of the usual time. This is on account of the fact that Thursday is Thanksgiving Day, a legal holiday, and the Mail Carriers will not make their usual Thursday rounds. We prefer to go to our subscribers a day ahead of time, rather than wait till Friday and thereby be a day behind time.

And then also we prefer to mail the paper ahead of the holiday rather than after it, for the convenience of the Mail Carriers. When they take a holiday off, the accumulation of two days mail makes a double duty for them on the day after a holiday. Therefore we somewhat lighten their Friday's load by mailing our paper Wednesday.

ODEN-BICE WEDDING

On last Thursday morning, Nov. 17 at 10:30 o'clock, a quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lenoir. Mr. W. M. Oden of near Lawley was married to Mrs. Bice of Billingsley. Rev. Gilbert of Maplesville performed the ceremony.

People traveling the highway between Clanton and Thorsby are delighted to see the vast number of White Leghorns at the farm of Dr. Mastin. This is the biggest chicken business in this part of the country, and is one of the best revenue-producing enterprises that can be established for farmers.

BOX SUPPER

There will be a box supper, Saturday night, Dec. 3rd, at Union Point School House, five miles east of Claton, near Refuge church, for the benefit of the school. Everybody is invited. We especially invite girls of adjoining communities to come and bring boxes.

FAIRVIEW

The death angel came to the home of A. C Miner on the 15 night of this month, and taken our husband, father and grand-father from us. It is so hard to give him up though we know he has finished here on earth and is at rest. We know the Lord does all things right. We want to thank our neighbors and friends for their faithful love and respects rendered to him.

He was 85 years and one day old. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Fannie Mims, two daughters, Mrs. Reckie An Smith and Mrs. Mollie Scott, and two granddaughters.

Rev. P. G. Carter went to Birmingham Tuesday as a delegate from Chilton County to the Alabama Highway Association. With the presence of Mr. Carter in this great statewide meeting, we can feel assured that Clanton and Chilton County will be heard from.

Mr. Alva Wade of Birmingham was in Clanton last Sunday, visiting his brother, Mr. J. Q. Wade.

SOME INFLATION

Speaking of the days of the inflated dollar, old Si Chestnut said: "By gum, it's a fact that for a time, a nickle's worth of oat straw and four cents worth of turkey feathers rigged up as a woman's hat, would fetch more than the price of a yearling calf."

In fact, we all felt the effects of the inflated dollar. Getting the inflation out of the dollar is something like getting over the effects of a "jag" in the days before home brew became popular. Dollars are valuable now, be cause their purchasing power has increased, which is all the more reason why you should save them. May we held you

SENATOR HEFLIN WILL SEND GOVERNMENT BULLETINS

The Union-Banner has received a letter from U. S. Senator Tom Heflin, in which he offers to send certain government bulletins to anyone who may request them. The substance of his letter follows:

"It might be of interest to a number of people in Chilton County if you would publish the fact that I can have sent to them publications from the U. S. Geological Survey on the question of graphite, mica, clay, fluorspar, the Clay-mining industry in 1920, Production of Fluorspar in 1920, and also information concerning the test of comparative values of Alabama graphite with Madagascar, Ceylon, and Canada graphites. You might state in your paper that if either of these publications would be of interest, if you would write me I would be glad to request that they be furnished the applicants.

"There is also a paper, "Properties of American Bond Clays and Their Use in Graphite Crucibles" and "Mining and Preparing Domestic Graphite for Crucible Use," and it is also possible to secure publications on "Behavior under Brass Foundry Practice of Crucibles containing Ceylon, Canadian and Alabama Graphites." The last named contributions were prepared and published by Mr. R. T. Stull, Bureau of Mines, Columbus, Ohio, who is looked upon as a very high authority.

"I would be glad if you would publish this information so that I may be able to supply those that may have use for them.

"Whenever I can serve you, call on me.

With best wishes, I am,
"Yours sincerely,
"J. THOMAS HEFLIN."

GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

The net result of all the efforts in behalf of the Clanton Baptist Sunday School by pastor, teachers and students during the last week was a total attendance last Sunday of 216. This school started out with a record attendance of 161 on the last Sunday of worship in the old church. That record was broken with an attendance of 187 on the first Sunday in the new church. That record and all other records in the history of Clanton was broken on last Sunday by an attendance of 216. We could not see but one thing wrong about that great Sunday school last Sunday. There ought to have been a larger number of mammys and daddys there. If the mothers and fathers of all the children who were present had been there the attendance would have gone over 250. The little folks are doing their part nobly. We hope the old folks will come across now and help keep the attendance above 200 every Sunday.

Uncle Tom Bates of Providence Beat 16, was among the visitors to Clanton last Saturday. He took a look at the new building being erected for the permanent home of The Union-Banner and said that he hoped the friends of the paper throughout the county would rally around The Banner and stay with it till its home is permanently established. We appreciate the kindly interest of old and tried friends like Uncle Tom.

UNION SERVICES FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

CLANTON CHURCHES WILL ALL UNITE IN SERVICE AT BAPTIST CHURCH.

There is to be a union Thanksgiving service at the Clanton Baptist Church at ten o'clock Thursday. The Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches of Clanton are uniting on this occasion. Special music has been provided under direction of Miss Robetra Curry of the Baptist Church, Mrs. J.D. Armstrong of the Methodist Church and Mr. Percy M. Pitts of the Presbyterian Church. A special Thanksgiving sermon will be preached by Rev. P. G. Carter of the Baptist Church.

It is hoped that the people of Clanton will turn out for this service, which is designed to express the thanks of the entire City of Clanton for the many good things that have come to us during the year just past. We certainly have reason to be thankful, and therefore we should come out and publicly express our thanks to the Almighty power that bestows all blessings upon us.

SHOULTS

Rev. Gilbert filled his regular appointment at Pleasant Hill Methodist church last Sunday afternoon. The B. Y. P. U. met before preaching services and rendered an interesting program.

The friends of Mr. Mack Oden will be interested to learn of his marriage to Mrs. Bice, on last Thursday. Rev Gilbert of Maplesville performed the ceremony at the home of Mr. Luther Lenior of Clanton, half brother of Mr. Oden. This couple is well known in this county. Mr. Oden a very progressive farmer of this community and Mrs. Bice, of near Clanton, the widow of Rev. Bice, who has been dead several years. We extend to this couple our most hearty congratulations.

Miss Beatrice Little, accompanied by one of her pupils, Miss Allie Walker, spent last week-end with home folks at Coopers.

Mr. C. T. Walker went to Clanton last week to attend commissioners court.

Dr. C. N. Parnell and family of Maplesville, returned home with Mr. Oden and his bride after the marriage last Thursday.

Misses Myrtle and Mattie McAfee, and brothers, Brady, Johnie and Bennie, entertained a number of friends at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McAfee, at a musical last Saturday night. These young people are noted for their hospitality, and it is a privilege to be invited to their home.

Mr. Sam McAfee of near Randolph spent Saturday night with his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McAfee.

Mrs. Sam Shoults spent Saturday night with her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. H. Shoults, at Lawley.

Mr. Fred Oden was the guest of Mr. Walker McGee last Saturday night.

On last Friday morning Mrs. Catherine Hicks, wife of Mr. Bill Hicks, died at her home near Lawley, after a long illness. She is survived by her husband and several children. Mrs. Hicks was 80 years old, and a member of the Baptist Church at Rehoboth, near Lawley. She was loved by all who knew her. How she is going to be missed! But God knew best to take her away. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mills of Tuscaloosa and pastor of Rehoboth Church, last Saturday afternoon, at Rehoboth.

Mr. A. C. Maness spent a few days at home last week with his mothe, Mrs. Mattie Maness.

Mr. W. M. Thompson and Mr. Perry Hicks spent a few hours with Mr. Willie Lawrence at Tabernacle last Sunday.

Clanton booming! Why? Because we have a live Chamber of Commerce. Don't you see?

The outstanding need of Clanton to-day is more business houses and residences for rent. Property owners should take this hint and start some buildings. They could be rented to pay good interest on the investment.

What would you say if somebody should tell you that there is now being built in Clanton a building that, when completed, will surpass the Clanton Baptist Church in beauty and architecture? Understand now that we are not risking ourselves against the wrath of Pastor Carter by making that statement; but you just wait till the Central Alabama Hospital is completed and then compare the two buildings.

You may wonder why Clanton is becoming so well known up and down the State of Alabama. The reason is very simple. Our close proximity to the vast development of the Alabama Power Company makes us widely known for one thing. Then besides all that, we have a live Chamber of Commerce that bobs up her and there and causes many people to take notice of our town. This organization has done more than any other local agency in the past to put our town and county on the map. Every property owner in Clanton ought to be a member of the Chamber of Commerce and lend loyal support to the development of the town. For all development inceases the value of property.

The Clanton Chamber of Commerce now has an office up stairs over Upchurch Drug Store. It is occupied chiefly by Mr. R. D. Busbee, our traffic manager and rate clerk, who has already arrived upon the scene. Tell him all your troubles about freight rates, losses, damages, etc., if you are a member of the Chamber of Commerce. He will adjust them for you. If you are not a member, join now and get these privileges which will bring back to you more actual money than your dues will cost you. If you want to join, you should see the Secretary, whom you doubtless know, in the person of a certain little preacher by the name of P. G. Carter.

PUTTING HARNESS ON NATURE

It is wonderful how the force of nature can be controled by the ingenuity of mere men. When Capt. Lay first began to come to Clanton and talk about damming up Coosa River, people laughed at his theory. They didn't even believe he had any idea of doing such an impossible thing. They said that fellow knows better than such as that. He is just talking that stuff to keep us from knowing what he is really up to. He is some crank who is hunting for a gold mine out here in these hills, and just talks about damming up the river to keep people from catching on to his foolish mission here. Now you can't find anybody who says the force of the mighty Coosa River is beyond human control. The control which the Alabama Power Company has over the Coosa is not confined to that river alone. By the connection of hundreds of miles of copper wires, the rivers of Georgia and the Carolinas are controled by the same dams that control the Coosa. How's that, you may ask. Well here's how it is. When the waters of those rivers over there get too low to generate electric power, they just turn on the juice from Coosa River which turns their wheels until nature sends more rains to fill up their rivers and make them strong enough to develop their power. That's wonderful indeed, isn't it? But it is human control over the extremes of nature just the same.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company now has a hustling young man, Mr. Carpenter, in charge of their business in Clanton. Many more phones are being added to their local system here and the service is being broadened and improved in may ways.

LONG DISTANCE POWER

For a long time it has been a common practice to carry messages over long distances by the employment of wires and other devices of the telephone mechanism. But we have reached the time when we see the greater enactment of long distance communication extended into the realm of power development. The achievement was begun recently when the Alabama Power Company instituted measures that will utilize power developed at Muscle Shoals to turn factory wheels throughout the states of Georgia and the Carolinas. This enterprising Alabama company heard the cry coming from our neighbor states, of factories shut down and people out of work because of low water on their rivers and a consequent lack of energy to turn their wheels of industry. Rallying to this cry the Alabama Power Company secured a lease on one of the big government steam plants at Muscle Shoals, and by the first of December they will be furnishing electric power from that plant to run cotton mills as far north as the city of Charlotte, in North Carolina, a distance of over 400 miles.

This action of the Alabama Power Company is deserving of praise in that it means that many people will be restored to their work and their names placed back on weekly payrolls by the resumption of operations by mills and factories upon which they depend for the daily bread and clothing of their families. It means that the consumption of much raw cotton by factories in those states will continue, which in turn will draw that raw cotton from the markets of the South. The beneficial influences of this step of the Power Company will be felt directly in many cases that the average person may never think about.

Then there is a future in this proposition that makes it of much more local interest to Clanton and Chilton County. It is very probable that the government will make some permanent disposition of its Muscle Shoals properties in the near future. Thereupon, the lease of the Alabama Power Company will of course terminate. But that company will make clients and users of their power in these distant states before they have to give up the Muscle Shoals plant. In fact they are making a vast market for their electrical power even today throughout Georgia and the Carolinas. Those markets will be permanent. They will not be taken away from the Alabama Power Company when the government takes Muscle Shoals back again.

Then we may see, if we look into the future, the Alabama Power Company with a vast market for their power in our neighbor states. Also we see in that future the completion of Mitchell Dam, which is now in course of construction. The net result of all these little glimpses behind the curtain of the years to come (and they are not far away) is this: Our own Coosa River, as she glides over the silvery shoals that ornament the eastern border of Chilton County, will be, through the instrumentality of Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam, turning factory wheels all the way from the city of Selma on the south of us, to the far eastern slope of the Appalachian Mountains of the State of North Carolina.

But that is not all, beautiful as the picture appears. We would miss half the beauty of this picture of the future if we should fail to behold the vast fleet of river steamers that will some day ply the waters of the Coosa from Rome, Georgia to the Gulf of Mexico, in the service of the great agricultural and industrial districts that are strewn by the hand of nature from one end of the Coosa valley to the other.

How useless it seems to try to describe these wonderful things of the future in a brief newspaper article. It would take a book of a thousand pages to do the subject justice. We shall console ourselves with the hope that we may live through these promising years of the future and that we shall be permitted to see the plans of the Alabama Power Company reach the highest peak of perfection both in the development of power and navigation. We may never be able to write a book describing this development; and we may never be able to write a newspaper article long enough to do it; but we shall write about it, as much as we can, and as often as we can. It is such a beautiful future that we cannot avoid mention of it every once in a while.

Rev. P. G. Carter returned from the State Baptist Convention at Troy last week with many good things to say to his Baptist congregation relative to Baptist work and progress in Alabama. He stated that the Convention in Troy was a very successful occasion, and was royally entertained by the people of that city.

Burns Marsh of Blocton was a visitor to Clanton last Sunday.

Emmett McKee of Birmingham spent last Sunday in Clanton visiting his father, and mother, Mr. and Mrs. B. McKee.

NATIONAL ISSUES NOT INVOLVED

Washington, Nov. 22. — "Democrats profess to find much encouragement in the winning of a majority in the legislature of Kentucky which had been made Republican by the election of 1919, and the winning by Democratic candidates of a few seats in other legislatures and mayoralties in several cities," remarks the Republican Publicity Association, thru its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. The statement then continues: "These elections, not involving national politics in any way and held in an off year, are really indicative of very little. Local issues and the personalities of the rival candidates were the dominating influences in determining the vote. The only recent elections which have had a national significance were the election of a Senator in New Mexico and the election of a Congressman in Massachusetts.

"The election of a member of the national legislative body inevitably involves national issues and, except unusual circumstances, the national issues are dominating. In these particular instances the campaigns were conducted in such a way as to make the outcome solely an expression on national policy. In both instances Republican candidates were elected, and by pluralities practically the same as those given in 1920.

"No Republican familiar with national politics has any idea that the Republican party will be able to retain permanently its present majorities in the Senate and House of Representatives. The election of 1920 has never been construed to be an accurate indication of the division of public sentiment in the United States as between Democrats and Republicans. The overwhelming defeat of the Democratic nominee in 1920 was largely a repudiation of Wilsonism and a rejection of the league of nations, which was a foreign rather than a domestic issue. Some of the 7,000,000 votes which made up the plurality against the Democratic nominee were the votes of Democrats who could not stand for the Socialistic tendencies of their party under the leadership of McAdoo, Wilson, Palmer, etal. Under a saner leadership some of those Democrats would undoubtedly again vote the Democratic ticket. Others will continue in the Republican ranks, but it may very reasonably be expected that under ordinary conditions and with ordinary issues involved, the Democrats would poll a larger vote than they did in 1920.

"It is not to be expected, by any means, that the reaction which is sure to come will be extensive enough to enable the Democrats to win a victory. The people of the United States are in harmony with the principles and teachings of the Republican party. This is demonstrated by the fact that since Lincoln's time, covering 13 presidental terms, only four terms have been filled by Democrats. The election of Wilson in 1912 was not due to support of Democratic principles by a majority of the voters, but was brought about solely by a division in Republican ranks which put two Republican candidates in the field who together polled a majority vote of the country although neither of them received as many votes as the Democratic nominee. Wilson's second election was brought about by the false but persuasive plea that "he kept us out of war." Only twice since the Civil War, and that in the two elections of Cleveland, has the country given its support to Democratic policies on the issues as presented by the platforms.

"Quite likely some Congressional Districts that are normally Democratic and were carried by the Republicans by narrow margins may return to the Democratic column. The number of these, however, will be few. Barring any grievous mistakes and not on the least probable, the Republicans will retain control of both Houses of Congress for many years to come and will certainly elect their candidate to the presidency for a dozen years at least, and probably much longer."

WAY OPENED FOR PEACEFUL MEANS

GREAT COMMONER SEES NEW HOPE FOR WORLD IN ARMS PARLEY.

What a lesson in international morality! The language of diplomacy is sometimes used for the concealing of ideas; crafty suggestions and crafty answers pass between crafty diplomatists and they are approved by crafty politicans.

Government controlled by a few slefish ends has often continued over periods of years because those in authority had force to back them and because the people were ignorant of the real ends pursued. The present conference has set a new precedent and its practically unanimous approval proves that "honesty is the best policy," even in international affairs.

The Heart of the World.

The heart of the world is sound; the mind may be misled by sophistry but the heart of the multitude responds to an appeal made to its language that can be understood.

The people can understand what "one half" means, whether it is half of a loaf or half of a navy. They know what "ten years" means 120 months, 520 weeks, 3652 days—a period of relief from war, such an amount of relief from the burdens of war as has never come to the human race before in all of its history.

Is it strange that the world is happy? Is it strange that politicans, regardless of their private views, fall into line and applaud? There is contagion in a crowd.

Every one who has attended a national political convention of either of the great parties continues to show enthusiasm which will spread until cold hearts become warm and skeptics become enthusiasts.

A staid delegate who would have wagered that nothing could move him, catches the spirit of the crowd, jumps on a chair, waves his coat and yells and then, when the excitement is over, wipes the perspiration from his face and wonders what it was that got him in such a frenzy.

More Than Politics.

This is more than a political convention and this stirring of the heart is not as ephemeral as a wave of applause. It looks as if the world is to be born again.

It swings from the philosophy of Neitzsche to the philosophy of Christ. It may take some time to settle down to the new philosophy but when the world starts to disarm, other things come as a matter of course. Neitzsche taught that war was not only necessary but desirable; this conference declares that war is not only undesirable but unnecessary. It has started out to abolish war and that means that the whole basis of international relations is to be changed.

The same reason that leads to the reduction of navies will lead to the reduction of the armies. In fact, in this country, the demand for the reduction of the army is more unanimous than the demand for the reduction of the navy.

The East.

And what about the Far Eastern question and the Far Western question and the foreign questions of every kind? They will cease to be questions of importance when navalism and militarism disappear. When "come let us reason together" is substituted for ultimatums backed by force, all questions are easy of settlement. If my reasoning is sound it is easy to forecast the action of the conference; it will be in harmony with the action taken on battleships.

The way is now open for peaceful methods for the adjustment of international disputes and some tribunal for the consideration of these disputes becomes a matter of necessity.

Since the three preceding numbers have been chiefly of the nature of concerts, this one will introduce a pleasing change. Mr. V. S. Watkins (Intepreter) is one of the most popular of "Redpath Chautauqua" entertainers, the kind that people all want to hea at every opportunity. His character impersonation from book or story enables the audience to see and hear the people he represents. Mr. Watkins' repertoire is large and he has not yet announced his subject, possibly he prefers to get a glimpse of his audience before he decides what will fit them best.

A game f Basket Ball played on Thorsby Institute Campus by the Institute, Owen Sappington, coach, against Coosa County High Scool, from Rockford, resulted in a score of 35 for Thorsby to 14 for Rockford.

Thorsby Basket Ball team will play Montevallo team at Calera on Friday afternoon, Nov. 25th.

Then on Thursday afternoon when everybody is well fed up, a lot of the young people and some older ones pile into conveyances and go out to the farm for a "Singfest" interspersed with good speaking. Preparations have been made to keep up the custom this year.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will be entertined on Friday afternoon, November 25th at the home of Mrs. C. S. Howard. Note the change from Thursday on account of Tanksgiving.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the Congregational Church at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, to which all who desire to attend suc service are cordially invited. There will be no service that day in either of the other churches in Thorsby. Let everyone come prepared to contribute something for the Near East Relief, as that has been decided to be a worthy object for Thanksgiving offering.

Mrs. May Hastings Hottage has been quite seriously ill for several days.

How To Get Relief From Rheumatism

Scientists Agree That the Cause Is Due to Waste Products In the Blood.

The blood is the means by which all tissues, muscles, ligaments and flesh of the body are directly or indirectly nourished. It is also thru the blood stream that worn-out tissues and waste products are cast out of the system.

When waste products accumulate, they are a menace to life. They cause a lowered vitality, many skin disorders and rheumatism. Genuine relief from the agonies of rheumatism can be had only by correcting the basic trouble—waste products.

Thousands and thousands of men and women during the past 50 years have cleared their blood of waste products with S. S. S. It is the ideal remedy for rheumatism, because it removes the poisonous waste matter which is causing the trouble. There are no bad after effects and the result is wonderful. Begin taking S. S. ACCEPTANCE OF FORD OFFER IS TO BE EXPECTED

FORD AND U. S. ENGINEERS MAKE ESTIMATES OF COST OF COMPLETION.

STEEL RAILS GO TO JAPAN

Walker Building Good Roads—Poles To Develop Alabama Mineral Lands—Morgan Farmers To Organize—Judge Herzberg Says Woman Should Be Juvenile Judge.

Washington.—Acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant virtually has been decided upon by the Harding administration.

This was learned from high official sources when the automobile manufacturer came to Washington to discuss details of his proposals with Secretary of War Weeks.

Mr. Ford stated shortly before the conference that he is prepared to remove one of the administration's main objections to the acceptance of his offer under which the government will eventually receive between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000.

Backed by his engineers, Mr. Ford said he would inform Secretary Weeks he could complete the Wilson dam, using Ford engineers and Ford efficiency methods for the government at a cost of between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000.

War Department engineers have asserted that the cost of completing the plant for Mr. Ford would be from $28,000,000 to $50,000,000, and Secretary Weeks has taken the position that Congress might balk at such a large appropriation. The Ford offer requires that the government complete the plant. This work mainly will be to finish the Wilson dam, from which 600,000 horsepower will be developed.

Other than this, he will make no new proposals and will stand pat on his original offer.

Steel Rails To Japan.

Mobile.—Birmingham steel rails, which have been going to China and Japan in quantities and at short intervals this year, continue to move out of Mobile. Latest movement is that of 2,045 tons of rails and in addition there were 545,000 pounds of steel angles, which are rail accessories, and are also manufactured by the Tennessee company. Shipments was by the Japanese steamer Portland Maru, which is the second Japanese vessel to carry this kind of cargo recently.

Sheffield.—Shippers and the public generally have manifested considerable interest in the announcement from Cincinnati of the plans of Henry Ford to inaugurate a fleet of motor self-propelled cargo vessels, calculated to operate from Ironton, O., on the Ohio River Southern terminus of his railroad, to Muscle Shoals, should Mr. Ford be successful in leasing the big dam.

If the plans of Mr. Ford are put into execution the South generally, it is stated, will feel the effects of improved transportation facilities, and especially will the territory along the Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio Rivers be benefited. Ford experts, according to the Cincinnati dispatch, are now designing a number of model boats which will prove adaptable for the program of river transportation such as the Detroit manufacturer has planned. It is known that Mr. Ford has recently compiled considerable data on Southern transportation problems and has devoted himself to an exhaustive study of the advisability of co-ordinating river and rail facilities for the solution of traffic problems. Birmingham shippers feel that in this enterprise its success will mark an epoch unparalleled in transportation development in the South.

It is stated that Hunt and Company of Chicago, have contracted to get out 500 tons daily within a few months after openings are started.

COOSA TO DEVELOP GADSDEN SECTION

RIVER TO BE GREATEST PRODUCING STREAM IN COUNTRY EXPERTS REPORT.

Gadsden, Ala., Nov. 16.—The fact that it is claimed the Coosa River has greater power possibilities than the Muscle Shoals project on the Tennessee River will be brought to the attention of the public in the near future by the local chamber of commerce after its reorganization next Thursday night and it is believed that it will have the effect of drawing more capital and manufacturing enterprises into the Gadsden district and other sections of the state.

Potentially the Coosa River is considered probably the greatest hydro-electric project in the United States and when the Alabama Power Company completes all of the plant now building and contemplated, it will actually furnish more power than any stream in the United States, it is Claimed.

Plant at Locks 3, 7, 12, Duncan's Riffle and Lock 13 will produce much more power than the Muscle Shoals plant. The latter will be a single project and if anything goes wrong with it there will be no reserve. With five plants on the Coosa and two emergency steam plants, there will always be ample power for every demand. When the great storage basin is built in Georgia the power on the Coosa will be practically doubled.

There is no disposition here to make light of the Muscle Shoals project. It is the largest single power possibility wholly within the United States and is rightly regarded as one of the big assets of the nation, but local business men state that the development now under way on the Coosa will eventually eclipse anything possible at Muscle Shoals.

Experts who have recently gone over the Coosa River have reported that the plant at Lock 12 is the last word in hydro-electric construction and is the finest of its kind. With four others just like it, all carrying the latest improvements and inventions, the Coosa will be the greatest power producing stream in the country, these experts report.

A THING OF BEAUTY AND A JOY FOREVER

HOSPITAL WILL BE A LASTING MONUMENT TO ITS BUILDERS.

A visit to the Central Alabama Hospital, now in process of construction, would convince the most skeptical that Clanton is really and truly going to have a first class modern hospital in the very near future. This work is making splendid progress under direction of Mr. Ed Plier. The brick-laying force, the recruiting of which has been somewhat slow, owing to the fact that pressed brick layers are hard to find idle, is now about up to the demands of the job, and the work is moving forward rapidly.

The concrete and brick work of the basement are nearing completion, and already the walls of the first story are being laid into shape. The plans of Mr. Plier contemplate a building of the utmost beauty of design, and the very last word in convenience and comfort for hospital purposes.

When we contemplate the beauty of this building after it is completed, and think of the usefulness it is going to be to our city and county, we are constrained to say that it is going to be a great monument to the men who have made it possible by putting their time and means into its building. In the years that are to come the future citizenship of Clanton and Chilton County are going to have a just pride in this hospital, and none the less will be thei pride in the memory of the men who built it for their benefit.

We urge you to drive up that way at your leisure and take a look at what is being done. We feel like you will be proud of our hospital.

DESPAIR LURKS IN WEAK BLOOD

GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN, THE BLOOD-BUILDER, AROUSES DULL FACULTIES.

Many a man and many a wman feels all out of sorts from thin, weakened blood. The least little thing gone wrong throws them into a wild form of despondency. Instead of bracing up and meeting ordinary difficulties, they are downed. Nerves are on edge. Appetite lags. Sleep is restless. They are weak and tired and dull. Poor blood works its havoc till the will loses its power. Few people who fall into habits of despondency realize that most of their troubles are due to lack of endurance—to the blood that has become weakened by overwork or straining.

Healthy men and women with rich red blood see thigs brightly. They tackle life with zest and go long smilingly, full of eagerness and endurance.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken steadily restored the blood to its natural richness. It actually makes red corpuscles, the tiny particles in blood which make it red. Druggists have Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form.—Adv.

The Board of Registrars of Chilton County, composed of J. W. E. Gulledge, Chairman, and H. B. Oliver, of Verbena and J. R. Parnell of Thorsby, had a meeting in Clanton last Saturday, at which time they prepared a list of names which are proposed to be striken from tne list of voters of Chilton County. This list is published in this issue of The Union-Banner. Hearing will be held by this Board on the second Monday in December to hear reasons why such names should not be stricken from the list of voters in this County. The names on this list are supposed to be those who are dead or removed from the county, or otherwise disqualified as legal voters here.

FORD CAR FOR SALE—2 passenger, with self starter. Apply to Dr. Arthur Johnson.

The editor of The Union-Banner visited the home of Mr. Alf Mims on Monday afternoon. Mr. Mims took great delight in showing us his chicken farm which he has started off in spledid shape. He is erecting a nice little building for the accomodation of his fowls, which at present are about 150 in number. He raises White Leghorns.

Friends of Mrs. L. H. Reynolds will be glad to learn that she is able to be at home after several days treatment in an infirmary in Montgomery.

Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute, as its first directing head. The tentative governing body contains a number of the most prominent negroes of the state.

Walker Building Good Road.

Jasper.—That good progress is being made in the construction of the federal aid highway from McCollum to Sanders Ferry is the report of County Highway Commissioner L. C. Britton. This road is a link of the Bankhead Highway. It starts three miles west of the business section of Jasper and runs to the city limits, a distance of two miles, then, starting at the city limits east of town, it runs to Sanders Ferry, a distance of eight miles. Jerry Gwin, of Birmingham, has the contract to build the road for $123,000. It is to be a gravel road.

Kaulton Poultry Association

Kaulton.—Kaul Lumber Company employes took another forward step when they organized the Kaulton Poultry association. There are probably more enthusiastic chicken breeders in the Kaulton vicinity than in any other place of its size in the state and with this organization much more can be accomplished the ensuing year than ever before.

Campaign for K. of P. Home.

Montgomery.—At a conference in Montgomery between Hugo Black, of Birmingham, grand chancellor; Allen Crenshaw, Andalusia, past grand chancellor and chairman of the Knights of Pythias Home Fund, and district deputies, plans were outlined for a campaign for funds. This campaign will have for its object the raising of sufficient money to begin the construction of the Alabama state home for widows and orphans of members of the Knights of Pythias order in Alabama.

Highway Named For Craft.

Mobile.—The concrete highway between Mobile and Chickasaw, to be constructed with state and federal funds, will be known as the Craft Highway. Senator Craft, for whom the road is named, is the author of the $25,000,000 state highway bond amendment, under the provisions of which the road will be built, and has been one of the most ardent advocates of good roads for many years. The contract for the road will be awarded by the state highway commission Nov. 29.

Gadsden-Birmingham Highway.

Gadsden. — Instructions from the state highway commission authorized the county commissioners to proceed with the construction of the Ashville road from the city limits to the St. Clair County line. The contract was awarded to the county some time ago. The road will be paved with asphaltic concrete for a distance of a little over nine miles. It is a part of the Gadsden-Birmingham highway. St. Clair and Jefferson Counties are preparing to take it on to Birmingham.

Morgan Farmers to Organize.

Hartselle.—It is announced by County Agent W. J. Johnston that an important series of farmer's meetings will be held in this county for explaining the farm bureau. According to Mr. Johnson these meetings are being held because of demand among the farmers and business men for a farm bureau in Morgan County, and speakers will be present in each meeting.

Mobile Highway Bonds Sold.

Mobile.—Bonds in the amount of $387,000 to provide funds to build a hard surface road through Jackson County, Mississippi, connecting with Mobile County, near Grand Bay, have been sold and work is expected to start within a short time. This is one of the important links in the coast highway and the Old Spanish Trail. Mobile will build to this highway within the next few months, this being one of the state highway projects through this county. This will connect this city with the Mississippi and Louisiana coasts, giving a fine highway nearly all the way to New Orleans.

Woman for Judge Recommended.

Gadsden.—Judge L. L. Herzberg suggested that a woman be made judge of the Etowah County juvenile court as soon as it can be separated form the county court. He said that the probate office in Alabama has too many things to do and that the judge to be a good officer, must be a many-sided man. He expressed the belief that the juvenile court should be made an independent one and that a woman should preside over it.

PROPOSE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL FOR COLORED CHILDREN

Since our last article appeared in The Union-Banner, repplies have been coming in. We very highly appreciate the keen interest manifested by our white friends and neighbors in the building of a Junior High School for the colored boys and girls of Chilton County.

The second Sunday in December is the day for our big rally. A number of the white citizens and friends, to the cause of education for colored youth, has promised to be with us on the evening of the 11th of December. Others have promised to send us their checks.

Following the precedent set by the State of Miss., and other Southern States, we feel that the good white people of Chilton County and the city of Clanton will welcome the opportunity to give some concrete evidence of their friendly attitude towards the colored people of this County, and such evidence could not be given in a more tangible way, than to help them to build a Junior High School of an industrial type.

The Union-Banner, our leading county paper, has taken a generous and liberal stand for the progress and building of our Junior High School. We wish to thank the editor for his friendly attitude and his liberal financial support. We know others will follow the Banner's lead.

We intend that this article shall be a general invitation to our white friends to come and be with us on the above date, and help us to make the day a financial success for the Center Point School.

"If I could spread from pole to pole,
And grasp creation in my span,
I'd still be measured by my soul,
The mind is the standard of the man."

Come help us attain this standard.

Mr. and Mrs. Oglesby of Centerville were visitors to Clanton on Monday. Mr. Oglesby is a popular hardware salesman who comes to Clanton regularly. In fact we have become so accustomed to seeing him here that we do not always mention his visits. But the fact that his charming wife was with him this time of course made the occasion of his visit more noticeable.

W. A. Poole of Fairview paid the Union-Banner a visit last Saturday and brought along a few stalks of fine sugar cane.

David Vines, who is now at work at Mitchell Dam, was a visitor to Clanton last Sunday.

Who can guess what these figures mean? Only those who are on the inside know what these figures represent, so we will cxplain. The Clanton Baptist Church set a goal of 200 in Sunday School for last Sunday, which looked rather large after an average attendance of 120 for the past year. Much to the delight of the superintendent, pastor and teachers, lo and behold, when the hour arrived for Sunday School there was an attendance of 216 actually recorded, more than 50 per cent larger than ever before. This made everybody feel high spirited and of course the pastor was no exception. This however is not the end of it all, for we are now going to make an effort to have 250 in the near future and 300 in the not very distant future. This is not at all an impossibility, it is indeed a probability, and all we need is the right vision and then a united effort to get them. As soon as the auditorium is opened and all of the rooms are available, we perdict it will not be long before the 300 mark is reached. Why not? The Sunday School is one of the greatest institutions in the world, and one of the most effective agencies for the spiritual development of the young people. It is one of the best agencies for building up the church as from the Sunday School come most of our converts and mmbrs today.

This, however, was not the only attractive feature about the services Sunday. Two large congregations were present both morning and night, and just about occupied every available seat in the building. The spirit on the part of the people was delightful, a spirit of friendship and fellowship though people from all the churches were present. It was enough to make any man preach whether he can or not. There is great inspiration in the crowd, especially when they are all in good spirits.

Changes are taking place rapidly in Clanton at least religiously, as well as otherwise. Certainly this is true of the Baptist Church. The Sunday School, Sunbeam Band, Ladies Aid and W. M. U., in fact most all of the organizations are growing fast, and who can tell what the end will be?

On Monday afternoon the pastor dropped into the meeting of the Ladies Aid Society to represent his wife who is an unknown quantity. The attendance at this meeting was thirty two strong, and the thermometer of enthusiasm ran up to about 105 degrees. It was fever heat, and but for the fact that such enthusiasm was well directed in the interests of the church and therefore for a good cause, it might have been dangerous. Plans were discussed and the foundation laid for the furnishing of the kitchen of the church which will be doubtless carried out before next Sunday after a thousand or more oysters have been devoured at the great oyster supper on Friday night, and the heavy shower of dishes, cups and saucers, knives and forks and other kitchen utensils have fallen. So, if you like oysters cooked in any style, according to your taste, why be sure and visit the kitchen of the new church on Friday night about supper time, and witness the unique shower, not of water, but of such material things as mentioned above, that they are expecting to have on this occasion.

Well, to make a long story short, the money question seems no longer to be a stumbling block in the way of the ladies, so extensive is their ingenuity for raising money. Soon all furnishings will be paid for that it is necessary to buy, and then what next? — Why, the Pipe Organ, of course.

The celebrating of the Semi-Centennial next November, by the installation of a nice pipe organ is of course the next logical procedure. The application of the foregoing is that if you want to belong to a real live organization that is really doing things in a religicus way, and you are of the same faith and order, then join the Clanton Baptist Church. Services will be held next Sunday at 11:00 and 7:00, with a big Sunday School that will begin promptly at 10:00. Everybody is cordially invited to these and all other services. The pastor is at your service when you need him, and anxious to help you in joy or sorrow, in trouble or peace. P. G. CARTER, Pastor.

Tom Rockett plans to begin at once the erection of his store house on the lot recently bought from Dr. Gowan. We understand Mr. Rockett has rented his new building to Mr. G. C. Armstrong who will move his store there about the first of January.

Tom Taylor and Jesse Baker have bought the lot adjoining the new home of The Union-Banner and in a short time will begin the erection of a nice stroe house. They have not yet decided whether they will occupy the new place themselves or rent it to other parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Parrish of Birmingham spent last Sunday with relatives and friends in Clanton.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1921. NUMBER 33.

G. O. P. IS ANXIOUS ABOUT MR. SNEAD

LEADERS PUZZLED ON DELAY OF CONGRESS IN CONFIRMING APPOINTMENT.

One of the foremost questions in the minds of leading Republicans and others in Alabama involves the holding up of the confirmation of the appointment of W. E. Snead, of Boaz, is collector of the Internal Revenue Department.

Mr. Snead, it is understood, has always been the principal Republican applicant as successor to John D. McNeel, and his application, approved by President Harding, is still awaiting confirmation by the United States Senate.

Mr. McNeel forwarded his resignation to take effect Oct. 1, but since then has heard nothing as to acceptance and no further action has been taken on the appointment of his successor.

Although many leading Republicans of the state organization declare that no charges whatever have been lodged against Snead, others hint that there have been some objections placed against him, resulting in the long delay, intimating that a disagreement has occured in the ranks of the G. O. P. The application of Mr. Snead went to the office of the president with the indorsement of the Republican state organization, and leaders of that organization are of the belief that pressing business alone has halted final action.

Mr. Snead is a prominent banker of Boaz, and one of the leaders of the Republicans in Alabama. He was treasurer of the Seventh District campaign.

When finally released, Mr. McNeel states, he will enter business as an income tax expert, and is therefore anxious for his successor to be named.

As for the position as successor to Erle Pettus, federal district attorney, it is considered certain that Charles B. Kennamer, of Guntersville, will receive the appointment. This vacancy will occur Pan. 1, 1921, and confirmation is expected momentarily. G. O. Chenault, of Decatur, is also an applicant for the position.

O. D. Street, Republican national committeeman from Alabama, it is understood, has never considered the post of district attorney, but should the proposed law pass the United States Congress creating two additional supernumerary judgeships, attached to the Fifth Judicial Circuit, will be an applicant for one of them.

The Republican slate further indicates that Pope M. Long, of Cordova, chairman of the State republican committee, will become United States marshall for the North Alabama District. This vacancy will occur next June.

Four applicants are out for the place of collector of the port of Mobile. They are T. Walter Powell, of Birmingham; P. D. Barker, of Mobile; B. S. Smith, of Wedowee, and Bud Nobel, of Anniston, with opinion equally divided as to who has the greatest chance.

TO ORGANIZE BUREAU

Rockford, Ala., Nov. 26—Farmers of this section are interested in the farm bureau movement now under way in Coosa and West Tallapoosa Counties. This movement is said to be the greatest forward movement for the promotion of agricultural interests of the farmers of this section.

The movement was recently inaugurated by the Alexander City Kiwanis Club for the benefit of of Coosa and West Tallapoosa counties. Sam M. Day, county farm demonstration agent for Coosa and West Tallapoosa, is directing the drive.

A series of community meetings has been planned for having the interests of the farm bureau explained to the farmers. Speakers will assist Agent Day, in these meetings which will be held at Kellyton, Hanover, Rockford, Goodwater, Weogufka, and Equality in Coosa County, and in several points western Tallapoosa County during the week of December 5 to 10. As a climax to these meetings, a special meeting will be held in Alexander City on Saturday, December 10, for perfecting the organization in the two counties.

DIDN'T GET WHAT THEY CAME AFTER

Last Saturday three gentlemen from Coosa County, Mr. E. E. Stoudemire, Mr. Causey and Mr. W. L. Reed, came over to Clanton to get the son of Mr. Causey out of the Chilton County jail, where he had been placed by Sheriff Gore on a charge of highway robbery. When the three men reached Sheriff Gore's office and began to go over the situation for which they had come, Mr. Gore was impressed with the fact that they were drinking. By doing a little detective work the Sheriff found a man who said as he was coming to town he saw these three men near the Popwell Graveyard with a car stopped beside the road, and one of them emerging from the bushes. Deputy Martin was sent to the graveyard to see what he could find, and his investigation turned up some whiskey hid behind a log. Mr. Martin hid near the spot where the whiskey was located, and before long Mr. Reed came and picked up the bottle and started on his way. But of course Deputy Martin interfered about this stage of the game. The three men were brought back to Clanton. Mr. Stoudemire paid $104 to the county authorities to get Mr. Reed released so he could go back home to Coosa.

The young man whom they sought to get out of jail is still behind the bars of "86."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

There will be a District S. S. Convention at Chestnut Creek Church, Coopers, Ala., next Sunday, December 4. All Sunday Schools in that District are urged to be represented and all other Sunday Schools are Cordially invited.

WALTER H. GILLESPIE GETS APPOINTMENT

FEDERAL PROHI DIRECTOR, ANNOUNCES FIVE APPOINTMENTS, STARTS NEW POLICY.

When Judge C. M. Sartain, federal prohibition director for Alabama, announced five new appointments as prohibition agents Saturday afternoon he emphasized that each and every one is a teetotaler and that all additional appointees must be strict prohibitionists in line with the new administration's fixed policy.

In fact, the very first question asked each applicant is to the point: "Do you drink?" If an applicant cannot qualify on that score he is automatically disqualified from further consideration.

In announcing the policy of the Republican administration, which is now taking charge of the Prohibition Department, Judge Sartain explained that the department would be conducted above reproach at all times and that it was the belief of all connected with it that in order to accomplish this all employes must be strict prohibitionists.

Under the new policy, it was stated, confiscated liquor captured by raiders must be destroyed at the stills, and under no circumstances shall they bring it back with them. These orders have been issued to all members of raiding parties, and will be strictly enforced.

The decision of the department not to allow raiders to bring confiscated liquor back with them as evidence was reached as a result of a conference between Judge Sartain, W. B. Ford, Judge W. I. Grubb and the district attorney in regard to the retention of seized liquors until the trials of the suspects. After throughly going into the matter, a decision to this effect was reached and will be effective during the administration.

The appointments announced by Judge Sartain Saturday follows:

A. J. Roberts, of Boaz, to succeed John G. Allison, at Gadsden.

O. L. Fowler, of Talladega, succeeding J. C. Stanford at Talladega.

W. H. Gillespie, of Clanton, to succeed J. H. Allen, of Ashland, as agent at Birmingham.

BANQUET FOR MAIL CARRIERS

On Thanksgiving night Postmaster J. J. Pickens tendered to the mail carriers of the Clanton Postoffice a banquet at the Easterling Cafe which proved a most enjoyable affair. The supper included lots of oysters, fried chicken, drinks, etc. Those in attendance upon the occasion were Grady Harris of Route one; Grover Harris of Route three; A. L. Williams for W. J. Armstrong of Route 4; Jack Mims of Route five; Dave Easterling of Route six; Benjamin Jackson Sessions of Route seven; Ed Miller of Route eight; and last but not least, Tom Pyron carrier of the City Delivery system.

A number of very interesting and able speeches were made by the Postmaster and carriers in the interest of better mail service.

All who attended this event last Thursday night have high hopes that this occasion was only the forerunner of many others to follow in the future.

We are proud of the confidence doctors, druggists and the public have in 666 Chill and Fever Tonic.

THE TABERNACLE

The Sunday night meetings at the Tabernacle are increasing in interest, as the prophecies of Revelation are being studied. Elder S. G. Haughey, president of the Alabama conference, who has been in attendance at a general meeting held in Nashville, Tenn., arrived in the city Thursday morning, and will speak at the Tabernacle Sunday night. His subject will be "The Seven Churches" of the apocalypse. To many the book of Revelation is a sealed book but it is very evident to all attending the tabernacle meetings, that it contains some wonderful truths for the church of God in the last days.

You will find a sweet Christian influence and a hearty welcome awaiting you at the tabernacle. Service Saturday at 11:00, a. m. and Sunday night at 7:00, p. m. Midweek Bible study and prayer service Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

A very pleasant Thanksgiving was spent by the members of the Seventh-day Adventist shurch and friends at te Alabama Power Co., Lock 12, last Thursday. A nice dinner spiced with the old fashioned Pumpkin pie and many other sweets, was spread and joyfully partaken of by the guests of the church school children. After the repast the church school children rendered a very interesting and appropriate program in memory of the eventful day. Out-door games were played and the day passed all to quickly. As the evening shades begun to gather the truck and automobile was again feighted with the merry throng, that welcomed the closing day with colonial and thanksgiving hymns, as they returned to Clanton.

TO THE CITIZENS OF CLANTON

Coming into your town as the successor of Mr. J. L. Johnson, I feel the unusualness of the situation. I am not a man of such wide experience and versatility as my predecessor and consequently feel that I shall have trouble measuring up to your expectations. Let me urge you not to expect too much, but remember that "blessed is he who expects nothing for he shall never be disappointed." I have no rash promises to make. I shall bring forth no alibi when I leave. I simply ask you to keep your boys and girls in school every day so that they may get the education which they deserve and which you as taxpayers are providing for them. If I may be said to have a hobby, I hope it will be: "Regularly in Attendance."

I trust that you will consider me not merely as a teacher with one-sided interests, but as a citizen of your town with an interest in the general civic improvement.

Sincerely,
IRA PEGUES,
Prin. Clanton Grammar School.

Judge Brandon is Unopposed

It seems to be settled that the Democrats of Alabama will nominate Judge W. W. Brandon, of Tuscaloosa, as their candidate for governor, practically without opposition. "Bill" Brandon personally is popular with all parties, but it is to be hoped the Republicans will put up a man against him of equal popularity, who will give the Tuscaloosa man the race of his life.

NEW CHURCH OPENS SUNDAY DEC. 11TH

This is the day set by the Clanton Baptists to open their splendid Auditorium in the new building which is now completed. The pews have arrived and will be installed this week. The magnificent sum of $2000.00 has already been subscribed by the people of Clanton towards the cost of the pews which are a beautiful piece of furniture. A balance of $930.00 still remains to be raised for the furnishing of the church. A very noble response has been given by the Clanton Baptists in this great enterprise and some assistance has been rendered by Methodists and other citizens in the purchasing of the pews.

The opening day is anticipated as one of the best in the history of the church. Three services will be held and some of the State workers are expected to be present to have a prominent part on the program. Special music will be rendered by the choir, and probably dinner will be served on the ground. The Ordinance of Baptism will be administered at the close of the night service, when several candidates will follow their Lord through the waters of baptism in the new baptistry of the church.

We make this preliminary announcement so that all those who anticipate being with us on that day may be able to make their plans to fit in with this occassion.

Last Sunday was a good day for the Baptist Church, regardless of the inclement weather. A large congregation filled the room downstairs and a splendid Sunday School, 194 were present. The splendid sum of $315.00 was soon subscribed by those present towards the price of the pews. The Clanton Baptist Church is now a very live organization and offers to all baptist people living in the community a fine opportunity for service, so if you are really a Christain of the same faith and order and really want to do something for God place your membership with us and make your influence really count for something. We need you, and you need us.

Service will be held next Sunday as usual with Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. sharp. Preaching service at 11 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Everyone is cordially invited. Remember the date for the opening of the new building is Sunday, December the 11th.

FOR SALE.—Sixty acres of land, five miles North of Clanton, with one well, and spring of freestone water, and some buildings with thirty acres in cultivation, fifteen in pasture and balance in woods. If interested apply at Union-Banner office.

THERE IS VIGOR IN RICH, RED BLOOD

PEPTO-MANGAN IN LIQUID OR TABLETS —A BLOOD BUILDER

Vigor and strength have as their base rich red blood. Blood is rich when there are plenty of red corpuscles. They are the tiny red cells which swim in blood and give it its color. Without red corpuscles blood would be white. When overwork, or straining, or illness weakens the blood, it diminishes the number of red cells. Without a sufficient number of red cells the blood becomes watery, the body weak. Vigor and strength fall off, so that physical life diminishes like a fading plant. The physical pleasures of eating and sleeping and exercise lose all attraction. There is no zest in living.

After Gude's Pepto-Mangan has been taken for a while the blood becomes rich with red cells. They help to nourish the entire system. With good blood at work there is a great difference in living. Eating, sleeping and exercise are enjoyed. All druggists sell Gude's Pepto-Mangan.—Upchurch Drug Co.—Adv.

BIRMINGHAM NEWS ANNOUNCES LOWER SUBSCRIPTION RATE

Greatest Program Of News And Feature Services In History Of Southern Newspaperdom Now Is Being Published By South's Greatest Daily.

Anticipating the prospective reduction next year in the price of white paper to a point that would justify reduction in its subscription rates, The Birmingham News has put into effect substantial decreases in the prices charged subscribers. The rate to mail subscribers has been reduced from $10 per year to $8 per year for the daily and Sunday editions.

A special rate of $6.50 per year is made to those subscribers who live on rural free delivery routes.

In towns where carrier delivery is made the rate has been reduced from 25 cents per week to 20 cents per week.

The regular mail rate for six months is now $4; for three months, $2.25; and for one month 85 cents.

On rural free delivery routes, the rate is $3.25 for six months; $1.75 for three months and 75 cents for one month. All of these rates are for the daily and Sunday.

For the daily only, by mail, the rate is $6.50 per year, $3.25 for six months; $1.75 for three months and 75 cents for one month, while on the rural routes, the rate for the daily only is $5 per year; $2.50 for six months, $1.35 for three months and 50 cents for one month.

The price of the Sunday only, by mail, is $3 per year; $1.50 for six months; $5 cents for three months and 35 cents for one month.

Coincident with its announcement of a reduction in rates, The Birmingham News announces to the people of Alabama big improvements in its already wonderful news and feature services. Four great leased wire news services pour their products into The News office every day, furnishing a total of 60,000 words of telegraphic news, the finest and most complete service that money can buy. Readers of The Birmingham News read it each day with the definite certainty that no newspaper in the world is better served with the live, up-to-date news of the whole earth.

The Associated Press, greatest of all news services, is the mainstay of the telegraphic news department. With its thousands of correspondents scattered over every land and in every clime, its wonderful reputation for accuracy and reliability, its unimpeachable integrity, it is daily at the call of every reader of The Birmingham News.

The International News Service, employing some of the most brilliant news writers in the world, covering every field of activity of interest to the general public, gives its best seven days in the week to readers of The News.

The United Press, an ably edited service, with a vast corps of correspondents, some of them of international fame, adds its report seven days per week to the huge volume of news that comes to News readers.

The Consolidated Press Association furnishes a brilliant array of European news, sport news, market and financial news and the inimitable, unequaled daily dispatches of David Lawrence, America's foremost Washington correspondent.

In addition to these, there are scores and scores of special correspondents, scattered over Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, in Washington, New York and other centers, who report the doings of their communities especially for The News. Mark Sullivan and Frank Simonds, men of world wide reputation, write daily and Sunday for News readers.

The News has the ablest, most complete, most authoritative market and financial pages ever attempted by a Southern newspaper. Every day it has the dispatches of Stuart P. West, a notable authority, covering every phase of the market, stocks, bonds, curb, cotton, wheat, livestock, commenting on, interpreting, forecasting the trend of the market. Quotations on all the commodities that are actively traded in, including the only complete bond table, the only complete curb market table, the only complete stock table published in Alabama—these and more are to be found on The News' financial pages every day.

Read what W. H. Kettig, a member of the Federal Reserve Board for the Sixth district, says of the News' commercial news, including its wonderful daily survey of the business and commodity news of the day:

"I want to compliment you on the wonderful financial page you have recently gotten up in your paper. The stock market and bond market reports are the best that I have seen in any paper in the South. They compare favorably with any paper published in the United States."

The fiction published in The Birmingham News is one of its really great features. Two daily married life serials, one complete novel, published serially in the daily and Sunday News, a complete novel published in full page installments every Sunday, and a brand new, never-before-published short story every Sunday, written by one of the master fiction writers of the world—this comprises the fiction side of The News.

Seven funny, up-to-the-minute, dandy comics every day, with four full pages of the best in America every Sunday. Humorous features, like Abe Martin, Hambone, O. O. McIntyre's gossip of the White Way, Ring Lardner, Helen Rowland's witty column about men and women, and dozens of others join in giving News readers plenty of laughs.

The sport service is the most complete and comprehensive ever assembled in any newspaper anywhere. Special writers include Walter Camp, Lawrence Perry, John B. Foster, Fairplay, Grantland Rice, Frank G. Menke and many others, the leading authorities in the world on every line of sport. Absolutely complete and detailed sports news from every college of any consequence in the South, and in baseball season a comprehensive service from all the important leagues, the semi-professional teams and the amateurs all over Alabama.

All of the really great, outstanding features of the day are published in The Birmingham News, such as the greatest of them all, Joseph P. Tumulty's "Woodrow Wilson As I Know Him," now running daily and Sunday in liberal installments.

Then there are serious, informative articles about history, art, literature, the drama, diplomacy, politics, statesmanship. Then, too, there are household helps, health hints, beauty guides, advice to the lovelorn, and a thousand and one odds and ends that go to make The Birmingham News truly—

It was reported that the Alabama Power Company probably will have to pay the largest amount in franchise taxes, under the decision of the supreme court. An estimate of the amount of funds that will go to the state treasury under the decision could not be ascertained Friday, but it will reach a considerable figure. IT STARTED SOMETHING

"I have not said anything to you, but have been saying to others and have induced many to take your medicine and be convinced. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is correctly named. It removed stuff from me I never thought could be in a human being and I feel like a different person. The pain in my right side disappeared at once, which four doctors said would require an operation; also the bloating and indigestion." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomch, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Alred Drug Co.

THE DETERMINATION OF ARMS CONFERENCE

Washington, Nov. 22.—"Every utterance in public address or interview by leaders at the Washington conference indicates that the various delegations are inspired by a determination to accomplish the object for which the conference was called—promotion of peace and reduction of costs of military preparedness," says the Republican Publicity Association, in a comment issued through the President of that organization, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "There is no country represented at Washington which has signified a resolve to increase or even to maintain its armaments as at present constituted. There is a disposition among all of them to join in mutual reductions, providing they do not invite assault from their neighbors by so doing.

"Great Britian is possessed of navy far superior to any other afloat, and had it not been for the Washington conference there is no doubt she would maintain her superiority at any cost. In fact, four big battle cruisers and several submarines of hugh type have been designed for the British navy, and construction on many of them has already been started. But the spirit manifested by British statesmen from the moment President Harding despatched his invitation for the conference leaves no room for doubt that the delegates from Great Britain are ready to make very material alterations in their defense programs. That policy has been emphasized by the delegates themselves since their arrival in Washington.

"France has signified her desire to co-operate in every way possible in bringing success to the meeting. Premier Briand has informed us that he will use his opportunity to advance the friendly feeling between the United States and France by cordially seconding President Harding's efforts to lighten the burdens of war. France has a problem all her own in the German menace on her northern and eastern frontiers, and can never consent to abate her vigilence and preparedness in that quarter, but she will agree to any proposal for armaments limitation consistent with her own safety.

"Japan has displayed a spirit of compromise in all that her delegates have said. Apparently there is no disposition to insist on every detail of Japanese diplomacy in the Far East, nor upon every item of increase in the Japanese navy. The attitude of the Japanese corresponds with that of the other delegations at Washington. They will be found willing to make concessions like the rest, and contribute their share to the successful outcome of the conference.

"Italy has a defense problem on her frontier similar to that of France, although not so pronounced. But her delegates approach the discussions in a spirit that precludes any thought of opposition from that quarter. The Italian people, like those of other nations, are laboring under a stupendous burden of war debt and are praying for the relief that the Washington conference promises. The tone of the statements issued by the Italian delegates assures the world that they will work with the rest in achieving the object of the conference.

"The United States delegation has drawn up a schedule of naval eduction that is startling in its extent. America stands ready to cut her naval program with those of the other nations, and the reductions that she has outlined are an invitation to the foreign delegates to join with her in a general advance toward world peace. Belgium, Holland, Portugal, and China have no such direct interest in naval matters as the five great powers, but they can and will assist materially in allaying the controversies over Far Eastern questions, and will thus contribute their share toward the suppression of war. America cordially reciprocates the good feeling manifested by all the distinguished visitors to her shores, firm in the belief that it pressages highly successful achievements for the armaments conference."

Mr. Andrew Wilson was among those who called at The Banner office last Friday and subscribed for the paper.

Taking Desperate Chances.

It is true that many contract severe colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or treatment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chrances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in the mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding attack and paves the way for the more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds may be had for a trifle?

GILLESPIE'S APPOINTMENT

The many friends of Mr. Walter Gillespie in Chilton County will be pleased to learn of his recent appointment to the position of Federal Deputy Prohibition Enforcement Officer. The past record of Mr. Gillespie as an officer of the law needs no comment at our hands. His zeal and fidelity to his duties in dealing with prohibition law violators is well known to all who have had occasion to observe his past career both as a Deputy Sheriff of Chilton County and as a member of the Law Enforcement squad of the State of Alabama. We feel that we may safely say that in Mr. Gillespie, the Federal Prohibition Enforcement Department has a man upon whom the utmost reliance may be placed for the most exact enforcement of the laws and discharge of the duties that are placed upon him.

We have the following letter from Mr. Gillespie, thanking his friends who assisted him in securing the appointment:

Editor Union-Banner:-

Please allow me space in your paper to thank my Republican friends in Chilton County and throughout the 4th Congressional District for their valuable support and assistance given me in securing the appointment to the position of Federal Deputy Prohibition Enforcement Officer. I especialy want to thank the members of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county for their solid and unanimous endorsement and support for this position. I can only promise you that in the performance of my duty that I will always try to use my very best common sense and so conduct myself in a way that those who gave me their support may never have cause to regret doing so. It shall ever be my intention to do my duty as I may see it, honestly fearlessly and impartily, and by so doing I hope that my record may be an honor and credit to myself, the Republican party, and the administration for which I will work. In conclusion I will say that in the future as in the past, I will ever be ready to assist my friends and the Republican party and its Nominees in every honorable way that I can.

Sincerely,
W. H. GILLESPIE.

ANOTHER NEAR TRAGEDY

There occurred Wednesday morning another accident at Clanton's railroad crossing that came very near to being a very serious tragedy. The automobile of Mr. H. S. Shaw was hit by passenger train No. 9 on the main street crossing. The occupants of the car, some half a dozen children and Mr. Shaw himself, luckily escaped any injury, but we understand the car was considerably damaged.

Something of this kind has been happening at this treacherous crossing at about regular intervals for a long time. Since the number of automobiles has become so great, the frequency of these narrow escapes has been increased. This threatening menace to the safety of people who drive cars and wagons through Clanton should be cut out promptly. It should have been cut out long ago. These near tragedies that have been happening should be taken as fair warning of something real bad that is going to turn up some time if steps are not taken to remove the danger and provide traffic with some other passage across the railroad.

At present time the bridge over the railroad at Fourth Avenue is closed because it is not safe, being what we might call worn out. With this bridge closed there is no place to cross the railroad other than the crossing on Second Avenue.

Clanton is flirting with death by using this dangerous crossing, when by a little effort we could cut it out practically altogether and have bridges on which to cross the railroad. If all the streets which would cross the railroad cut were opened for traffic, we would have places for three bridges, one each on Third, Fourth and Fifth Avenues. At each of these places we ought to have good double drive-way concrete bridges erected with walks for pedestrians on either side. This would insure a safe crossing of the railroad for everyone who desired it, and a person would not use the old crossing at Second Avenue unless he was feeling bully and wanted to do so as a dare to the big moguls of the L. & N.

We call upon our city Council here and now to start a movement in whatever direction necessary to provide these bridges across the railroad. The safety of the people demands it. It will be too late when we wait till an accident happens here something like the terrible mix up at Elmwood that took a toll of five lives on Thanksgiving Day.

GOOD ROADS MEETING

The Good Roads meeting called by the Alabama State Highway Commission held in Birmingham on Tuesday, Dec. 22, was attended by hundreds of delegates from all parts of the State. Their enthusiasm ran high, and the note of victory was sounded in all that was said. The meeting was called for the purpose of laying plans for the election to be held on the 30th of January to make the State Highway Amendment become effective, also to inform the representatives present of the status of the funds so far spent and those which will be available should the amendment carry. It was stated at the meeting that something like $5,000,000 will be at the disposal of the State for this purpose. During the past two years 325 miles of road have already been built under this provision. According to the plans of the government each state is to match dollar for dollar up to twenty-five million dollars that will be appropriated by the government for the building of good highways. Each county will receive not less than $250,000 from the federal government as a free gift when the state has met the condition. Chilton County's interests lay in the fact that the road from Calera to Marbury has already been surveyed and approved of by the State Engineers and work will begin almost immediately after the amendment carries. Those of us who live in this county know most of the roads are in a disgrace to civilization and our only hope is through this plan as provided by the government. It will therefore be to the interests of every worthy citizen to vote in favor of the amendment, especially as the automobiles pay all the taxes, and they, in turn get it back again in the saving of tires and gasoline, and general car repairs.

Referring to the meeting held, Mr. F. J. Cramton of Montgomery was re-elected as Chairman of the State Highways Commission, and Judge L. H. Reynolds as Vice-President for the Fourth District. The county organizations will be effected through the office after the meeting. An address given by the Delegate or Chairman of the Federal Clubs of Women Voters made it an evident fact that the women are to play a very important part in the coming election, as they have pledged their loyal support to the movement. In her own words: "When the women get behind the men they make them move." A strong educational campaign will now be waged throughout the State before the election on January 30, which it is predicted will result in a good victory in favor of the Bond issue. Let us roll up a big majority in Chilton County and show them that we are progressive and know a good thing when we see it.

P. G. CARTER,

SENATE REFUSES TO CONFIRM 'LINK' JOHNSON

Henry Lincoln Johnson, of Atlanta, known in that city as "Link" and alluded to by the colored brethren as "Colonel Johnson," was sort of Harding wheelhorse around convention time, and was used as the mouth piece of the Harding campaign to the negroes in the North. Through him dribbled the intimations of large fat jobs for all and singular; of the exceeding affection the Republicans had for the negro, and how the party once in power, would love, cherish and support the colored race.

Well, "Link" got the appointment as Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia—an office that pays a pretty fair salary, and has in past administrations been usually filled by negroes. But Link and his ambitions struck a snag. It seems that in the exuberance of his self esteem and feeling of security after the Republicans won, Link made the fatal mistake of talking too much with his mouth—a failing or weakness which colored politicans seem to have more largely than white ones. So Link delivered himself in an interview in a Baltimore negro paper to the effect that he "would rather be in hell without Tom Watson than in heaven with him." Link thought his crowd was on top and he could pull that sort of stuff about a United States Senator.

Senator Watson objected to the Senate committee reporting favorably upon the nomination on the ground that Link was personally obnoxious to him; but the committee to which the nomination had been referred voted in favor of confirming Johnson, by strict party vote, the majority of Republicans favoring.

Then when the nomination came before the Senate, Senator W. J. Harris also charged that Johnson was personally obnoxious, and the Georgia Senators then laid before the Senate records of certain transactions in which Johnson was alleged to have been involved in Atlanta as a lawyer which unfitted him for a post of responsibility and trust under the government. On the vote, the report states, only one Senator voted in favor of confirming Johnson, and it is thought this now eliminates him from public life. The President is understood to have decided not to make a vacation appointment of Johnson and will name someone else for the position.

Linclon Johnson is the Republican national committeeman from Georgia—and his selection resulted in a movement for a reorganized Republican party in Georgia under white control—and the situation there and the desire of the Republicans to develop a white Republican party in the South, are thougt to have been largely instrumental in deciding President Harding to make that Birmingham speech which upon reflection, contained such cold political comfort for the brother in black, no matter how he may have been temporarily thrilled by a stray phrase or two, sounding fine indeed, but when dissected, yields precious little substantial meat upon which to feed political aspirations.—Birmingham News.

Miss Jackson of Lomax brought the Union-Banner a nice display of winter vegetables the other day. The selection included green pepper, string beans and growing tomatoes. Judge Reynolds saw her exhibit at our office, and said he believed he could beat it a little bit. The next morning he came in with a perfect load of all kinds of growing vegetables, some of them altogether out of season, but growing right on. His selection included green and red pepper on fresh green stalks as high as a man's head, green tomatoes, beans, peas, onions, tomatoes, turnips, colards; in fact most everything that is usually found in a summer garden. The mystery of the whole thing is the fact that vegetables are growing so nice and fresh at this time of the year. But so many unusual things have happened already that we are not surprised at anything now. We are still looking for somebody to bring us a nice fresh watermelon for a Christmas present.

AN EPOCHAL PROPOSAL

Washington, Nov. 22.—Commenting on the Administrations proposals to the arms conference, the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. says:

"Certainly never in the history of the United States, probably never in the history of the world, has there been proposed a plan of such great importance that met with such universal approval as the suggestions submitted by President Harding and Secretary Hughes as the basis for discussion of limitation of armaments at the conference now in session in Washington. Not only from the press of this country, also without regard to politics, and from the people of this country, also without regard to politics, but from the representatives and the press and the people of ther countries there has come the warmest commendation of the proposals which have been made for the relief of the world from the great burden of military preparedness.

"It is at once apparent from a mere glance at the plan for discontinuance of construction and the scrapping of ships already constructed or under construction, that President Harding proposes for the United States a program of reduction of armament far more drastic than that which he suggests for other leading nations. This in itself is the most tangible and substantial evidence of our good faith. It is a manifestation not only our confidence in the practicability of maintaining national safety without continuing our competition in armament, but it is an expression of confidence that all of the other nations have come to the conference inspired by the same desire that we entertain for limitation of armaments and reductio of military expenditures. The United States offers to meet the other nations more than half way in full confidence that they will receive our advances in te brotherly spirit in which they are offered.

"One of the admirable features of the American proposals is that they are definite and certain. Being specific as to what it is proposed each nation shall do, a basis is formed for immediate discussion by all the powers interested. This will immensely hasten the proccedinps and afford an opportunity for intelligent discussion in each of the countries interested as well as in the counncils of the delegations at Washington.

"To use a common expression 'The cards are on the table." It is the nearest approach to 'open diplomacy' the world has ever seen. It undoubtedly marks the beginning of a new era in international relationships when utter frankness will be universally observed and international interests will be openly considered with the full knowledge of the people to be affected thereby.

"There has been several weeks a feeling that probably not much would be accomplished by the conference on limitation of armaments. This feeling is very materially dispelled by the proposals the American delegation has submitted and by the cordial manner in which those proposals have been received."

E. E. Smith of Birmingham was in Clanton the first of the week.

We are requested to announce that Rev. W. W. Robinson of Providence will preach at the Friendship Baptist Church, one mile north of Clanton next Sunday at 11 o'clock. Everybody in the community are invited to come out and hear him.

Sunday School will be held at 10 o'clock, and the B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:30, p.m.

Rev. E. A. Norris, the regular pastor, preached here last Sunday at 11:00 o'clock. Quite a crowd was present and enjoyed a fine sermon. Sunday School was held at 10, with a large enrollment.

In the afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, the Friendship Singing Society met in regular bi-monthly session, Prof. W. O. Rich acting as chairman. Not very many visiting singers were on hand, but we had some fine singing.

There was no preaching or B. Y. P. U. Sunday night on account of bad weather.

Pascal Helms, escaped convict, was recaptured Monday night 15 miles west of Wetumpka by several Elmore County farmers, who brought him back to the state penitentiary, where he was turned over to authorities. Helms, who escaped from the state penitentiary during a severe electrical storm Sunday afternoon, was sent up from Cullman County to serve from 25 to 28 months for forgery. It was easy for even the casual observer to identify the fugitive, as his left hand is off at the wrist.

Announcement made by the Alabama Public Service Commission that the public hearing of evidence bearing upon valuation of property owned by the Alabama Power Company, within the state, which hearing was to have been held December 5, has been postponed. Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

ALABAMA NEWS TOLD IN BRIEF

IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS GATHERED FROM ALL SECTIONS OF THE STATE.

REHEARING DENIED BY COURT

Supreme Court Hands Down Final Decision Ending Litigation Started Exempting Corporations From Franchise Tax.

Montgomery.—The supreme court has denied applications for rehearings in the cases of the state ex rel. the attorney general versus the Pea River Power Company and Elba Bank and Trust Company. The ruling on applications for rehearings end the litigation started by the state in an effort to collect franchise taxes from all corporations which have been exempted by statute from taxation for a period of years. The supreme court held that the constitution of 1901 required the legislature to levy a franchise tax against every corporation and that the legislature had no authority to exempt any corporation from the payment of a franchise tax. The result will be that the state may go back through the years and determine what franchise taxes should be paid by the corporations under the revenue laws in force at the time.

No estimate can be made of the fund which will go into the state treasury under the decisions. The Alabama Power Company will be forced to pay the largest amount, while all other power companies, shipbuilding plants at Mobile, and all banks will be forced to pay franchise taxes based on their capital stock from the time they came into existence in Alabama. It is believed the total to come from the banks will be about $100,000, but no one can know what will be paid by the other corporations until auditors have made an examination of the records. Under an agreement between the state and the corporations interested the decisions of the supreme court on the rehearings will be final and no effort will be made to appeal the cases to the United States supreme court.

17 COUNTIES ARE NOW ORGANIZED

FARM BUREAU CARRYING CO-OPERATIVE METHODS TO MANY SECTIONS.

Florence, Ala., Dec. 2.—"Following the lead of Lauderdale county, the Tennessee Valley will soon become one of the strongest Farm Bureau sections, not only of Alabama, but of the entire country," said Mr. Edward A. O'Neal here yesterday before leaving for Birmingham to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, of which he is first vice president.

Verifying his predictions by pointing out actual results, Mr. O'Neal stated that Limestone County organized her farm bureau immediately after Lauderdale, that Colbert fell into line in the early Fall, and that the organization work is now in progress in Madison, Morgan, Franklin and Lawrence Counties, thereby making this part of the Tennessee Valley solid in the farm bureau.

"There are many reasons for the establishment of a farm bureau in this section," said Mr. O'Neal. "In the first place, Muscle Shoals is logically the heart of the Tennessee Valley, and the efforts of the American Farm Bureau Federation towards completion of the Muscle Shoals plant has made a special appeal to the farmers throughout the valley. In the second place, the farmers of this section want richer soils and better markets for their productions, which they realize they cannot have as they should have until they have well organized farm bureaus affiliated with the other counties of Alabama through the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, which will in turn affiliate with the American Farm Bureau Federation."

Explaining how the organization has been set up in Lauderdale, Limestone and Colbert counties, and will be set up in Madison, Morgan, Franklin and Lawrence counties, Mr. O'Neal states that at the conclusion of the membership drive the farmers of each of these counties will meet at a central point and perfect their county organizations by electing a president, two or three vice presidents, a secretary-treasurer; and a board of directors composed of representative farmers from each of the beats of the county. Upon these officers and the board of directors, with the assistance of their respective county agents and the specialists from the Extension Service at Auburn, will rest the responsibility for planning and outlining the work to meet the most vital needs, and they will also take the lead in putting their program into practice through their organization or machinery.

In line with the progress of the Tennessee Valley, Mr. O'Neal stated that 17 Alabama counties now have county bureaus, seven or eight are organizing, and that about 20 more will be organized before the end of the present year, thereby making it general throughout the state.

SHOULTS

Shoults defeated the Lawley Boys' basket ball team Friday afternoon, by the score of 20 to 11.

The contest was close at end of first half, with a score of 8 to7 in favor of Shoults.

Shoults boys came upon the ground at the beginning of the last half with full determination of putting Lawley back in the rear. In a short while they began to show their fight.

The game proved the Shoults boys have the fight in them, taking advantage of snap and proving themselves worthy subjects for their foe. The game was clean throughout and attracted considerable interest.

For Shoults, McAfee forward and McGee guard, were the outstanding players.

For Lawley the work of Latham, as forward, and Latham, as guard, was very noticeable.

The Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. here are progressing nicely, and we are indeed very grateful.

The literary school here played Lawley school a game of basket ball last Friday afternoon. Our school won 20 to 11. Lawley has some good players, but nothing compared with Shoults.

Everybody remember preaching services next Saturday and Sunday.

ATHLETICS IN CHILTON CO. HIGH SCHOOL

CHILTON COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL JOINS ALABAMA HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

At a meeting of the county high school principals and a few others in Montgomery last spring the Alabama High School Athletic Association was organized. The association was organized for the purpose of promoting pure amateur athletic competition in the high schools of Alabama.

The development and recreative sides should be strongly emphasized in all athletic sports. A school should encourage athletics not for the purpose of exploitation but to properly train the individual student. It is believed that the rules of this association will work far toward that end.

Students are not eligible to take part in inter-scholastic athletics who have not passed satisfactorily at least three of their regular studies the term previous to the one in which the contest takes place. Students cannot play in a game unless they have passed at least three of their regular studies the week previous to the contest. Hence our material for our athletic teams must come from those boys who are in school for a purpose worth while and athletics is merely a means to that end in that he keeps his body in splendid physical condition at all times.

A student who participates in an inter-scholastic contest must have entered school not later than twenty days after the opening of the term in which that contest takes place. Hence so called "ringers" are not to take part in high school contests.

A student who is under penalty for discipline, or whose character or conduct is such as to reflect discredit upon the school is not eligible to play.

The above are a few of the twenty-four rules adopted by the county high schools of the state last spring. The leading schools of the state are becoming members of this Association and it is believed that the results from membership in the association will have far reaching effects.

For the purpose of organization the state is divided into six groups. The counties of the North Central group are: Chilton, Bibb, Calhoun, Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, Jefferson, Randolph, St. Clair, Talladega, Tuscaloosa, Walker. All high schools in the state are eligible for membership in the Association. It is believed that before many months every school will have joined the organization.

TAX COLLECTOR IS UNDER INDICTMENT

IMPEACHMENT ALSO IS RECOMMENDED FOR GEORGE H. SMITH OF MARENGO.

Linden, Ala., Dec. 3.—George H. Smith, tax collector for Marengo county, Saturday was indicted on charges of embezzlement of county funds when a special grand jury adjourned. The jury also recommended his impeachment and the impeachment of County Commissioners Berely and Faulkner.

Action of the grand jury followed a nine months probe of county finances by State Examiner Jarman, who reported to the body that he had discovered $130,000 worth of illegal warrants issued against the county and recommended they be repudiated.

The warrants are said to be in the hands of Marengo banks and capitalists who bought them at heavy discounts due to the demoralized condition of county finances, the indebtedness of the county having jumped 186 per cent in four years. The warrants it is alleged have been selling at less than 50 cents on the dollar.

Smith recently refunded $12,000 to the county, the amount he was short, according to Examiner Jarman. Smith's trial has been set for December 19 and the impeachment proceedings against the county commissioners will be heard December 21. Judge S. F. Hobbs and Solicitor Fred Thompson left for their homes in Selma Saturday after the grand jury had returned its findings.

Lowest Bid Submitted in Mobile by Hancock Brothers.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 2—Hancock Brothers, the firm which submitted the lowest bid for the concrete road to be built between Mobile and Chickasaw with state and federal funds, was the company which built the concrete road from Mobile to Spring Hill several months ago, which is said to have been the first concrete highway to be constructed in the state. The contract for the Chickasaw road will be awarded by the state highway commission Dec. 13. The specifications call for any of three materials to be used in building the road. The Hancock bid was the lowest on concrete material. It is believed the local firm will get the contract.

IMMENSE POTATO CROP IN STORAGE

HALF-MILLION BUSHELS NOW REPORTED IN CURING HOUSES IN ALABAMA.

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 2.—Considerably more than a half million bushels of sweet potatoes are now in storage in Alabama in modern houses, each with a capacity of 2,000 bushels or more, according to a partial list of these houses prepared by R. G. Briggs, sweet potato specialist for the extension service.

This list carries no comment except to explain that it is a partial list, and indicates the capacity of each house, and also the total capacity in the different counties. According to it Escambia County is far in the lead of all other Alabama counties, having seven houses with a total capacity of 88,000 bushels. Wilcox county is second having three houses with a total capacity of 45,000 bushels.

The largest house in the state is owned by L. M. Finlay, of Pollard, with a capacity of 35,000 bushels. John Blake, of Selma, and F. W. Carr, of Bridgeport, are tied for the second largest house, each having one with a 30,000 bushel capacity.

It is evident that the complete list of these curing houses would show many thousands bushels more in storage, and in a view of the fact that this work was taken up by the Alabama Extention Service only a few years ago it shows conclusively that sweet potatoes possess a great potential possibility for the farmers of Alabama, who, it now seems, will eventually find it necessary to join the sweet potato growers of other states in forming a big commodity organization similar to the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Marketing Association, and thereby greatly improve the production and merchandising of sweet potatoes.

FARM BUREAU EXPERTS AT WORK IN CLEBURNE

C. E. Massey, of Calhoun County, a farm-dairyman of experience, and County Agent Carlson are touring the county this week.

THE OLDEST BANK In Chilton County

CAN'T EXPLAIN IT

"One thing I can't explain," said Deacon Hapgood, "and that is as to why women's dresses are getting shorter in the skirt and lower in the neck, and yet are higher in price."

Deacon, we can't explain it, either. Many a YOUNG girl these days argues with her mother that she is now OLD enough to wear short skirts! Times have changed, that's all. Old-fashioned folks kept their money hid somewhere about the house unless the burglar beat them to it. Now they keep their money in the bank and pay by check and are taking no chances. Be progressive.

The Consolidated Press Association furnishes a brilliant array of European news, sport news, market and financial news and the inimitable, unequaled daily dispatches of David Lawrence, America's foremost Washington correspondent.

In addition to these, there are scores and scores of special correspondents, scattered over Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, in Washington, New York and other centers, who report the doings of their communities especially for The News. Mark Sullivan and Frank Simonds, men of world wide reputation, write daily and Sunday for News readers.

The News has the ablest, most complete, most authoritative market and financial pages ever attempted by a Southern newspaper. Every day it has the dispatches of Stuart P. West, a notable authority, covering every phase of the market, stocks, bonds, curb, cotton, wheat, livestock, commenting on, interpreting, forecasting the trend of the market. Quotations on all the commodities that are actively traded in, including the only complete bond table, the only complete curb market table, the only complete stock table published in Alabama—these and more are to be found on The News' financial pages every day.

Read what W. H. Kettig, a member of the Federal Reserve Board for the Sixth district, says of the News' commercial news, including its wonderful daily survey of the business and commodity news of the day:

"I want to compliment you on the wonderful financial page you have recently gotten up in your paper. The stock market and bond market reports are the best that I have seen in any paper in the South. They compare favorably with any paper published in the United States."

The fiction published in The Birmingham News is one of its really great features. Two daily married life serials, one complete novel, published serially in the daily and Sunday News, a complete novel published in full page installments every Sunday, and a brand new, never-before-published short story every Sunday, written by one of the master fiction writers of the world—this comprises the fiction side of The News.

Seven funny, up-to-the-minute, dandy comics every day, with four full pages of the best in America every Sunday. Humorous features, like Abe Martin, Hambone, O. O. McIntyre's gossip of the White Way, Ring Lardner, Helen Rowland's witty column about men and women, and dozens of others join in giving News readers plenty of laughs.

The sport service is the most complete and comprehensive ever assembled in any newspaper anywhere. Special writers include Walter Camp, Lawrence Perry, John B. Foster, Fairplay, Grantland Rice, Frank G. Menke and many others, the leading authorities in the world on every line of sport. Absolutely complete and detailed sports news from every college of any consequence in the South, and in baseball season a comprehensive service from all the important leagues, the semi-professional teams and the amateurs all over Alabama.

All of the really great, outstanding features of the day are published in The Birmingham News, such as the greatest of them all, Joseph P. Tumulty's "Woodrow Wilson As I Know Him," now running daily and Sunday in liberal installments.

Then there are serious, informative articles about history, art, literature, the drama, diplomacy, politics, statesmanship. Then, too, there are household helps, health hints, beauty guides, advice to the lovelorn, and a thousand and one odds and ends that go to make The Birmingham News truly—

THE DOOR SLAMS ON HAPPINESS

POOR BLOOD MAKES BAD HEALTH—THEN COME THE "BLUES."

Once the vigor of red blood becomes sapped of its strength, the door to happiness is literally slammed. Weariness of body follows and it unfailingly engenders depressed thoughts. To be reserved and cheerless becomes a habit. After a time there is almost filmy dimness in the expression of the eyes and a pallor to the skin. Days seem dull and dark and difficult. A sense of insufferable gloom pervades the spirit.

Then it is that Gude's Pepto-Mangan is the great help. It is a red blood builder. It puts red into the blood—increases the number of corpuscles which make blood rich and red. When the blood is restored to its natural healthy state, the sensation of wellbeing returns. Instead of shuffing along caelessly, there is the firm and springy step, the bright lusterful eyes, the clear complexion, identified with the strength and vigor of good health. The druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liguid and tablet form.—Adv.

SHELBY BEATS THORSBY

Columbiana, Ala., Dec. 3.— Shelby County opened the 1921 basketball season here Saturday afternoon with a 12 to 7 win over Thorsby aggregation. The winners missed many shots, showing that this early season they had not yet gotten their eyes on the basket. Whorton and Crumpton were the stars.

LOST DOG—$10 reward for lost dog. Big black and tan hound, lost on Coosa River last Saturday. Had on thick collar. G. O. McKEE, Clanton, Ala.

Mrs. Laura M. Hoyt Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets.

"I have frequently used Chamberlain's Tablets, during the past three years, and have found them splendid for headache and bilious attacks. I am only too pleased, at any time, to speak a word in praise for them," writes Mrs. Laura M. Hoyt, Rockport, N. Y.

POWER COMPANY SUED

Gadsden, Ala., Dec. 3.—The Alabama Power Company was Saturday made defendant in two damage suits, each asking $50,000. They were filed by Mrs. Dora Goodwin and her husband, W. P. Goodwin, of Albertville. The suits grew out of the collision of a passenger street car with a freight car on the local street railway system November 11 of last year. Mrs. Goodwin sustained permanent injuries in the wreck, she alleges in her complaint. Mr. Goodwin is suing for the loss of her service.

FARM FOR RENT—A one horse farm to rent on halves, and a two horse farm to rent for third and fourth or standing rent. Good house and good land. No stumps nor rocks: 2 miles North of Coopers, Ala., on mail route. R. T. GRANT, Verbena, Ala. Route 2.

Taking Desperate Chances.

It is true that many contract severe colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or treatment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chrances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in the mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding attack and paves the way for the more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds may be had for a trifle?

A BANQUET THAT WAS ALMOST A TRAGEDY

"Three years ago at a banquet I was striken with acute indigestion. wo doctors worked over me for an hour before I came to. I had had severe colic attacks before, but nothing like that. No doctors or medicine gave me permanent help until a friend, who was at the banquet, advised me to take a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I did with wonderful results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which cuses practically all stomach, liver nd intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Alred Drug Co.

BUSY FINGERS HELP CURE TUBERCULOSIS

KEEPING MIND ACTIVE WORKS MARVELS WITH PATIENTS IN MANY CASES.

Tuberculosis patients have hard fights at all times, and one of their hardest is keeping patient under the monotony of diet and habits which make for a cure of the disease. In order to help them pass through this monotony a new treatment has been devised.

Doctors have given it a long name, "occupational therapy," but the definition is easy. It goes back to the old proverb of keping fingers out of mischief by keeping them busy. Thus the fingers and minds of the patients are kept busy with things that will not tax their strength, and the cure is allowed to work its way.

The government first tried this treatment on returned soldiers, maimed in the wars. The results were wonderful and experiments with tubercular patients have been just as remarkable.

The work is divided into three stages, taken up as the condition of the patient justifies.

There is the first phase, when puzzles, games and other devices are given the patient to help while away the hours. His or her mind and fingers are kept busy and thoughts taken away from the disease.

The second stage of this aid to cure is taken up when the patient is strong enough to do useful work. This includes such things as modeling, basket making, jewelry work, photography and other things.

The last stage not only helps in the cure, but it can be used as a means of livelihood when the patient is recovered. Vocational training is given the patients, so that when the disease has been conquered they will have a basis for a trade or profession in which they may support themselves. This in itself means much to a man or woman who has been wondering what to do when they were well.

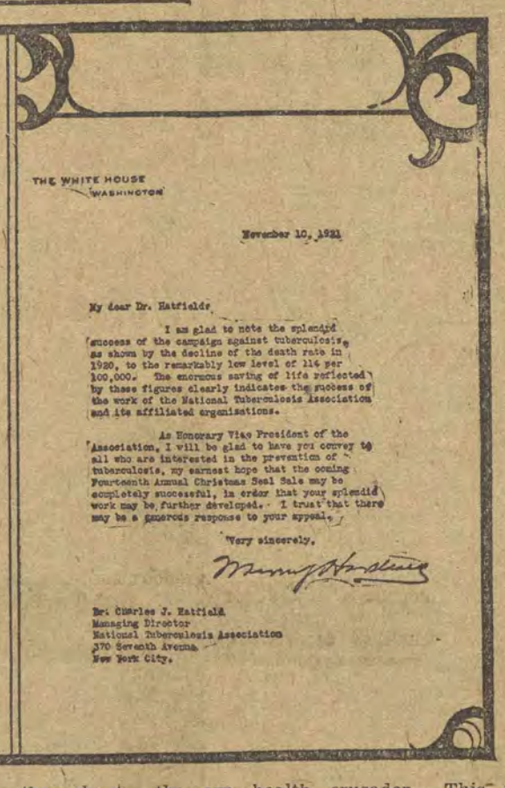
OPEN AIR SCHOOLS MAKE FOR HEALTH

CHILDREN ARE KEPT WELL BY PLENTY OF FRESH AIR.

It is a far cry from the little red school house with the red hot cylindrical stove and tightly closed windows, to the present day open-air schoolroom. The difference marks the progress which has been made in understanding tuberculosis and the way in which it can be prevented and successfully treated. Fresh air and plenty of it, whether in summer or in winter, has been found to be the best preventive of, as well as cure for, tuberculosis, when combined with sufficient rest and good food. Hence it is natural that the fresh air idea in schools has made tremendous progress throughout the country during the past few years. These schools vary from those in which all windows are kept open throughout the day, to others which are literally out-doors with nothing but the roof over them.

In some communities, special schools or classes of this type have been established, particularly for children who are known to have tuberculosis or who are in homes where there are tuberculous persons. The way in which these youngsters have responded to the treatment has stimulated interest in such schools for other children who are not necessarily in such obvious danger of developing the disease in active form.

With the spread of the idea, naturally much ingenuity has been displayed in devising costumes which will enable little ones to keep comfortable in cold weather. In some classes, they are provided with hooded blanket garments which resemble Eskimo costumes. In others, the children wear their caps or hats but are provided with long caped over-coats with heavy felt bags in which to place their feet. Frequently, these schools provide hot meals for the children, because the out-door child requires more nutriment than does the indoor child and cold lunches brought from home will not satisfy him.



Promotion of such ways to combat tuberculosis is carried on continuously by the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1,200 affiliated state and local organizations. Funds to carry on this work are obtained from the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. The Fourteenth Annual Christmas Seal Sale will be held in December of this year and the response of the public will determine the extent to which the work can be carried forward during 1922.

Nor So Long.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

November 10, 1921

My dear Dr. Hatfield:

I am glad to note the splendid success of the campaign against tuberculosis, as shown by the decline of the death rate in 1920, to the remarkably low level of 114 per 100,000. The enormous saving of life reflected by these figures clearly indicates the success of the work of the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated organizations.

As Honorary Vice President of the Association, I will be glad to have you convey to all who are interested in the prevention of tuberculosis, my earnest hope that the coming Fourteenth Annual Christmas Seal Sale may be completely successful, in order that your splendid work may be further developed. I trust that there may be a generous response to your appeal.

Very sincerely,

Warren G. Harding

Dr. Charles J. Hatfield
Managing Director
National Tuberculosis Association
370 Seventh Avenue
New York City.

President and Mrs. Harding are active workers in the campaign for the eradication of Tuberculosis, and they aid in the practical way of buying the Christmas Seals by means of which money is obtained for carrying on the work of the tuberculosis associations throughout the country.

MR. STICK-ME-QUICK

A New Kind of Christmas Story By Elizabeth Cole

Tommy Simpkins went to bed one night as usual in his dreary little room. It was not a real room of his own. It was only a part of his mother's and father's room curtained off to make a place for two beds where the four little Simpkins children slept.

Anyway, Tommy was five years old and he went to bed, as usual, in one of the two iron beds. He looked as usual out through a little broken piece in the blind which covered the tightly-shut window beside his bed. Through this he could see a patch of sky and sometimes stars. Once in a great while the moon was there. It was shining to-night and Tommy was glad. He watched it until it slowly moved out of his sight, then as usual he crept down under the dingy, dirty quilt that Tommy thought smelled of fried potatoes and dust.

"If I could only see where that yellow moon goes to," he said to himself, and yet out loud.

"What's that you say?" asked a cheery deep voice from somewhere.

Tommy raised his head out of bed and looked around. He could see nothing in the room. He looked toward his hole in the blind. There, peering in through the broken place, was the smallest little man that Tommy had ever seen.

"Oh, you must be Mr. Hop o' My Thumb," he cried.

"No, sir," replied the deep voice, "I'm Stick-Me-Quick."

"Stick-Me-Quick? Oh, that's a lovely name," said Tommy. "Won't you come in and talk to me?"

"No, sir," replied the little fellow. "I don't want to come in that old room. Your window isn't open and I never stay where the fresh winds don't blow. You come out into the nice cool world. I want to take you on a journey."

"A journey?" exclaimed Tommy, "I never went on a journey. How'll I get out?"

"That's what I came for, my friend." And with this the agile little fellow jumped up in the air and as if with magic strength raised up the window. It was the very same window that Tommy had tried many times in vain to open. For he had longed to stick his head out into the cool night and let his face be fanned by the fresh star-kissed breezes.

"Ooh," cried Tommy as he jumped out of his bed, "You are a magician. You can perform wonders!"

"That's nothing," said Stick-Me-Quick. "Wait till you see all the other things I can do. Come on out onto the window ledge and stick your feet over. I'm going to take you in my floating baloon."

Tommy hung his feet over the edge of the window sill and there, hovering in the air, was a floating balloon, glistening and gold just like the moon.

"Jump aboard," cried Stick-Me-Quick, as he himself hopped into a seat in the center. "Sit beside me."

Tommy didn't see how he could sit on such a fragile little seat, but he did. The fairy balloon which had seemed only big enough for the tiny sprite scarcely tipped with his earthly weight.

"Now here we go," said the little fellow and they soared off through the air.

"How can you take a big fellow as me?" asked Tommp Simpkins as they flew over the tree tops.

"I have to take you," replied Stick-Me-Quick, "you are a poor ignorant little boy that has to be shown how to live to be strong and healthy. Every night Stick-Me-Quicks take little boys like you that never get the fresh air when they go to bed. That's their business. Some Stick-Me-Quicks work by day—but I am a worker by night. Watch out we're stopping off here. I have something to show you."

The balloon poised for a moment in the air, then lighted on the window sill of a high city tenement. Tommy saw there was no paint on the sill and a crack in the closed window.

"Now look through that window and tell me what you see," said the little fellow.

Tommy strained his body over the side of the balloon and gazed into a room. There, sleeping under ragged covers, were five persons. The room, like his own, had a curtained-off part where three children were asleep. A mother and father were in a bed in another corner.

"See what is marked on their foreheads," said Stick-Me-Quick. "What do you see?"

"Oh," cried Tommy, "I see a white dreadful cross on the father's forehead. Why Mr. Stick-Me-Quick," he added, "I see it on everyone's forehead. What is it—tell me—I'm afraid of those people."

"Of course you are and well may you be, my dear little boy. That's why I bring little boys here. That's the mark of the Great White Plague. It's put there by a hideous monster whose name is Sir Dire-Death. He strides into rooms where dwell germs and dirt. He marks all those people who know not fresh air and sunshine. He gloats on marking the foreheads of little children and weaklings. He's a bully and a giant. I'll show you the coward at work."

Little Tommy was trembling all over as the balloon glided out into the moonlit world.

"Please Mr. Stick-Me-Quick, I don't want to see those foreheads with crosses. They scare me. I'm afraid of the mark of Sir Dire-Death."

"My child, there are 1,000,000 people that dwell in this land who all have the mark of Sir Dire-Death. He's taken their happiness away from them and made them all serve in his Kingdom of White Plague."

"But why can't we get them back again?" asked Tommy.

"Can't we wipe off the mark of Sir Dire-Death and let them be happy?"

"We can," said the sprite. "But it means lots of hard work. I can show you how, Tommy Simpkins."

The balloon then was lighting on the roof of a farmhouse.

"Jump down and look through that hole in the roof. See what you see." Then he continued, "These people live in the country with all the best air in the world. Yet look at their windows. All tightly shut. Inexcusable!"

Tommy jumped out to obey. Suddenly he started back toward his new friend. "Oh, I don't want to look down the crack. I'm afraid."

"You stand there and look," said Stick-Me-Quick, sternly. "Don't be a coward. If you see you will want to help me."

Tommy went back and reluctantly stuck his eye over the crevice on the roof of the one-storied cabin.

"I see a tall giant in black, Mr. Stick-Me-Quick. He is marking their foreheads. He has a hideous face. Oh, I'm afraid of him—he's looking at me."

Tommy ran back to the balloon.

"Ah, he sees that you have not been a child of the fresh air. He cannot get you though, Tommy, for you are now with me. I am his mortal enemy. I am a lover of fresh air at night. What else did you see?"

Tommy continued, "There were six little children and they all had their foreheads marked. He was marking the mother's. Please can't we shoot him dead?"

"No, Tommy, we can't shoot him dead, but we can get rid of him by driving him back into his prison and keeping him under lock and key. I'll tell you what you can do. You can get all your friends to join my band and be Stick-Me-Quicks."

"Oh, tell me how I can be a Stick-Me-Quick," exclaimed Tommy, as they soared through the air and the clean night breezes fanned his pale little cheeks.

"I'll tell you then, Tommy Simpkins. One million Stick-Me-Quicks are sent out at Christmas time. We really are Seals of Health. And everybody that sells or buys us and sticks us quick on a letter or package is helping to kill the bullying Giant, Sir Dire-Death. Look at my sticky back!" And Stick-Me-Quick whirled around on the seat. Sure enough his back was covered with glue just like a postage stamp.

Tommy clapped his hands with joy. "Oh, Mr. Stick-Me-Quick, I want to stick you quick!" he exclaimed.

"That's what I want you to do, Tommy Simpkins, at Christmas time. Buy or sell Stick-Me-Quicks and then old Sir Dire-Death won't have a chance at marking foreheads. Everybody will know how to eat pure food and live in the sunshine and sleep where open windows let in the fresh night air. Will you join the Stick-Me-Quick band, Tommy Simpkins, and sell seals of health at Christmas? Will you open your windows at night and make your home a place where Sir Dire-Death will be afraid to enter?"

"Oh, yes, Mr. Stick-Me-Quick. I don't want that Sir Dire-Death to come into my house. Please don't let him come. And I want to be a Stick-Me-Quick."

With that the balloon landed on Tommy's own window sill and Tommy suddenly found himself sitting up in his iron bed rubbing his eyes.

"Why, I'm right in my own little bed," said Tommy out loud. "Where's Mr. Stick-Me-Quick? Oh, where's my open window.

And he put out his hand and felt the cold pane of glass. The window was closed and there was the blind with its hole where the stars shone through.

"I will open this window," said Tommy to himself. He strained all the muscles in his little body. Lo and behold the window went up like a shot. The cool clean air came rushing in and fanned Tommy's hot little cheeks.

"And to-morrow," he whispered, "I'm going to get some Christmas Seals and join the band of Mr. Stick-Me-Quick and sell—oh—heaps of them."

He pulled up the dirty, dingy quilt that smelled of fried potatoes and dust and soon was sound asleep again. The kindly yellow moon smiled in on Tommy Simpkins asleep in his bed. And the sweet night breeze blew in through the open window and kissed some roses of health into the pale little cheeks of Tommy Simpkins.

DECORATION OF CELLULOID

How Poker Chips, Combs and Other Articles Can Be Ornamented in Color.

Articles of celluloid can be decorated by using colored solutions of celluloid dissolved in glacial acetic acid or amyl acetate. If the article to be decorated is ivory-white, the celluloid used for the solution should be dissolved in amyl acetate, which is another name for the so-called "banana oil."

To prepare the article, three parts of paraffin and one part of white wax are melted at a low temperature, and either painted or flowed over the surface to be worked upon. The design is then transferred to the wax coating; this is done by making the design on tracing paper and transferring it to the wax by following the outline with the point of a pencil or stylus, leaving the design indented in the wax. After removing the transfer the wax is scraped from the parts to be colored with a sharp-pointed instrument, broad spaces being freed of wax with a sharp penknife. If several colors or shades are to be used, only the lines for one color are cut and that color applied; these lines are then covered over with wax before the next color to be used is applied. To prepare the colors, small cuttings of colored celluloid are dissolved in either of the above-mentioned chemicals, using small wide-mouthed bottles. If colored celluloid is not obtainable, aniline dyes dissolved in alcohol can be added.

After the work has been completed, the wax can be easily removed from the article by rubbing with a soft rag and gasoline.—Bertha G. Morey, Ottumwa, Ia., in Popular Mechanics.

SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE OFTEN ILL-NOURISHED

FAMOUS SCIENTIST DISCOVERS THAT MUCH OF ILL HEALTH DUE TO FOOD.

"One third of the school children in this country are mal-nourished." This startling observation was made by Dr. William R. P. Emerson of Boston, pioneer in the Movement for Nutritional Clinics and Classes which has become nation-wide during the past two years. The significance of his statement is apparent when one considers that he classes those children as mal-nourished who are more than seven per cent under normal weight for their age and height.

The cooperation and understanding of the individual, even in the case of children, is essential in effective tuberculosis effort. Nowhere is this more evident than in the methods which have been found successful in nutritional work.

Under-nourished and mal-nourished children are told in classes the reasons why they should eat certain sorts and quantities of food. Charts, like the Roll of Health Knighthood, showing the relations of age, height and weight in the normal growing child are displayed in the classroom and each pupil has his or her individual chart on which progress can be traced over the period of combined instruction and treatment.

A recent survey conducted by the National Tuberculosis Association shows that nutritional work of one kind or another, either in classes or in clinics, is being carried on in thirty-five states of the Union. The Modern Health Crusade, a movement for teaching health habits to children, is sponsored by the Association and in less than four years has grown until today more than 6,000,000 children are enrolled. The purpose of the Crusade is for general betterment of the children's health and necessarily it works against malnutrition. A concrete instance of this is contained in the observation of Mrs. Rice Wilson of the Marion County, Ill., Tuberculosis Association, who said:

"In the schools where we have weighed the children, those doing the Crusade chores gained weight, while those who did not do the chores lost weight, in several instances. In a rural school, Crusaders gained from three to five pounds, whereas Non-Crusaders lost from one to three pounds in the same month."

The Modern Health Crusade is only one phase of the country-wide fight against tuberculosis which is waged by the National Tuberculosis Association with its 1,200 affiliated state and local organizations. Funds to carry on the effort are obtained from the sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals. The Fourteenth Annual Christmas Seal Sale will be held in December of this year and the response of the public will determine the extent to which the anti-tuberculosis work can be carried forward during 1922.

How Rainfall Is Recorded.

The government gauge for recording rainfall consists of a cylinder two feet high, eight inches in diameter, upon which a funnel of the same diameter fits. Within that is a brass cylinder of the same height, the diameter a little over two and one-half inches. In it is a measuring tube, the area of which compared with the area of the funnel is as ten to one, so that when a one-hundredth of an inch falls in the funnel it becomes one-tenth of an inch in the measuring tube.

Question About Cancer.

That cancer appears by preference at the point of lowest resistance is well known, although surgeons speak simply of precancerous lesions or areas of irritation, says the Medical Record. But when they say that the growth results from trauma or chronic irritation alone they go too far—else every excessive smoker would have cancer.

Origin of "Strut."

A stiff piece of wood used as a support is called a strut; so also a person who walks stiffly and pompously about is said to strut. Both words are of Scandinavian origin and the Middle-English word was "strouten" to swell or spread out. There was a German word, strotzen, to be puffed up.

Why They Are Blind.

The Lancet states that from one-quarter to one-third of the inmates of institutions for the blind are there because their eyes were not adequately treated when they were born.

Washing Bottles.

Put crushed egg shells in small bits or a few carpet tacks or a small quantity of gun shot into a bottle. Then fill one-half full of strong soap suds; shake thoroughly. Then rinse in clear water and the bottle will be cleansed.

Discolor.

If you allow the handles of your pearl or bone knives to remain in water they will become discolored.

Anticipating the prospective reduction next year in the price of white paper to a point that would justify reduction in its subscription rates, The Birmingham News has put into effect substantial decreases in the prices charged subscribers. The rate to mail subscribers has been reduced from $10 per year to $8 per year for the daily and Sunday editions.

A special rate of $6.50 per year is made to those subscribers who live on rural free delivery routes.

In towns where carrier delivery is made the rate has been reduced from 25 cents per week to 20 cents per week.

The regular mail rate for six months is now $4; for three months, $2.25; and for one month 85 cents.

On rural free delivery routes, the rate is $3.25 for six months; $1.75 for three months and 75 cents for one month. All of these rates are for the daily and Sunday.

For the daily only, by mail, the rate is $6.50 per year, $3.25 for six months; $1.75 for three months and 75 cents for one month, while on the rural routes, the rate for the daily only is $5 per year; $2.50 for six months, $1.35 for three months and 50 cents for one month.

THE DOOR SLAMS ON HAPPINESS

POOR BLOOD MAKES BAD HEALTH—THEN COME THE "BLUES."

Once the vigor of red blood becomes sapped of its strength, the door to happiness is literally slammed. Weariness of body follows and it unfailingly engenders depressed thoughts. To be reserved and cheerless becomes a habit. After a time there is almost filmy dimness in the expression of the eyes and a pallor to the skin. Days seem dull and dark and difficult. A sense of insufferable gloom pervades the spirit.

Then it is that Gude's Pepto-Mangan is the great help. It is a red blood builder. It puts red into the blood—increases the number of corpuscles which make blood rich and red. When the blood is restored to its natural healthy state, the sensation of wellbeing returns. Instead of shuffing along caelessly, there is the firm and springy step, the bright lusterful eyes, the clear complexion, identified with the strength and vigor of good health. The druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liguid and tablet form.—Adv.

SHELBY BEATS THORSBY

Columbiana, Ala., Dec. 3.— Shelby County opened the 1921 basketball season here Saturday afternoon with a 12 to 7 win over Thorsby aggregation. The winners missed many shots, showing that this early season they had not yet gotten their eyes on the basket. Whorton and Crumpton were the stars.

Mrs. Laura M. Hoyt Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets.

"I have frequently used Chamberlain's Tablets, during the past three years, and have found them splendid for headache and bilious attacks. I am only too pleased, at any time, to speak a word in praise for them," writes Mrs. Laura M. Hoyt, Rockport, N. Y.

POWER COMPANY SUED

Gadsden, Ala., Dec. 3.—The Alabama Power Company was Saturday made defendant in two damage suits, each asking $50,000. They were filed by Mrs. Dora Goodwin and her husband, W. P. Goodwin, of Albertville. The suits grew out of the collision of a passenger street car with a freight car on the local street railway system November 11 of last year. Mrs. Goodwin sustained permanent injuries in the wreck, she alleges in her complaint. Mr. Goodwin is suing for the loss of her service.

FARM FOR RENT—A one horse farm to rent on halves, and a two horse farm to rent for third and fourth or standing rent. Good house and good land. No stumps nor rocks: 2 miles North of Coopers, Ala., on mail route. R. T. GRANT, Verbena, Ala. Route 2.

Taking Desperate Chances.

It is true that many contract severe colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or treatment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chrances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in the mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding attack and paves the way for the more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desperate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds may be had for a trifle?

A BANQUET THAT WAS ALMOST A TRAGEDY

"Three years ago at a banquet I was striken with acute indigestion. wo doctors worked over me for an hour before I came to. I had had severe colic attacks before, but nothing like that. No doctors or medicine gave me permanent help until a friend, who was at the banquet, advised me to take a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I did with wonderful results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which cuses practically all stomach, liver nd intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Alred Drug Co.

TUBERCULOSIS FOUND ONLY 39 YEARS AGO

TWO VARIETIES OF GERM ATTACKING MEN HAS BEEN LOCATED.

By Dr. Lawrason Brown, Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Tuberculosis is a disease caused by a germ, discovered by Robert Koch in 1882, which early in its course produces little modules, called tubercles. It is widely distributed throughout the world, and attacks man more severely when he abandons a nomadic or outdoor life and lives in large centers of civilization.

There are two varieties of the tubercle germ that attack men, the human germ and the cattle germ. The cattle germ, while rarely affecting adults, causes annually the death of about 10,000 children and infants in the United States. It is conveyed by milk, and is killed by boiling or pasteurizing the milk.

The chief source of the human tubercle germ is the sputum coughed up by the consumptive and deposited only too often on sidewalks and floors. The germ gains entrance into the body by inhalation of the fine droplets of sputum coughed out by the consumptive, by the inhalation of dried sputum in the form of dust and by the transference through dirty fingers of the particles of sputum in the dirt of the streets and houses, from balls, tops and other playthings, to the mouth.

The younger the child, the more readily he is infected and the more often he mouths the objects he soils in the dirt in play. By the age of puberty two-thirds to three-quarters of all children have had the germ in their bodies, but only a small percentage of these develop the disease. It is estimated that 2,000,000 persons in the United States have tuberculosis today, and without doubt many contracted it first in childhood. It is not safe, however, to conclude as some would have us do, that adults cannot catch consumption, for a rather large percentage may owe the disease in their lungs to an infection in later life.

These facts serve to emphasize the importance of good hygienic living, and the avoidance of overstrain of any sort, whether work, pleasure or play. When man lives in the open he seldom develops pulmonary tuberculosis, but when he changes this for indoor life he may succumb. The boy and girl who play and live much out of doors have little tuberculosis until they become thirteen or fourteen years old. It then increases as the anxieties of school, the burden of work, and the overindulgence in pleasure make more demands on the body, until it is most frequent between the twentieth and thirtieth year. It is then that people are most confined and most often overwork or overplay.

A return to the outdoor life, to the simple pleasures, the avoidance of self-indulgence in any way, may quickly restore a threatened individual to health. If he once develops the disease it can be cured, but it requires time, patience and self-denial. Rest of body and mind, education in regard to what is safe and what is dangerous, good food and fresh air are the medicines that restore health. Intelligent medical supervision, freedom from care and worry, confidence in recovery, conscientiousness in carrying out every detail given by the physician, work miracles, as thousands can testify who have fallen ill of tuberculosis, but who have fought the good fight and won out.

Unlucky Signs.

The idea that it is unlucky to walk under a ladder has its origin in the remembrance of the ladder used at Calvary, while the dislike to the number "13" can be traced to the number present at the Last Supper.

Patriarch's Cross Symbol of Modern Type of Crusaders

This is the Patriarch's Cross, known as the double-barred cross, and it is the symbol of the modern crusaders, the men and women who are fighting to save the lives of 60,000 tuberculosis sufferers in Alabama.

The double-barred cross is the symbol of the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations, which are trying to spread the doctrines of health, and through these doctrines beat down the tide of tuberculosis. These doctrines have been spread, wonderful work has been done, but there is so much more yet to do.

When the National Tuberculosis Association began its work on a large scale fifteen years ago, there were 200 deaths from tuberculosis per 100,000 population in this country. Today this death rate has declined to 120 per 100,000 population. Another way the saving in lives over a comparatively brief period may be estimated, is to go back as far as 1900. It has been estimated that if the death rate from tuberculosis had not diminished since that year, the number of deaths from the disease, in this country, would have been more than 210,000. As a matter of fact, however, the deaths from tuberculosis in 1920 numbered 132,000. Therefore, it has been pointed out that more than 75,000 lives have been saved owing to the decrease in the death rate. But the fight beneath the standard of the Double-Barred Cross is far from being won. Tuberculosis has been proved to be a preventable and curable disease, and yet there are at least a million active cases in this country today, with as many more latent or quiescent cases which may become active at any time, if the individual's powers of resistance are weakened. Somebody dies from tuberculosis every four minutes, night and day, throughout the year in this country alone.

Funds to carry on the work of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1200 affiliated state and local organizations throughout the country, are secured from the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. The Fourteenth Annual Seal Sale will soon be on in full force, and the response of the public in the purchase of these seals will determine the extent to which the fight against tuberculosis may progress in 1922.

Poor Fish.

A New York scientist has discovered a land-living fish. No need to be a scientist to do that, we know a lot of them.

Composition of Adamant.

In modern mineralogy this term has no technical significance. It was supposed to be a stone of impenetrable hardness. This word is used in referring to substances of extreme hardness.

Watch Your Papers.

Look out for the broom and dust pan. Many valuable papers may be swept out of existence if you do not have a good system that insures these papers and records being properly cared for. No one should make a transaction on a slip of paper and carelessly put it into his pocket. A good system of accounting will do away with memoranda pads of recording and consequent danger of loss by the broom and dust pan route.

TUBERCULOSIS MAY BE PREVENTED WITH CARE

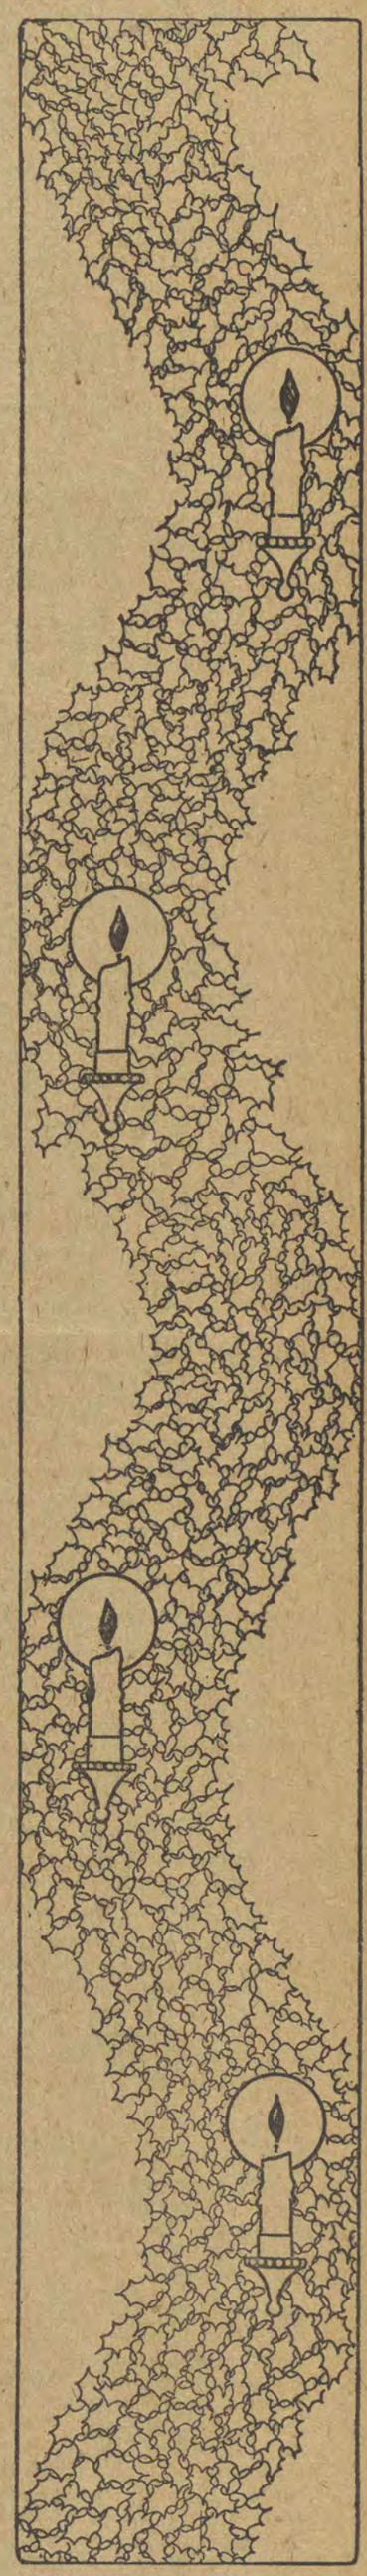
FIRST RULE IS TO AVOID ALL POSSIBLE COURSES OF INFECTION.

(Dr. George Thomas Palmer, President Illinois Tuberculosis Association, Springfield, Ill.)

The prevention of tuberculosis consists first, in the avoidance of infection by the germ of the disease and second, in the prevention of active tuberculous disease after infection may have been acquired. Thousands of persons acquire tuberculous infection without succumbing to the disease. In fact, if one lives properly, it is possible for him to carry tuberculous infection throughout his entire life without developing tuberculous disease or consumption. The man with tuberculous infection, however, is always in more or less danger and consequently every effort should be made to avoid initial infection.

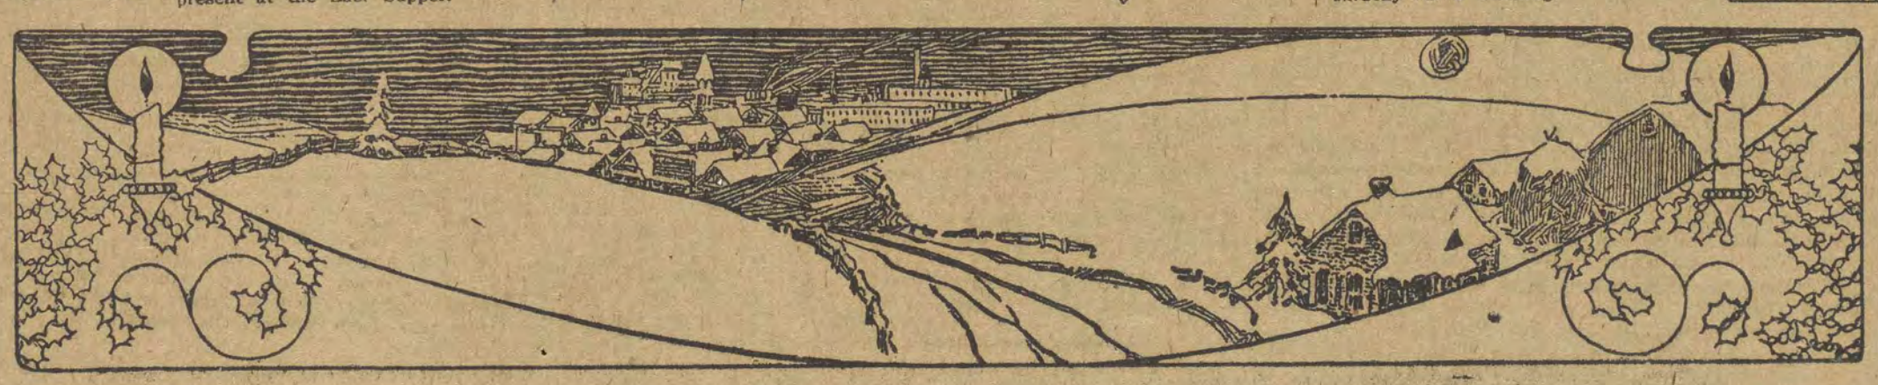
To avoid first infection and to prevent the development of later disease there must be team work on the part of the individual and the community. However careful the individual may be, he is not safe in a community where health regulation is disregarded, and on the other hand, the entire community is endangered by the carelessness of the infected person.

The first problem of preventing infection must be solved not only by sane public regulation and control of all consumptives who may spread the disease, but by the regulation of all of those things which directly or indirectly affect the general public health. To prevent his own infection the individual must exercise care in his contact with known consumptives, must insist upon good hygienic conditions in all places where he works or plays, or joins with others in his recreation. The individual child must be rigidly protected from contact with any consumptive or possible consumptive.



To avoid tuberculous disease or consumption on the part of the individual who is already infected—and at present about eighty per cent of persons acquire tuberculous infection at one time or another—the chief problem is that of maintaining individual health at its highest point. While the infected individual may round out a long life without evidence of the disease, it is also true that he may develop active disease at any time through the lowering of his physical strength or esistance. Hence, he must live a safe, sane, normal life with the right kind of food, with ample fresh air, with moderation in all his habits, including those of work and play and with avoidance of any unnecessary strain. He must also exact of his community those civic conditions necessary to good community health, including good housing, efficient general health administration, clean streets, proper ventilation of public places, safe milk supply and a reasonable measure of public recreation.

It has been stated that if every man, woman and child would utilize our present knowledge of prevention, tuberculosis would be wiped out in a few generations.



The gratifying reduction in tuberculosis during past years has not been due to epoch-making scientific discoveries, nor even to records of the activities of sanatoria and doctors and nurses, but rather to national, state and local campaigns of popular education through which people have been taught to live sane and wholesome lives. In spite of the success which has attended the educational efforts of the past, it must be recognized that the vast majority of the people of the United States have not yet acquired the truth about this disease—the truth which will make them free from the greatest scourge with which mankind has ever been afflicted.

COMMUNITY NEWS

How would you like to have the news of your community appear in The Union-Baner each week, something about like the news of Mulberry in this week's paper? All you need to do is to write it and send it along. We will do the rest.

We ask all who may wish to write the news of their community to study carefully the Mulberry items as written by our correspondent there. It is the nearest approach to a perfect community news letter that we have observed in a long time. It would not be any mistake to adopt this form as your guide.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Our readers will notice in this issue of The Union-Banner, a great deal of Christmas Seal campaign, and the discussion of the general work of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association.

We urge you to read every bit of it and become more fully acquainted with the efforts that are being made to save our people from the ravages of the great white plague. Buy some Christmas seals and thus help a good cause along.

We notice that another movement has been started in some parts of Alabama to "organize" the farmers. Here's hoping that the farmers will some day hit upon an organization plan that will really "organize." Many different schemes have been tried many different times but none of them have lasted long. The latest venture is known as the Farmers Bureau, and is being organized now by the counties of the Tennessee Valley.

We want to say just a word to the Republicans of Chilton County in regard to the campaign next year. If Chilton County is to remain Republican by the majority of the last few elections, there must be some hard work done. The Democrats are going to move heaven and earth in the effort to bring their voting strength up a few hundred more than it has been for the past few years. We predict that they will be able to do this, which of course will place them that much nearer to the vote of the Republicans. Some good work of the right kind will keep the Republicans safely ahead. We can gain as many votes as the Democrats can gain, if we put up the same amount of effort.

MRS. FOSHEE DIED SUNDAY

Mrs. Julissa Foshee, age 88 years, died in Little Rock, Arkansas last Sunday. The deceased was the mother of G. O. Foshee of Clanton and Wiley Foshee of Coopers, two of Chilton County's well known citizens. She was the wife of Joe Foshee, who died some 35 years ago. The following daughters are left to mourn the loss of their Mother: Mrs. Laura Mayes of Little Rock, with whom Mrs. Foshee was living at the time of her death; Mrs. Ella F. Jones, of Birmingham; Mrs. Dora Jones, of Clanton Route 4.

Mrs. Ella Jones and Mrs. Mayes were the only ones of the children with their mother when she died. Mr. G. O. Foshee was on his way to Little Rock but reached the city too late to see his mother alive.

The deceased was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church at Bethel, and her pastor, Rev. Kelley, preached the funeral at New Salem to-day. She was buried beside her husband in the New Salem cemetery.

Mrs. Foshee lived in this county a long time, rearing her family here. Many friends of the family extend to the grief stricken children their heartfelt sympathy.

MILLER URGES AID IN BOND CAMPAIGN

Lieutenant Governor Pleads For Passage of $25,000,000 Highway Issue.

Is Alabama going to play the game or be left in the mud? All the other states in the union have gone into the road building game with Uncle Sam.

It takes money to get in the game with him and he has saved us a place so we may get in if we put up according to the rules he lays down for all the states.

Do we need the roads? Yes.

Has Alabama got the money to match Uncle Sam? No.

Can we raise the money? Yes.

How? By voting for the $25,000,000 good roads bond issue on January 30, 1922.

Where did Uncle Sam get his half of the money to put up for road building?

By taxing Alabamians and all the other people of these United States—tariff taxes, internal revenue taxes, income taxes—just like it has raised the money to pay pensions to the federal soldiers ever since the Civil War.

If Alabama refuses or fails to take its allotment of good roads money, can we refuse to pay, or get out of paying, our part of the taxes by which this good roads money is raised? No, no more than we could have gotten out of paying taxes into the pension fund which has been almost wholly paid out in other states, very little of that pension money coming back to Alabama.

As we have got to continue to help feed the cow why not arrange to milk her some?

Why refuse to buy a pail to milk in? You said Uncle Sam was saving some money waiting for us to get in the game. How is he keeping the other fellows from getting it?

Projects Approved.

He looked over the surveys of several road projects we submitted to him for the building of roads from specifically named points in Alabama, said our estimates were reasonable, that the several roads were so located as to form, when completed, links in a regular system of roads, and that he would and he did allocate separately to each one of those road projects, he approved enough money out of Alabama's allotment to pay one-half of the construction costs, and in Uncle Sam's treasury, set apart for these particular road projects is $1,475,037.87, waiting for us to put up our half of the construction costs to match his money.

When are we going to match his money and start to building these approved roads. When we sell some of those $25,000,000 of Good Roads bonds.

Have we ever matched any of the federal appropriations? If so how did we do it? Yes we used automobile license taxes and got some of the counties to advance money, but have not any left over to match this $1,475,037.87 of the first federal appropriation and have not matched any of the last federal appropriations.

What if the people don't vote authorizing the issuance of these bonds?

Uncle Sam will quit holding his money for these projects in Alabama and will take it and distribute it to the other states that are ready to match it.

How do we know hat if we vote these bonds any of the money will be spent in our county?

Because in the very authority you give for the bonds it is expressly provided that $250,000 of the proceeds of the bonds shall be used to match $250,000 of the federal money, making $500,000 which shall be spent in your county on your roads. These will fit into either an interstate system or into an inter-county system, and these inter-county roads will serve the local communities and will also be feeders to the interstate system of roads.

How do you know that the federal government is going to keep on appropriating money for good roads in those states where the state matches the appropriations?

Both Parties Back Plan.

Because both of the great political parites in this country are comitted to the policy of making such appropriations. Each one put it in its national platform. The Democratic administration, under the leadership of our late Senator Bankhead, made the first big appropriation for such roads and the Republican administration, now in power, has made a similar appropriation.

All the other states in the union have made their plans to meet and use the federal money and every member of Congress, House and Senate, will not want to disturb his state's plans but will co-operate with it and go pledged to vote for continual federal appropriations for good roads.

It has become a permanent governmental policy.

Are Alabama's roads good enough?

Not for me, I am going to vote for the bond issue to get money to match the federal appropriation so we may have $50,000,000 spent in building good roads in Alabama.

If the roads are as good as you want them to be you need not bother about the bond issue. If they are not, join me in voting for the bonds.

SEPARATED FROM RELATIVES FOR 17 YEARS, WOMAN BEGINS HUNT FOR FATHER

Separated from relatives 17 years ago at the age of 10 and not having had any word from them since, Mrs. W. E. Robinson, 319 South Sixty-Sixth Street, is seeking to find her father and other relatives who may be living.

Mrs. Robinson's maiden name was Eula Bell Johnson. Her home, at the time the separation took place was, according to her best recollection, at Cedartown, Ga. The last incident she recalls in connection with her life with her parents is the death of her mother, when, as a small cild, she stood with her father beside the corpse.

After the death of her mother, Mrs. Robinson lived with her aunt, Mrs. Lou Johnson, in Cedartown, if that place was really her home. If there were other children in the family she cannot remember them.

At the age of 10, her father being still alive, as she recalls, she was brought to Birmingham and placed in the Mercy Home. She has sought information there since, but found nothing more than the record of her entrance in August, 1904. After a year she was adopted by J. M. Maddox, Clanton, Ala. During the seven years of her residence with her foster parents she received no communication whatever from relatives.

Ten years ago she was married to W. E. Robinson, postoffice employe in Clanton. Later they moved to Birmingham. Mr. Robinson has a position at the postoffice here.—Birmingham News.

Gadsden to Have a Fair.

Gadsden, Ala., Dec. 3.—The Civitan Club Friday passed a resolution authorizing the organization of a $50,000 stock company for promoting a district fair for Gadsden. The members showed their faith in the proposition by subscribing for $6,000 of the stock. Five committees were appointed to solicit stock subscriptions at $10 a share. Moragne Field has been chosen as a site and plans for the buildings have been submitted to a committee which has them under consideration. The idea is to establish a district fair in which the counties of Etowah, St. Clair, Marshall, Cherokee, DeKalb, Blount and Calhoun will participate as exhibitors. If all plans are carried through successfully the fair will open next Fall.

To Boost Road Bonds.

Gadsden, Ala., Dec. 3.—The Rotary Club has decided to set apart one of its December meetings for boosting the $25,000,000 road bond issue and has asked the Civitan and Kiwanis Clubs to follow suit. It is proposed to have all of the civic organizations take part in the campaign in Etowah. The Business and Professional Women's Club will also set aside one of its early meeting to boost the bond issue.

26 Indictments Found.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 3.—The federal grand jury which reported Friday afternoon after being in session five days,, return 26 indictments, said to be the smallest number of true bills found by a United States jury here in several years. Thirty-nine cases were investigated. The small number of indictments is said to be due to the fact that many people arrested since the last term of court have gone into court and entered pleas of guilty rather than be bound over to the grand jury. This reduced the number of cases to be investigated.

A VOTE OF THANKS

Doesn't it make a minister feel good to know that his people remember him? I cannot find words good enough to express my thanks to the kind, good, people of Thorsby for their kindness shown to me Saturday night, Dec. 3rd, with a "pounding" which amounted to about 125 pounds. They filled my pantry with good things to eat of all sorts. My appreciation to one and all is beyond expression. May God's richest blessings rst upon each and every one of you. Thank you!

W. P. LOWERY,
Pastor Thorsby Baptist Church.

Mr. J. R. Martin has moved from his place, about a mile north of Thorsby, to his new house at Washington and Concordia Avenue, opposite the Congregational church.

Mrs. Clarence Bice has moved into the new house, at Summit Avenue and the newly surveyed highway east of the L. & N. R. R.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Davenport moved Monday to the small house on the widow Holdridge place, one half mile west of the depot at Thorsby.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society was entertained last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles A Peterson. Upwards of thirty people took advantage of this opportunity to visit this popular home.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid Society will be held on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 8, at the home of Mrs. F. E. Gronquist on Jones Street.

There are some folks in Thorsby, young and old, who do not seem to know that the sidewalks are for the use of pedestrains, and an ordinance forbids their use as bicycle paths. Considerable complaint has recently been heard of the curt demands for right of way by wheel riders whistling and shouting at people to "Get off the walk." Bicycles have no business on them especially when they try to monopolize the right which then becomes a nuisance liable to prosecution.

An item of paramount interest to many of the ladies of Thorsby will be the Ladies Guild Bazaar, at the store of G. L. Foshee, Saturday Dec. 10th, beginning at 7 o'clock, A. M. Many fancy and useful articles suitable for personal use, or for Christmas gifts, have been made by willing hands and donated for this sale. A bountiful dinner will be served noon for 25c. Cake and coffee can be had at any time of the day or evening, until the supply is exhausted, unless the ladies give out first. The following named ladies are serving on the several committees, the first named being Chairman, Fancy and useful articles. Mesdames E. W. Butler, G. F. Harper, Ivey Horn, A. K. Horn, A. E. Reagan, Miss Naemi Turnquist. Candies, Mesdames D. M. Paxson, J. M. Graham, S. C. Wood, L. E. Diefenderfer, Miss Gladys Parnell. Dinner and other refreshments, Mesdames H. M. Gerald, Carl C. Peterson, Charles S. Howard, Robert Johnson, Jackson, Magne Anderson, C. E. Lucas. Cashier, Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Bates Hall was well filled Saturday night for the fourth number of our entertainment course, when Mr. V. S. Watkins, of Redpath Lyceum Bureau, held the very close attention of the audience in character interpretations of a play. His work was of a high order of merit and intensely pleasing.

On Sunday night, Dec. 4, at the Congregational church, Rev. J. F. Owen preached a very impressive sermon on "The Blind Man Sent to The Pool of Siloam." The discourse was illistrated with a number of interesting Stereopticon views. The morning service was conducted by Rev. J. M. Graham who preached a splendid sermon from the text "The Mind of Christ Be in you." The church was well filled at both services. Rev. J. W. Davenport, pastor of the church has been ill for a week but is now getting about again.

Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland and Miss Emily Ellsworth, of Thorsby Institute Faculty, spent Saturday of last week in Birmingham. Mrs. Loveland taking the train there at night for her home at Wowners Grove, near Chicago, where she will make her headquartersh while engaged in working and speaking in the interest of Thorsby Institute. Miss Catharine Perry of Boston is expected this week to take up the work Mrs. Loveland was doing in the school.

Mr. C. H. Horman of Mentone spent Tuesday in Thorsby visiting his daughter, Margaret, who is a student in Thorsby Institute. He also visited the school and spoke at the Chapel services.

A meeting of the Thorsby Parent Teachers Association was held at the public school at 7:30, P. M., Dec. 2, though few in numbers were present much enthusiasm prevailed. Several policies regarding general com munity betterment were discussed, however the greatest interest centers in a new school for Thorsby for which each one in the entire community will have to "put a shoulder to the wheel" with a determination to make a success of the enterprise. Discussions, though general, were led by Rev. J. M. Graham and Prof. J. L. Harris. The next meeting will be held the first Friday in January at the same hour and place.

Friday evening, Dec. 9th at 7:45, Miss Jenkins, "Queen Esther Class" of the Congregational Sunday School will give an entertainment at Bates Hall. Admission will be 20 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. The proceeds will be donated to some worthy object. The program will be as follows:

Song, "Holy Night," by the class.

Tableaux, Liberty and her Handmaidens, Knowledge, Annie Hughes, Liberty, Louise Brown, Religion, Palma Dahl.

BAPTISTS OPEN NEW CHURCH SUNDAY

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather last Sunday was a splendid day for the Baptists of Clanton. There was a fine Sunday School of more than 183 present. At the morning service the lower part of the building was well filled with some 200 people. A fine spirit of fellowship prevailed. Owing to the cold weather the congregation at night was not so large, there being about 100 present. A splendid feature of the night service was the presence of fifty or more fine young men. Two of these surrendered to Christ and were received for baptism and church fellowship. Those who did not or could not come missed a fine service in every way.

The Opening Day.

Next Sunday will be the greatest day in the past history of the church when the splendid auditorium of the new building will be opened for regular worship.

At the suggestion and by the request of several of the members the sermon in the morning, being the first in the new auditorium, will be delivered by the pastor. At the noon hour dinner will be served on the ground. The members of the church are kindly requested to provide baskets of food, that all who partake may be supplied.

An afternoon service will be held commencing at 2 p. m., when Mr. D. F. Green, State Secretary of our Baptist work, and Prof. H. C. McDonald will have a part on the program. The crowning service will be at night. At the close of the sermon the ordinance of baptism will be administered to more than fourteen candidates, in the new baptistry. At all these services special music will be rendered by the choir. Large audiences are anticipated as people are coming from various parts of Chilton, and also from Elmore and Shelby Counties. Come early to get a seat, otherwise do not be disappointed if you fail to secure one. The seating capacity is about 650 when crowded to its full capacity. Everybody is cordially invited.

FULL ERADICATION OF TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION GOAL

DISEASE MAY BE WIPED OUT BY PROPER TREATMENT AND PROTECTION.

EDUCATION IS NECESSARY

Alabama Tuberculosis Associations Are Working to Help Wipe Out Disease Throughout State.

Complete eradication of tuberculosis is the goal which the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations have set for themselves. The immediate work is the prevention of spread of the disease through education. but the complete removal of tuberculosis from every community in the state is the final aim.

Of course, it wouldn't do any good for Alabama to be free of tuberculosis and for all the other states to be filled with it. So the Alabama associations are working with the 1,200 organizations which make up the National Tuberculosis Association. The United States will be freed of the disease and eventually the world. This is the big vision before all of the workers for the cure and prevention of the disease.

But they realize that this cannot be accomplished in a day, and they are working to this end through the only means passible, education. The process is of necessity a slow one, but it is a sure one. This has been proved in one community.

Framingham, Massachusetts, is the place. There is no tuberculosis there. As an experiment the National Tuberculosis Association carried on a special campaign there lasting three years.

Every case was isolated and the most modern methods of cure were tried. At the same time the most modren methods of sanitation for preventing the spread of the disease were used. Within three years Framingham had no tuberculosis in its limits, and it is a town of several thousand persons.

Of course, all of the cases did not get well, nor were all cured in that short time. But the more obstinate cases were removed to a sanitarium and the chance of spread of the disease was done away with. This freedom from tuberculosis in Framingham is a condition that has lasted for sometime, and the citizens are determined that it shall last much longer.

Every city, town, village and cross roads in Alabama may do the same thing, and the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations are working to this end through their campaign of education throughout the state. From little Christmas Seals, costing one penny each, the money is coming for doing this work. It takes millions of seals to provide enough money, but these millions must be sold.

What has been done from the sales of these seals is remarkable as statistics show.

No child is ever born with tuberculosis, so the medical experts tell us. The danger comes from infection by contact with older members of the household who have the disease. Evidence of tuberculosis infection begins to show itself in a baby about the time the child is first allowed to play on the floor. If bodily resistance is great the disease may never develop, even though there may be an infection. Figures of the National Tuberculosis Association show that from 75 to 90 per cent of the population in civilized communities is infected with the white plague germs before the age of sixteen.

Tuberculosis is a disease that thrives amid ignorance and neglect. Sunlight, fresh air, cleanliness, plenty of nourishing food and rest under the proper medical supervision, will conquer the white plague.

More than 1,000,000 persons in this country are affected with tuberculosis in an active form and at least 1,000,000 others have the disease in a latent or quiescent form. During the past year there were 120,000 deaths in the United States from tuberculosis, which means that one person died every four minutes of this preventable, curable disease.

Yet a winning fight is being made against this menace by the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1,200 affiliated organizations throughout the country.

Last year the number of deaths had decreased and was approximately 120,000. As a matter of fact during the fifteen years that the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated associations have been carrying on their fight against this enemy the death rate has decreased from 200 per 100,000 in the registration area to 114 per 100,000 in 1920. Moreover they have estimated that if tuberculosis were eliminated as a cause of death, two and one-half years could be added to the life of each individual. Granting that each of these individuals has a national wealth of $100 per year, if he loses two and one-half years he is a $250 loss. On a basis of 100,000,000 population in the United States, the total loss to the country through tuberculosis deaths is at least $25,000,000,000. This financial loss, enormous at it is, can in no way equal the personal loss in suffering and sorrow.

The campaign carried on by the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated organizations is purely educational and seeks to teach the public the need for daily health habits. If these are pursued, tuberculosis may be prevented. Watch over the general physical condition and the germs will not become active in the system. Periodic physical examinations by an expert physician will go far toward preventing tuberculosis.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE NOT UNDER THE RED CROSS

TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION CONDUCT SALE TO AID SUFFERERS IN ALABAMA.

Somehow everyone thinks of the Red Cross in connection with the work of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association, and with the Fifth Roll Call of the Red Cross out of the way there is likely to be some misunderstanding in regard to the Christmas Seal Sale, which is now under way.

The sales of Christmas Seals, health seals, is something apart from the Red Cross drive. The proceeds from these sales will be used for working to aid the 60,000 Tuberculosis sufferers in Alabama.

The best idea of the relation between the two organizations may be formed from the following letter to all heads of the Red Cross:

"It is important for purposes of the Fifth Annual Roll Call that there be a distinct understanding by all Roll Call workers as to the exact relationship between the American Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis Association in the matter of the latter's sale of seals.

"Just prior to the Fourth Roll Call, last year, it was agreed that the National Tuberculosis Association would not use the Red Cross emblem or title. This decision was reached not through lack of interest of the American Red Cross in the work of the National Tuberculosis Association but because of the confusion in the public mind which seemed inevitable under the arrangement which had existed up to 1920.

"In the Fifth Annual Roll Call, the arrangement of last year will be continued and the relationship of the two organizations with reference to the Roll Call and the sale of stamps is as follows:

1. "There is no official connection between the campaign of the National Tuberculosis Association and that of the American Red Cross.

2. "There is to be no use of the Red Cross emblem by the National Tuberculosis Association.

3. "The title of the American Red Cross is not to be used in the Tuberculosis sale of seals.

4. "The dates of the American Red Cross Roll Call are to be November 11th to 24th, inclusive; and the National Tuberculosis Association's sale of seals begins immediately after Thanksgiving Day (November 24th) and continues until about the middle of December.

"It is desirable that there should be as little overlapping of the Roll Call and the sale of Tuberculosis seals as possible; and it is particularly desirable that all publicity should be so worded as to avoid confusion in the public mind as to these two activities.

"The above must not be construed as meaning that the American Red Cross is not vitally interested in the success of the National Tuberculosis Association. On the contrary the work of the National Tuberculosis Association is of very great value and the American Red Cross sincerely hopes for the continued success of its work. Therefore, if Red Cross chapter members, as individuals, wish to take part in the campaign for the sale of seals the Red Cross will heartily approve of their doing so."

Mother's Oversight.

A friend of mine has a daughter who is fond of curls. The other day she stood looking at a curly-headed girl at play for a long time, and finally turned and said to her mother, "Oh, dear, why didn't you buy me with curls?"—Chicago Tribune.

Resigned the Vice Presidency.

The only vice president to resign was John C. Calhoun, who gave up the vice presidency to become a United States senator.

The Beard in Dreams.

To dream you have a long beard denotes long life. If black, you will have great troubles. If red, shame and disgrace will follow you. If white, cunning and success in your undertakings. To pull or shave the beard betokens loss and disappointment. If a young lady dreams she has a beard, she will marry well. To dream you are beardless is a sign of riches. To wash the beard is an omen of sadness.

COLDS MAY BE AVOIDED WITH PROPER LIVING

CAREFUL EATING AND PROTECTION OF BODY WILL HELP AVOID INFECTION.

(By S. Adolphus Knopf, M. D., New York.)

Everybody knows what a cold is by its effects, but perhaps not everybody knows that it is due to a germ sometimes called micrococcus-catarrhalis. We may get this germ from the careless cougher, sneezer, or excited talker, through tiny droplets or sprays. The cold may develop at once, or it is quite possible that we also carry the germs for some time within us. When our system is rendered less resistant by chills, overeating, or intemperate acts of some kind or other, or by being badly nourished or overworked, these germs have a chance to multiply and then produce the symptoms of a cold.

To prevent infection, it is of course best to avoid the close proximity of a careless sneezer, cougher, spitter, or excited talker who expells small particles of saliva (droplets) when speaking. If one is on familiar terms with the individual, he can advise caution such as sneezing or coughing in a handkerchief, or at least holding the hand before the mouth during a so-called dry cough, which is in reality never dry, for droplets are expelled whenever there is a cough.

The individual who expectorates should, of course, always try to deposit his sputum in a receptacle (spittoon, heese-cloth, or handkerchief) when indoors and in the gutter when out-of-doors. In crowded assemblies, street cars and subways, the dangers of becoming infected by others with the catarrh germs of course always exists.

What can we do to protect ourselves by making our system less susceptible when we are exposed? It must be remembered that when we are in good health, the germs of a cold coming from the afflicted with the disease have little effect on us, nor will those which may lurk within us have much chance to multiply and do harm. In the healthy individual the white blood corpuscles in our blood stream take care of the invading microbe. They swallow it; hence the name "phagocytes." Thus the best way to protect oneself from catching cold is to keep in the best physical condition.

In order to make the body resistant to contracting colds, breathe as much good, pure air as possible all the time, breathing quietly and deeply, particularly when out-of-doors. When indoors try to be in a well ventilated room. Whenever convenient, take special breathing exercise every hour or two, raising and rolling the shoulders upward and backward during the act of a slow and deep inhalation, retaining the air for about 5 seconds while holding the shoulders backward, then exhaling a little more rapidly than it took for the inhalation, during which act the shoulders move forward and downward.

Accustom the body to a daily application of cold water in the form of a plunge, shower bath, or a cold sponge. One unaccustomed to the use of cold water must of course begin gradually. This can best be done by standing in water at a temperature of about 105 degrees F. and squeezing out a sponge soaked in cold water at a temperature of 85 degrees over the back of the neck, in front of the neck, and over the left and right shoulder, so that the whole body receives the ablution, the head remaining dry. Should the individual not react, that is to say, feel warm after the bath, he should return to a warm bed for a few moments. In a few days reduce the temperature of the cold water to 80 degrees, then to 75 degrees, until he comes down gradually to 45 degrees, which is the average temperature as it comes from the faucet.

The judicious use of cold water, as just indicated, is the best means to guard the system against what is commonly called "catching cold." The circulation will be improved, the respiration will become deeper and more regular, the skin more resistant, and the whole system less susceptible to chills.

Besides the external use of cold water, always bear in mind that the drinking of five to six glasses of cold water a day between meals, will materially help in the preservation of good health. The constipated individual produces an auto-intoxication, that is to say, creates a poison in his system which renders him below par and more susceptible to the invasion of the germs of common colds.

Explanation of Name "Canada."

There are various theories as to how Canada came to be so called, one which meets with wide approval is that the word Canada is derived from an Indian word, "Kannatha," meaning a village or collection of huts, and it is supposed that Jacques Cartier, hearing this word used by the Indians with reference to their settlements, mistook its meaning, and applied it to the whole country.

MAN ONLY ANIMAL WHO OVER WORKS

IE OVERPLAYS, OVERWORKS, OVEREXERCISES AND OVER WORRIES TOO MUCH

PROF. ALLEN K. KRAUSE, M. D., John Hopkins University Medical School, Baltimore.

Man is the only animal that habitually and unnecessarily uses his bodiy functions to excess—in overwork, verplay, overexercise, overworry, in rolonged mental and emotional stress n unnatural hours of activity without rest. And being organized into communities, men herd together and thus establish continual contact with one another and become unduly exposed to one another's infections.

In most men's bodies are little growths of tissue called tubercles in which lie concealed the germs of tuberculosis. These tubercles form spherical walls around the germs, called tubercle bacilli, and thus imprison the germs. As long as the wall is strong and unbroken the germs cannot spread; they cause no illness and are no more to be feared than a common wart or a mole in the skin.

If the tissues around the tubercles function normally, these walls tend to remain strong and so tight that few or no bacilli can make their way out of them and spread throughout the body. But too prolonged activity of the body as a whole, or of the part in which may be the tubercles, will in general bring about conditions that favor the weakening of the tubercle wall and the emergence of bacilli.

We heal tuberculosis by rest—of a knee, of the lungs, of the whole body. We become ill with tubercuosis by reason of overstrain. Other diseases, especially those that cause inflammations and congestions in the lungs, whip up the physiological activities of the body and throw a strain upon the walls of tubercles. So do certain bodily activities, like repeated and long-continued work without sleep, pregnancy, childbirth, dissipation, etc.

The point where activity becomes overstrain is an individual affair. The miner, the broker, the farmer, the school teacher, might every one of them become fatigued by the other's ordinary labor. The phlegmatic and the irritable, the beefy and the wiry, respond very differently to the same stimulus, whether this be play, labor, exercise or dissipation. Every man's point of fatigue is his own, registered in his own consciousness by sensations that all have experienced. Every rational man knows when he is tired or experience soon teaches him what will make him tired. And no rational man should push himself beyond this point unless he must.

To reduce exposure to all infections to a minimum and to balance one's activities so there will always be a healthy surplus on the credit side of rest, nay, more, a good reserve to draw upon in time of need—this is building up resistance. At thirty we build it a little differently than at twenty, at forty again differently than at thirty; there is a different proportion of details, yet principles and details remain the same.

Food, clean air, adequate clothing, decent hours of sleep, conserve and promote health—the normal body. But the normal machine was built for one man power and a too persistent effort to squeeze out more will sooner or later mean an overheated boiler and outworn gears; rusted, roughened and thinned out metal, and then—the collapse or the explosion. Then may an insignificant little turercle become ablaze.

CONSERVING LIFE ADDS TO WEALTH

COUNTRIES GROW IN POWER AND WEALTH THROUGH HEALTHY POPULATIONS.

By Dr. Louis I. Dublin, Statistician, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

The movement to conserve human life is dictated even by the crudest economic motives. An increase in the average span of life adds to the potential wealth of the country; whatever curtails the life span destroys the national wealth. The public health work of the last fifty years by cutting the death rate from such diseases as malaria, typoid fever, smallpox, cholera, yellow fever, and tuberculosis, and also from accidents, is, in large measure, responsible for the addition of over ten years to the average lifetime of man. In 1855, the expectation of life of a person in Massachusetts was about 40 years; according to the most recent figures, it is well over 50 years. It is estimated most conservatively, that we produce more than we consume each year to the small amount of $100 per capita. The addition of only one year of life per person is, therefore. equivalent to the addition of more than ten billion dollars to the national wealth of our country.

This is not all. A man or woman is worth more to his or her country when well than when sick. Illness is an important source of inefficiency and non-production. We lose on the average about seven days each year from sickness, or, about 2 per cent of our working time. In terms of money lost from wages, the figure amounts to not less than $700,000,000 annually. At present high wages, the total will reach one billion dollars especially if the cost of medical care, drugs, appliances, etc., is included. A very large part of all this money could be saved by applying more intensively the public health measures which we know do control disease.

The well-directed expenditure of money for the conservation of the public health will bring larger returns in dollars and cents than many another investment, the wisdom of which communities never question. If, for example, tuberculosis could be entirely eliminated as a cause of sickness and death, an average of two and one-half years could be added to the lifetime of every man and woman in the United States. We have amply demonstrated our ability to suppress typhoid fever. Yet, there are still over thirteen thousand deaths each year, most of which could readily be avoided and, further, we would, at the same time, stop the double mortality which occurs for three years among those who survive an attack of typhoid fever. Diseases such as measles, scarlet fever, diptheria and the other infections of children leave defective ears, hearts and kidneys, which impair efficiency and shorten life. The money value of all these losses is staggering when we stop to realize that human life is our greatest economic asset.

Our program for the next ten years should be to add one year of life to the present average life span of every man and woman in the United States.

ALABAMA'S SHARE OF SEALS IS 17,500,000

PROCEEDS FOR SUFFERERS

Money Will Be Used To Spread Educational Work Throughout the Entire State.

Alabama is expected to buy 17,500,000 Christmas Seals this year to aid in the work of the Tuberculosis Association.

Once this would have been an overwhelming figure for the average person, but everyone thinks in billions now. Besides these Christmas Seals, seals of health, cost only one cent each, and Alabama has a population of 2,350,000 to take care of this number of the little posters which mean so much to the 60,000 tuberculosis victims in the state.

This is less than 8 cents from each person, which is very small in such terms. The difficulty the Tuberculosis Association faces is in getting the message of the seals and the seals themselves to those who are willing to buy, once they realize how pennies can mount into dollars and dollars can measure the number of human lives saved.

For weeks now the headquarters of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association has been mailing out these millions of stamps, thousands of pounds of them, throughout the state. They are sent in great packages, in sheets of 100, to the various county committees and these committes in turn distribute them to the volunteer workers, who are aiming to break all records for the number of seals sold and in addition the record for the fastest sales.

The mailing out of these Christmas seals has not been the only job that has kept almost a dozen persons busy for the last few weeks. Unfortunately the sale of these Seals of Health have to be advertised. It is advertising matter that has been sent out by hundreds and hundreds of packages to every town in the state.

The Tuberculosis Association has sent out posters, pamphlets, letters and every form of modern advertising matter so that everyone might know of these seals, what they mean and how much can be accomplished by their sale.

The Tuberculosis Association wants everyone to know that there is no relation between this sale and the recent Red Cross roll call. The two organizations work in the greatest harmony, but their work is separate. None of the money collected in the Roll Call can be used for the help of the Tuberculosis Association, which has to gather its funds through the sale of the Christmas Seals.

The money thus gathered will be spent, under the direction of the most prominent men and women in Alabama, for the aid of the 60,000 sufferers from tuberculosis in this state. As many as 5,000 die yearly as victims of the disease, while the number of new cases can never be known accurately because there is no law in Alabama which makes registration of tuberculosis cases certain.

Education is the only way that these victims of tuberculosis may be aided by the association, and when the communities are educated they will build sanitoriums such as Birmingham and Montgomery have and Mobile will have shortly.

To spread this education money is required and this money is obtained through the sale of the seals. Some idea of the form this educational work takes may be gained from the stories appearing in this paper. The care, prevention and treatment of the disease as outlined is the work of experts, of men who have given their lives to its study and prevention.

That it can be prevented is proved y the experience of the town of Framingham, Massachusetts. There is not a single case of tuberculosis in this town of many thousands, and this wonderful record has been established within a few years of earnest, concentrated effort.

A sanitorium is taking care of those cases which have not been cured. But the most important thing is the fact that no new cases are being reported.

This can only be accomplished where there are no old cases to spread the disease. Every community in Alabama can rid itself of this dread malady by the proper precautions. It is simply a matter of education and then the application of that knowledge.

Tuberculosis may lay dormant for years and years, and then some sudden strain bring it to light. So that every person afflicted with tuberculosis may be spreading the disease without knowing it, because it does not show immediately.

One way of preventing tuberculosis is through care of the children, and educational health crusades are some of the biggest work the Tuberculosis Association.

The committee in charge of the work has decided that 17,500,000 seals must be sold to carry on the work in Alabama, so it is this figure that must be reached this year.

ONE TUBERCULOSIS CASE MEANS OTHERS

UNLESS CHECKED, DREAD DISEASE MAY ACT AS ENDLESS CHAIN.

By poisoning one rat so that he dies and poisons others through eating him, and so on forming an endless chain is the way New York is ridding itself of disease bearing rodents.

Humans are bing killed in much the same way, but not by a poison infected rat, but by poison infected human beings. The poison is the germ of tuberculosis which may be scattered among hundreds of persons by one person afflicted with the disease.

It is in this way that tuberculosis spreads throughout Alabama until there are now 60,000 cases in the state with more than 5,000 deaths annually. This condition is one which may be relieved, but not until the proper methods have been taken to check the spread of tuberculosis.

This does not mean that those afflicted with tuberculosis are to be avoided as though they had some plague whic the mere sight of a victim was enough to pass on. Far from it. A patient with tuberculosis may live at home without infecting a single one of the family, when proper precautions are taken.

But that is the trouble, proper precautions are not always taken. First because the person with tuberculosis is not always aware of the disease. Secondly when he or she has the methods for preventing infection are not known by those around them.

The only way these precautions, the necessary care of the patient and the prevention of infection in others can be given to the people of Alabama is by education. This work of education is the duty the Alabama Tuberculosis Association have taken upon themselves. They have set out to stop the endless chain of disease by educating the people how to fight it.

CELEBRATING THE NEW YEAR

How the Javanese Devote a Week in June to Observing This Holiday.

The Javanese New Year starts the first week in June. The natives take about a month to prepare for it, and all workers absent themselves from their regular employment until their feast days are over. It is a time when they buy their new clothes (sarongs). These are gayly colored cloths, two yards wide and about a yard or yard and a half long, that both men and women fix around their waist, covering them to the ankles. The men wear white coats and the women white or colored jackets. To get the new clothes, the servants usually ask for a loan from their employers which takes months to pay back. Then they decorate their kampon, or district, with gayly colored paper and lights, these usually being made of oil in little cans fixed on the railings made of bamboo sticks.

The native does not drink intoxicants, so does not get drunk on holidays, but he must have an outlet for his happiness and he finds it in fireworks. Then the dancing girl is another source of entertainment. While she sings she sways her body to and fro, accompanied by drums and other strange instruments. To them it is soul music and they revel in it.

The festivities last usually a week, then when salary and loan is spent, they come back to their work, says Mrs. Major Morrison of the Salvation Army, in describing, in the War Cry, a celebration which she witnessed this year.

How Headstones Came Into Use.

The custom of erecting headstones is as old as man's history, but the mausoleum was an epoch-making innovation in the year 352 B. C. The first one known to history was erected by Artemisia, queen of Caria, a Greek province, in memory of her husband, Mausolus, and its ruins stood at Halicarnassus until 1857, when they were brought into England by C. T. Newton, a famous archeologist, who presented them to the British museum.

How to Be Patriotic.

The man who puts up a building that will endure really performs a double service, first to himself and, second, through conservation of our timber resources, to the country at large, says the American Forestry Magazine. The importance of combating waste and decay is generally appreciated, yet it is estimated that the people of the United States throw away a hundred million dollars a year in preventable decay of wood alone.

GIVE

If it be true (and folks there are
This legend who believe)
That every year the Christ Child walks
Our earth, on Mary's Eve,
How much of suffering He finds
To make His kind heart grieve!

So many starving babies, pinched
And whimpering with cold,
Such piteous wee faces drawn
With hunger, gray and old!
A hundred needy cases? Oh,
The half has not been told!

And we, whose homes are holly-wreathed,
And gay with Christmas trees,
What have we done to merit cheer
And comfort—more than these?
(The Child with the sad and puzzled eyes Must wonder, as He sees!)

Then, ere the birth-morn of the Babe,
Give gladly, every one,
As this past year has prospered you,
That some poor little one
May know a tithe of Christmas joy
Before the Day is done!

COUNTIES PAY GREAT DEAL FOR TUBERCULOSIS

AVERAGE COST IS MORE THAN IS PAID FOR TAXES

Citizens of Alabama are paying more for tuberculosis than the counties are collecting for taxes.

This is an astounding statement, but it is declared to be correct by experts who have figured out how much tuberculosis is costing the taxpayers.

There are 60,000 cases of tuberculosis in Alabama, and of this number more than 5,000 die annually. The ratio is about constant with a decrease every year owing to the efforts of the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations in educating the people about this most widespread of disease.

But the cost goes on just the same. And the cost is not on account of money used to fight the disease. If that much money was used it would only be a comparatively short time until tuberculosis would be wiped out of the state.

The cost is not one that can be reckoned by actual expenditures. It is represented by wealth lost to the communities, the counties and the state. And the wealth thus lost is lost to the people who in the end are the communities, the counties and the state.

Every person afflicted with tuberculosis is an economic loss to the community in which he lives. Naturally afflicted with the disease of such nature his work is bound to suffer, even when he is able to work. Or she as the case may be because tuberculosis knows no sex.

When a citizen is unable to work he cannot produce wealth and when he does not produce the sum total of all is affected, because each must do his or her share of creating wealth.

The Alabama Tuberculosis Associations are doing everything in their power to cure and prevent tuberculosis through a campaign of education. They have not the funds for little more than this. As a matter of fact their funds for this work depend solely upon the number of Christmas Seals sold in the campaign now under way.

It is estimated that 17,500,000 seals must be sold to carry on even a limited educational campaign, and this is the goal that the tuberculosis associations have set for themselves.

In buying these seals, aside from the humanitarian purpose of helping to cure the sick, every citizen is helping to enrich his community and thereby him or her self.

A Man's Weight in Gold.

How much is a billion dollars? One billion dollars' worth of coin silver would make a cube nearly 50 feet on an edge. If you were worth your weight in silver that would not make you rich. The weight of a 180-pound man would be balanced on the scales with $2,500 worth of coin silver. His weight in coined gold would be worth only $40,000.

NEGROES TO FIGHT T. B. WITH THEIR ASSOCIATION

NEGRO TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION OF ALABAMA IS FORMED TO COMBAT DISEASE.

Negroes of Alabama will fight their own battle against tuberculosis, working in harmony with the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations and the national body.

This was decided on a few weeks ago, and the Negro Tuberculosis Association of Alabama was formed with Dr. R. R. Moton as its tentative head.

The tentative governing body contains a number of the most prominent negroes of the state. The list of officers as given out by George W. Peck, executive secretary of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association, and who was behind the movement for the formation of the negro organization, is:

Dr. Moton, president; Prof. A. H. Parker, Birmingham, first vice president; R. B. Hudson, Selma, second vice president; Mary E. Suarez, Tuskegee Institute, executive secretary; Prof. M. N. Work, Tuskegee Institute, recording secretary; Warren Logan, Tuskegee Institute, treasurer.

Executive committee: Prof. G. W. Trenholm, Montgomery; Dr. E. T. Belsaw, Mobile; Julius Williams, Anniston; Dr. A. F. Owens, Selma; Dr. E. Jones, Talladega; Dr. W. H. Mixson, Selma; Prof. T. R. Parker, Normal; Dr. George Weaver, Tuscaloosa; W. B. Driver, Birmingham; P. J. Brown, Gallion; E. H. Fields, Sheffield; Prof. A. L. Holsey, T. M. Campbell, Dr. J. A. Kenney and the widow of Booker T. Washington, Tuskegee Institute.

The Negro Tuberculosis Association is the first of its kind in the country, and it is already hard at work selling Christmas Seals, seals of health, through its various local organizations throughout the state. The headquarters of the organization is at Tuskegee, and an active campaign is being waged for the sale of the seals among the negroes.

This is the first time this has been done, because the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations have never made an intensive campaign among the negroes, though a large part of the work of the associations has been devoted to them, because the percentage of tuberculosis is greater among the negroes than among the whites.

The Negro Tuberculosis Association will make no attempt to sell seals among the whites, and the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations will not wage a selling campaign among the negroes. The result is expected to mean more money for tuberculosis work among both races.

The educational and preventive work of the Negro Tuberculosis Association will be in connection with and under the supervision of the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations. The Tuskegee Institute has long maintained a field health force and with this nucleus the work of the tuberculosis association will be pushed through rapidly.

From every indication hundreds of thousands of seals will be distributed among the negroes this year, making thousands of dollars available for eradicating tuberculosis among them.

And the negro freed of tuberculosis means protection for the whites. Washwomen, cooks, nurses, servants of all kinds will be less open to infection with the disease, which means a consequent freedom for the whites for whom they work.

MAKING DEAD LAWS LIVE.

The Denver Tuberculosis Society recently concluded an aggressive anti-spitting campaign which resulted in the police department of that city consenting to enforce the anti-spitting ordinance which had been a dead letter for five or six years. A small dodger bearing the inscription "Spitting Spreads Disease. You Have Violated a City Ordinance and are Liable to Arrest" were distributed by the police and the street car conductors to violators of the ordinance. On the reverse side of the dodger was printed a copy of the local anti-spitting ordinance. Large placards were displayed in the street cars. As a "Good Roads" parade was scheduled in Denver during the time the campaign was being conducted the Tuberculosis Society entered a truck in the parade, bearing printed reminders to the spectators of their duty as health promoting citizens.

Red Mountain Sanitarium where Jefferson County Aids Patients

Fresh air is the greatest foe to tuberculosis. This has been proved after years of experimentation. And to get fresh air in large quantities it isn't necessary that one have unlimited funds to go to Arizona and other famous places for the cure of this disease.

Alabama has three counties that are taking care of their own tubercular patients and curing them by proper care, treatment and pletny of sunshine and fresh air. What is more a fourth county is going to make up the work as soon as it can build a proper sanitarium.

Above is shown a view of the Red Mountain Sanitarium, just a mile or so outside of Birmingham, where the patients of Jefferson County are cared for. Down in Montgomery there is another sanitarium constructed along the most modern lines for taking care of and healing the tuberculosis victims.

Mobile is now in the midst of a campaign to raise $60,000 for the erection of a similar institution, which is to be completed within the next few months. Other counties throughout the state are planning similar sanitariums for the care of their tuberculosis victims, not only curing them but protecting themselves and their children against the disease.

At Jefferson County and the Montgomery sanitoria there have been many cures wrought, and the work of checking tuberculosis is proving most effective.

Little Things Can Mean Much; Christmas Seals Mean Hope

The value of a thing cannot be measured by its size.

The power of an object is not always according to its dimensions.

It is the Christmas Seal.

It costs a penny, one little cent, but it has millions of brothers.

So when enough of them are sold the little seal is represented by dollars, many dollars.

However, these dollars are not enough to carry out all that the little seal wants to do. Rather the men and women the seal represents.

The Christmas Seals are messengers of hope to 60,000 persons in Alabama who have tuberculosis. And they are messengers to the thousands who are in danger of tuberculosis.

Through the sale of these Christmas Seals, seals of health, the Alabama Tuberculosis Associations will be able to help fight the spread of tuberculosis by sanatoriums, nurses and education.

There are 17,500,000 of these seals to be sold in Alabama. Do your share and help save the lives of these 60,000 and the thousands yet to come from the most terrible of plagues.

Prowler Made a Mistake.

If there is anything that will make folks forget sleep it is a burglar scare. Some third-rate prowler, with trick feet, made a technical mistake in the course of his work in a Broadway apartment house, and as a result of his indignation, approximately 200 sleepy eyes were compelled to do night work. The burglar, as he would no doubt like to be called by his intimate friends, had gained entrance to the house and was getting along rather fairly when he encountered a baby carriage in the dark. The crash was tremendous and was followed by further creaking and grinding as the simple criminal disentangled himself. He probably got into the carriage in his excitement, for to the breathless listeners it seemed that he required an hour to free himself of it. Finally, giving off no end of steaming language, the incompetent bandit fled down a front fire escape and got away. He had taken nothing. Everybody in the house remained up for the rest of the night, believing that the burglar would be mad enough to come back and take a last kick at the carriage.—New York Times.

What's the Answer?

A movie actress said at a Bar Harbor tea:

"A girl can't dress in less than ninety minutes—and a ninety-minute toilet is only an ordinary one at that. A real toilet, which includes a hair-waving, manicuring, and massage, requires three hours.

"The less a girl puts on the longer it takes her to do it. Girls never wore as little as they do today, and never was it necessary to be as careful and thorough about one's dressing.

"Some men grumble because a girl takes so long to dress, but I say to them:

"'Would you rather wait for an attractive girl or have an unattractive girl wait for you?'"

MANY CHILDREN HAVE PHYSICAL DEFECTS

FORTY PER CENT OF SCHOOL AFFLICTED MAY BE CORRECTED.

Thousands of school children in Alabama are suffering from minor physical defects which may be corrected. This is the conservative estimate of experts.

The first trouble with these minor defects is the fact that it keeps the children away from school. Alabama is already way down the list in the education of its population and with school facilities more or less limited by lack of funds, naturally everything that keeps children away from school will help to increase the percentage of illiterates in the state.

This of course is the first consideration, but there is a greater one. The small defects, which may be corrected now with immediate attention, may lead to difficulties in the way of disease in later life that will require greater care and expense in correction and in many instances will lead to fatal disease.

One disease which is liable to attack any person whether normal or not physically and much more liable when they are not normal is tuberculosis. Constitutions weakened by minor troubles are likely to be attacked by any disease, particularly tuberculosis. Therefore minor defects not attended to in children may lead to anything for adults.

These defects are not always visible to the untrained eye. But to the experienced doctor or nurse they the immediately apparent. The question is how to get these children u der the supervision of the prop persons. This can be done throu the education of the communiti in which they live.

This educational work is what th Alabama Tuberculosis Associations are doing every day in every county where there are such organizations. Work among the children is as important as the actual work with the victims of tuberculosis, because the children form the next generation to meet and fight this disease. The tuberculosis associations plan to make this fight a victorious one, but the only way this can be done is through education.

The funds for this educational work are obtained only through the sale of Christmas seals. In buying these little seals of health, every citizen of the Alabama is helping not only those afflicted with tuberculosis, but himself by helping to eradicate this ever present danger.

Alabama must sell 17,500,000 seals this year to carry on its work, so it needs the help of every citizen who can spare from a penny up.

TUBERBULOSIS C/ BE CURED AT HOM

ALABAMA TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATIONS ARE HELPING TO PROVE THIS.

Tuberculosis is not an incurable disease. Nor is the cure one beyond the means of any person.

Tuberculosis can be cured at home, providing the patients follow simple and effective rules to the letter. Usually the first thought of the tuberculosis victim is that he must go to the mountains of North Carolina or the deserts of Arizona for a cure.

In some instances this is necessary, but in the early stages tuberculosis can be cured by staying right at home and following proved methods of cure. The only thing about these methods that are hard is the fact that they must be followed exactly, without the slightest deviation. Of course, there is added trouble of not being able to keep at work.

There are thousands of cases of tuberculosis in Alabama today th could have been cured months a had the victims known how to about it, had they even known th they were afflicted. The only d ficulty in the way of affecting these thousands of cures is getting the information to the persons concerned.

The Alabama Tuberculosis Associations are doing this in so far as they are able through their campaigns of education. They are trying to reach every community in Alabama with information in regard to the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. To do this money is required, and the associations have only one way in which they can obtain money.

This is through the sale of Christmas Seals which are now being distributed throughout the state. They cost only a penny each, but there are millions to be sold and these millions mean many thousands of dollars to be expended in helping the 60,000 sufferers from tuberculosis in the state and protecting those around them.

FRANCHISE TAXES HIGH

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 3.—When all of the large North Alabama corporations have paid franchise taxes due the state the total amount of these payments will be between $250,000 and $400,000, it is learned. Following the supreme court's decision, however, a satisfactory agreement was reached between the corporations concerned and the state tax commission, barring further litigation. John S. Mooring, chairman of the state tax commission, who has been in North Alabama for the past week, is assisting in adjusting the franchise tax assessments which have not already been paid.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Hello! Everybody!

Want to know what is going on out here at Mulberry? If you do just read this column every week and you will surely learn.

Had our first real killing frost this week, and let me tell you that the cooler weather is certainly welcome, for most of us are getting hungry for a mess of backbone and spare ribs.

We are glad to learn through Mr. Will White, that his daughter, Vera, who recently underwent an operation at a Sylacauga Infirmary is improving. We hope for her speedy recovery.

Mr. D. O. Manning is engaged in the building of several new tenant houses on one of his farms. Mr. Manning says that there is more people wanting houses than he can accomodate.

It is with regret that we learn that Mr. B. A. Mooney is preparing to remove his family to Florida in the near future. Mr. Mooney contemplates going into the saw mill business down there.

A good many families have recently moved into our community, having made arrangements to farm during the coming year on the places of Messrs R. J. Williams and C. B. Lenoir. We welcome them in our midst and hope that they will remain with us for more than one year.

Rev. R. T. Gilbert filled his regular appointment at the Methodist Church Sunday, preaching two very able sermons. It is with pleasure that we state that Bro. Gilbert is to be with us for the coming year. He has just returned from Conference and reports a grand time while there.

Mr. Fonza Jones and family have moved into this community to make it their home. Mr. Jones formerly lived near Clanton, Mr. Jones will reside with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mollie Mooney.

Mr. D. O. Manning made a business trip to Stanton Saturday morning in connection with his saw milling interests.

APPEAL IN ROBBERY CASE

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 2.—There were no oral arguments presented before the supreme court on Thursday in connection with the respective appeals of Emory Smith, convicted in Jefferson County in two separate cases of highway robbery and sentenced in one case to life imprisonment and in the other to death.

The case was submitted only on briefs, and is now formally before the court, which is called upon to decide which, if either, of the sentences imposed by the lower court will be executed first.

Mrs. John Kroell, Montevallo.

Montevallo, Ala., Dec. 2.—Mrs. John Kroell, of Montevallo, who has been an invalid for several months, died early Thursday. Before her marriage she was Miss Mattie Scott, of Falkville, Ala. She was the widow of John Kroell, who died about nine years ago. She is survived by three sons, Frank, John, and Hugh, and one daughter, Louie; four brothers, Pinkney Scott, of Bessemer; George Scott, Longview; Robert Scott Hahira, Georgia and Will Scott, Cullman, and three sisters, Mrs. Etta Eady, Falkville; Mrs. Lula Simpson, Falkville, and Mrs L. Cain, Dothan. She was the daughter-in-law of George Kroell, one of the leading merchants and citizens of Montevallo. The funeral services were held Friday, conducted by Rev. A. H. Williams.

Messrs W. G. and G. H. DeShazo went to Clanton Saturday to transact some business.

Among others, we noticed Dr. V. J. Gragg in our community Saturday afternoon. He and some of his friends were out enjoying a squirrel hunt.

Mr. Kirby Summers, Mrs. Jessie Harmon and Miss Jewel Wright made a hurried trip to Clanton Saturday.

It will no doubt be of interest to some to learn that Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Wallace, formerly of this place, now of Birmingham are visiting relatives in this neck of the woods.

Miss Nola D. Reynolds, one of our charming teachers, spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Brs. Frank Reynolds of Stanton.

Miss Edith Gregory and Miss Ethelyn Reynolds were visitors to this community Monday.

Mr. W. T. White, our live and progressive merchant, made a business trip to Clanton Monday.

Miss Gussie Dennis was all smiles Sunday afternoon. Why? Because she had as her caller, Mr. James LeCroy.

The Congregation at the Prayer Meeting Sunday night was not as large as usual owing to the inclemency of the wether. Lets hope that we wont have many nights like that, and all come out to these services. Everybody is cordially invited. Come along folks and lets show where we stand.

We learn with regret that Mrs. W. H. Veazey, son Renfroe, and daughter, Pauline, are confined to the house owing to the mumps.

PEOPLE RELIEVED BY THE NEW TAX LAWS

NEARLY ALL OF THE $835,000,000 TAX REDUCTION IS SAVED TO COMMON PEOPLE.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The American public is going to be saved at least $835,000,000 by the operations of the new tax law which the special session of Congress passed just prior to its adjournment. Practically all of the reductions made in federal taxes by this new law represent savings to the average man. The largest item of reduction is that in transportation taxes. The new law wipes out all taxes which have been paid by passengers in the purchase of tickets and by shippers, who have paid taxes based on freight rates and parcel post rates. The passenger tax amounted to 8 per cent on every ticket bought over 42 cents in value. The freight tax amounted to 3 per cent on the face value of the freight bills. The parcel post tax was one cent on each 25 cents of postage. All told, these taxes took out of the pocket of the American public $300,000,000 a year. All this will stop on January 1st. None of the taxes thus collected went into the pockets of the railroads, as it was all collected by them on behalf of the government, so that railroad revenues are not affected by the repeal of these taxes.

Nearly 3,000,000 Families Benefitted.

Outside of the traveling and shipping public the next largest class of people affected are the heads of families and those who have dependents. The new tax law reduces the amount they are to pay by $70,000,000. Under the old law married men or heads of families having an income of less than $5,000 a year were allowed an exemption of $2,000. Under the new law this exemption is increased to $2,500. This change goes into effect on this year's income. It will affect over 2,000,000 heads of families. Under the old law heads of families, or those who had dependents, were allowed an exemption of $200 for each dependent. Under the new law this exemption is increased to $400. This will affect about 750,000 individuals in addition to the 2,000,000 mentioned above.

Another feature of the law which closely touches the average man is the exemption of the first $300 of income which derived from dividends in a building and loan association. At the average dividend rate paid by building and loan associations this will enable people to invest between $5,000 and $6,000 in building and loan stock and have the income free from federal taxes. There are at present about 5,000,000 members in 9,000 building and loan associations that will be affected by this provision. It is anticipated that this provision will also encourage people to invest in building and loan stock. If so, that, in turn, will furnish stimulus to the building of more homes and houses and relieve the rent situation in city districts.

Buying Public Retieved.

All taxes on wearing apparel, shoes etc., are repealed under the new law. Although the new law did not repeal the "luxury" tax on household furniture, trunks and other manufactured goods, it did not shift the tax from the consumer to the manufacturer. Under the old law the consumer paid the tax on the basis of the retail price. This retail price, of course, represented all of the various profits made by the manufacturer and middlemen. Under the new law the tax is all paid by the manufacturer upon the basis of the manufacturing cost. Although in the aggregate this tax amounts to quite a bit, as a rule it is so small in each individual case that the manufacturer pays it without passing it on.

The public is also relieved of the taxes which have been paid on tiolet soaps, powders, etc. This tax amounted to one cent on every 25 cents' worth of perfumery, cosmetics, toilet articles, proprietary (patent) medicines, dental supplies, etc., etc.

The tax upon soft drinks and ice cream is also repealed. The public gains more by the repeal of these taxes than the government loses, for it was admitted that although these taxes were collected of the public, a very small per cent of them were ever turned over to the government because of the inability to establish a system for checking up and enforcing their payment.

The tax upon insurance premiums is also repealed.

CLANTON TO HAVE A SPLENDID SHOW

"MICROBE OF LOVE" AT THE HIGH SCHOOL, THURSDAY, DEC. 22, 8:00 P. M.

"The Microbe of Love" will be presented by the students of the high school on the closing night, Thursday, Dec. 22nd. This will be one of the most eleborate musical entertainments ever staged in Clanton. Every act will be full of fun and entertainment. Every character will be beautifully costumed. All costumes and paraphernalia will be furnished by the Hettie Jane Dunaway Company. Miss Ruth Strickland has arrived to devote her entire time and energy in the training of the students for the entertainment. Miss Strickland devotes her whole time to the coaching of this play. Before taking up this work she was an expression teacher of renown. She comes to us direct from Virginia in which state she has recently been coaching this play. It is of interest to know that Washington City has signed up two dates for the "Microbe of Love" to appear in January.

Students of the high school will enjoy the rare opportunity of taking part in this eleborate entertainment under the direction of such an able artist.

Miss Monroe and Miss Curry have very carefully selected the cast and rehearsals are now being conducted daily by Miss Strickland. We promise you an entertainment equal to and in many respects far superior to the best theatrical plays of our larger cities.

MARTIN MAY RUN FOR SHERIFF

We learned last week of another fellow who has heard the buzzing of the political bee in his hat, namely, Mr. Leonard P. Martin, who is now serving as Chief Deputy under Sheriff Gore. It is rumored that Mr. Martin will likely be a candidate for Sheriff next year to succeed his present chief.

When we approached Mr. Martin and asked him to verify or deny the rumor as he saw fit, he did not deny it at all; neither did he exactly verify what we had heard. But he left us impressed that he would very likely be a candidate.

There will doubtless be several to bid for the place of Sheriff next time, and we do not believe the people of Chilton County will find it hard to pick out a good man from those who will be candidates on the Republican ticket, for we look for several good men like Mr. Martin to be in the race.

PROF. DEVAUGHN WILL SING

We are requested to announce that Prof. W. M. DeVaughn will sing at Maple Springs next Sunday morning at nine o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to come and bring your song books. Regular preaching services at eleven o'clock by the pastor, Rev. B. F. Dykes. Remember the hour and be on time.

GREAT TIME AT NEW BAPTIST CHURCH

The opening services of the new auditorium of the Clanton Baptist Church last Sunday proved to be the best day in the history of the church. The pastor, Rev. P. G. Carter, was in high spirits as the seating capacity of 580 people was well filled and a fine spirit prevailed throughout the service. The sermon was taken from the building of Solomons temple, and the text found in I Kings, 8:13, "I have surely built thee an house to dwell in, a settled place for thee to abide in forever." The sermon was delivered with the usual eloquence and masterly skill of the preacher and listened to with wrapt attention by the large audience. Man as a builder since the days of early Bible history was vividly pictured, as he traced the various undertakings of man in building enterprises, from Cain the builder of the first city unto the present day in the erection of the magificent temples that are built for the worship of God; from the rude hut and bark canoe to the temples and palaces of today and the fleetest greyhounds of the ocean. The significance of good churches was well defined. Not a civic adornments, but as places of worship somewhat commensurate with the majesty and glory of God, and a place for the worship of God wherein His presence can dwell. "This churlh," said the preacher" should be a place of forgiveness where the sinner can come seek forgiveness of sin both in their relationship to God and to their fellow man.

"It should be a place of reconciliation with God and our fellow man. A place to which we come having left behind all bitterness and enmity, thus being free to worship God in Spirit and in truth. It should be a place where everyone is welcome regardless of creed or no creed, wealth or proverty, a place where everyone can feel a hearty welcome.

"It should be a place where the weary and heavy laden can find a haven of rest, and the sin burdened soul find a Saviour and a God who is their refuge and strength, and a very present help in the time of trouble." The preacher emphasized the fact that the new church in Clanton should become a great centre of religious influence throughout the county, and a living witness and testimony for the cardinal truths of christianity and bap tist orthodoxy. Its value to the community as a national and civic asset was well illustrated, both from its commercial and religious significance. An earnest appeal was made for harmony and unity to prevail among its membership, and for all forms of worldliness to be excluded. "Solomon's temple" said the preacher "was finally destroyed by fire, because of the sins of the people, a possibility none the less true today where sin and worldliness are allowed to exist." Then with an eloquent prayer that the Son of God would smile upon the congregation, from time to time as they met for the hour of worship, and the glory of God fill the house in the conscious witness of His presence, so long as the church walk in his way and crowned Him Lord of all, the very appropriate sermon came to an end.

At the noon hour upwards to 200 people were bountifully fed by the ladies of the church. The afternoon service was also well attended and the address delivered by Mr. D. F. Green, the State Secretary for the Baptist work in Alabama, touched many hearts, as it was listened to with wrapt attention by the audience. By the earnest appeal made many would have thought that the speaker for the afternoon was a preacher instead of a truly consecrated layman. At the night service the house was filled to its full capacity and a very logical and forceful sermon was delivered by the pastor on "Christ our example in baptism." At the close of the sermon 15 candidates followed their Lord through the waters of baptism in the beautiful new baptistry that has been installed in the church.

During the service of the day the sum of $450 was raised to clear off the immediate indebtedness remaining on the building which was a good offering considering that so many present had liberally donated in the past. With the new building completed and practically furnished there is a great opportunity in the future for the Clanton Baptists and with the present capable leadership we believe it will soon become a great factor for civic and moral righteousness in the city and community. We congratulate the baptists on the success of their great and glorious achievement.

The thanks of the church is extended to the choir for their faithful service and the music rendered by them, to the city Bakery for the loan of their coffee perculator and the assistance rendered in serving the coffee, and to the ladies of the church who so heartily entered into the social feature of the day, and by their co-operation so bountifully provided for the guests at the noonday meal. Such spirit as this helps to make any kind of church work success.

TWO STILLS DESTROYED

Deputy Sheriff Leonard Martin, brought to The Union-Banner last week the news of a raid conducted by himself and Deputy Curlee over in Beat 14, on Saturday night, Dec. 3. As result of the "still hunt," two of the outfits were located in Ben Rasberry's woods pasture. They were not in operation at time they were found, but the 400 gallons of beer near the stills indicated that somebody might have had some notion of putting them into operation at no distant date, very likely in time to provide a due measure of Christmas joy. The stills were of a very crude variety, according to Mr. Martin, being made entirely of wooden boxes and iron pipes, with no copper attachments at all. The beer was poured out by the deputies and the stills broken up and burned.

TELEPHONE MEETING

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Peoples Telephone Company will be held at Clanton on next Monday morning at ten o'clock. All lines connecting with the central office at Clanton are hereby requested to hold their line meetings before next Monday and elect one person to represent that line in the general meeting here.

Everybody is urged to take notice of this meeting and tell all your neighbors about it, in order that all lines may be duly represented.

RISE OF JAPAN AS A WORLD POWER

PICTURES OF JAPAN'S FIRST DELEGATION TO WASHINGTON ADORN PRESENT HOTELS.

Washington, Dec 13.—The speed of history is no better illustrated than by the present armament conference. The conference is called to consider questions which have arisen in the Orient, questions which revolve around the foreign policies of Japan. It is admitted on all hands that the failure or success of the conference depends in a large measure upon whether Japan's delegation at the conference adopts a conciliatory or belligerent attitude in the settlement of these issues. In other words, Japan is a world power to be reckoned with from now on in the settlement of international problems.

Men are in Washington who remember when Japan was opened to the world by Commodore Perry, of the United States. That was in 1854. In 1860, six years later, the Japanese government sent a special delegation to the United States to repay the visit of Admiral Perry. In the grill room of the prominent Washington hotels, which is now housing one of the delegations to the armament conference, in which Japan is such a prominent participant, hangs a collection of pictures of the visit paid to Washington by the Japanese delegation in their native grab. Another shows the official reception and ball held in honor of the delegation. Another picture bears the title, "President Buchanan Inspecting the Japanese Gifts at the White House."

No one 61 years ago, when the first Japanese official delegation that ever visited America was in Washington, would have been bold enough to have predicted that in less than three-quarters of a century the nation which had just been opened to international commerce would have another delegation visiting Washington for the very serious purpose of assisting the United States government and the other great powers of the world to effect a settlement of Oriental questions that would enable all the countries to reduce armaments.

The tremendous development of Japan in the last three-quarters of a century from a hermit kingdom, counted at that time of no consequence commercially and no influence politically, to one of the acknowledged five great powers of the world, and the one great power which holds the key to Asia and the Orient, should give pause to those who think they are able to foretell events and make any definite plans which extend very far into the future. The question naturally occurs, at the end of another 70 years what nations will be the ruling powers of the world. Will those which now hold that distinction remain puissant? Or will they become decadent? And small nations which are just coming into being—will they occupy the seats of the mighty two generations hence? Will Spain have enjoyed a renaissance? Will China have duplicated the rapid, marvelous development of Japan? And what of Russia in 70 years?

THE OLDEST BANK In Chilton County

CAN'T EXPLAIN IT

"One thing I can't explain," said Deacon Hapgood, "and that is as to why women's dresses are getting shorter in the skirt and lower in the neck, and yet are higher in price."

Deacon, we can't explain it, either. Many a YOUNG girl these days argues with her mother that she is now OLD enough to wear short skirts! Times have changed, that's all. Old-fashioned folks kept their money hid somewhere about the house unless the burglar beat them to it. Now they keep their money in the bank and pay by check and are taking no chances. Be progressive.

The Rag Doll's Christmas

THERE was once a very, very old rag doll who lived in a nursery. She was so old that she had seen all the children grow up—the boy who wore trousers now, the girl who had her hair done in braids, the middle-sized child who had so often left the rag doll out in the garden at night. There was only the baby left—bless his pink toes!

But the rag doll was very, very old, and one beautiful Christmas time she began to show her age.

Her hair had been combed so much that it had come out dreadfully, and her nose, from a great deal of kissing, was entirely gone. Her pretty pink cheeks had been washed away when the boy tried to teach her to swim in the bath tub, and all her clothes were very untidy indeed.

The baby never noticed all these things, but the toys did; they all made the most unkind remarks to the rag doll the day before Christmas.

"Look at your dirty face," said the large French doll. "You'll be put in the attic tonight. That's where the old dolls go." "Look at your dress," said the jumping jack. "It is all torn. I wouldn't walk across the nursery floor with you."

"Did you ever see such thin hair?" asked the hobby horse. "I thought my tail was thin, but it isn't to be compared with that!"

But just then the nursery door opened, and the Christmas Angel came in. You could be perfectly sure that it was the Christmas Angel even if she did have on a gingham apron, because her face shone so through the dark.

"The French doll must go up to the attic," said the Christmas Angel. "There is a more beautiful new best doll coming."

"Why, the jack-in-the-box has forgotten how to jump."

You see the jack-in-the-box had been so excited about the rag doll's dress that he had broken his spring.

"The jack-in-the-box must go up to the attic, too," said the Christmas Angel.

Then she went over to the hobby-horse.

"Poor, old hobby-horse!" she said. "Your leg is very badly broken. I will take you up to the attic until you can be mended."

"There," the Christmas Angel said at last, "the nursery is all tidy, and ready for new toys—but, dear me, what's this? Why, it is the little rag doll!"

"Oh, please, do I have to go to the attic, too?" said the rag doll. "It's very cold there, and I know the best doll will have the chimney corner for herself—and I don't want the mice to gnaw my toes!"

"Why, you dear old thing!" said the Christmas Angel. "You're the same rag doll that I used to play with when I was little. You go to the attic? Why, I just guess not! We couldn't get along without you in the nursery. You do need a little mending, but I am going to sew you, and then you shall sit on the very tiptop of the Christmas tree."

The Christmas Angel lighted one of the Christmas candles so that she could see to sew. Then she took the rag doll in her lap and opened her workbag and set to work.

First she stuffed the rag doll's insides with plenty of cotton so she could sit up. Then she sewed her toes and put new little white stockings and black shoes on her feet. She took a piece of clean, white cloth and covered the rag doll's dirty face, and painted in blue eyes and a smiling red mouth and vermilion cheeks. She sewed on a new yellow wig; and then she made a pink-and-white checked gingham dress with puffed sleeves, and a white apron with strings to keep the dress clean, and a pink-and-white checked sunbonnet to tie under the rag doll's chin and keep her hair tidy.

"I think you will do now, you dear old thing," said the Christmas Angel.

So it came Christmas morning, and there on the tiptop of the tree sat the rag doll quite made over. The children thought her really the most beautiful of all the Christmas things. As for the rag doll herself—why, all the pleasure of her old days was as nothing to the happiness that was hers now.—Carolyn S. Bailey, in Kindergarten Review.

AFRAID OF SANTA

Black Tots at African Mission Make for Place of Safety.

Presents of Apparel and Sweets Bring Confidence to the Men, Women and Kiddies.

AN AMUSING story of how Santa Claus frightened the black children at a mission station when he first appeared to them a few years ago, is told by the wife of a missionary stationed at Ballunda, Africa. They had celebrated Christmas at Ballunda before, but they never had had Santa Claus; so Mr. Stover, the missionary, dressed up as good Saint Nick.

"He had been padded and powdered and packed until his own mother would not have known him," Mrs. Stover afterward related. "Presently we gave the signal, the door flew open and in walked Santa Claus. But, dear me! What consternation! He was greeted with shrieks and groans and cries of 'Let me out! It is the evil one. It is the day of judgment!'

"The urchins, catching the infection of terror from the older black people, fled to their bedrooms, fell down upon their faces, crept under chairs and tables—anywhere to hide themselves. Poor old Santa Claus never had such a greeting before. As soon as he realized the panic he had caused, he tore off his tall hat and white cotton beard. Then from the bags on his back he began to throw gifts right and left and to tell who he was.

"Reassured once more, everyone was soon laughing and chatting, munching the great 'red breads' (doughnuts), tasting their fruits or nibbling at the sweets from the familiar little bags. One man wondered which end up he was to hold the fork Santa Claus had given him. Another immediately tried on his new shirt. The girls arranged their bright-hued handkerchiefs into turbans, while others sought to find some place about their scanty clothing where they could stow away their bunch of bread, as well as the paper of needles and cake of soap given to each.

"It seemed as though everyone tried to talk louder than his neighbor as they examined the costume of Santa Claus, whom they now no longer feared. One man said that he thought it was John the Baptist; another that it was Elijah returned. Yet another thought it was Satan himself.

HARTFORD MINISTER GOES TO NEWBERNE

Hartford, Ala., Dec. 7.—Rev. E. C. Maye, who has been pastor of the Methodist church in this place for the past year, and who was assigned by the recent session of the conference to the delightful little city of Newberne, in West Alabama, left this morning accompanied by Mrs. Maye to make a visit to their son in Montgomery and proceed the latter part of the week to his new field of labor.

During the year in Hartford Mr. and Mrs. Maye have endeared themselves to very many people, by a cultured manner and constant graciousness as well as by his earnest pulpit work and their departure is genuinely regretted.

Presiding elder, J. M. Dannely, will preach in the Methodist church Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. The pastor urges a full atendance at these services on the part of members and friends of the congregation.

HAS TONIC EFFECT

Christmas Day Pleasures Are of Benefit to People.

Mental State Does Everybody Good and Festivity Equals Prescription of Physician.

CLOSE observers in the ranks of the medical profession have noted one very interesting fact concerning the Christmas season—that it generally has a good tonic effect upon their patients. In explanation of this the London Lancet says that since Christmas has come to be regarded as a time for good cheer, a universal feeling of contentment and happiness is engendered at this time of joyousness, routine is for a while relieved, a certain freshness is given to the daily round, differences of opinion are sunk, and a charitable spirit prevails. Is it, by the way, hoping for too much, asks the Lancet, that the season of good fellowship should leave some lasting effect upon the manners and methods of all?

It may not be easy to trace exactly why the sense of exhilaration and well-being comes with the advent of Christmas, for the psychological factors concerned are not simple. But the main point is that the mental state does everybody good, and the annual festivity is just as excellent an institution as the prescription of the physician which gives tone and vigor to the struggler in life's race. There is no need nowadays, thanks to the good sense of the people and the counsels of their medical advisers, to moralize about the evils of a stupid indulgence in food, alcohol and tobacco on a festive occasion such as the present. Practically everybody realizes the great physiological advantages of being wise on a merry occasion.

Many more persons than formerly feel where use ends and abuse begins, and they act sensibly accordingly; and so far from it being a crime to make the season festive by enjoying, on a little extended scale perhaps, the creature comforts of life, some decided good is done to both the mental and physical health of the individual

The festive season, may, therefore, be welcomed, which brings cheer to thousands, which induces the generous and charitable to brace the mental and physical functions of the community at large, giving it the opportunity of relinquishing its business and its worries for a time, to start again refreshed and ready for "the trivial round, the common task." The prescription "A Merry Christmas" is sound so long as the "signature" of good sense is observed.

Squire John S. Dennis of Beat 11 was in Clanton last Friday.

Mr. G. W. Bogan of the Sodiers Home at Mountain Creek, was in Clanton last Friday.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which griped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."

Early Christmas Morning

FOUR little feet pattering on the floor,
Two tangle-curl'd heads peeping in at the door,
Hear the merry laughter o'er the chimney's roar,
Early Christmas morning.

Two little stockings full of sweets and toys,
Everything so charming for little girls and boys,
How could they help, then, making such a dreadful noise
Early Christmas morning?

Down beside the stockings many gifts were spread,
Dollies, drums, a cradle, and a brand new sled;
"Haven't we too many?" little Nellie said,
Early Christmas morning.

Four little bare feet on the sidewalk cold,
Two little faces with want and hunger old,
Peeping through the window where those gifts unrolled:
Early Christmas morning.

"Yes," says John to Nellie, as he spied the two,
"We've so many presents—tell you what we'll do:
I'll give half of mine away. Now, dear Nell, will you?"
Early Christmas morning

Two little hungry ones into the house were called,
Favors heaped upon them till they stood enthralled.
Was not this the angels' song, "Peace, goodwill to all!"
Early Christmas morning?

Decorate the Christmas Package

EVERY one when sending a Christmas gift desires it to appear as attractive as possible. When we receive a gift nicely wrapped with tissue paper and decorated with pretty Christmas seals, there is an added pleasure. This is especially so when we realize that the sender has spent time and cleverness to give this little touch of personal thoughtfulness.

Many varieties of Christmas seals may be purchased, but a little originality will not come amiss even in these small details.

There are seals for the outside package and the heading to be used on the note paper, conveying the good wishes of the giver, or on the little card of greeting. These two in each set match. This gives another touch of the unusual, which is always sought after.

Have a piece of carbon paper, place it over the note paper, card or seal, and on top of this one of the designs. Carefully trace with a sharp pencil the entire outline. An exact duplicate of the design will be found on the note paper or seal ready for tinting. This may be easily done with water colors or wax crayons. Poinsettia should be colored a warm, bright red, with yellow centers and dark green stems.

Holly, the special emblem of this season, has berries of vivid, fiery red and glossy leaves of dark green.

A dainty basket of forget-me-nots would be pretty colored yellow, the flowers a faint light blue and the bow-knot of pale pink. Now we have the mystic sign of the holidays, borrowed from the Druids, the mistletoe. The berries of this plant are a pearly white and the leaves a yellowish green.

Spend a little extra time giving the Christmas gift this novel decoration, and the pleasure it affords will never cause you to regret having done so.

Economy is to be considered at Christmas time. Our purse-strings have been stretched to the breaking point purchasing gifts for relatives and friends. To put this fascinating bit of handiwork upon the Christmas package costs comparatively nothing, aside from the time you spend doing it. This fact counts very little when we add to the enjoyment of others.

These few suggestions will probably cause endless ideas for the Christmas package to present themselves to you. Make your gifts radiate the holiday spirit; give this little bit of personality and attractiveness to as small a thing as the Christmas seal.

HOW UNKIND

"Fred is getting nearsighted."

"It doesn't follow that there is anything the matter with his eyes because he can't see one under the mistletoe."

Christmas Packages.

A woman whose Christmas packages never fail to reach their destination in safety says she always writes the name and address of the recipient upon the inside wrapper of the box containing them. Packages sometimes lose their outside wrappings, but if the postal clerks can find the address on the inside wrapping all will be well. This woman also ties up the inside wrapping securely before putting on the outside cover.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

Figures taken from the records of the County Court of Chiton County show that during the year 1921, the court has received $3,115 in costs out of whiskey cases that have been placed in the court by Sheriff Gore and his deputies. It would seem from these figures that the county is gathering a pretty fair revenue from the wild cat whiskey trust. Another significent thing about the matter is that there has been a high percenage of convictions in the cases that have been placed in the hands of the court by the Sheriff.

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County was in sesion on Monday of this week. The matter of electing a Treasurer of Chilton County was taken up and bids opened at noon. The bid of W. M. Wyatt being the lowest, he was therefore elected.

We were glad to see the face of Rev. S. M. Adams at the Baptist Church last Sunday, and gladder still were we to have the privilege of standing beneath the gracious outpourings of the fervent prayer which he prayed at the opening of the afternoon services.

We notice in the announcement of chairman for the Bond Issue Campaign for the various counties of Alabama, that the chairmanship for Chilton County hs been placed upon Mr. Charley Cox. Mr. Cox is a good roads enthusiast, and we are sure that the campaign in his hands will be properly conducted in Chilton county.

Mr. Ed Miller, rural letter carrier on Route 8 from Clanton, lost an automobile casing on the streets of Clanton Monday morning. One of Mr. Corley's little boys picked it up in front of his home, and about the time he did so a traveling man passing along the highway tried to buy it from him for a dime. It is a commendable thing to say that the lad refused the trade and carried the tire into the house. It is of course needless to say that his mother gave him the right kind of advice under the circumstances, for it was not long before the little boy heard Mr. Miller inquiring about a lost tire, whereupon he told him that he had found it, and ran into the house to get it for the owner. Mr. Miller rewarded the little boy by placing a half dollar in his little hand. This little boy was paid five times as much for doing right as he was offered for doing wrong by selling the tire before making any effort to find the rightful owner. It always pays much more to do right than it does to do wrong.

But just a word about the man who tried to buy the tire from the little boy, whom he saw pick it up in the street. That fellow was so cheap that it would be profiteering to charge a dime for a whole cow-pen full like him. If he had been the right kind of a man, when he saw the boy pick up the tire in the street, he would have advised him the right thing to do, instead of trying to hire the little fellow to do wrong.

WHY THE SOUTH IS POOR

The writer recently bought two fairly good shirts for $1.22 each, when they became soiled they went into the wash and came out so light and limp that he was interested to find out just how much cotton they contained, weighed on a delicate scale he found the two had less than 10 ounces of the fleecy staple. At the rate of three shirts to the pound when allowance had been made for a good percentage of waste. The grower thinks he is getting a fair price at 20c and is delighted with 25c per pound. Who gets the $3.50 balance? There are very few cotton mills in the South that manufauture either Muslin, Gingahm or Calico, all made wholly from cotton, but in sections of New England, Old England and Switzerland, thousands of miles from where the stuff is produced, great factories spin and weave the fabrics to clothe the world even to the man who grew the cotton.

We buy from the grocer packages of wheat prepared for table use, pay 20c for a box containing 1¼ pounds, 1c an ounce, 16c per pound, $16 per 100 pounds. One of our Thorsby citizens sold a lot of wheat in Nebraska this fall for 75c per bushel and paid 8c for hauling it to market, leaving him 67c net. When we compare this with $10 to $12 per barrell for flour, which requires about five bushels of wheat, but also produces a considerable quantity of seconds and bran, there seems to be a wide margin for profits to the mills and merchants who make and handle the product.

We bought a few days ago from our grocer some very fine Irish potatoes, but no better than we have grown in our own garden, the price was 5c per pound, $3.00 per bushel, and they came all the way from Colorado. Wouldn't it pay almost any community big money to hire some one who knows how to develop home growing of good spuds?

Peanuts grow in Alabama like weeds, and none of better quality can be produced anywhere in the world. Misdirected efforts to get something more than hog-feed out of them have not proved very satiffactory, because no attempt is made to turn the raw material into a finished product that will retail for 40 to 50 cents per pound and find a ready market in the U. S.

We know of a manufacturer of peanut products in a little town in the state of New York, where no peanuts are grown, that in a single year used 185 car loads of shelled peanuts and sold the out put all over the country. One can see their advertisements in almost any household magazine.

The writer spent over thirty years in the manufacture of Sheet Metal goods in Toledo, Saint Louis and Chicago. He is one of a family of 9 boys and two girl children of a poor country minister, who taught his children to work and think. At one time seven of these boys were engaged together in the business, it started in 1868 with a capital of $1000 and was sold as one of the constituent elements of the American Can Company for approximately $3,000,000 much of it made in the business. Many of the devices invented by the members and employees of the original concern, revolutionized existing methods of manufacture or introduced entirely new ones of producing sheet metal packages of many kinds at a cost of so low that they became of universal use, and may be found today in any civilized community on earth.

It takes a slick talker to interest men and women to invest their money in something they know nothing about and are not able to discern the requisities for the successful operation of manufacturing industries, hence, when they do venture without knowing the character of the men to whom they intrust the use of their money they frequently are severely bitten. Several instances of this kind have occurred in Thorsby. The only safe thing to do is to place the management of the business in the hands of men of proven experience and honesty and hold them responsible for results. Whenever any one assumes to direct in matters which he is not familiar there is apt to be trouble.

There are many indications that Alabama will be a fine field in the near future for the development of many kinds of manufacturing industries and these should be encouraged by men who have money, little or much as they are a prolific source of employment and profit.

THE CLANTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO MEET

A very important meeting of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce is to be held next Tuesday night, December 20th, when matters of vital interest to every merchant in Clanton will be considered. Mr. R. D. Busbee will address the meeting as the Traffic Manager of the Traffic Bureau now organized by the Chamber. Mr. Busbee will be able to lay before the meeting some very interesting facts that vitally concern every merchant in Clanton, we therefore urge every member of the Chamber to be present.

The following extract from a letter received from the Bell Telephone System will be of interest to the membership, and should be to the bublic as they will thus see how the Clanton Chamber of Commerce is attracting the co-operation and support of outside commercial concerns, and thus practically endorsing the progressive work that our Chamber is doing.

Mr. P. G. Carter, Sec'y
Chamber of Commerce,
Clanton, Ala.

My Dear Mr. Carter:-

I am practically assured of securing the approval of the Southern Bell Telephone Company's membership in the Clanton Chamber of Commerce, and supposing that your fiscal year begins with the calender year, you can consider us as belonging to that organization effective January 1st, 1922. It is understood that the annual fees are $15.00 per year and check for this amount will be sent you immediately after January 1st.

I am very glad indeed that we can enlist ourselves with your Chamber of Commerce and do our bit toward the development of Clanton. I have always been favorably impressed with your city and energetic business men, and I am quite sure that with a live organization like your Chamber of Commerce that your future progress will be well above the average for towns of your size.

With kindest personal regards, I am, Yours very truly,

S. G. F. RATHBONE,
District Manager.

Efforts are now being made to enlist the Alabama Power Co, and we believe that we will soon have them enrolled as members, for such concerns generally duly and properly recognize live organizations of this kind that are working so effectively for the development of the community. If this is so, surely every citizen who has property or is in business should do the same as they are real benefactors from the results obtained through this organization. Every public spirited citizen will show his loyalty by joining this organization. Talk the matter over with the Secretary who will be pleased to give you any information you may desire.

P. G. CARTER, Secretary.

CHRISTMAS IN 1621

Rebuke Administered to New England Observers of Day.

Young Men Who Had Arrived on Little Ship Fortune Reprimanded for Festivities.

IT WAS in 1621 that Governor Bradford was called upon to administer a rebuke to some of the young men of the New England colony who had just come over on the little ship Fortune, and who wanted to celebrate the holiday, the Detroit News recalls. Puritanism brought over with it in the Mayflower the anti-Christmas feeling, and when the group of lusty youngsters attempted to observe the day they were sharply criticized by the colony.

The men were called out to work that day as on other days, but the newcomers declared it against their consciences to work on Christmas day. The governor left them and led away the rest of the workers. But when he returned at noon, the young men were in the street at play—some pitching the bar and some playing stool ball. He took away their implements and told them it was against his conscience that they should play while others worked, and that they could observe the day within doors, but there should be no reveling in the streets.

On the day in question a tree was chopped down and dragged into one of the rough cabins where it was trimmed with cranberries and popcorn, while the young people feasted their eyes on its beauties. These "revelries" were frowned upon by the majority of the colonists and in 1659 the general court of Massachusetts enacted a law that made any person observing Christmas day liable to a fine of "five shillings." The law was repealed in 1861.

Placecards.

Next after decorating the table comes the question of placecards. These may be as simple or as elaborate as you like, but you really should have them! You might cut white cardboard into small round pieces. Give each an irregularly outlined border of green and at the top of this little make-believe Christmas wreath punch a small hole, through it draw red baby ribbon, and tie in a bow. The name is written in the center.

When You Are Constipated.

To insure a healthy action of the bowels and correct disorders of the liver, take two of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper. They will not only cause a gentle movement of the bowels, without unpleasant effects, but banish that dull stupid feeling, that often accompanies constipation.

FURNITURE

I have bought out the entire lot of Furniture and Furnishings of the Talladega Springs Hotel, and the same is arriving in Clanton to be put on sale. I bought this at a price that will enable me to hand it on to my customers and make sales that will mean great savings to the people of Chilton County.

The things included in this lot are Beadsteads, Mattresses, Wash Stands, Feather Pillows, Comforts, Hotel dishes, bowls, pitchers, slop jars, chambers, chairs, rockers, dining tables, center tables.

When this two car loads of house furnishings goes on sale in Clanton it is going to create a commotion that'll shake the rocks from the cliffsides of Coosa River, and jar the hickorynuts off the scalybarks of Mulberry.

Watch out for it. Something is liable to happen at any old time. Just hang around Fox's Auction House when in Clanton, and you will always get the first lick at the best bargains.

SHOULTS

Rev. J. D. Deason delivered two very able sermons Saturday and Sunday. A large congregation Sunday but not so large at Saturday's service. Let us awake to our duty and come to the Saturday's services and do our part.

Our Sunday School is making rapid progress, under the careful management of Mr. H. R. Oden as Superintendent. Only two weeks until time to elect new officials for the coming year. We should begin to study about this and elect those that are most interested and best suited for the place.

We have a real good Literary School this time. It is progressing nicely, with Miss Beatrice Little as principal and Miss Marie Thomas as assistant.

The boys basket ball team, accompanied by their teacher, and a large number of pupils, went to Lawley last Friday and played a return game of ball. Shoults won the victory by a score of 18 to 12. The Shoults team is doing some splendid work. They are expecting to meet Antioch High School team next Friday afternoon at Lawley to play them a game.

Misses Beatrice Little and Marie Thomas attended the Teachers Institute last Saturday at Clanton.

Mr. C. T. Walker is in Clanton this week attending Commissioners Court.

Mr. Bennie McAfee spent Sunday with home folks.

The many friends of Mr. John Ellis are very sorry to learn of him being on the sick list. They hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bearden of Selma motored up to see their parents Sunday. Mrs. Bearden is better known as Miss Ruby Shoults before her marriage.

We regret very much to know that Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hicks will soon move from our community to near Lawley. They will be missed very much. We feel sure that Lawley friends will welcome them in their midst, and be glad to have such people in their community. We hope they will not be gone more than a year. Their many friends wish them success.

Messrs Johnnie McAfee and Wheeler Walker enjoyed a squirrell hunt one day last week. They returned all smiles because of their great success. getting nine fox squirrels and 2 grey ones. Had lots of fun in getting five fox squirrels out of one tree.

Mr. Horton Walker, student of Bibb County High School, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Walker.

Miss Myrtle McAfee got hungry and went to Mrs. Net Bearden's Sunday for dinner.

Mrs. Alice McGee and children of Maplesville spent Saturday night with their mother-in-law and grand mother, Mrs. Mollie McGee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McAfee had as their guests last week, Mr. and Mrs. Ullman McFarland of near Lawley, Mrs. McFarland is a niece of Mrs. McAfee.

Mr. Clint Veazy of Macedonia was one among the visitors to attend services Sunday. He conducted prayer service in the afternoon. Mr. Veazy is a great singer and church worker. We welcome him with us.

Mr. R. F. Thompson was called to Maplesville Friday in connection with his saw mill interests.

Miss Myrte Ingram is spending a few days with her cousin, Miss Esther Smith of near Maplesville.

Mr. W. M. Oden will soon go into the mercantile business. The building is nearing completion. He hopes to be able to invite his friends to see him by the last of the week.

Only a few days until time for Santa Claus to come. Unless the weather is much colder than now, we don't think he will need his big furs.

Mrs. Laura M. Hoyt Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets.

"I have frequently used Chamberlain's Tablets, during the past three years, and have found them splendid for headache and bilious attacks. I am only too pleased, at any time, to speak a word in praise for them," writes Mrs. Laura M. Hoyt, Rockport, N. Y.

YOU NEVER SAW ANOTHER SUCH SALE

People in Clanton have heard of sales and rumors of sales, but they have never before heard of such a sale as the one the Jones Hardware Company is going to pul off next Wednesday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. People who know C. Fenn Jones would think him the last man to depart from his regularly established business methods of twenty years standing and "put on a sale." But he is going to put on one this time. And when you read his advertisement in this paer, you will wonder at the marvelousness of the things he is offering to do. But there is one thing you can depend on. It is a bona fide proposition, and Mr. Jones is standing behind it. And everybody knows that what he endorses is sound to the bottom.

If you fail to come to his sale, you are going to miss the greatest opportunity you have ever had in your life. Be there on time, for the goods he is going to sell will not last any longer than it will take his clerks to hand them out and ring up the cash.

DEMOCRATIC SENATOR'S EFFORT TO BORDER AMERICAN FLAG FAILS

Washington, Dec. 13.—Efforts of United States Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, to have the U. S. flag flying at the armament conference trimmed with a border of white all around it did not get by the United States Senate in the closing hours of the extra session. Senator Walsh's idea was imported from Europe. He was a delegate to a recent interparliamentary union meeting at Stockholm. His resolution which he introduced in the Senate stated that at that meeting flags of various nations were bordered with white and he thought it would be a fine idea to have the Stars and Stripes thus embellished at the armament conference. Senator Walsh asked immediate consideration of his resolution, but Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah, objected, stating: "I think the American flag is good enough as it is and doesn't need any extra decorations."

BOX S UPPER

There will be a box super at Shiloh Schoolhouse on Saturday night. Everybody is invited to come.

Miss Julia Parrish, Teacher.

Little Johnny's Fears

WHERE we use' to live, we had
A fireplace big an' wide,
An' all that Santy had to do
Was hold his breath an' slide,
An' squeeze hisself until he fit
The hole, an' then est drop—
An' he knowed where the stockin's was,
'Cause that was where he'd stop.

Where we use' to live, it was
No trick for him to climb
Up to the chimbley on the roof
An' find us, Christmas time;
But now I'm worryin' for fear
He won't know where he's at,
Or mebbe can't get in at all!
We're livin' in a flat!

We're livin' in a flat, an' say,
You mus'-be most polite,
Or else the janitor he'll go
An' lock you out at night!
There ain't no chimbley to our house,
Where Santy Claus can slide—
There ain't no fireplace—just a pipe
About two inches wide.

They heat our flat with steam—that's why
I'm afraid he can't get in
With all his toys an' drums an' things,
Unless he's awful thin;
An' how's he go' to wriggle out
When he gets in? Gee whiz!
There's such an awful little hole
There where the sizzle is!

HOLLY MAY SOON BE EXTINCT

Popular Christmas Decoration Is Growing Less Bountiful Each Year, According to Reports.

Christmas holly, that merriest and most beloved of all growing bushes, is threatened with extinction, according to a warning sounded by lovers of a red Christmas. Once growing profusely in southern New Jersey and Maryland, it has been swept from those states by the ruthless cutters for the city markets, and must now be sought in the swamps of Virginia and North Carolina, where already the supply is growing less bountiful each year. The Gulf states have been similarly shorn to make holiday for the large cities.

Within another generation, botanists say, holly will be as rare as mistletoe, which used to grow in abundance on the Atlantic seaboard, as far north as Raritan bay, but has now practically ceased to exist as a Christmas decoration. When will the American people learn that the bounty of their fields and woodlands is not limitless? With sinking hearts nature lovers have long since recorded the disappearance of the delicate trailing arbutus, flower of the Pilgrim maidens, from all woods near large cities. The mountain laurel, which once swept the hills of June with pale pink drifts like naughty clouds running away from the sunset, has now retreated to the remote mountain sides.—New York Tribune.

Cleansing the Saucepan.

Here is a simple but most successful method of cleansing a saucepan in which milk has been boiled. After pouring out the boiling milk, quickly replace the lid before the steam has time to escape, and allow the saucepan to cool before taking it off again. Then put the pan in cold water to soak. It can be cleaned quickly and easily.

VERBENA WAS EASY PICKIN'

The basket ball team of the Chilton County High School are still laughing about the easy time they had in putting it over on the vititors from Verbena last Friday afternoon.

This was the first game of the season. Chilton's team is composed of the following: Daniels, center; Mahan, forward; Reynolds, forward; Burnett, guard; Duncan, guard.

The game was featured by the pitching of goals by Chiltons players. Daniels pitched three, Mahan six, and Reynolds nine.

We understand that the Chilton team will go to Verbena for another game with the same team. We would advise them not to laugh too much about how easy Verbena was; they may find that it will not be so easy every time.

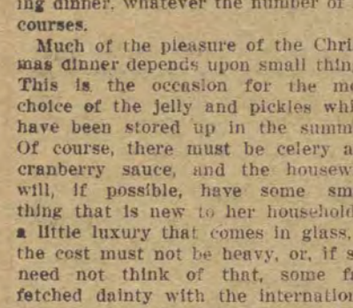
THE CHRISTMAS TABLE

Little Things That Add Much to Success of Home Day.

How the Housewife Can Prepare Delicacies That Will Appeal to Both Old and Young.

THE housewife can indulge in these excursive imaginings, however, only in the earliest of her preparations for the Christmas dinner, says Country Life in America. Soon she must closely consider the feast which will be suitable to her own household and purse. If she is a wise housewife, she will not make her festival over-elaborate, whatever the size of her income. She will want something more than "wine and wafers and a rose," but she will find that, if she puts her own best efforts into the decorations, and caters with a thought for the tastes and fancies and little memories of those she is to serve, she will have a charming dinner, whatever the number of its courses.



Much of the pleasure of the Christmas dinner depends upon small things. This is the occasion for the most choice of the jelly and pickles which have been stored up in the summer. Of course, there must be celery and cranberry sauce, and the housewife will, if possible, have some small thing that is new to her household—a little luxury that comes in glass, if the cost must not be heavy, or, if she need not think of that, some far-fetched dainty with the international interest of coming from Japan or from the Philippines.

Dessert allows ample opportunity for small pleasures and surprises. One can hardly believe a child's happiness complete without raisins and almonds to eat in tiny sandwiches and as philopenas. One always hopes to see the old-fashioned kinds of candy at Christmas—striped sticks and clear sticks, and barley sugar, chocolate creams, and gum-drops. They are pretty for the table, and not bad for children, and older people like them for the sake of long-ago Christmas.

The DAY DREAMS of the OLD FOLKS AT CHRISTMAS

by Frank L. Stanton

Old folks, too, like Christmas; Grandfather, sitting there,
Feels sad if he's forgotten 'cause he's in his chimney-chair;
He says he's thinkin' of the days that he no more will see,
When he was just a little boy—a Christmas boy—like me.

He listens to the fire—for it's always talkin' so,
And then it is he calls to mind his good times long ago
When the Christmas wind was whistlin' through the cold and frosty nights
And children dreamed of Christmas bells and watched for Christmas lights.

He doesn't seem to hear at all the noise the children make,
For when he sits the stillest there he's dreamin' wide awake!
But mother—then she tells us to all run right out and play,
For old folks hear sweet music when they're dreamin' day by day.

And then Grandmother—SHE comes in and sits beside him there,
And puts her hand in his, and says sweet words he loves to hear;
But what they are she'd never tell to mother or to you;
She knows that he is dreamin', for she dreams the same dreams, too.

So Christmas comes to old folks, and it's then they love to know
The children don't forget 'em, though they lived so long ago!
An' they say the sweetest present of all sweet things and fair

THE ROSE OF JERICHO

Pilgrims Told of Its Power to Bloom on Christmas Day.

Blossom Given the Name of Resurrection Flower; Also Called St. Mary's Rose.

SEVERAL varieties of the so-called resurrection plant have appeared among the novelties offered by florists, but the original is the rose of Jericho. Along the shores of the Dead sea, far enough away to be out of reach of the death-dealing vapors and the salt spray, grows this rose, a little plant famed in many a legendary story, which, when ripened, rolls up its sprays and branches into a curious little brown ball.

The desert winds snap off its dry stem and whirl the seemingly dead little ball away over sandy plains, like a feather-weight. After it chances to reach some damp place, in about ten days, the moisture has wrought a miracle, for the once dead is alive again, green and growing.

The old-time pilgrims, who brought back this plant with them from the Holy Land, told wonderful tales of its power to bloom out on Christmas day and gave it the name of resurrection flower. Another old legend names it from every spot where they halted to rest.

The dry ball when unfolding drops its seeds, and from these it may be cultivated as an annual. To resurrect these dry balls it is simply necessary to keep them standing in glasses of water, immersed about halfway to the top of their branches. The expansion is merely a mechanical spongelike process.

The botanical name of the rose of Jericho is anastatica, from anastasis, resurrection. There are other species of resurrection plants, but they are not so attractive as their Dead sea relative, which, although it has very little beauty, has an honored place among flowers because of the many fancies and associations it calls up and its peculiar development.—Argus.

EDWARD G. LOWRY

A Writer of Recognized Authority on National Government's Business Methods.

No Washington correspondent is better known or more highly esteemed than Edward G. Lowry. That in itself means that he has broad and deep knowledge of national and world affairs; that he is skillful in getting the news and tactful in writing it, and that he has the confidence of the public men with whom he comes in contact. But Mr. Lowry has more than that. He has the really patriotic feeling that the intimate knowledge of the nation's affairs, which he acquires through his work in Washington, should be imparted to the people of the country who have not his privileges, in such a way that they will be led to take that personal interest in the doings of the government, which alone will result in good government. He wants the people to realize that it is their government, answerable to them only, and that they only are responsible for its good qualities and its bad qualities. It is this feeling that has inspired much of Mr. Lowry's best work.

Born in Atlanta in 1876, Mr. Lowry was educated in private schools, the Georgia Military institute and by private tutors, and began his journalistic career at the age of twenty-four. In 1904 he was sent to Washington and has been there almost continuously ever since. He has been the political correspondent of Harper's Weekly, has written many articles for the periodical press and since 1913 has been the Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, and for a considerable time the managing editor of that paper. When Germany started the World war the government naturally found important work for Mr. Lowry. For two years he was attached to the American embassy in London, and then he returned to become a captain in the aviation section of the signal corps. Then he was assistant military attache at London and on the British front in Flanders, and was with the American Army of Occupation in Germany. For his valuable work he was awarded the British Military Cross. Recently he wrote "Washington Close-Ups," a series of character sketches of eminent figures in the national capital, which the country is reading with vast enjoyment.

Edward G. Lowry.

For two years Mr. Lowry has been making a close study of the business of the government. He is given credit in congress for his aid in passing the budget bill and in bringing about the naming of the joint committee of the house and senate to investigate and report upon the administration and organization of the government executive departments. He now wants the people of the United States to know the details of the United States government, which is their business. He believes the knowledge of these details will make of them better Americans and give them a better government.

No man not imbued with Mr. Lowry's high ideal could have carried out this study of the government business so exhaustively and painstakingly as has he. Probably he now knows more about it than any other man in the world. With extraordinary perseverance and dogged persistence he went after hidden facts and multifarious details—and got them. Nothing was too big for his comprehension or too small for his attention. At one time he went to a member of the cabinet with the statement that the government had on its payrolls, exclusive of the officers and men of the army and navy, one employee for each 68 people of the United States ten years of age and over engaged in gainful occupations. It took that cabinet officer, with the assistants he had at his command, a considerable time, and considerable effort to verify Mr. Lowry's statement, but he found it to be true.

As the result of his careful studies Mr. Lowry has written a series of articles on the business of government income and expense; where the money comes from, and how and for what it is spent; whether the organization of the business side of government is efficient or inefficient; whether the government wastes the money we give it. The series is not in any sense political. It is not an attack, not a muck-raking expedition. It recites facts, conceded, acknowledged facts. These facts come from the men in the government—from the government itself—and they are all facts that every American citizen is entitled to know and should know.

The series of articles on this subject of "Where Your Taxes Go" will be carried in these columns. They should be read by every American who is interested in the welfare of the nation.

SUMMERS-WRIGHT

An event that was something of a surprise to many was that of the marriage of Mr. Kirby Summers and Miss Jessie Wright, at the bride's home on Tuesday evening, Dec. 6th. Rev. R. T. Gilbert of Maplesville performing the ceremony.

The wedding was a quiet one, with only the relatives and a few close friends in attendance. The bride was attired in a lovely costume of blue Tricotine with white accessories and carried a boquet of brides roses and white crysanthemums. After the presentation of a goodly number of gifts and many well wishes a most excellent wedding supper was served. After a brief visit to relatives Mr. and Mrs. Summers will make their home with Mr. Summers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Summers.

On Wednesday of last week Mr. Will White had as his guests, Mr. J. R. Broadhead, Mr. G. C. Polk and brother, and Mr. Hand from Clanton. They were out to make a day of it squirrel hunting. They report that they had a very pleasant time and among hands of them killed 18 squirrels. Mr. Broadhead enjoyed the day so well that he, Mr. Durwood Broadhead and Mr. Fred Calloway came back on Friday and report a good day for hunting.

Mr. Lige Burnett, and Mr. White of New Salem, Mr. Patterson and Mr. Burnett of Pelham, were visitors to Mr. W. F. DeShazo last Saturday.

Prof. J. D. Griffin, Mrs. Jessie Harmon and Misses Gussie and Nola D. Reynolds attended the Teachers Institute in Clanton Saturday.

Rev. Buford Lawrence filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Miss Tula Mae Edwards, who has been visiting relatives in Birmingham for several weeks has returned home. Miss Edwards reports that she had a very pleasant visit in the Magic City.

Miss Marybelle Woolley, who for the past month or so has been visiting in the city of Sylacauga has returned home. Marybelle says that Sylacauga is some town.

Say, all you skeptical folks, who don't think that a Consolidated school is the thing, just you come here and take a slant at ours. We have a nice four room building, four teachers, around 125 pupils enrolled, three wagons to haul the children to and from school where they live too far to walk, and everything is moving along nicely under the management of the able faculty, Prof. J. D. Griffin, Mrs. Jessie Harmon, and Misses Gussie Dennis and Nola D. Reynolds, so come on out folks and we will show you what a real live country school is.

Mrs. D. O. Manning left Sunday afternoon for an extended visit to her daughters in Birmingham.

Mr. W. B. Giles has moved his family into the house recently vacated by Mr. L. A. Patterson.

We saw Mr. Wilbur Veazey and Floyd Ward "Fording" around in our community Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Odie Grooms made a business trip to Clanton Saturday.

The crowd at prayer meeting was somewhat larger Sunday night than usual, we are glad to say. Lets keep on the increase and not try to "Craw-fish" out of our duty. Lets everybody come out on Christmas night and break the record for attendance. We are going to have a special service for that night and want every one to come and bring some one with them. Come along folks and we will show you something that you will not regret having come to see.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. Bill Veazey and children are about to get straight after their seige with the mumps.

Mrs. J. A. Wilson of North Dallas is in this community visiting her daughter, Mrs. O. O. Calfee.

Quite a bunch of men went over on last Friday, and cut and hauled a lot of wood for uncle John Thacker and wife. These old people are in a very bad condition, Mrs. Thacker having been confined to her bed for nearly three years, and Mr. Thacker is not able to work any, but we people here see that they don't want for any of the neccessities of life.

Mr. Charley Deramus was in our communty Sunday night.

A bunch of men were busy all day Saturday putting the finishing touch to our excellent school building.

The Mulberry Five played the Clanton Five on the latter's grounds on Wednesday evening, the score being 15 to 5 in Clanton's favor. This was the first game for the Mulberry boys, and we hope that they will gain considerable knowledge from this game and will do better next time.

WHEN NERVES ARE UNSTRUNG

GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN BUILDS UP VIGOR AND STRENGTH

These are times when men and women cannot help losing strength. They try to do too much or they lose sleep or do not eat enough foor that nourishes. Blod becomes sluggish because poisons clog it. Faces grow pale and pasty looking. It is not long before nerves get unstrung.

The best way to start a change for the better is to take a course of Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It builds up the blood. The weakness from a lack of red cells in the blood is overcome. Gude's Pepto-Mangan sends a fresh supply of red cells streaming through the blood. Good blood, pure and free from poisons, starts building vigor and strength. Sleep is better, appetite keener, so that the body becomes properly nourished. Druggists have Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package.—Advertisement.

Our Christmas Tree

A CHRISTMAS LEGEND

Crowing of the Cock to Keep Away Evil Spirits.

Tale of Saint Stephen, the First Martyr, Whose Day Is December Twenty-Six.

EVER since that first Christmas eve the cock has crowed all night long on the anniversary to keep away evil spirits; for the cock is a holy bird and a knowing one. There is a pleasant tale of him and Saint Stephen, the first martyr, whose day is December 26, close by his dear Lord's.

Saint Stephen was King Herod's steward, it seems, who served him in the kitchen and at table. One night as he was bringing in the boar's head for his master's dinner he saw the Star shining over Bethlehem. Immediately he set down the huge platter and exclaimed:

"No longer, Herod, will I be thy servant, for a greater King than thou is born."

"What aileth thee?" cried the King wrathfully. "Do you lack meat or drink that you would desert my service for another's?"

"Nay," answered Stephen. "I lack neither meat nor drink. But the Child that is born this night is greater than all of us; and Him only will I serve."

"That is as true," quoth Herod, smiting the table with his fist, "as that this roast cock on the platter shall crow before us."

Hardly were the words out of his mouth when the cock stretched his neck and crowed lustily, "Christus natus est!" At this proof that Stephen's words were true, Herod was so angry that he made his soldiers take Stephen outside the walls of Jerusalem and stone him to death. And this is the reason why, unto this day, Saint Stephen is the patron of stone-cutters. —Abbie Farwell Brown, in Lippincott's Magazine.

Santa Claus' Books

WHEN the evening shadows gather and the time is eight o'clock
You can hear, if you will listen, Mr. Sand Man's gentle knock.
Then you'd better hustle lively—time your evening prayers were said
And each boy and girl well tucked in their cozy, downy little bed.
For when Mr. Sand Man's knocking sounds the signal, you may know
Santa Claus is closely watching from his palace built of snow.
Get their names down in the "Bad Book" that is kept by Santa Claus.

Boys who never split the kindling, and the girls who always cry
When they're asked to wash the dishes—Santa Claus has got his eye
On such boys and girls, and watches with a sad and sorry look
As he writes each name in sorrow on the pages of his book.
And the girl who never hurries, but lets mamma do the work,
And the boy who's always scheming all his little chores to shirk—
They may think no one pays notice when they don't help ma's and pa's
But their names are on the "Bad Book" that is kept by Santa Claus.

But old Santa keeps a "Good Book"—it's the bestest book of all,
Where he writes the names of children who are prompt at duty's call,
And the boys who split the kindling and the girls who never shirk
But rise early in the morning and help mamma with the work;
And the boys who never grumble when there's work for them to do,
And the girls who help their mammas till the housework is all through—
Oh, they needn't ever worry when it's Christmas time, because
All their names are in the "Good Book" that is kept by Santa Claus.

Is your name down in the "Bad Book?" Well, there is still a chance for you.
And if you will listen to me, I will tell you what to do.
Don't act naughty, don't talk rudely, don't be noisy, be polite;
Get up early in the morning, and into bed early at night.
Cheerfully perform each duty, do your work before you play.
Never put off till tomorrow work that should be done today.
If you do these things, dear children, it will please your ma's and pa's.

OLD YULETIDE CAROLS

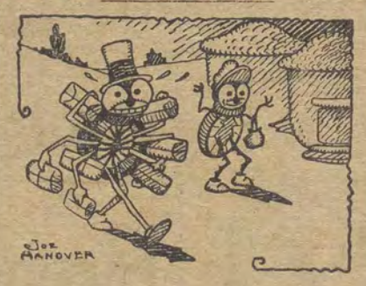
"Draw Nigh, Immanuel," One of Oldest Pieces and Far Antedates Any Others.



THE ancient Christmas carol, "Holy Night" is German in its origin and is considered by many persons to be the most beautiful of all Christmas carols. It has sometimes been ascribed to Martin Luther, but the consensus of expert opinion is that it is much older than his time and is one of the oldest of German folk songs.

The carol "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen," is English in its origin and dates back to about the beginning of the Seventeenth century, although the author of the words and the composer of the music are unknown. The fine old melody sung to this poem possesses all the best qualifications of a sterling hymn tune and will probably last as long as the verses with which it is always associated.

The carol "Draw Nigh, Immanuel," is one of the oldest pieces of coherent music in existence, and both the words and music far antedate any of the others. The music is an old French melody, dated from the Thirteenth century, although, of course, it has been harmonized to conform with more modern standards.

There is a most curious but beautiful musical effect at the close of this carol. The words of "Draw Nigh, Immanuel," are about 100 years older than the music, being taken from the Mozarabic breviary of the Twelfth century, and it is generally believed that they were taken from the liturgy of the early Christians at Toledo, Spain, where the Mozarabic breviary was formulated.

Another carol, "The First Noel," has a traditional French melody and probably originated in Breton, although the exact origin of this fine old song is somewhat in doubt.

VERY USEFUL

Mrs. Bug—My I am glad I married Mr. Spider. He can carry so many bundles, when I do my Christmas shopping early.

CHRISTMAS TOKENS. OF LOVE.

WHEN any uncertainty exists let us give a token of love, or friendship, or human kindness, something that, while expressing these things will, at least, be harmless. Let it be something that does not last—that brings the meaning and vanishes—something that never will know the indignity of the top shelf of the spare room closet!

A knock at a friend's door on Christmas morning and the clasp of a hand do this. A growing plant does it—but, most of all, thou beside me, singing in the wilderness—the personal revelation does it. Suppose a letter came on Christmas morning, to say—not "you are perfectly dear to have sent me a spool box," but "I want you to know that your patience, or courage, or tenderness, during this last year, will help me to live more bravely and courageously and lovingly this next year!" What a Christmas present the receipt of such a letter would be to any one of us! What a Christmas present for any one of us to send to the human heart that has given us courage for the burden and heat of the day!—Indianapolis News.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

The Thorsby Chamber of Commerce, through C. R. Foss, Secretary-Manager, is working, in connection with the Industrial Department of the L. & N. R. R. to establish in Thorsby a Creamery with awakened interest among members of The Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association in Stock raising and Dairying, an industry which might well be forstered in connection with the new spirit of Diversified farming which is abroad in the land.

There is also some effort being made to establish in Thorsby a Crate and Box Factory to supply local needs and nearby communities.

Prof. C. M. Williams has moved his family to Dora, Ala., where he is principal of a large public school. The professor with his esteemed wife, and two very interesting young girls have a host of friends in Thorsby, who will greately miss them in church and social affairs.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Baptist Pastors and workers Conference of Chilton county, was held at the Baptist church in Thorsby last Tuesday. There was a good attendance and spirited addresses by Rev. J. E. Barnes of Montgomery, Rev. P. G. Carter of Clanton, Rev. W. S. Cox of Clanton, and the Baptist minister from Marbury, whose name we failed to get.

Rev. E. W. Butler spent Sunday at Balm of Gilead Church in Elmore County, where he preached at the morning service.

Rev. J. M. Graham and Rev. J. F. Owen spent Sunday at Tallassee, visiting Rev. J. I. Barker and his church in the interest of work under the auspices of the Congregational Extension Boards, by whom both of them are employed in work which takes them all over the state, Mr. Owen as a Sunday School organizer, and Mr. Graham as superintendent of the Southest Community Development Association. Both men make Thorsby headquarters.

Mr. A. E. Reagan, Manager of the Thorsby Hardware Company, is the recipient of congratulations and much commendation for recent innovations introduced in their store. We heard one man tell him to "Get a new Hat at his expense as a tribute to his splendid example, in a business sense, in improvements installed which give a metripolitan air to the store whenever one steps inside." A place for everything and everything in its place. Windows trimmed in city style showing special lines of goods to advantage. An even hundred drawers and covered compartments for all sorts of shelf goods, with samples of their contents displayed on the front of each one, making an easy easy to see inventory of that department. Racks and shelves tables and hooks carrying goods of certain lines attractively displayed floors and furniture cleaned and oiled, everything as ship shape as the deck of an ocean liner. It gives one a sense of pleasure and self respect to do business in such a place, and customers are quick to note the improvement. "Long live Reagan."

The Ladies Guild Bazaar held last Saturday in the store of G. L. Foshee was a complete success in every way. Team work on the part of every committee. A fine lot of seasonable goods, a splendid dinner well served and a community spirit, which caused lady to exclaim "all Thorsby is there to dinner" made everybody have a good time. Net cash results $135 added to the Guild Treasury.

The ladies wish to publicly thank everybody who contributed in any way to the success of the enterprise and especially to express appreciation of the kindness and generosity of Mr. Foshee in giving space in his store and other assistance in many ways.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society held a Live Chicken party last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. C. E. Lucas. Many fowls were presented and when sold netted $19 which was donated to their pastor, Rev. W.P. Lowery. This week this society will hold their regular monthly social at the home of Mrs. C. H. Thomsen on Montgomery Avenue, Thursday afternoon. These social affairs are by no means strictly denominational and the ladies of Thorsby generlly are invited.

At 7:45 Saturday night, Dec. 17th, in Bates Hall the Helen Keller Literary Society will give a Christmas program. These young people usually put up a very interesting entertainment to which friends and patrons of the school are invited.

SHIPPING BOARD REDUCES RATE

Washington, Dec. 13.—Shipping board officials say that during the last 12 months ocean freight rates have been reduced on an average of 40 per cent. Rates on ocean cargoes between north Atlantic ports and British ports have been reduced 20 per cent in the last year.

Prof. J. L. Harris of Thorsby occupied a seat in the choir of the Clanton Baptist church last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Harris is one of our most prominent singers of the county.

THE PROPOSED JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL FOR COLORED BOYS AND GIRLS

"Its assured,—I mean the building of your new high school" explained a white gentleman standing at my right just as I had announced the results of the rally for the building of a Junior High School at Center Point.

The effort to raise four hundred dollars on the Second Sunday in Dec mber was a complete success. Every pledge was filled. The only exceptions being Bros. Ben Brown, Archie Hall and Gus Gordon, who had pledged ten dollars each, but really paid thirty dollars each, to be exact the three men paid ninety three dollars and 25cents.

Mr. Bob Atkinson, (white), gave about twenty-five dollars, Bro. A. D. Gordon pledged $10.00 and paid $25.00. Space will not allow us to mention every one by name who pledged his or her part in such a liberal and creditable way.

The Senior Club, under the brilliant leadership of Mrs. Estella Hall, and her coterie of very able assistants reported $192.19.

There is a number of wnite friends who have promised support, and who will cheerfully pay their pledges as soon as our committee shall have reached them.

Early in 1922 we expect to lay the foundation for our new school. Watch, and see us grow. In our next article we shall answer all questions which has been asked through mail concerning our Junior High School.

Respectfully,

R. A. TYSON, Principal.

JOY OF CHRISTMAS

Season Proves That Men and Women Are Friendly Beings.

Desire to Make Presents and to Be Cheerful Shows People Wish to Be Congenial.

ONE of the finest things about Christmas is its trueness, the joyous reality of it. At Christmas time no exhortation is necessary to make it go; Christmas never has to be made a "success," as a parade or a pageant.

Christmas is in a certain sense an institution; it comes at a certain date each year; it always has its Christmas tree, its stocking, its poultry dinner colored with cranberries. But it is one of those institutions that has never been institutionized; it exists in the nature of man.

Christmas proves to us that men, women and children are at heart friendly beings. The spontaneity of Christmas giving and Christmas cheer proves what people really want to be—good friends.

Wars go on at other times; men and women quarrel among themselves over property or over other men and women; artificial requirements are imposed that incite to greed, dishonesty and bitterness. But at Christmas time there comes over the broad surface of our western civilization, which is pretty much like other civilizations, a great reversion to type. Man wants most to be happy, he wants to dance and sing and to make other persons happy. At other times than Christmas something seems to be wrong, and man reasons that someone else is to blame.

At Christmas time there is a general forgetting of everything but being natural. Christmas is the great annual armistice of that portion of humanity that has come to be segregated under the name of Christendom.

Christmas is the finest thing that has come out of Christianity, because it is the friendliest thing. Men and women are not naturally and healthily meddlers; the best part of their lives and the most of their happiness does not come from the tyranny they exercise or the repressions they set up or the reformatory cruelties they inflict on others.

At Christmas time men and women forget to be anything but children again.

Perhaps some day there will be a sort of Christmas every day of the year. Perhaps men and women will be able to forget more often and more completely, and thereby live more completely, the elimination of bitterness and artificial antagonisms being both the cause and the effect of this happy state.

Perhaps one of the lessons of Christmas is that we have more to forget than to learn.—Detroit News.

ALABAMA NEWS TOLD IN BRIEF

AGENTS TO TRAIN AT AUBURN

County Home Demonstration Agents Of Alabama To Spend Month In Special Training—Work Will Begin January 3rd.

Auburn.—Beginning January 3rd, the county home demonstration agents of Alabama will spend a month taking special training at Auburn, according to instructions now being mailed to them by Prof. L. N. Duncan, diretor of the extension service.

For giving these county workers special training in their particular line a fine course of instruction is being arranged, and in cases where it is possible to do so, college credits will be allowed toward a regular degree.

It is being arranged for the Winter season when roads are usually bad and travelling conditions are otherwise unpleasant for women.

Things That Santa Brought

A YULE MESSAGE

Christmas Spirit, Peace and Good Will Should Prevail.

Time to Be Happy and to Aid Others in the Enjoyment of the Season's Cheer.

On earth, peace, good will.—Luke 2:14.

SURELY there is a mystic tie between spirit and nature, between heaven and earth, between God and man. Not strange is it, then, that on the night of the most wondrous birth time has seen, the age sealed skies should part and song of angels entrance the watchers on Bethlehem's plains.

What is the secret of the unwonted charm brought by this brightest day in time's calendar? Why is the season charged with such gladness? Why do men and women feel that they can lay down their vexing burdens and their faces smile again with the faith and joy of childhood's care-free days?

It is the rapt influence of the angelic song on the natal night, "Peace on Earth." To a humanity distracted, troubled by doubts and fears, wounded by sin and smitten by conscience, God sends a message: "Fear not, I am your Father. I give you a Savior from sin and misery. You are my children. My heavenly peace I breathe upon you." And in this sweet pledge of divine remembrance and Fatherly love—of God at peace with men—a wave of tranquil joy floods the world.

But, again, it is an evangel to man of peace with himself. Every man finds discord in his own being. His innermost personality is the seat of antagonisms. He is an instrument out of tune. The primal harmony of his spirit is broken. He is at war with himself. His baser strives with his higher nature. Soul and body war against each other. But "on earth peace," chants the seraphic choir. Regard the image of God stamped upon you. Put down the low and base. Let the spirit rule and the body serve.

Finally, the Christmastide should breathe the spirit of peace in our business and in all the relations of life. Especially in our homes we can cultivate the Christmas spirit, displacing their frequent discontents, fault findings and contentions with peace and good will.

For this glad time, at least, let us all be better men and women; less selfish, more kindly, easier to live with. And how much happier will we be if this Christmas spirit—its cheery glow and kindly warmth—stay with us all through the year!—Junius B. Remensnyder.

THE HOLY MANGER

"Presipio," Instead of Christmas Tree, in Italy and Spain.

It Is Representation of the Place Where Baby Christ Lay in Bethlehem.

GIRLS and boys of Italy and Spain, which are called the Latin countries, never hang up their stockings at Christmas time, nor do they have Christmas trees. Kris Kringle and Santa Claus are German saints and the Christmas tree came out of the German forests long, long ago, when the nations of northern Europe were forest tribes. It is the northern peoples—the Germans, Scandinavians and English, all of whom are descended from old Teutonic tribes—who keep Christmas as Americans do.

Instead of the Christmas tree, Italian and Spanish boys and girls have the presipio. "Presipio" means manger, and it is a representation of the manger where the baby Christ lay in Bethlehem. It is presented in different ways. Sometimes it shows only the inside of the barn where the Baby and His mother lay, with Joseph, the Three Wise Men and the animals about. Sometimes it shows a hillside, with the Wise Men coming on foot or horseback, or on donkeys, bringing their gifts to the stable. Sometimes the manger is small—not more than a foot square. Sometimes it is large enough to occupy the whole end of a room. It is built on a board foundation and is made of wood, with earth, pebbles, dried grass and leaves for the outdoor scenes. The figures are carved of wood, or perhaps little dolls are used, all very carefully and elaborately dressed by the girls. Sometimes brooks and lakes are ingeniously represented with paper, glass or isinglass. Sometimes the whole is rough and rude, but again it is very neatly and beautifully done, and is quaint and interesting when all complete.

The French, who are half Latin and half Teutonic in their makeup, mix the customs of both races in their Christmas keeping. They build the manger and they also give the children presents; only, instead of hanging her stocking, little French Babette puts out her shoes. The French call the manger "creche," and in country villages in France companies of children still go from house to house on Christmas eve, carrying the creche and singing Christmas carols. Sometimes they help to build a beautiful large creche in the village church, over which they are very proud and delighted.

THE SANTA PARTY

How Lots of Christmas Fun May Be Had by Boys' Club.

Each Lad Provides One Present, Made by Himself, for Old Kris Kringle's Bag.

THE biggest boy in the club should be the Santa Claus. To dress him up, borrow a bath robe, and trim it round the collar and cuffs with some old fur. A big fur cap is the thing for Santa Claus' head, and a great big bag should be provided for him to hang over his shoulder to carry the presents in. A paper mask for Santa can be bought at some small store for about twenty cents, and a big beard can be made of excelsior, tied up so as to stay in place. If the excelsior can be dyed gray all the better.

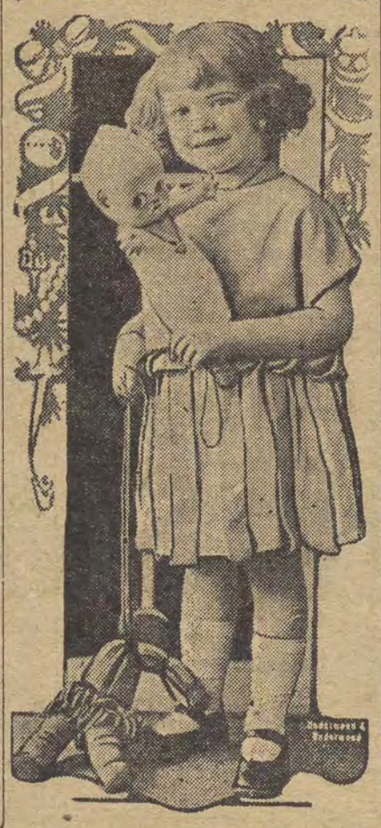
Each boy in the club should provide one present for Santa's bag. It would be better if each boy should make the present himself. Good things for such presents are bean bags, baseballs, bats, shinny sticks, tops, marbles, short wooden swords, slings, putty blowers, jew's-harps, soap-bubble pipes, jack-stones, match-safes, candy, chewing gum, and so on.

All the presents for the Santa Claus party should be handed to a committee of three knights, whose duty it is to pack them all neatly in Santa Claus' bag. At the time of the party, the members of the club should gather together in the meeting room, and the committee may meet in a room near by with the big boy who is to be Santa Claus. They must dress him up and escort him to the club. When Santa comes in all will rise, and the president will say:

"Greeting, Santa Claus; the boys await you."

Santa may reply, "Greeting, my children."

Then Santa passes out the presents. It is best for the boys to form a line, and for Santa to reach in the bag without looking and pull out the first thing that comes to his hand.



The last present in the bag is Santa Claus'. A good deal of amusement can be had at the party if a committee of five boys is chosen to look after the entertainment. A good plan is to get up shadow pictures. A sheet is hung up near one end of the room, about five feet from the wall. Behind the sheet, close to the wall and low down, is placed a strong light. The knights and others who are to be the audience all sit in front, and when everything is ready all lights except the one behind the sheet are put out. The boys who are to make the shadow pictures then go between the light and the sheet and cut up all sorts of antics, throwing large shadows on the sheet. If there is a boy who can make odd shadow pictures with his hands he can amuse the club for some time.

Another thing that makes fun at a Santa Claus party may be called the "boy orator." A large pair of boots is provided, and the boy orator puts his arms in these and stands back of a table, so that his booted arms may look like a pair of short legs and he appears to be a funny little man standing on the table. Another boy stands behind him, and puts his arms through under the orator's arms and makes the gestures while the orator delivers his speech. This can be made very funny if the orator learns a good speech and if the boy who makes the gestures waves his arms and makes very bad and inappropriate gestures. It is especially trying for the orator if the gesturer holds a handkerchief in his hands and wipes his face occasionally or waves it in triumph at inappropriate times.—The Delineator.

Present and Future.

The wise youth prepares for the future,
But during the holiday whirl
He should also remember the present
That's expected by his best girl.

MANY ATTEND DEDICATION OF MITCHELL DAM MONDAY

Appropriate Addresses Made by Power Co. and State Officials. First Concrete Poured in the New Structure by son of James Mitchell.

Alabama Power Company Dedicated Mitchell Dam to the Service of the Public, and In Memory of Mr. James Mitchell.

The second power plant and dam in the great development system of the Alabama Power Company on the Coosa River, for the production of hydro-electric power and the establishment of navigation, was officially dedicated at Mitchell Dam last Monday when hundreds of citizens from different parts of the state were the guests of the power company to witness the impressive ceremonies. There were present many prominent people from Birmingham, Montgomery, Gadsden, Anniston, Talladega, Sylacauga, Clanton, Verbena, all of whom expressed wishes of success for Mitchell Dam and the power plant to be installed in connection with the same.

At the beginning of the dedication services, the invocation was delivered by Dr. Henry M. Edmonds, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian Church of Birmingham. Hon. Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power company, presided at the ceremonies. The principal address of the occasion was delivered by Mr. Martin on behalf of the Alabama Power Company, its aims and designs for service to the people of Alabama in the promotion of its great schemes of development on the Coosa river. A fitting tibute was paid by Mr. Martin to the late Mr. James Mitchell, whose financial manipulations put the Alabama Power Company on its feet and made possible the great things that are being done in Alabama today.

The second speaker was Attorney General Harwell G. Davis, who spoke for the state and the public, accepting Mitchell Dam, its plans and purposes for public service, for the great benefits that were pledged by Mr. Martin.

Mr. A. G. Patterson, chairman of the Alabama Public Service Commission, made a splendid address, touching upon the duties of the public utilities commission and their obligations to the people of the state to adjust all public matters equitably to protect the interests of the people and at the same time to give a reasonable return to utility companies on the money invested.

Mr. Oscar G. Wells, President of the First National Bank of Birmingham, spoke as representative of the business inteests of the state, complimenting the Alabama Power Company for their wonderful developments, and the people for the advantages that will come to them thereby.

A cablegram was received from Mr. McKay Edgars, head of the banking house of Sperling & Co., of London, England, expressing regrets over his inability to be present at the dedication, and congratulating the board of directors for the building of the project. Mr. Edgars in his cablegram, also expressed regret that the late James E. Mitchell died before the company's greatest project had been realized.

Cablegram.

London, Eng., Dec. 19, 1921.
Mr. Thos. W. Martin, Pres,
Alabama Power Co.,
Birmingham, Ala.

Please express to directors and guests at inauguration of Mitchell Dam, my sincerest regrets that it is impossible for me to be present. Myself and associates extend sincerest messages of success to enterprise and a successful completion of work and a wish to add their deepest sympathetic regrets that Mr. James Mitchell is not here to see the progress and successful culmination in his efforts for which he worked for years in the interest of all concerned.

(Signed) McKAY EDGAR.

Immediately after the dedication ceremony, the first bucket of concrete was poured into the new dam. Malcom Mitchell, son of the man for whom Mitchell Dam is named, tipped the bucket from the platform 200 feet above, by pressing an electric button. Young Mitchell is now a student at Cornell University.

From one to two o'clock the throngs of visitors were invited into one of the mess halls of the construction company, where a splendid luncheon was served. After luncheon an official inspection of the construction works was made, with the visitors as guest on the inspection tour.

The statistics as to the new Mitchell Dam will be of great interest:

The construction of Mitchell Dam began in October, 1921, and will be completed by the spring of 1923. The dam is known as the gravity type, with certain innovations in the way of back water suppression designed and patented by O. G. Thurlow, chief engineer of the company. The principles embodied in the new design have been favorably reported upon by the leading hydraulic engineers of the world. When the dam is completed, 96,000 horsepower of electric energy will be developed at low water, and 108,000 at flood stage; the dam will be 1,115 feet long, seventy feet high, and seventy-four feet wide at the base. Approximately 200,000 cubic yards of concrete will be used in the construction of the dam and power house. A rail connection with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company has been established at Coopers, Alabama, and approximately 5,000 car loads of construction material and machinery will be transported to the site of Mitchell Dam.

The electric power produced at Mitchell Dam will be distributed over 1200 miles of high tension transmission lines serving over 16,000 consumers of light and power in over sixty cities and town of Alabama.

The relation of Mitchell Dam to the navigation of the Coosa River is an item that should not be overlooked.

The Coosa River at present is navigable in its upper reaches from Rome, Georgia, to Gadsden, Alabama, and is navigable in the lower portion from Wetumpka(Alabama, to the Gulf of Mexico. The intervening distance of approximately 116 miles between Gadsden and Wetumpka abounds in rapids and shoals, which prevent continuous navigation. To make this freak stream render its due service to the people in its entirety, the government engineers have long recognized and advocated that a system of locks and dams be built on this non-navigable stretch of the river.

With this in view, congress in 1907 granted to Alabama Power Company the right to build the dam at Lock 12, and the act of congress known as the Federal Water Power Act has made possible the development of Mitchell Dam. As the result of these two developments forty-five miles of this non-navigable portion of the river will have been reclaimed for water transportation, and the great water power, hitherto a waste, will be called into useful service.

Among those witnessing the dedication ceremonies were Laurence McFarland and W. G. Henderson, both of Montreal, Canada, stockholders in the Alabama Power Company; Wm. L. Hood, assistant general counsel of the company; Judge Wm. Logan, Martin of Birmingham; Maj. E. M. Tutwiler, of Birmingham; Mr. O. G. Thurlow, chief engineer of the company; Frank Willis Barnett, of the Birmingham Age-Herald; David Holt, of the Montgomery Advertiser and Leon W. Friedman of the Birmingham News.

A large delegation from Clanton, headed by Capt. W. P. Lay went down and spent the day, and many expressions have been heard here of the great and enjoyable event.

After all has been said and done, those who are the real moving powers behind the Alabama Power Company developments feel that there is the best expression of their deep found aims and desires in this quotation from Justice Holmes, of the United States Supreme Court.

"To gather the streams from waste and to draw from them energy, labor without brains, and so to save mankind frm toil that it can be spared, is to supply what, next to intellect, is the very foundation of all our achievements and all our welfare."

CHRISTMAS TREE AT WALNUT CREEK

There will be a Christmas Tree and also a Christmas program at Walnut Creek Church, two and a half miles east of Clanton on the night of Dec. 24th, beginning promptly at seven o'clock. Also a contest for the prettiest girl present.

FAIRVIEW

Health of this community is good.

The Christmas spirit is abroad in our community as we approach the holidays. This consists of peace on earth and good will to all, and as few men engaged in wild catting or moonshining, better known as making whiskey without the law.

While on this whiskey subject we wonder how many places are there in the county where raids have not been made by officers of the law. Another thing about this neck of the wood is that there has never been land here sold for taxes. Mr. Editor, is not this grounds to brag on? Or is it just the plain acts of good citizens? This sounds good for the Christian men and women of the community. If these assertions were not true the watchful eyes of Sheriff Gore would find out about the whiskey, and the tax collector's books would show about the lands. To the man in another community looking for a home, we invite you in.

Our school is all to the good, under the able teachings of Misses Thompson and Maddox.

On religious questions we are slow to take on new isms, but prefer to follow the old time ways our mothers taught.

Boys don't use Christmas "spirits" instead of the Christmas spirit, for if you do you might fail to get by.

THE NEED OF A PAY ROLL IN CLANTON

Dear Mr. Editor:-

I want to ask for a small space with you this week. True, it is the holiday season and, maybe, few will be interested in business matters, such as I am going to refer to in my letter, but here I go.

By acutal test, it has been found that Chilton Co. has enough good people with sound business judgment to push an undertaking like the Central Alabama Hospital, and now the most beautiful hospital in the entire state is nearing completion at Clanton Alabama, within about three miles of the center of the state. I believe that the stock holders will be pround of it for all time to come, not only because it will return a nice dividend, but because it will be something for the entire community to feel proud of.

But what I wanted to say at the beginning is this: Clanton and its neighboring towns and communities have good schools, good churches, good farms, good business houses, one of the largest power plants in the world and another under construction and many other good things too numerous to mention here. However, in my judgement we are sorely in need of one other thing that we do not have here, and that is some large industrial establishment.

I think a cotton mill situated at Clanton would be the best one that could be thought of for our particular needs. Suppose we had a factory consuming only thirty bales of cotton daily for say 300 days in the year. That would be 9000 bales per annum. Now, it is a fact that for several years, through high freight rates and other obvious reasons, cotton has sold in Clanton for about two cents less per pound than at points where there are cotton mills.

pg,sk A.jitaosaNrT E T A I R HRF

Two cents a pound means $10.00 a bale saved to our farmers. And the $19 a bale for 9000 bales consumed in one year would be $90,000 saved in this community on the price of cotton alone every year, or nearly a million dollars in ten years to the cotton farmer of our immediate neighborhood. Just think how quick such a mill would pay for itself and buy a few others besides.

But that is only one item. When you put about a thousand people to working in that mill the result will be a nice payroll; and our merchants, doctors, lawyers, farmers, laborers and everybody else, even the loafers will find a little more money coming his way easier and more often because of this payroll. Such a payroll would help wonderfully these hard times. But, it would not stop there, these thousand people would have families to support, and including those that were earners and dependents it would probably run up to a population of two or three thousand, and these people would be of a class that bought most of their subsistence from the producer rather than produce it themselves, therefore, Mr. Farmer would come in for a good share again. His peas, potatoes, melons, butter, eggs, chickens and all products would be in greater demand and he could readily secure revenue from his farm every month in the year.

Now, if our farmers, bankers and business men as well as others will start with the idea to have such an industry and will interest some man with means and experience in the work, like the Comers for example, it will be easy to have such a thing going in a few months. There are plenty of such men who would be willing to take half the stock in such an enterprise if our local people would take the other half. What do you say Mr. Editor? Can we get our heads to work, our hearts in the right place and our hands busy and make this a go? I would like to hear from you and if you believe "It can be did" we want to hear from the farmers, the backbone of our country, and see if they indorse the movement and will take stock in it.

We are in the very shadow of the power to drive the machinery. We produce on the adjacent farms the raw material to be used. We have banks and business men with the money and business acumen to take care of that end of the proposition and we are producing the fruits, vegetables and other farm products and allowing them to go to waste when they might be sold to the laborers who are operating the machinery in such a mill. Why should we stand idle andl et all this power be transmitted to the mills in the Carolinas while our cotton is shipped away for $10 a bale less than we could get on the grounds where it is ginned and our town sleep along on the dead list so far as industries are concerned, while our farmers cry hard times and allow a great portion of their products to go to waste for the lack of local market conditions.

V. J. GRAGG.

FIRST WEEK IN JAN. IS POLL TAX WEEK

Editor Union-Banner:

There seems to be so much confusion about registering to vote, I want to again try to explain to the people a few points. If one moves from another County they have to be transfered by the board of Registers, and the Registers will go over the County in Jaunary for the purpose of registering all voters entitled to register. If any one has paid a poll tax in another County they must get a certificate from the Probate Judge of the County they paid in, and file that certificate with me, in order to be placed on the qualified list of voters.

All men and ladies who will be twenty one before the election next fall can register. All ladies who were twenty years old before October the first 1920 will have to pay poll tax for 1920 and 1921 before they can vote next year.

If every one that is due a poll tax will pay each year it will not amount to much, but after it has accumulated for a few years it is hard to pay.

I appeal especially to the ladies to pay each year, and not to get behind as many men have, and then be disfranchised for life. About half the white men in Chilton County that are registered are not qualified to vote. If I was behind with my poll tax I would sell something to get the money, or I would borry it from some friend. I would not be disfranchised. Ladies remember you are equal to men in every respect, and just as entitled to hold office as men, and you are as responsible for voting as men. None of you are over two years behind with your poll tax, and any of you can get $3.00.

Remember we will have three elections next year, and I am sure that many will wish they had paid their poll tax before next fall, for when we get into the next campaign we will all want to vote.

There are many laws that need to be passed and amended before women have equal rights with men, which ought to be arranged at the next legislature, and women ought to be represented.

Our State Government is getting farther away from the people every year. The people lose more of their rights every time the legislature meets, and we have but very little left. Look at our Courts. Over half the cases tried never get to a jury. The time will come when Judges will be appointed, and the voters will have no say about who they are. We are fast losing our local self government. I was in hopes that when the ladies got to voting that they would be free from prjudice and vote their convictions, and that they would help to re-establish a local self government in Alabama.

The vote the Republican Party received last fall shows that the many voters in Alabama are ready for two parties. What a blessing it would be if we had two parties of about the same strength.

If any one wants to know about their poll tax they can write me and I will take pleasure in informing them what they are due.

Let's make the first week in January, 1922, Poll tax week, and if any of our neighbors have not got the money to pay their tax with, let those that have it loan it to them.

Remember if you do not register in January, and pay your poll tax before the first day of February, 1922, you cannot vote next year.

I hope we will have a safe and sane Christmas, and I was thinking what a splendid world this would be if we all had the same spirit all the time that we have at Christmas.

I wonder if we stop to think what makes people the happiest. It is the spirit of giving, and making others happy, and why cant we do this all the time?

The County Court is always running over with cases the first Monday in January. I hope it will not be this time. Let's all have a good time, make everybody happy that we can, violate no law, for that will make us sad. Let's shut down all the stills, have no whiskey, not do any thing that will bring trouble, and let's have the greatest Christmas we ever had.

We have great things to rejoice for. The civilized world is at peace, and right at this time there is being held at Washington a great Council trying to arrange differences between the leading Nations of the world in order to have no more wars.

I want to congratulate the Apportioners and Overseers for their work they have done on their repective Roads in the last few days, and I hope every one will do their full duty and not mingle gHrsen' Ma HT duty and not a single one will have to be prosecuted. Remember the roads are for you.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

SPEND XMAS WITH US.

You are very cordially and heartily invited to spend Christmas with us next Sunday in the new beautiful auditorium of the Baptist Church of Clanton. Next Sunday is Christmas Day and you could not spend it in any better way than this. Suitable sermons will be preached for the occasion and music will be rendered by the choir.

By meeting with us and worshipping God you have the privilege of sharing with us the inspiration that comes in worshiping God in one of the most lovely auditoriums in the entire State, as testified to by those who know. If you are of the same Faith and Order here is an opportunity to do what 75 others have done in less than two years past, and that is to unite with a real live church and institution that is accomplishing something for God and humanity. Others are going to join soon, why not you?

Then there is our Sunday School, with a class room for each separate class, the best equipped for hundreds of miles around outside of the two large cities of the State. Last Sunday there were 159, why not help us build it up to 300 in the near future? We can if you will help us. This is a great work for you to do, by being present yourself, and then inviting and bringing others. We will look for you next Sunday. The Main auditorium last Sunday night was comfortably well filled. Lets fill it right up next Sunday, even to overflowing the balcony.

The Sunday School Xmas tree will be held on Friday night, and Santa Claus has promised to help us out. He will arrive in Clanton about 8 p. m., but the concert or programme will begin about 7 p. m. Of course every scholar will be at the Xmas tree next Friday night, and then should be in Sunday School every Sunday in the year.

Wishing you all a Merry Xmas, I am

Yours Sincerely,
P. G. CARTER,
Pastor.

LOST POCKET BOOK

Uncle Dock Wells lost his pocket book last week on the streets of Clanton. It contained two five dollar bills and five one dollar bills. Any one finding same will be rewarded if they return the same to Uncle Dock. This was his Christmas money, and was all he had.

CANE CREEK

Be sure to come to the box supper at Cane Creek Friday night, Dec. 23. Yes, there will be a cake guessing contest, also candy drawing. Proceeds go to the school.

THE COMING PICTURES

"The North Wind's Malice" is a Rex Beach story of the far north. There is an undertow of an unseen compelling force. No one can escape it. Our lives are to a certain extent influenced and formed by destiny. There is life and action, thought and refreshment in every changing scene. See "The North Wind's Malice," at the Ideal Theatre, Monday, Dec. 26.

"Snowblind" is adapted from Katherine Burt's novel. Did you ever wonder if a man should tell a woman the whole truth about himself? Would he ever win a wife if he did? Good ideas on these questions are found in "Snowblind." At the Ideal Theatre, Tuesday, Dec. 27.

"The Song of the Soul," to be shown Thursday, Dec. 29, features two stars, namely, Vivian Martin and Fritz Lieber. Lieber is a Shakesperean actor of prominence. He was at the Jefferson Theatre in Birmingham in three of Shakespere's plays during October. The theme of the pictures takes the form of a question: "Is there any sacrifice a girl will not make for the man she loves?"

Are Marriages made really in heaven? Have you been thinking seriously on this question? See the lighter side as portrayed by Tom Moore. He has a bit of brogue and a flash of Irish wit that will keep you guessing and fill you with laughter. See "Made in Heaven," at the Ideal Theatre, Friday, Dec. 30.

"Made in Heaven" is a delightful comedy.

"Just Out of College," is a fitting climax for the week's program. If you were just out of college and were told that you must make ten thousand dollars within twenty days or lose a fortune, what would you do? Jack Pickford does it with "bingo pickles." See him Saturday, December 31.

THE TABERNACLE

Pastor O. F. Frank of the First Seventh-day Adventist Church of Birmingham, gave an interesting address last Sunday evening in the Tabernacle here in Clanton on "The faith and history of Seventh-day Adventists." He said in part:

"The slogan of Seventh-day Adventists is found in Revelation 14:12. 'The faith of Jesus and the commandments of God.' 'The Bible and the Bible only is the religion of Seventh-day Adventists. Nor is it of any account in the estimation of the genuine Seventh-day Adventists, how early a doctrine originated, if it is not found in the Bible. And therefore if a doctrine be propounded for his acceptance, he asks, is it found in the inspired Word? Was it taught by the Lord Jesus and His apostiles? If they knew nothing of it, no matter to him if it be discovered in the musty folio of some ancient visionary of the third century or whether it spring from the fertile brain of some modern visionary of the twentieth, if it is not found in the sacred Scriptures, it presents no valid claim to be received as an article of his religious creed.'

"Seventh-day Adventists believe in salvation by grace through faith. But faith without work is dead being alone. Only a faith which works is worthy of the name."

"The Bible way of supporting gospel work is by tithes and offerings. They pay tithes and then give offerings. No Seventh-day Adventist considers himself honest unless he pays tithe. And all offerings are in addition to the tithes. They believe in plain and modest dress, without adorning of any kind of jewelry. Every Christian will be temperate. And to be temperate is to abstain from every thing that is evil and to use moderately of those things which are good.

"They believe in keeping the Ten Commandements just as God spoke and wrote them. They do not keep them to be saved, but because they are saved. Obedience is the inevitable fruit of a real Christian experience. Their reason for keeping the seventh day of the week for the Sabbath is the fourth commandment of God's law. One can't keep the law of God and break the Sabbath commandment. Offending in one point we break the principle underlying every commandment. James 2:10. God himself has commanded Sabbath-keeping as a perpetual covenant, for his people. Exedous 31:16. A true Israelite is not a literal Jew, but a true child of God regardless of race or nation. Gen. 32:28. Margin. Romans 2:29; 9:6. Gal. 3:29.

In regard to the history of Seventh-day Adventists he said: They came into existence as a denomination in 1863. They then had thirty preachers and three thousand and five hundred members; one publishing house, and they sold of their denominational literature that year about eighty-six cents worth per member on the average. They are now preaching in one hundred and eight different nations, the population of which amount to 1,570,000,000 people. They are preaching and teaching in one hundred and two different languages and they have spent seventeen million dollars in foreign mission work. Because of their firm faith in the Bible plan of paying tithes and giving offerings for the support of gospel work, their contributions amounted to last year $62.93 per member, (on the average here in America) five times as much as that given by members of other churches of Protentant denominations. They now have forty-three publishing houses, some of them the the finest in the world. They publish 144 periodicals, 685 books that are bound, 430 pamphlets, 1,896 tracts, 3,155 publications in all. And last year they sold nearly six million dollars worth of their denominational literature, or about twenty dollars worth for every member. They have 1,400 schools, col' ges academies, and church schools; 2,693 teachers, and 42,447 students. They have one large medical college at Loma Linda, California. They have thirty-three Sanitariums and connected with them 163 physicians, 2,308 nurses, and they treat many thousands of patients every year. They have 4,541 churches, 185,000 members and plans to set all these members to work to warn the world that Jesus is soon coming. They purpose to do their utmost, in co-operation with other Christians, toextend the knowledge of the Saviour and His coming to the ends of the earth, and they believe that when this gospel of the kingdom is preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations that then the end will come. Matthew 24:14. And then they believe Jesus will come to take his faithful ones home to the mansions he is now preparing for them. John 14:1-3.

THE ALUMINUM SALE AT JONES HDWE CO.

The Jones Hardware Company is gradually regaining their balance after the stunning rush that was made upon them at their aluminum sale Wednesday morning. This sale was the most sensational thing that has ever happened in Clanton. Prior to the time of opening the sale the store had been closed hard and fast, and well that it was. Otherwise the great throng of people would have rushed in and the fun would have all been over before it started. There were people packed and jammed in front of the store and half across the street. Women were seen to weep at the spectacle for fear that they would not have a chance to get in and buy a coveted piece of aluminum. Wives were begging their husbands to pilot them through the crowd when the door opened, in the hope that they might thus be able to get a chance at what they wanted before someone else copped it.

What caused this sale to be such a hummer? There are just a few salient features about it that we want to call to the attention of some of the other business men of Clanton.

First, there was a bargain offered to the people, and the Jones Hardware company did not keep it a secret. They advertised the event in the best advertising medium in Chilton County, The Union-Banner, where it was read by no less than four thousand people from one end of the county to the other. Days before the sale we heard some say there would be only a few Clanton people there. And in that crowd Wednesday morning we saw people from Jemison, Thorsby, Collins, Chapel, Providence, Verbena, Coopers, Pletcher, Billingsley, Plantersville, Maplesville, Stanton, and every other place you could mention. They knew that the Jones Hardware Company was offering them something worth while, and when they read about it they came with a rush.

In an hour and foty-five minutes Wednesday morning the Jones Hardware Company sold more aluminum ware than they have sold in two years prior to this event. Even Mr. Jones himself was surprised at his success. He felt a little reluctant in undertaking the cheme, but now he is filled with joy at the wonderful success attained.

Aluminum is not the only thing the people want and will buy, if the proper inducements are made, and the proper means of advertising employed.

TEN BILLION TAX EXEMPT

Washington, Dec. 20—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon estimates that there is $10,000,000,000 invested in tax-exempt securities. Were that huge amount to be subject to income taxes and surtaxes, there would be a tremendous increase in the Federal revenue, with a more equitable distribution of the tax burden. President Harding has started the movement to bring all of what wealth within the tax laws by advocating a Constitutional amendment that will prohibit the issue of tax-exempt securities. It is probable that his recommendation will receive the early attention of Congress, and it may be that before the present session adjourns the States will have presented to them for ratification an amendment along the lines suggested.

COULDN'T HANDLE IT.

It is understood a Filipino commission of protest will shortly visit the United States to direct an agitation against the adoption of the report on the Philippines signed by Gen. Wood and former Governor Forbes. Certain elements among the Filipinos appear to be following the example of certain Porto Ricans who are now in Washington urging the recall of Gov. Reilly of Porto Rico. The protests from both quarters are animated by natives who were given large powers by the Democratic administration, much to the detriment of the islands, and now are chagrined to see their authority slipping from them.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

From indications on Monday last, there will be no scarcity of spare ribs and backbone in this community for some time. You could hear the "ping" of rifles and the grunt of hogs on every side until it seemed as though the entire community had turned into a slaughter pen. Come on to see these Mulberry folks and we will see that you don't go back home hungry.

Mr. E. T. Chasteen made a business trip to Clanton on last Thursday.

Mr. D. O. Manning and G. H. DeShazo were visitors to Stanton last Saturday morning.

Mr. C. C. and R. J. Williams made a hurried business trip to Maplesville last Saturday morning.

Our school will close out the first Semester of the 1921-22 term on Thursday of this week, vacating until after the holidays. There will be appropriate exercises for the occasion under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Harmon and Miss Nola D. Reynolds. So far the school has proven very successful and we certainly hope that the last or second Semester will prove as successful as the first. The faculty will spend the holidays at their various homes, Prof. Griffin in Marbury, Mrs. Harmon in Montgomery, Miss Dennis in Deatsville and Miss Reynolds in Plantersville. We hope to have them all back with us after Xmas and all will strive to make the school bigger and better than ever.

Oh yes! those Clanton boys are certainly laughing up their sleeves about how easy they beat the Mulberry boys the other night in the basketball game. Well they can laugh now but they had better look out or they won't have that easy picking any more off the boys out here. They are training hard and will interest Clanton the next time that they tie up for a game.

Misses Jennie and Clyde Arthur went out to Clanton on Saturday last on a shopping trip.

Mr. D. O. Manning and W. F. DeShazo were in Clanton on business Saturday evening.

Mrs. D. O. Manning returned home Sunday night after a week's visit to her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Wells of Ensley. Mrs. Manning reports the arrival of a fine baby grand-daughter while there. Congratulations to the proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Wells.

Mr. C. C. Williams and Mr. T. L. LeCroy left Sunday afternoon on a business trip to Birmingham. While there Mr. LeCroy will visit his daughter, Mrs. Wiley Tucker.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend. What? Prayer meeting at Isabella Church on Sunday night, Dec. 25th. We are going to pull off a big one out here and if you don't believe it just come on and be convinced. We will have the pastor, Rev. R. T. Gilbert with us. Mr. Sidney Webb will deliver an essay on some appropriate subject suited to the occasion. Mr. Will White will give an outline of the life and teaching of Christ during his sojourn on earth. There will be numbers of special songs and lots of other intresting things that will make well worth your while to attend. Come on everybody prepared to recite a verse of scripture concerning the life of Christ.

From some indications around here last Sunday the "revenooers" have not destroyed all the "wild-cat licker" yet.

Mr. D. H. Gentry of New Salem and one of the County Commissioners was a visitor to this community Saturday. Mr. Gentry was down in the interest of the work recently done on the highway by Mr. W. F. DeShazo.

Mr. T. C. Jones and Mr. Oscar Bates were over to see Mr. W. F. DeShazo last Saturday on business connected with some bridge work.

Mr. D. O. Manning informs us that he has completed two new houses on one of his places and that everything in his line is moving along nicely.

Mr. M. Manning and Miss Gulledge of Verbena were visitors to Mr. D. O. Manning last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. G. T. Hubbard has removed his family to Mr. W. W. Fox's place four miles east of Clanton on the River road where he will farm another year. We hate to see Mr. Hubbard leave us, but will do our dead level best to get another good man to take his place.

The Misses Dennis and Miss Reynolds have returned to Mr. Manning's from a week's stay at Mr. Sidney Webbs' during Mrs. Manning's absence in Birmingham.

Messrs. B. A. Mooney, D. C. and Alvin Mooney and Fonza Jones motored up to Birmingham last week. Mr. B. A. Mooney swaped his Dort car for a flivver while there, preparatory to making a cross country trip to Florida.

Mr. Wilbur Veazey and Clifton Merchant of Macedonia were visitors to this community Sunday.

Mr. Will White reports that Vera is not recovering from her operation as speedily as she should. He contemplates bringing her home in a few days.

Bro. R. T. Gilbert of Maplesville called on several families in this community Monday while en route to Clanton.

Mr. J. C. DeShazo of Clanton was in this community Tuesday.

Wishing you all a Merry Xmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year, will say good-bye till next week when I will give you all some real news.

Where Your Taxes Go

How Uncle Sam Spends Your Money in Conducting Your Business

By EDWARD G. LOWRY

Author "Washington Close-Ups," "Banks and Financial Systems," etc. Contributor Political and Economic Articles to Leading Periodicals and a Writer of Recognized Authority on the National Government's Business Methods.

Copyright, Western Newspaper Union

I.

WHY YOU'RE INTERESTED

I wish you would take what is written here as a personal report addressed directly to you from me about your business. Don't think of it or read it as an article about "politics," or remote public affairs at Washington. It is not that at all. It is what I ask you to think it, a personal business report to you relating to your individual concerns, your pocketbook and your welfare. I have no other interest than to tell you the exact truth.

Assume that you have sent me to Washington to find out for you what your agents are doing, how they are managing your affairs and spending your money. I call them your agents for that is all they are—the President, the members of the cabinet, the senators and all the members of the house of representatives. You hire them, you pay them, and you can fire them.

You may think of them in deference and awe as a group of eminent statesmen, or you may call them in flippancy and too hasty contempt "a lot of politicians." But whatever you call them, they are your hired men. They attend to your collective business, which is called the public business.

Query: Are they doing it efficiently and with a single-minded devotion to your interests?

Perhaps the largest item in the high cost of living is the high cost of government. And far and away the largest item in the high cost of government is the high cost of armament; preparation for war. About 90 per cent of all government revenues, and that means the money taken from you as taxes, goes to pay for wars, past, present and future.

Before I have concluded this series of articles I expect to show you conclusively that the impelling motive that induced President Harding to call the present conference in Washington to consider limitation of armaments was financial. The pressing need of considering a proposal for a reduction or limitation by agreement of war expenditure was not made entirely on the ground of morality or righteousness, but as a plan for cutting down the operating expenses of the government.

If the United States government were an individual we would say that it was broke, for its expenses exceed its income.

Your interest is simply this: that whatever decision is made you will have to pay the bill. If today we didn't have these army and navy expenses you would have to pay in taxes less than $1,000,000,000 a year instead of $5,000,000,000. That means we would have about $4,000,000,000 more a year to spend on our private needs and pleasures. I frankly confess that I would enjoy having four-fifths of my taxes knocked off. Wouldn't you?

Secretary Weeks of the War department gave public warning a little while ago that the government would require of us about $17,000,000 in the next thirty months to meet current expenses and other obligations. Persons who have given close study to that possibility say that the need will be nearer $20,000,000, than $17,000,000. The great bulk of that is for past and prospective war expenditures.

For this, you and congress and the Executive departments at Washington are responsible. You more than anybody else, for it is your money that is being spent and you can stop it. In its simplest terms the procedure is this: You earn the money, congress takes it away from you in the form of taxes, and then congress and the Executive departments spend it.

A great part of it is wasted. This is established, conceded, confessed, and acknowledged by congress, which authorizes the expenditures, and by the executive officers of the government, who do the actual spending. It is your money that you have earned in your business, on your farm, or by the labor of your hands, that is being expended and wasted at Washington.

Every cent that is extravagantly or needlessly expended by the government you could have in your pocket to meet the increased cost of food, lodging and clothing, doctors' bills and amusements, or to put away and save against a rainy day, if you only demanded determinedly and unitedly that governmental extravagance should cease.

I can tell you some of the conditions of governmental stupidity and how your money is chucked about, and I can tell you how you can stop it. The power is yours, and until you exercise it waste and extravagance will not stop.

A PROCLAMATION

Executive Department,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 16, 1921.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at a special session held in the year 1921, proposed a certain amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which is herein set forth, and ordered an election to be held thereon on the first Monday after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of said session, which will be Monday, the 30th day of January, 1922;

AND WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by proclamation of the Governor:

This section shall be self executing and retroactive. The judges of probate shall issue certificates of exemption from the payment of such poll taxes to the persons entitled thereto under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Governor."

The week of January the first has been designated as Poll Tax Week in Chilton County . We wish to urge that everybody take notice of this and be sure to see that their poll tax is paid. Remember the next year is going to be an important one politcally. Everybody will want to vote.

The editor of The Union-Banner wishes to endorse most heartily the suggestions of Clanton's Mayor, Dr. Gragg, made in his letter which is published on the front page of this paper. We have not the time to go into details about the subject he raises right now, owing to the fact that we are busy with the task of moving our shops to ur new building. But we cannot refrain from calling the attention of the pubilc to the things he so aptly says. Clanton needs a pay roll. Think about what Dr. Gragg says. We shall give the subject some more of our time and thought in the near future.

Everything is lovely for the Central Alabama Hospital. It is a sure thing now, beyond all question. The brick work is all completed, and the carpenters have the top about ready for the tinners to put on the roof and cornices. And gee, it is such a pretty building. When a man looks at it now he wants some stock in it right at once. Several have subscribed for stock in the last week or two when they saw what a really nice building it is. The matter of financing this enterprise is now assured. Soon after the first of the year it will be ready to receive patients.

MR. HERROD LEAVING CHILTON.

We were sorry to learn from Mr. W .T. Herrod while was in Clanton Wednesday that he has all arrangements made to move to Autauga County immediately after the first of the new year. He has sold his place near Pilgrim's Rest, and has bought another near Plantersville. He was interested in securing a location where he might have access to suitable schools for his children, and therefore he chose Plantersville as his future home.

It is with sincere regret that we give up Mr. Herrod as a citizen of Chilton County. He has been a valuable citizen, and served two terms as our County Commissioner, during which time he was zealous and faithful to the interests of Chilton County. We can assure the people of Autauga County that they are gaining a worthy man as a resident and citizen when Mr. Herrod goes to his new home.

HOW MANY GRAINS ON AN EAR OF CORN?

Looks like everything that is started in the world is bound to bring up something else and there is no telling where the end will be. Last week when Bean Brothers were conducting the guessing contest as to how many grains of corn a turkey would eat in two days, somebody started the question of how many grains of corn there were on an ear.

Tom Littlejohn of course got into the argument. There were those who said there were all the way from one hundred to a thousand grains of corn on an ear. Tom must have been contending that there was a mighty heap of corn on an ear, judging from the ear which he produced to sustain his argument. He went up to Uncle Jimmie Mims' at Collins Chapel, knowing that big corn could always be found there and came back with an ear that contains over twelve hundred grains by actual arithmetic calculations. And it is not as big an ear as we have seen come from Uncle Jimmie's crib either.

Now just to prove that one thing always brings on something else, we will bet a nickel that somebody will right away produce an ear of corn that has more grains on it than the one brought us by Mr. Littlejohn.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since . . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too.

At all druggists. E 85

NO REDUCTION IN COAL RATES BEFORE NEXT APRIL.

Birmingham—No chance for lower freight rates on coal until April at earliest, is the word coming from A. R. Morrow, president of the National Coal Association.

Mr. Morrow has written Alabama coal operators to this effect and advises them to forego all anticipation of rate reductions until the interstate commerce commission handles the general proposition of the rate reductions next year.

Mr. Morrow declares that no special consideration will be given reduction in rates on coal any more than on other commodities pending the general rate revision. This begins January 9. Following hearing of the carriers the shippers will have to be heard.

Mr. Morrow says it will be impossible for the interstate commerce commission to hand down a decision before the latter part of February and that, whatsoever the changes are, it will be several weeks after that before the railroads publish the tarriffs embracing the new rates and putting them into effect.

Home Garden Pays.

Tuscaloosa.—That diversified gardening can be done successfully in Alabama was proven when Miss Nona Brown, living three miles from this city, made one-tenth of an acre of ground pay for a new piano which is now in her home. According to Mrs. J. E. S. Brown, a county demonstration agent, $90 of the purchase price was received as prizes at fairs, and the balance was made from the sale of truck planted on the one-tenth acre.

Walker Feed Crop Large.

Jasper.—The corn, velvet and soy bean crops of North Walker are excellent this year and the yield is above the average. L. W. Lollar states that the farmers of North Walker are going to be independent of the commercial feed dealers this winter as they are having great quantities of home grown food manufactured at the Camack's Mill, seven miles north of Jasper.

Farm Bureau Service.

Troy.—At its mass meeting here the board of directors of the Pike County Farm Bureau entered a new field of service when definite steps were taken to secure, through the local banks, loans from the War Finance corporation for the Pike County farmers needing such loans.

McHugh Heads Hibernians.

Mobile.—J. E. McHugh, real estate man of Mobile, has been elected head of the Mobile division, Ancient Order of Hibernians, succeeding George J. Sullivan, who served 24 years as president of the organization. The Mobile branch is probably the largest in the state.

STATE BRIEFS.

HEALTHFUL VIGOR IS IN STRONG BLOOD

Rich, Red Blood Built Up by Pepto-Mangan—Liquid or Tablet.

Blood is strong and full of life-giving vigor when there are plenty of red cells in it. Anaemic people have little strength because there are not enough red cells in the blod. It is thin and watery. Weak blood makes faces pale, pulls down the strength and leaves the body tired, weak, and sickly.

A course in Gude's Pepto-Mangan restores weak blood to its normal strength. Taken regularly for a while it adds red cells to the blood. Then with good blood, the strength and vigor of health return. There is pleasurei n living, with good blood running through the veins. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is put up in liquid and in tablet form. They are the same medicinally. Physicians have prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for years. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package.—Adv.

PICTURE SHOW TO RUN

Realizing that the theatre can be made a source of pleasure as well as a medium of good, I have secured permission to operate the local theatre for one week immediately following Christmas. I give my service free to the success f the enterprise. I seek no personal gain. I shall keep an expense account and a voucher for each item of expense. There will be turned over to the School Board or any one they may appoint to be audited for correctness. The entire profit will be used toward purchasing teacher's desks for the rooms of the Grammar School that do not have such desks. If there should be a loss instead of profit, I have no claim upon the school fund for the deficit. I shall assume such loss from personal funds. If anyone could want a fairer proposition, let him state it, and the same will be made. The very best pictures that could be obtained have been booked for the occasion. In additional to the regular show, I have secured five Educational reels from the University that have Dr. James S. Thomas' personal recommendation.

Also there have been secured from Auburn that have the approval of Dr. Spright Dowell. One of them shows a tour through the famous Yosemite Valley. The week's program of the regular pictures follows:

SLOSS-SHEFFIELD CO. AGAIN ACTIVE

LARGEST PRODUCER OF FOUNDRY IRON IN SOUTH WILL BE MAKING PIG ABOUT JAN. 1.

TWO COVICTS SHOW HEROISM

Tennessee Valley Asphalt To Be Tested On Albany-Decatur-Hartselle Highway—Home Garden Pays For Plano.

Birmingham. — Another Alabama blast furnace will be making pig iron in about two weeks.

The Sloss-Sheffield Company is the largest producer of foundry iron in the South, with four stacks in Birmingham, two at Sheffield and one at Florence. All of these stacks have been idle for several months, during which time the company has been gradually disposing of its large stock of pig iron on hand when the trade depression set in. It is understood that most of this iron has been shipped.

So far as Alabama stocks of iron are concerned, the makers were never in a stronger position. Stocks on Alabama yards have decreased more than 100,000 tons since July 1. They have gone from a total of about 240,000 to about 125,000 tons.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY PAYS $73,280.81 FRANCHISE TAX IN TO THE STATE TREASURY.

Montgomery.—The Alabama Power Company has paid into the state treasury every penny due by it for franchise taxes for the years it has been in business in Alabama under the recent decision of the supreme court. Announcement was made by the state tax commission that the company had remitted to the state treasury $73,280.81, the total amount found to be due by the state by the company. This tax had never been paid because of the provision of the general revenue acts which exempted new industries of certain taxes for 10 years from the time operations started. The supreme court held that this section did not apply to franchise taxes because the constitution required the legislature to levy a franchise tax against every corporation.

To Test Asphalt Beds.

Albany.—North Alabama asphalt may be used for surfacing the Albany-Decatur-Hartselle highway. It is stated that A. G. Patterson has leased from the Albany Oil and Gas Company a tract of 40 acres between here and Moulton and that developments are going forward rapidly looking to the actual testing of the material on the Morgan County road. Asphalt found in the Tennessee valley is said to be of the highest grade, and it is believed that the use of it on the road to Hartselle will lead to further developments on a large scale.

Fort Payne Activities.

Fort Payne.—Reports regarding the rumored activities of the Great Southern Steel Corporation and associated companies are being received with much interest in Fort Payne, inasmuch as the center of activities is likely to be located here, should the mineral resources of this section be once more exploited, after having remained dormant for nearly 30 years, due to the failure of the Fort Payne Coal and Iron Company, which spent millions in this section, only to fall a victim to the panic of 1893.

Convicts Show Heroism.

Montgomery.—Ben Starr, white convict, and Dave Turner, negro convict, may be given paroles as a result of the heroism shown by them in protecting Fred Henderson, state transfer agent, when he was attacked by other negro convicts on the Louisville and Nashville train between Calera and Montgomery.

Home Demonstration Work.

Auburn.—By increasing the total enrollment 3,466 and the value of the products produced by $445,557.70, home demonstration work among the women and girls of Alabama has just had its most successful year, according to the report of Mrs. Mary F. Killebrew, state home demonstration agent.

Florala Prosperous.

Florala. — School enrollments at Florala this year have grown to such proportions, it has become necessary to erect an additional school building. The big saw mills located in this city, are now working on full time, and conditions are generally prosperous.

The One Hundred and Fourteenth Veterinary is a new company to be mustered into the Alabama National Guard about January 1st at Samson.

FIVE MEN CAUGHT AT A WILDCAT STILL

Officers Watch Moonshiners Run Three Gallons of Hooch, and Then Flush the Covey.

The completest wild cat still raid that has been pulled off in this county in a long time was that of last Friday morning which resulted in the arresting of five men caught in the very act of making wild cat whiskey. Those arrested were Tom Ellison and his son, Tommie, Forrest Littleton, Edgar Willis and Houston Burnett.

The still was located on Waxahatchie Creek in the northern part of the county. There were six officers making the raid. Sheriff Gore headed the bunch, and was assisted by county deputies, Martin and Grant, and State officers Wilson and Cannon, and Federal agent, Walter H. Gillespie. They went to the scene of operations before daylight Friday morning and took in the situation. All evidences showed that there would be something going on after light. A careful survey of the surrounding hills and valleys was made, and Sheriff Gore placed all the men at the most advantageous places.

About sun up one or two men approached the still and began to prepare for business. Soon another came with a sack of sugar. Then another and so on until the whole gang of five were there busily engaged in the manufacture of whiskey. The officers held their places with not a rustle of a foot until they had watched three gallons of booze run from the still as it was being attended by the five operators.

Finally when he thought things had worked up to the proper stage, Sheriff Gore began to crawl toward the still on his elbows and knees, concealing himself behind a big poplar stump as he advanced. One of the men saw him before he had gotten up to where he intended to make his presence known, and quicky the whole crew disbanded. Some of them attempted to run away, but they soon found that it was of no use. They went up one valley and ran into Leonard Martin; tried it up another and found the stalwart form of Jim Grant blocking the pathway; made an effort at another avenue of escape and ran into Walter Gillespie, whereupon they abandoned their effort to get away and surrendered without a protest.

The still, a fine 60 gallon copper outfit, was destroyed, together with 1,500 gallons of beer that was ready to run, and the men brought to Clanton and placed in jail.

Roy Howard was arrested at Mitchell Dam last Fridy morning on a charge of bootlegging whiskey, and was brought to jail by Deputy Joe Gore.

Last Saturday night Sheriff Gore arrested Josie Peters, a negro woman who was engaged in peddling whiskey on the streets of Clanton.

The air around the court house bore a joyful odor Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, due to the fact that Sheriff Gore poured out 35 gallons of liquid evidence into the gutter late Tuesday. This whiskey was an accumulation that had been placed in jail, the result of several raids. The cases having been disposed of, the whiskey was therefore destroyed under orders of the courts.

THE PEOPLES TELEPHONE CO.

The meeting of the Peoples Telephone Company called for last Monday was a failure, owing to the fact that there was not a sufficient number of the lines represented to hold a business meeting.

Another meeting has been called for next Tuesday, at which time it is hoped that all the lines will send a representative, so that the business necessary to be transacted can be done, and the operation of the telephone service started off for the new year.

Notices are being sent out to all phone holders who have paid dues for the past year, requesting them to come to the meeting next Tuesday, and also to bring along all those who did not pay last year.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

Mr. W. T. Hughes of Coke, Ala., who bought a part of the J. L. Winslow farm has arrived with his family and taken possession of his property. We extend to Mr. Hughes, and his interesting family, a hearty welcome to Thorsby.

The resignation, has been accepted, with regrets, by the Board of Trustees. Mrs. Notage has held various responsible positions on Thorsby Institute faculty for the past four years and will be greatly missed by many friends in Thorsby. It is expected that the vacancy will be filled when school opens after the holiday vacation.

We want to call attention to the very dangerous condition of a bridge over a culvert in the sidewalk fronting the park opposite the Lutheran church. This is one of the most prominent sidewalks in town and the conditions are very favorable, with no light at night, for a serious accident which might cost the town a large indemnity.

The movement for securing a new school building is rapidly advancing. The committee having the matter in charge report a fine site, containing five acres, selected and arrangements made to pay for it. Plans are being considered for a new building to cost approximately $10,000 so arranged as to be made available for a consolidated school by such additions as may be needed. Early in January there will be a mass meeting called to consider plans for the building and ways to secure funds to build it. Good speakers from the State Department of Education will be a feature of the meeting.

Thorsby Institute closed for the holidays on Wednesday, with a short program consisting of a reading by Miss Katharine Perry, (a new member of faculty), who is an experienced dramatic reader. Her selection was Charles Dicken's story of "Birds Christmas Carol," which was beautifully rendered. Miss Agnes Gerald, of the faculty, gave two vocal selections which, judging by the applause, were greatly appreciated. Rev. J. W. Davenport favored the audience with a choice collection of Christmas carols played on a phonograph.

Thursday will be a day of scattering among students and faculty. Only Miss Allie Bagwell among the students in the boarding department will spend her vacation among friends in Thorsby. Of the members of the faculty, Miss Helen C. Jenkins will visit her parents at Demorest, Ga. Miss Emily B. Ellsworth and Miss Lois Leech will remain in Thorsby during most of the vacation. Miss Elizabeth J. Robinson and Miss Emily B. Tyler will visit friends in Birmingham. Mrs. Walsh and daughter, Marie, will go to Anniston. Miss Katherine Perry will stay in Thorsby most of her vacation accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Caroline Perry, who is spending a few weeks here enjoying our delightful weather. The Misses Agnes and Ruth Gerald will remain in Thorsby, except for short trips to nearby places while Prof. Owen Sappington will visit at his home near Barnesville, Georgia.

Thorsby Congregational Church made an appropriation in their Budget this year for moving and stereoptican pictures of a religious character and occasionally hold a service of this nature. Last Sunday night Rev. J. M. Graham exhibited a reel of film illustrating in a graphic and pleasing manner the Christmas hymn "O Holy Night," and was followed by stereoptican views by Rev. Q. F. Owen, of much artistic merit illustrating the hymn "Abide With Me." The use of such means of instruction and inspiration in religious services meets with serious objection in some quarters, as did the introduction of musical instruments into any church services years ago. But modern religion, following the example of our Savior makes use of things that are common among the people to illustrate and emphasize sacred truths.

HENLEY ENDORSES DR. GRAGG'S PLAN

Editor Union-Banner,

I have just been looking over a copy of your paper, and was impressed with the Christmas spirit of "Good Will" that seems to exist among my home town people. As you know, I was born and raised in Chilton County, and I am always interested in the welfare and progress of the people of Chilton county, for they all seem like homefolks to me. But what impressed me more than any one item was what was written by Mr. Gragg, in regard to the necessity of a "Payroll" in Clanton. In 1914 I left Alabama, and came to Florida and I found Lakeland to be a progressive little town of seven thousand population. Today it is a prosporous city of twelve thousand population, and why? Because we have had progressive men like V. J. Gragg, who saw the possibilities of a bigger and better town, that could come through local enterprises. For instance, one man figured that south Florida was losing thousands of dollars from the waste of Citrus Fruits. Then he began to figure how this waste could be averted, and turned into profit. So, like Mr. Gragg, he began putting the proposition to the progressive men of the town and country, and kept right after it. Some called him a "Dreamer" others said it could not be done, others said it would cost too much money; but he kept right on. He was not a "Quitter." He kept going till he found enough level headed men that believed in local industries to bring his "Dreams" true, what was the result? Today Lakeland has the largest "Juice" Factory in the South, coverting the waste Fruit into one of the most delicious and most Wholesome Drinks that you could imagine, and not only the Juice, but the "Peel" is also converted into the most delicious candies and bringing thousands of dollars into the State, and into the Producers purse, and furnishing employment to hundreds of people. No town can expect to grow and prosper without its people have employment and to have employment, we must have industries, and to have industries, we must "Dream" and think, and dare and do.

I think if the farmers and business men of Clanton and Chilton County could see things in the light that Mr. Gragg sees them, that Clanton would soon have not only a cotton mill, but also an Oil Mill, and when you get that, you will see Clanton grow by leaps and bounds, and you will see your farmers coming out of the "Kinks," for then there will be a demand for their produce, and a good demand means a good price.

I certainly think Mr. Gragg's idea is worthy of county-wide consideration. Perhaps later I will tell your readers more about Florida.

Wishing for you and all your readers a very happy and prosperous New Year, I am,

Respectfully,

M. L. HENLEY.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Christmas program and tree given by the Presbyterian Sunday school on the evening of the 23rd, was quite a success and enjoyed by all. The program consisted of recitations and songs by the children. All present received at least one gift, and a bag of fruit from the tree. It might be of interest to note that the Presbyterian Sunday School was organized little over a year ago, and has grown rapidly in interest as well as in number. Thru the courtesy and kindness of Mrs. H. L. Davis, we had the use of her organ until a new piano was purchased by the Sunday school.

Brother E. M. Wilson will endeavor to preach every Third Sunday in the building of the Masonic Hall. Every one is cordially invited to come, and will be heartily welcomed by all the members.

M. E. ROY,
Sunday School Supt.

PROVIDENCE, BEAT 16

Our literary school is progressing nicely under the management of our principal, Prof. J. H. Plier. Our Sunday School is doing fine.

We had a Christmas service Saturday night, that was enjoyed by a large crowded audience, in spite of the bad weather. I think we have some of the finest young ladies and young men. They rendered one of the finest programs the writer ever witnessed. The children were all so nicely behaved, which was due to the interest of the parents.

I want to say a few words to our people in regard to our religious duties. As the old year 1921 is passing away, with all of its pleasures and disappointments, let us all resolve to make 1922 the most successful year in our history. Let's strive to promote the cause of our Master more than we ever have, for the more we do for Him the more He will do for us.

Parents, come and bring your children to Sunday School, and help us train them in the way they should go, in order that they may be more useful men and women than we are.

WOMANLESS WEDDING

The Womanless Wedding will be enacted again at the High School auditorium Friday night of this week. If you hanker after funny things, you should not miss this.

FRIENDSHIP

Last Sunday was a big day at this church, notwithstanding the unpleasant weather. Sunday School was not held, but the time was taken up in singing in the new 1922 books. Rev. E. A. Norris preached at 11 o'clock.

In the afternoon the Singing Society met at 1:30, and proceeded to sing a lot of the songs in Mr. Showalter's 1922 book. Several good directors were present including Prof. R. A. Smith, Osce Devaughn, Jessie C. Jones, W. O. Rich and T. G. Wyatt, all of whom directed.

The singing was enjoyed by everybody present.

Bro. Norris asked the church to excuse him from preaching Sunday night, which they gladly did.

CHRISTMAS AT CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

Christmas festivities were celebrated at the church last Friday night when a splendid program was rendered by the children on the occasion of the Christmas tree entertainment. The songs, drills and pantomines rendered by the children were all exceedingly well done and showed that under the leadership of Miss Williams and her helpers they had been well trained with much patience and hard work. The tree was nicely decorated for the occasion, and Santa Claus was very kind to all the children present who received some present through his hands. Santa Claus did his part well and brought much happiness and cheer to all who were present. Every seat was filled and some were standing, and as they left it was evident that they all enjoyed the evening and felt it had been a great success.

The services of the church were fairly well attended, and were pleased to have a large number of visitors with us. The sermon at night was delivered by Dr. Hubbard of Greensboro, who gave an interesting discourse on the "Value of the Presence of God." The choir rendered some good music for the occasion.

Services will be held next Sunday as usual. Remember the Sunday School begins at 9:45, a.m. An effort will be made to properly grade the school and this will be observed as "Promotion Day" for the school. The preaching services will begin promptly from now on at 11, a. m., and 7 p.m., until further notice. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the close of the morning service.

During next week beginning with Monday afternoon the ladies of the W. M. U. will observe the special week of prayer set apart by the Southern Baptist Convention or the Foreign Mission Board for Foreign Missions. Some splendid programs will be given and the ladies of all the churches are cordially invited to meet with them at all these meetings which will continue until Thursday afternoon.

We are always glad to see visitors at all of our services and trust you will come often, get acquainted, and if of the same faith and order, will unite with the fellowship of the church.

P. G. CARTER, Pastor.

BRING IN ROAD TOOLS

County Commissioner J. Wiley littlejohn requests everybody who has in posession or knows where there is any of the county road tools or machines in his district to bring the same to Clanton this week or next in order that he may see that it is repaired and put in proper condition for working the roads next year. Mr. Littlejohn has been going over his district lately and says he found some road scrapes cast aside along some roads and the same being neglected and allowed to deteriorate. He reports much work done on the roads in the past few months and expresses the belief that people are going to look look after the roads better next year than in the past.

Those who have any of the county tools or machines should bring them in to Mr. Littlejohn. He will have them repaired and if the same parties want them back again for work next year, we feel sure that Mr. Littlejohn would agree to that.

HOME BURNED

According to information reaching The Union-Banner, the home of Willie Mims near Providence in Beat 16 was destroyed by fire one night during the Christmas season. All the contents of the house were destroyed. The family was not at home when the fire occurred.

TELEPHONE MEETING

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Peoples Telephone Company was held at the court house in Clanton on Tuesday of this week. There was a majority of the lines represented and business of general interest to the phoneholders was transacted.

W. M. Wyatt was re-elected as President of the Company for the next year and M. D. Foshee was re-elected Vice-President. The Board of Directors elected is as follows: W. T. Bean, Chairman; W. W. Fox, J. Monroe Parrish, W. J. Morris and J. M. Robinson.

An order was adopted by the meeting declaring that any operators employed by the Board for next year would automatically lose their job if they knowingly allowed anyone service through the central who has not paid central dues, and the Board of Directors shall have no power to re-employ such operators.

The question of central dues was taken up and upon motion it was declared the rule that for next year each and every phone getting service through central first pay the sum of Two Dollars and fifty cents as a central fee. Each line entering central shall pay a post maintainance fee of Two Dollars and forty cents for the year. Under the by-laws this post right must be paid by a line before anyone on that line can receive central service.

Those present at the meeting voted unanimously to stand by the Board of Directors for next year in the effort to improve the service of the company, which is a very necessary element in the successful conduct of the system to the best interest of those who expect satisfactory service.

CROWSON - FARLEY

The marriage of Mr. W. A. Crowson and Miss Thelma Farley on Wednesday afternoon will be a news item of intesert to many friends of these two young people.

Miss Farley was the daughter of Mr. John Farley of Clanton, and is one of the most charming young ladies of Clanton. Mr. Crowson is a worthy young man who has been in Canton for the past year connected with the work of the state headquarters of the Seventh Day Adventists.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Wison, pastor of the Adventist Congregation in the city. Immediatey after the marriage the happy couple left for a trip to Elkwood, Ala., to visit the people of Mr. Crowson. Upon their return here they will make this their future home.

GADSDEN SCENE OF FATAL PISTOL DUEL

Gadsden, Ala., Dec. 26.—W. C. Cox, former alderman of Gadsden, was shot and killed in his store in Oak Park, four miles from town, late Saturday night by Talmadge Baker, a 19-year-old boy, who is alleged to have attempted to hold up Cox and three others in the store at the time.

Plainclothes Officer L. B. Scott fired at Baker as he entered the front door, masked and with a pistol in his hand, and demanded that everybody throw up their hands.

Baker shot Scott in the right hand, and then followed a pistol duel in which 20 shots were fired, the alleged bandit shooting from behind a counter.

During the firing Cox threw a nail puller at Baker and received two bullets in his right lung, dying an hour afterward.

After the officer and the alleged bandit had emptied their guns they clinched and baker was not subdued until his skull was cracked with Scott's revolver. It was then found that Baker was shot through both hips, his left arm shattered and his right thumb shot off.

He is said to have told Chief Littlefield that he was after a "little Christmas money," and that he would not have killed Cox if the latter had not shown fight.

He was hurried to Anniston in an ambulance to prevent lynching, a large and threatening crowd gathering about the place soon after the battle.

It is thought that he will die.

He lived with his parents in Alabama City, worked at the rolling mill there and was a customer of the merchant he killed.

He is alleged to have freely confessed to other hold-ups occuring in the past three weeks in the same neighborhood.

Policeman Scott had been on the force but five days. Sixteen years ago he was a deputy under Sheriff Morrow at Birmingham and is known as a brave officer.

CLANTON PICTURE SHOW UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Mr. Frank Hardee of Anniston has bought out the Ideal Theatre in Clanton, and his plans are to make the place a first class amusement house. The building is to be overhauled and thoroughly renovated in order to properly accommodate the patrons and make it adaptable for such purpose. The name of the place under the new management will be the "Strand." The performances will be discontinued the first three days of next week for the purpose of making repairs.

The people of Clanton hope that the new owners of the picture show will carry out their intentions of making the Strand a clean wholesome and pleasant amusement house. If this is done they will receive a full measure of support.

Tse Union-Banner printing plant is moved into the new building, Christmas is over, everybody is sober, and here is the paper again this week on time as usual. Some people asked us if we would have to skip an issue to get moved. We never thought of such a thing.

Uncle Dock Wells wishes to thank his many friends for the presents given him during Christmas. He says he never got so many nice things at one Christmas in all his life. Those who go to Jackson's Chapel next Sunday will have the privilege of hearing Uncle Dock preach a New Years sermon. He urges everybody to be there.

Everybody is urged to remember that the first week in January has been designed as poll tax week. Hustle up your neighbors and see that they don't forget to pay their poll tax before the first of February. The women are especially urged to see that their poll tax is paid before they get so far behind like some men. No woman is over a year behind with poll tax, and it will be worth three dollars to anyone to be able to vote in the elections that are to be held next year.

Come around to the Union-Banner office now and take a look at one of the best equipped and neatly arranged printing plants in Aabama. We have built and equipped our plant for the future of Clanton and Chilton County. We feel that our town should have a printing plant in keeping with the other steps of progress that are being made, hence the trouble and expense we have gone to recently. Come around and let us show you through. And if you have any printing that needs to be done bring that along and we will take care of your wants.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION.

The Union-Banner is gratified beyond measure to receive the following words of appreciation from Hon. J. Osmond Middleton of Mobile:

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 23, 1921.
Mr. W. M. Wyatt,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Mac:-

I see in this week's issue of your paper that its next publication will be issued from the paper's own building. I take this opportunity to congratulate you and the people of Chilton County upon the splendid success which you have achieved, not only in producing one of the best weekly newspapers in the State but also in the financial success which you have met. Yours is a great paper. Chilton is a great County, and I wish for both the paper and the County a great and glorious future.

Wishing you a merry Christmas and happy New Year, I am with warm personal regards,

Your friend,
J. OSMOND MIDDLETON.

CRICHTON APPERSON

The Union-Banner was pleased to have as a visitor Monday Mr. Chrichton Apperson of Birmingham, who was down here to spend Christmas at the home of his father, Mr. D. M. Apperson, of Mulberry. Crichton is a Chilton County boy who has gone out into the business world and is making a name for himself. Readers of The Banner may recall a story which we published a short while back regarding him and his career. He is at present Editor of the Grocer's Journal, the official publication of the Alabama Retail Food Dealers Association, the Birmingham Retail Grocers and Butchers Association, and other affiliated organizations. Crichton Apperson is named after Frank Crichton, the founder of The Banner. Mr. Apperson said while here with his son Monday that he did not dream that he was making an editor out of his boy when he named him Crichton.

THREE-YEAR-OLD BIRMINGHAM BOY READS BOOKS AND STUDIES GEOGRAPHY

Yet Young Prodigy Is Simply Normal, Happy Youth.

There was one three-year-old boy in Birmingham yesterday who was able to read the books Santa brought for Christmas.

He is Kenneth Weldon, little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Weldon, 1505 Peter St., Fairview, and he's probably the most accomplished child of his age in Birmingham.

Altho his parents aren't the least bit anxious for their son to be a frodigy, they just can't keep him from books. He will not be four years old for two months yet.

If it were not for the fact that he is a healthy, wholesome, blue eyed boy, the words he utters and the thoughts behind them would be uncanny. But, aside from being a wonder, he is just a boy who likes a train that runs on a track around his play room.

Takes Nap Each Day.

When a Post reporter called at his home he was asleep and his mother explained that she insisted on a two-hour's nap each day.

It wasn't long before he awoke and when his mother brought him in his face was flushed with sleep and his golden hair all tousled. Two tiny fists were rubbing two sleepy eyes.

As soon as Mrs. Weldon mentioned geography he woke up quite suddenly.

"What would you like to read most, son?" his mother asked.

"Geography," was the prompt answer, and when the big map was brought out, he curled up on the floor before it with a little sigh of delight.

"Oo! This is the biggest town in America."

A very little finger pointed out New York, and with the same finger the boy traced the exact route between New York and London.

"Look at this ocean. That's the roughest old ocean there is, but I'll betcha it's not the biggest. The Pacific is the biggest and the nicest."

Spells Constantinople.

"Let's see. How do you spell it? C-o-n, con, s-t-a-n, stan, t-i-, ti, n-o-p-l-e, nople." And while the baby spelled his big blue eyes traveled over the map. At last he shouted out, boy-fashion:

After a great deal of persuasion, his mother induced him to leave the geography and read a little. He picked up books of nursery and fairy tales and read aloud in his sweet, childish voice. He knew a great many of them entirely by heart, and would shut the book and say them.

The reporter picked up a newspaper near by and asked Kenneth to read a headline picked at random.

"Ability of China to pay is doubted," he said, without a moment's hesitation.

Explains Sentence.

"You don't know what it means, do you?

"It means that China, that old Country I showed you on the map a while ago, can't pay somebody a bill, don't it?"

Even his mother was astounded and and preferred that he not be asked any more questions, but it was a long time before she succeeded in diplomatically getting the books from him and inducing him to talk about hide and seek.

"I try to keep him away from his books during the day because when his father comes home at night it is impossible," Mrs Weldon said. "I keep him out of doors all day except for the few hours he sleeps and I am so thankful that he is a real boy."

She said that when Kenneth was 22 months old, his father playfully taught him the alphabet and ever since he has demanded that he be told more. His eagerness to learn is wonderful.

Hasn't Planned Future

"What do you want to do when you grow up, Kenneth?" the reporter asked.

"I don't know," he said, carelessly. "Maybe I'll work like my daddy. Say, I wish you would bring a little girl to see me. Mother can I go out?"

The reporter was immensely relieved to see that he was just as his mother said, a real boy.

The minute permission was granted, he demanded his hat and coat, but before he left the room he took a last roving look at the geography on the floor.

"When Daddy comes home I'm going to learn about Egypt," he announced, and ran out of doors.—Birmingham Post.

(This little boy about whom the above story is written is the son of Mr. Dalton Weldon, formerly of this county. Before going to Birmingham he taught in the rural schools of Chilton Cunty. Uncle Pete Weldon of Beat 11, this county is the grandfather of the wonderful child.—Ed.)

PROPOSED FOUR-POWER PACT

The proposed Four-Power pact should be acceptable to the United States, with one proviso: That the rights respected by it do justice in Eastern Asia and the Pacific islands. Secretary Hughes, in his presentation, suggested that such justice has been done. The assurance of the other spokesmen are entitled to credence, at least until there is a complete threshing out of the agreements.

There was wisdom in presenting each agreement separately. It insured simplicity. Senator Lodge, in his admirably clear exposition, emphasized this. The abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance was one of the chief purposes of the conference, although Mr. Balfour's speech as to this preserves some of the old trappings of diplomacy. Mr. Hughes' opening speech, as the Times pointed out at the time, was really aimed at the English speaking world and it caught its full import, just as President Taft's open work for a treaty of arbitration and conciliation forced the insertion of an exception when a straight offensive and defensive treaty was being negotiated by Japan and Great Britian during his administration—one of the diplomatic triumphs of Mr. Taft the world has given little heed, by the way.

It is regrettable that adherents of the League of Nations should find in the proposed pact "an equivalent" of the covenant. Some brazenly assert that even Article X is incorporated. It is also to be deplored that at least one of the senatorial opponents of the League of Nations should so misunderstand the gist of the understanding. A few pivotal quotations should dispose of such contentions.

Following is Article X. of the covenant of the League of Nations in the treaty of Versailles:

The Members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all Members of the League. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression the Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled.

Section II. of the proposed Four Power pact, limited to the Pacific, reads as follows:

If the said rights are thretened by the aggressive action of any other Power, the high contracting parties shall communicate with one another fully and frankly, in order to arrive at an understanding as to the most efficient measures to be taken, jointly and separately, to meet the exigencies of the particular situation.

There is not in the proposed pact any promise to preserve rights. The signatories do not undertake to preserve. They merely promise mutually to respect each other's rights.

There is no agreement to abide by the decision of any Council, with the parties at interest excluded. There is no agreement to submit any controversy to arbitration. The second paragraph of Article I. which covers this phase, reads as follows:

If there should develop between any of the high contracting parties a controversy arising out of any Pacific question and involving their said rights which is not satisfactorily settled by diplomacy and is likely to affect the harmonious accord now happily subsisting between them, they shall invite the high contracting parties to a joint conference, to which the whole subject will be referred for consideration and adjustment.

There is nothing even squinting at the superstate in this agreement. There is no surrender of sovereignty. There is no provision for outside nations taking any power by the scruff of the neck and dragging it into a Council to be tried. Hence there is no premium on international scheming against the rights of any nation; no opportunity to decide against any nation. Only the influence of moral judgment can persuade a nation.

At various places in the covenant of the League of Nations are provisions for use of power, military or "economic"—and when "economic pressure" is studied out in detail it will be found to be as expensive and as deadly as military pressure. In the covenant an international labor tribunal is set up, with power over American citizens that the Supreme Court has held not even the Congress of the United States possesses.

To our mind the proposed Four-Power pact is merely a more formal and we trust more effectual, re-affirmation to make twenty years ago. As we have often said, some settlement of the situation in the Pacific was a condition precedent to the limitation of naval armaments. If Chinese interests are properly guarded and the Pacific concessions of the Versallies treaty are made acceptables, the conference will not only have greately reduced the cost of government by an immense cut in expenditures for naval purposes, but it will have assuaged, if not entirely cured, a distressing situation in the Far East. It has achieved this without the United States entering an entangling alliance or surrendering its sovereign right to pass on any question of the future as its wisdom and conscience may then dictate.—St. Louis Times.

You Just Try NR For That Indigestion

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

The stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver.

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive troubles are to be avoided or overcome.

This fact also explains why sufferers from indigestion, also suffer more or less from headaches, biliousness and constipation.

If you are one of the many unfortunate persons who cannot eat without suffering afterward, if you are constipated, have bilious spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, variable appetite, are nervous, losing energy and feel your health slipping away, take this advice and get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right today and start taking it.

Give it a trial for a week or two and just see how much better you feel. See how quickly your sluggish bowels will become as regular as clock work, how your coated tongue clears up and your good, old-time appetite returns. See how splendidly your food will digest and how your energy, "pep" and "ginger" revive. Just try it.

NR

You take no risk whatever for Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is only 25c a box, enough to last twenty-five days, and it must help and benefit you to your entire satisfaction, or money returned.

Five million boxes are used every year,—one million NR Tablets are taken by ailing people every day—that's the best proof of its merits. Nature's Remedy is the best and safest thing you can take for biliousness, constipation, indigestion and similar complaints. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Christmas has come again and has found us sober as usual, and doing business at the same old stand.

Our new preacher is on the job, and says his name is Jones, but not Sam. He has already filled two of his regular appointments at this place and has gone home to spend Christmas.

The Christmas lesson was fine and enjoyed by all present at Sunday School Sunday morning. We decided there was no better way to celebrate the birth day of our Lord than to sing prasies to Him who brought peace to earth and good will to men.

At 2 o'clock the singing began with E. L. Glasscock acting president, who sang the opening songs, followed by prayer by Bro. J. P. Bean. Then the following directors was called: Leonard Glasscock, J. P. Bean, Charles Glasscock, Ira Grant, Vester Campbell and A. H. Glasscock.

Organists for the evening were: Misses Esther Atkinson, Lena Glasscock, Ellen Glasscock, and Mr. Ira Grant. The singing was fine and enjoyed by all present. This was evidenced by the good order and attention given by all through out the evening. We are planning to visit the Oak Grove Class next Sunday evening, New Years day, if it is satisfactory with the class. If it is not satisfactory let us hear from you before that time, but if we hear no objections we will meet with the Oak Grove class instead of Jemison on New Year's evening. Wishing the class and the Union-Banner and its many readers a merry Christmas and a hanpy New Year.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Christmas gift.

I notice in last weeks paper an article about the number of grains of corn on an ear. Well I don't know anything about that but I woud like to have some one bring in an ear with an odd number of rows on it

My, but you people who were not at that prayer meeting on Sunday night certainly missed a treat, for we sure did have some fine meeting. This prayer meeting Christmas night seems to be something out of the ordinary, as there were people there 75 years old that had never been present at a thing of this kind before in their lives.

Mrs. Cora Wilson and baby, Mrs. Claudie Nicholson and baby, of Montazuma, Ga., spent the holidays with Mr. Will White and Mrs. T. L. LeCroy.

Mr. Cloe and Misses Clara and Berta LeCroy of Rockford, visited relatives in this community this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. DeShazo and Miss Emma DeShazo of Birmingham were visitors to this community for the holidays.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

. . . I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

UNCLE SAM AS EMPLOYER

The United States government is the largest single employer of men and women in this country. At the present time in the executive civil service of the Federal government, and exclusive of the army and navy, there are employed approximately 650,000 workers, or one in 73 of all residents on American soil, ten years of age or over, engaged in gainful occupations. A little while ago, when the number of federal employees was even larger than it is now, one person out of every 68 in the United States who had any sort of a job at all was working for the government. These calculations are based on recent estimates of the bureau of the census in anticipation of the results of the fourteenth general census.

Prior to the outbreak of the war, in 1914, the number of men and women in civil positions in the executive service was approximately 385,630. In 1916 it had grown to 398,832. In 1917, after our entry into the war, it was 459,798. On June 30, 1919, the number was 707,448. The number on July 31, 1920, was 691,116.

These figures are confessedly approximations. Since the signing of the armistice the number of federal employees has been decreasing. Undoubtedly the decrease in force will continue to be made for months to come, but the growth of the government business in the past few years has been such as to make it a larger employer in the post-war period than it had ever been in the pre-war period.

These thousands of men and women working for the government comprise every type of ability and intelligence. Their duties cover a range of activities that far exceeds that exercised for other public or private employers; for, besides its task of lawmaking and law enforcing, of national defense and national finance, the government is charged with promoting the health and welfare of its people, of promoting their home interests, their agricultural, mining, manufacturing, shipping, fishing and transportation interests.

To do this it must investigate, control and eradicate diseases that attack persons, plants and animals. It must inspect livestock, foods and drugs. It must study conditions and progress in education, labor and commerce. It must prevent individual men or groups of men from using unfair business methods, whether in banking, transportation, trade or manufacture.

The government must administer public lands and the affairs of the Indians, and educate children in Alaska. It grants patents of invention, it sets the clocks of the country, forecasts the weather, and makes observations of the stars and heavenly bodies. It constructs buildings, docks, roads, bridges, irrigation works, builds canals and aeroplanes, makes ordnance and ammunition, clothing and other supplies for its soldiers and sailors. It makes all its own money and does all its own printing. It distributes all mail and many packages.

The government does everything that any employer in the United States does, in addition to a great many things that no other employer does. How does it treat its people? Is it a good employer or a bad employer? Are its employees contented? These are questions that I should advise the railroad men, the miners and other workers who seek nationalization of industry, to look into before they commit themselves.

The first thing they will discover, as I discovered when I began the present inquiry, is that nobody knows, and nobody in the government service is charged with knowing, the exact number of employees in the service from day to day. Even more astounding, nobody knows, or is charged with knowing, even approximately, the sum of the payroll of the United States.

It is not possible to find out within hundreds of thousands of dollars how much the United States pays yearly or monthly in salaries and wages. I went to the Treasury department, to the appropriations committee of congress, and elsewhere where I thought the information might be lodged, but nobody knew. I was told vaguely that the government was not run on an asset and liability basis, and therefore it was not necessary to know the exact number of employees on the payroll.

If the average compensation is $1,100, the federal civil service payroll now amounts to more than seven hundred million dollars annually. The largest single branch is the Post Office department, with nearly 300,000 employees. The War department has more than 125,000 civilian employees, the Navy department about 90,000, and the Treasury department about 60,000. No other branch has as many as 25,000 employees. Any institution that employs one in seventy-three of all this country's workers and calls for the expenditure of such a large part of our annual revenues is entitled to your serious consideration. You and you alone put up the money.

It is reported that Mr. Jim Suites is on the sick list this week.

SHOULTS

The Christmas of 1921 was observed by the people of this community with a spirit of "Peace on Earth and good will toward men" prevailing as probably never before.

Christmas spirit was contagious, for every one caught the sweet thought that prevailed, that it is more blessed to give than to receive and everybody was supremely happy.

Had a large crowd at Sunday school Sunday, which was the last Sunday in the year of 1921. It was one of the most successful years we ever had in our Sunday school work. We hope to do more in the opening year.

A large crowd enjoyed a very able sermon delivered by Rev R. T. Gilbert, pastor of Pleasant Hill, last Sunday afternoon.

The sad news came to the people here last Friday that Mr. George Hamrick of Stanton was very ill. He made his home in this community for seven years, moving away last year. He is well known by the people here and they are very sad to learn of his condition. They hope he will soon begin to recover.

Mrs. O .S. Rhodes of Selma, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Miss Lois Rhodes, is spending the holidays with Mrs. Rhodes parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bearden.

Mr. and Mrs. Herlie Mims of Collins Chapel are visitors to relatives here. Mrs. Mims is better known as Miss Drucilla Lawrence before her marriage. Her many friends are glad to see her back in the community.

The teachers of the Literary school, Misses Beatrice Little and Marie Thomas, are spending the holiday season with homefolks.

The little school boys and girls were made happy on Monday, when the Postman began to hand them out Christmas cards from their teacher Miss Marie Thomas of Clanton.

Mrs. T. C. Snead and two children of Centerville are visiting their parents and grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Walker.

Rabbits, rabbits. Everybody is having plenty of them to eat now. Don't guess they will be so plentiful after the holidays are over, as the hunters will be very busy at work.

Several from here went to the concert at Lawley last Thursday night.

Mr. Alfred Lawrence gave a musical Monday night in honor of his sister, Mrs. Drucilla and her husband, Mr. Harlie Mims. All present reported a nice time.

We are very glad indeed to have ...ch people in our community as M... W. M. Oden. He is always ready to lend a helping ha... He is in the mercantile busines... ow. If we will only call to see h... we can be helped as well as he...ng him.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ingram, Mr and Mrs. J. R. McAfee, visited Mr. Hamrick of Stanton first of this week.

The people here never get tired of singing. They can sing on Sunday's and Sunday nights too. Mr. Denson Sewell gave a singing Sunday night. A large crowd was present.

FIRST WEEK IN JAN. IS POLL TAX WEEK

Editor Union-Banner:

There seems to be so much confusion about registering to vote, I want to again try to explain to the people a few points. If one moves from another County they have to be transfered by the board of Registers, and the Registers will go over the County in Jaunary for the purpose of registering all voters entitled to register. If any one has paid a poll tax in another County they must get a certificate from the Probate Judge of the County they paid in, and file that certificate with me, in order to be placed on the qualified list of voters.

All men and ladies who will be twenty one before the election next fall can register. All ladies who were twenty years old before October the first 1920 will have to pay poll tax for 1920 and 1921 before they can vote next year.

If every one that is due a poll tax will pay each year it will not amount to much, but after it has accumulated for a few years it is hard to pay.

I appeal especially to the ladies to pay each year, and not to get behind as many men have, and then be disfranchised for life. About half the white men in Chilton County that are registered are not qualified to vote. If I was behind with my poll tax I would sell something to get the money, or I would borry it from some friend. I would not be disfranchised. Ladies remember you are equal to men in every respect, and just as entitled to hold office as men, and you are as responsible for voting as men. None of you are over two years behind with your poll tax, and any of you can get $3.00.

Remember we will have three elections next year, and I am sure that many will wish they had paid their poll tax before next fall, for when we get into the next campaign we will all want to vote.

There are many laws that need to be passed and amended before women have equal rights with men, which ought to be arranged at the next legislature, and women ought to be represented.

Our State Government is getting farther away from the people every year. The people lose more of their rights every time the legislature meets, and we have but very little left. Look at our Courts. Over half the cases tried never get to a jury. The time will come when Judges will be appointed, and the voters will have no say about who they are. We are fast losing our local self government. I was in hopes that when the ladies got to voting that they would be free from prjudice and vote their convictions, and that they would help to re-establish a local self government in Alabama.

The vote the Republican Party received last fall shows that the many voters in Alabama are ready for two parties. What a blessing it would be if we had two parties of about the same strength.

If any one wants to know about their poll tax they can write me and I will take pleasure in informing them what they are due.

Let's make the first week in January, 1922, Poll tax week, and if any of our neighbors have not got the money to pay their tax with, let those that have it loan it to them.

Remember if you do not register in January, and pay your poll tax before the first day of February, 1922, you cannot vote next year.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

EDWARD ...LOWRY

A Writer of Recogn... Authority on National Gov...ment's Business Me...s.

No Washington corresp...t is better known or more hig...steemed than Edward G. Lowry. ... in itself means that he has bro... deep knowledge of national and ...ld affairs; that he is skillful in ...g the news and tactful in writin... and that he has the confidence of ...ublic men with whom he comes ... contact. But Mr. Lowry has mo... than that. He has the really patriot... feeling that the intimate knowledge ... nation's affairs, which he ac... through his work in Washi... should be imparted to the people ... the country who have not his privile... in such a way that they will be led ... take that personal interest in the doin... of the government, which alone wi... result in good government. He want... the people to realize that it is their government, answerable to them only, and that they only are responsible for its good qualities and its bad qualities. It is this feeling that has inspired much of Mr. Lowry's best work.

Born in Atlanta in 1876, Mr. Lowry was educated in private schools, the Georgia Military institute and by private tutors, and began his journalistic career at the age of twenty-four. In 1904 he was sent to Washington and has been there almost continuously ever since. He has been the political correspondent of Harper's Weekly, has written many articles for the periodical press and since 1913 has been the Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, and for a considerable time the managing editor of that paper. When Germany started the World war the government naturally found important work for Mr. Lowry. For two years he was attached to the American embassy in London, and then he returned to become a captain in the aviation section of the signal corps. Then he was assistant military attache at London and on the British front in Flanders, and was with the American Army of Occupation in Germany. For his valuable work he was awarded the British Military Cross. Recently he wrote "Washington Close-Ups," a series of character sketches of eminent figures in the national capital, which the country is reading with vast enjoyment.

For two years Mr. Lowry has been making a close study of the business of the government. He is given credit in congress for his aid in passing the budget bill and in bringing about the naming of the joint committee of the house and senate to investigate and report upon the administration and organization of the government executive departments. He now wants the people of the United States to know the details of the United States government, which is their business. He believes the knowledge of these details will make of them better Americans and give them a better government.

No man not imbued with Mr. Lowry's high ideal could have carried out this study of the government business so exhaustively and painstakingly as has he. Probably he now knows more about it than any other man in the world. With extraordinary perseverance and dogged persistence he went after hidden facts and multifarious details—and got them. Nothing was too big for his comprehension or too small for his attention. At one time he went to a member of the cabinet with the statement that the government had on its payrolls, exclusive of the officers and men of the army and navy, one employee for each 68 people of the United States ten years of age and over engaged in gainful occupations. It took that cabinet officer, with the assistants he had at his command, a considerable time, and considerable effort to verify Mr. Lowry's statement, but he found it to be true.

As the result of his careful studies Mr. Lowry has written a series of articles on the business of government income and expense; where the money comes from, and how and for what it is spent; whether the organization of the business side of government is efficient or inefficient; whether the government wastes the money we give it. The series is not in any sense political. It is not an attack, not a muckraking expedition. It recites facts, conceded, acknowledged facts. These facts come from the men in the government—from the government itself—and they are all facts that every American citizen is entitled to know and should know.

The series of articles on this subject of "Where Your Taxes Go" will be carried in these columns. They should be read by every American who is interested in the welfare of the nation.

O REDUCTION IN COAL RATES BEFORE NEXT APRIL.

Birmingham—No chance for lower ...eight rates on coal until April at ...arliest, is the word coming from A. R. Morrow, president of the National Coal Association.

Mr. Morrow has written Alabama coal operators to this effect and advises them to forego all anticipation of rate reductions until the interstate commerce commission handles the general proposition of the rate reductions next year.

Mr. Morrow declares that no special consideration will be given reduction in rates on coal any more than on other commodities pending the general rate revision. This begins January 9. Following hearing of the carriers the shippers will have to be heard.

Mr. Morrow says it will be impossible for the interstate commerce commission to hand down a decision before the latter part of February and that, whatsoever the changes are, it will be several weeks after that before the railroads publish the tariffs embracing the new rates and putting them into effect.

Home Garden Pays.

Tuscaloosa.—That diversified gardening can be done successfully in Alabama was proven when Miss Nona Brown, living three miles from this city, made one-tenth of an acre of ground pay for a new piano which is now in her home. According to Mrs J. E. S. Brown, a county demonstration agent, $90 of the purchase price was received as prizes at fairs, and the balance was made from the sale of truck planted on the one-tenth acre.

Walker Feed Crop Large.

Jasper.—The corn, velvet and soy bean crops of North Walker are excellent this year and the yield is above the average. L. W. Lollar states that the farmers of North Walker are going to be independent of the commercial feed dealers this winter as they are having great quantities of home grown food manufactured at the Camack's Mill, seven miles north of Jasper.

Troy.—At its mass meeting here the board of directors of the Pike County Farm Bureau entered a new field of service when definite steps were taken to secure, through the local banks, loans from the War Finance corporation for the Pike County farmers needing such loans.

Cleve Armstrong will move his stock of goods into the new building of Tom Rockett just as soon as it is completed. W.J. Easterling will put up a restaurant and meat market in the building where Armstrong's store has been for the past year.

We understand that work will begin immediately on the building of Tom Taylor and Jesse Baker between the Union-Banner building and the Tom Rockett building. Dr. Gowan sees prospects of a nice building on the corner in front of the Court House in the not far distant future.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Poole of Montgomery spent the Christmas holidays with relatives in Clanton.

We learn with regret that Mr. A. C. Smith is sick in a hospital in Birmingham. We have noticed for severfal days he has been absent from his law office in Clanton.

Montgomery.—The Alabama Power Company has paid into the state treasury every penny due by it for franchise taxes for the years it has been in business in Alabama under the recent decision of the supreme court. Announcement was made by the state tax commission that the company had remitted to the state treasury $73,280.81, the total amount found to be due by the state by the company. This tax had never been paid because of the provision of the general revenue acts which exempted new industries of certain taxes for 10 years from the time operations started. The supreme court held that this section did not apply to franchise taxes because the constitution required the legislature to levy a franchise tax against every corporation.

To Test Asphalt Beds.

Albany.—North Alabama asphalt may be used for surfacing the Albany-Decatur-Hartselle highway. It is stated that A. G. Patterson has leased from the Albany Oil and Gas Company a tract of 40 acres between here and Moulton and that developments are going forward rapidly looking to the actual testing of the material on the Morgan County road. Asphalt found in the Tennessee valley is said to be of the highest grade, and it is believed that the use of it on the road to Hartselle will lead to further developments on a large scale.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

Never in the history has the Christmas spirit been so much in evidence as during the past week or more. Everybody seems to be happy and ready to do what ever they can to spread good cheer to every home and person in Thorsby.

The merchants are happy because they have had a good holiday trade, many people are glad for what Christ has brought to them, but we believe many more are finding keen enjoyment in being able to add something to the comfort or pleasure of others.

The closing exercises of the Public School last Thursday were a revelation to a host of parents and friends assembled to grace the occasion. The clock-like precision with which the program moved from start to finish without a hitch, and the letter perfect readings, recitations and dialogues, together with well rendered songs manifest much thought and careful iatrini fimen- fakc gmy a SHRDD training and an aptitude to learn that is most commendable.

But no one present could fail to be impressed with the immediate necessity for more adequate school facilities for our children. If they had their teachers can make such a creditable showing under the distressing handicaps to which they are subject, how much better could they do if given such equipment and spaces as are common for the common people for their common schools in nearly all parts of our common country.

On Saturday evening a small party met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler in honor of three teachers of Thorsby Institute who are spending their vacation from their homes, Miss B. Ellsworth, Miss Lois Leech, and Mrs. May Hastings Nottage. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton, and the young Misses Mabel and Lucille Howard, as neighbors and friends of the Butler children, Margaret, Richard and Dorothy. A feature of the occasion was an exchange of Christmas gifts. Each one of the party were to bring some present not exceeding 10cts. in value. No marks were premitted on the packages. Each person present was given a number together with their name was written on a card. As the numbers were called the name was announced and a package taken promiscuously from the pile was handed them.

Any person receiving a gift they did not particularly care for was at liberty to make an exchange with another if they could find any one willing to trade.

Rev. J. M.Graham preached a strong sermon at the Congregational church Christmas morning from the text " God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him might not perish but have eternal life." At the close of the service he announced that he had a duty to perform in which the public would be interested. For many months it has been apparent that people outside the membership of the Congregational church were apreciative of the character and work of the pastor Rev. J. W. Davenport, who wanted to express in some manner, at this Christmas season, their deep appreciation of him as a man and a minister in the community. Through the kindly interest of Mrs. W. L. Leary in this matter a sum of money had been gathered among his friends in the community, to be presented to him on Christmas day. The amount was not known at the time as it was in a sealed envelope, but it has since been learned that the gift was $40.

A six o'clock morning service was held at the Lutheran Church Christmas morning attended by about seventy-five people who recognize the value of beginning the day with devotional services.

Sunday night at 6:30 the Christmas exercises of the Congregational Sunday School were held at the Congregational Church. Every member of the Sunday School from the smallest tot in the primary department to the oldest person in the adult bible class had some part in the program, and all did their part well. There was a Christmas Tree beautifully decorated and gifts for everybody present. The collection (always a prominent part of the program on such occasions) was for the Near East Relief" and amounted to nearly $20. Mrs. Norton is in charge of the fund which she will forward to headquarters within a few days. If there are others who want to contribute to this cause now, she will be glad to receive it. She hopes to get individual gifts to raise the remittance to $25.00.

At the Baptist Church at 8 o'clock p.m. Sunday the Sunday School put on a "White Christmas". The house was filled to overflowing and the exercises were beautifully carried out by care and efficiency on the part of every one connected with it.

Monday night at the Lutheran Church the Sunday School had their Christmas exercises and Christmas Tree. Here also the parts taken by the children and others were promptly and effectively rendered, presents were provided so that none needed go away empty handed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bosworth and family spent the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. S. E. Norton entertained at tea a number of friends of Mrs. May Hastings Nottage, in whose honor the guests were invited. Unfortunately Mrs. Nottage was too ill to be present. Others present were Mrs. Magne Anderson, Mrs. J. M. Graham, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, Mrs. J. F. Owen, Mrs. J. H. Goddard, and Mrs. E. W. Butler.

What might have proved a very serious accident happened to Mr. Frank McCain, who accompanied by his small son, were on the highway a little north of Thorsby Tuesday nigt driving in a wagon toward their home, when an automobile, driven after dark without lights, crashed into the rear of the wagon, smashing it to splinters and throwing Mr. McCain to one side of the road and the boy landed in the middle of the highway. How they escaped is a mystery, for the car did not stop until it had run some distance by its momentum, but was too badly injured to proceed. The man escaped in the darkness, but a doctor from Calera came along in a car and took the number of the machine, which may lead to the identity of the driver.

Tuesday night a party of young people and some older ones, in automobiles, visited many homes, especially where there were old people who do not get out much, singing Christmas carols and familiar hymns.

Monday night, January 2nd "The Zoellner Trio" will appear at the Lutheran Church at 7:30, under the auspices of the Luther League. The company consists of Prof. Zoellner, violinist; Mrs. Zoellner, and their 13 year old son, Wotan Zoellner, who is a violin prodigy. His parents are taking this means to secure funds to provide for his thorough education under competent violin instructors in New York. An admission will be charged of 25c and 35c; half the proceeds will go to the League.

Mr. Edward Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Howard, an electrical engineer on the U. S. ship, Prometheus, spent part of his fifteen days furlough with his parents. One evening last week their home was turned over to a party of young people in honor of Edward. The house was beautifully decorated with American Flags, Holly wreathes and other appropriate designs. On Christmas Eve the young man was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Howard, who invited many of his young friends and gave them possession of their house for the occasion. Everybody seemed to have a good time and fully to appreciate the music of a cohice collection of records played on the Victrola. Mr. Howard left Monday morning for New York where he will join his ship which is to sail January 3rd for a long cruise in southern waters, stopping for considerable time at Panama.

Other visitors at the Howard home during Christmas were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Phelan with their son, Thomas, from Tuscaloosa. Mrs. Phelan was a sister of the Howard brothers and lived in Thorsby at the time of her marriage. They also had the pleasure of meeting many old friends, as Mr. Phelan was at one time in business in Thorsby. They expressed themselves as much pleased at the prosperous appearance of Thorsby, manifest in its many new and new homes.

SUPREME COURT REVERSES TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE CASE.

Decision Concurred In By Six Members, Judge Sayre Dissenting.

Montgomery.—The Alabama Taxpayers' League was defeated in its supreme effort to invalidate the two-year assessment sections of the general revenue law when the supreme court not only reversed the decision of Judge Walter B. Jones of the Montgomery circuit court, which held the sections to be unconstitutional, but rendered a decision sustaining the validity in toto of the sections. The decision was concurred in by six members of the court, while the other, Justice Sayre, dissented from the majority and prepared an opinion in which he insisted that the two-year assessment was a violation of the state constitution. The opinion of the majority was prepared by Justice McClellan and was concurred in by Chief Justice Anderson and Justices Somerville, Gardner, Thomas and Miller.

"CHRISTMAS DAY"

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me space to say a few words in regard to Christmas Day?

Nineteen hundred and twenty-one years ago today, there came to this world the Prince of Peace. No other event in the history of the world has meant so much to the development and advancement of the human race as that great King. As time rolls on, I believe that through the influence of His living message to the world there will be more brotherly love, less hatred, more gladness, less sorrow, greater health, loss sickness, more forgetfulness of self, in devotion to the needs and happiness of others, more charity, less criticism of the faults and frailties of others.

Do we know this great King? Are we acquainted with His teachings? The good book says "If we say we know him and keep not his commandments, we do lie." This King says "If we love him we will keep his commandments." He also says that the truth shall make us free, and if the truth makes us free, we shall we shall be free indeed. Do we look to this great King for our guide, or look to the wisdom of the world or some great man? Are we obeying the teachings of the Prince of Peace or are we drifting away from them? If we were obeying them we would be free. Are we free, or are we drifting more under bondage?

Now, listen, friends, God says that the wicked shall be turned into hell and all nations that forget God. The poor shall not always be forgotten. I don't think that we have to die for this to happen either.

I hope to see more of the Golden Rule applied in the future, which is "Do unto others as we woulld have them do unto us." If this rule were applied, we would realize a considerable hange in our country.

Yours for a square deal, and a righteous rule, both politically and religiously in 1922.

J. H. JACKSON.

WAREHOUSE BURNS WITH $15,000 LOSS

Orrville, Ala., Dec. 26.—Losses from the destruction of the Dunaway cotton warehouse at Orrville on Sunday afternoon will amount to about $15,000, according to J. E. Dunaway. The fire, originating about 3 o'clock, is believed to have started from the shooting of Christmas fireworks.

Orrville is situated only 17 miles from Selma, and calls were made to the Selma fire department, but since there were no water connections, the chief went to Orrville to assist in fighting the fire, which at that time was quite threatening, and created much excitement. A bucket brigade and and fire walls prevented other building nearby from burning.

Mr. Dunaway, who had just left for Kansas City, was stopped between Selma and Montgomery and carried back through the country. His loss is covered by insurance, but a small number of bales of cotton belonging to E. F. Coleman of Orrville, which were burned, were not insured. Farm products valued at $6,000 were destroyed.
